The following information is summarized from a letter by William E. Sharp, President of the Company:

This business was incorporated in 1904 under the Illinois laws. It manufactures a nut that will not easily come off, after it is once screwed in place on a bolt—hence the name grip nut. Its main plant is at the southeast corner of 59th Street and Western Avenue, Chicago, and a smaller one in South Whitley, Indiana.

These bonds are a direct obligation of the Grip Nut Company and are secured by a first mortgage on land, building, machinery and equipment appraised at over twice the amount of these bonds.

Current assets as shown by the balance sheet are over six times the current liabilities.

The average net earnings, after all charges, including depreciation, but before Federal taxes for the past ten years, have averaged $121,644 per year. For the current year earnings are running at the rate of $120,000 a year. This is at the rate of 8 times interest charges.

The stock of this company is controlled by the officers and directors. These include Francis H. Hardy, Chester D. Tripp, Thos. G. Deering, William E. Sharp. These are all men of wide business experience and independent means. No change in management is contemplated.

Legality approved by Fisher, Boyden, Kales & Bell, Attorneys, Chicago. Appraisal by Freyn Engineering Co., Chicago. Audit by Arthur Young & Company, Certified Public Accountants, Chicago. Title to be guaranteed in the amount of $250,000 by the Chicago Title & Trust Co. We offer the above bonds when, as and if issued and subject to the approval of counsel.

Virginia - Carolina Chemical Company Reorganization

To the Holders of Bonds, Obligations and Stocks of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company:

A sufficient amount of the bonds, obligations, stocks and securities of the various classes of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company have been deposited under the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, dated August 10, 1925, to render it advisable to declare said Plan operative. In view, however, of the privilege granted to the holders of the Preferred and Common Stocks of the Old Company, who participate in said Plan, of purchasing under the terms and conditions to be approved by the Reorganization Managers constituted under said Plan and Agreement, within thirty days after the Reorganization Managers have declared said Plan operative, one-half of the Common Stock of the New Company to be received under said Plan by each of the holders of the debentures, bank debt and trade debt of the said Company and preferred stock of The Consumers Chemical Corporation, at the price and in the ratio set forth in said Plan, and in order to fix a record date for the determination of the subscription rights of the Preferred and Common Stockholders under said privilege, the Reorganization Managers have determined, before actually declaring the Plan operative, to extend the time within which deposits will continue to be received until the close of business on November 9, 1925. As the Reorganization Managers intend to declare said Plan operative on November 9, 1925, and to fix said date as the record date for the determination of the subscription rights of the Preferred and Common Stockholders before mentioned, deposits will not be received after said date, unless otherwise determined by the Reorganization Managers, and then only upon such special terms, conditions and penalties as they shall prescribe.

Holders of stocks and bonds should deposit the same (in negotiable form or accompanied by transfers in blank) as follows:

First Mortgage Twenty-Five-Year Seven Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A, with Central Union Trust Company of New York, 80 Broadway, New York City, or The First National Bank of Richmond, Richmond, Virginia, Depositaries;

REORGANIZATION OF

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company

To the Bondholders Entitled to Participate in the Plan and Agreement dated June 1, 1925, for the Reorganization of Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company, under which Messrs. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and The National City Company are Reorganization Managers:

A careful analysis of the so-called "Roosevelt Plan" recently announced by the Committee of which George E. Roosevelt is Chairman, has convinced the undersigned Committee that said plan is distinctly less advantageous to the bondholders than the present Plan under which Messrs. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and The National City Company are Reorganization Managers and which has been adopted and approved by the undersigned Committee. The most radical defect of the Roosevelt Plan is that, instead of providing for the present liquidation of the entire debt of the Railway Company to the United States Government of $55,000,000 as under the present Plan, it proposes to extend $50,000,000 of that debt and lays upon the new company the burden of liquidating it by annual serial payments averaging almost $5,000,000 a year beginning four years hence and makes no adequate provision for raising the necessary funds for this purpose.

A circular prepared by this Committee comparing the provisions of the two plans and pointing out the advantages of the present Plan as compared with the Roosevelt Plan may be obtained from the Secretary of this Committee or from any of the depositaries or sub-depositaries named below.

The Reorganization Managers have recently declared the present Plan operative and have extended the time within which deposits may be made without penalty to and including November 20, 1925, after which date under the announcement of the Reorganization Managers deposits will be received only upon payment at the time of deposit of such penalties as the Reorganization Managers may impose.

REORGANIZATION OF

To Holders of Preferred Stock and Common Stock of Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company:

A comparison of the two plans leaves no doubt in the minds of the undersigned Committees that the so-called "Roosevelt Plan" recently announced by a Bondholders' Protective Committee of which George E. Roosevelt is Chairman seriously weakens the financial structure of the new company and is distinctly less favorable to both classes of stock than the present Plan under which Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and The National City Company are Reorganization Managers and which has been adopted and approved by the undersigned Committees. The adoption of the Roosevelt Plan would be injurious to both classes of stock and disastrous to the common stock in that, as compared with the present Plan, it increases, by at least $1,769,872 for the first five years and thereafter by at least $2,347,249 (almost 2% on the entire issue of common stock), the prior charges which must be paid before more than 4% can be paid on the preferred stock and before any dividends can be paid on the common stock.

A joint circular prepared by the two undersigned Committees setting forth in detail the reasons why the Roosevelt Plan is less favorable to both classes of stock than the present Plan may be obtained from the Secretary of either of the undersigned Committees or from any of the depositaries or sub-depositaries named below.

The present Plan has been declared operative by the Reorganization Managers and the time within which deposits may be made without penalty extended to and including November 20, 1925, after which date under the announcement of the Reorganization Managers deposits will be received only upon payment at the time of deposit of such penalties as the Reorganization Managers may impose.

Statement of Roosevelt Bondholders' Protective Committee

CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE & ST. PAUL RAILWAY COMPANY

Daily there are brought to our attention the efforts of the Kuhn, Loeb & Co.-National City Company Reorganization Managers to coerce Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company security holders to deposit under their plan. The Managers and their Committees continue to threaten that unless the securities are deposited by November 20th, penalties will be enforced.

Neither bond nor stock holders need be frightened by this threat. No court will permit a reorganization plan to be put through by force. No Interstate Commerce Commission will approve a plan thus put into operation.

The security holders must be given a fair opportunity to choose between two conflicting plans. They must be permitted carefully to weigh the merits of the two plans now before them and choose the one more favorable to them. If a better plan than either should be proposed, let them adopt that.

We believe we have decidedly the better plan. We are offering bond and stock holders a free choice and we intend to combat to the utmost limits any attempt to deprive them of this choice, either directly or indirectly, by the threat to exact penalties from those who wish to give careful consideration to the respective proposals. We assure the Railway's security holders that we shall stand for and with them.

Stockholders' Committee

To the Stockholders:

The undersigned Committee, representing a large amount of the preferred and common stock of your railroad, have asked the court to permit them to intervene on behalf of the stockholders in the receivership and foreclosure proceedings now pending in the Federal Court at Chicago. Without intervention stockholders have no standing in court and cannot be heard on matters touching their interests, nor effectively set in motion any proposal or question any action taken.

Two Government proceedings now pending may profoundly influence the value of your stock, namely, the Western District Rate hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the inquiry of one of the Commissioners into the conduct and management of the St. Paul Railway. Until the results of these inquiries are at least within view and until the attitude of the Government upon the extension of its $55,000,000 loans is more definite, your interests cannot properly be determined.

Security holders of railroads in the Northwestern Region are actively represented by counsel in the rate hearing. They have already introduced the testimony of their expert and others and a plan is about to be proposed and supported by them to secure an increase of rates in Western Trunk Line Territory to the average of other sections of the Western District. It appears to us that action along these lines by the Interstate Commerce Commission would make possible a reorganization of your railroad to your advantage. To this and other ends intervention in the pending court proceedings is sought by our Committee.

No one else representing the stockholders, so far as we know, is actively participating in these matters. No other Stockholders' Committee has appeared, either personally or by counsel, at the rate hearing or elsewhere in the proceedings.

Two plans of reorganization have thus far been presented to the security holders of the St. Paul Railway. We are in no way committed to either of these plans. Our object in the proposed intervention is solely to represent the interests of the stockholders, to prevent any precipitate action that may be injurious to them or that may foreclose them from sharing in a reorganization based upon the probable earning power and future development of the railroad property. We have retained as our counsel in the court proceedings Wm. Church Osborn of Osborn, Fleming & Whittlesey, of New York, and Lessing Rosenthal of Rosenthal, Hamill & Wormser, of Chicago.

For the purposes stated we suggest that you sign the form of authorization prepared by the Committee, copies of which may be had on application to the Secretary.

7% Cumulative Redemption Fund Preferred Stock (this issue) .	$1,500,000	$700,000
Common Stock	1,750,000	1,750,000

The Company has no mortgage debt and can have none (except purchase money mortgage on newly acquired property) without the consent of the holders of 75% of the Preferred Stock

From a letter of Mr. George S. Parker, President of the Company, we summarize:

Company: The business, established 34 years ago with $500 cash capital, occupies position of world leadership in its line to-day. Company manufactures and sells in all parts of the civilized world a complete line of Parker Duofold fountain pens and mechanical pencils—a personal necessity with the large majority of educated persons for home, office or school use.

Business and Earnings: Business has grown in sales of $265,092 in 1915 to $4,718,826 in 1924 and (3 months estimated) $5,200,000 in 1925.

Earnings have shown remarkable stability and growth. Net earnings, after taxes and depreciation, available for dividends on the $700,000 7% Cumulative Redemption Fund Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding, compare as follows: For the calendar year 1923, $606,942, or 12.39 times the annual dividend requirement; for 1924, $799,579, or 16.32 times the annual dividend requirement; for 1925 (3 months estimated), $900,000, or 18.37 times the annual dividend requirement.

Assets: Net tangible assets, as of September 30, 1925, equalled $327 per share of Preferred Stock; net quick assets $214 per share. In arriving at these figures the modest book value of good will, trade name, trade-mark, patents, etc., has been eliminated, although during the past 9 years approximately $3,500,000 of earnings have been spent in world wide advertising of Parker Pens and Pencils.

Protective Provision: On (or before) November 1, 1927, and annually thereafter, the Company shall retire, by purchase tender or call, at least 6% of maximum amount of Preferred Stock theretofore issued. Unusually strong charter provisions of additional protection to holders of Preferred Stock are given in greater detail in the circular.

No changes in management are contemplated.

Legality: To be approved by Messrs. Miller, Mack & Fairchild, Milwaukee, for the Bankers, and by Messrs. Jeffris, Mouat, Oestreich, Avery & Wood, Janesville, Wisconsin, for the Company. The books of the company are now audited annually by Messrs. Arthur Andersen & Co., Certified Public Accountants.

THE UNION & NEW HAVEN TRUST CO., Trustee

Louis E. Stoddard, Esq., President of the Company, summarizes his letter to Hoagland, Allum & Co., Inc., and Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., as follows:

Property: The Taft Realty Company owns over 43,600 square feet of land at the southeast corner of Chapel and College Streets, New Haven, Connecticut, and the three fireproof buildings situated thereon consisting of The Taft Hotel, the 71 College Street Apartments and the theater building known as the Sam S. Shubert Theater. These properties are centrally located in the business district of New Haven, and are diagonally opposite Yale Campus.

The Taft Hotel, 12 stories in height, is one of the finest commercial and residential hotels in New England and has an established reputation for superior service. The 71 College Street Apartments building, 6 stories in height, directly adjoining The Taft Hotel, has been 100% rented since its erection. The theater building has a seating capacity of 1,750.

Security: These bonds are secured by first closed mortgage on the land and buildings, owned in fee simple, which have been recently appraised by Messrs. Wm. M. Hotchkiss and Thos. F. Clark, both of New Haven, at $3,119,750 and $2,900,000, respectively. The average of the values found for the land is $956,675 and for the buildings $2,053,200. The Loan is, therefore, less than 50% of the lower of these appraisals of land and buildings.

Policies of the New York Title & Mortgage Co., New York, insuring the title to the property and of responsible insurance companies for the full insurable value of the buildings and the rental value of the properties have been deposited with, and made payable to, the Trustee for the benefit of the holders of these bonds.

Income: Net income, as certified to by independent auditors, for the six and one-half years ended June 30, 1925, directly applicable to interest on mortgage debt, Federal Income Tax, and depreciation, has averaged $146,901 annually. Based upon leases now in effect, such annual net income will amount to $166,600, as compared with maximum annual interest charges on these First Mortgage bonds of $84,000.

Sinking Fund: The mortgage provides for deposits with the Trustee of $110,000 annually in quarterly installments commencing December 26, 1925, from which interest payments will first be made, and the remainder will be applied to the reduction of principal by purchase or redemption of these bonds. This Sinking Fund will, it is estimated, reduce the amount of the Issue over 40% by maturity, or to a figure substantially less than the present appraised value of the land alone.

These bonds are offered when, as, and if issued, and accepted by us, subject to the approval of counsel. Legal matters in connection with this issue are under the supervision of Messrs. Noble, Morgan & Scammell, New York, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Dawes, Abbott & Littlefield, New York, and J. Frederick Baker, Esq., New Haven, for the Borrower. Definitive bonds are expected to be ready for delivery on or about November 10, 1925.

Business—The Security Bond and Mortgage Company was incorporated under the laws of Florida to continue under a more appropriate name, and with larger capital, the Southern real estate first mortgage loan and investment business established and successfully operated since May, 1919, by the Securities Sales Company of Florida.

Security—The security for the bonds of this issue is threefold: (1) The bonds are the direct obligation of the Security Bond and Mortgage Company; (2) they are further secured dollar for dollar by first mortgages on fee simple real estate; (3) they are still further secured by the Maryland Casualty Company's guarantee of principal and interest on each mortgage.

Guarantee—The Maryland Casualty Company, with capital and surplus of $10,575,279 and resources of $36,208,124, guarantees unconditionally the payment of principal and interest on each mortgage.

Properties—The properties securing these guaranteed first mortgages are located in Northern and Central Florida. All of the properties are owned in fee simple by responsible borrowers, and each dwelling or other structure is completed. Completed residences and business properties in Florida, particularly in the Northern and Central parts of the State, are in excellent demand and values are well sustained.

Loans—The basis of loans approved by the Maryland Casualty Company for these guaranteed first mortgages is as follows: Up to 50% on city residential and general utility business properties or up to 60% when provision is made for periodical reduction of the principal; up to 40% on properties in smaller cities and towns, or up to 50% when provision is made for periodical reduction of the principal.

Appraisals—To determine the value of each property, three appraisals are made: (1) By a bank or mortgage company in the city or town in which the property is located; (2) by the local Real Estate Board; (3) by the Security Bond and Mortgage Company.

Titles—The guarantee of the Maryland Casualty Company is unconditional, and does not except the title. Each title, however, is guaranteed by a title insurance company, acceptable to the Maryland Casualty Company; or, in places where there are no title companies, each title is examined by an attorney acceptable to the Maryland Casualty Company.

Trustee—All of the guaranteed first mortgages pledged as security for these bonds are deposited with the Maryland Trust Company, a bank and trust company with capital and surplus of $1,500,000 and resources of $16,818,998.45.

Tax Refund—The Security Bond and Mortgage Company agrees to refund any State, County or Municipal tax which a holder may be required to pay on these bonds up to 5 mills, provided written application for the refund is made within two months after the due date and payment of such tax.

Legal opinions by Messrs. Janney, Ober, Slingluff & Williams, Baltimore, Md., for the bankers and Messrs. Kay, Adams, & Ragland, Jacksonville, Fla., for the Company.

City of Duesseldorf

Germany

7 Per Cent External Serial Gold Bonds

Dated September 1, 1925 Due $87,500 annually September 1, 1926 to 1945, inclusive.

Interest payable March 1 and September 1. Redeemable after September 1, 1930, on sixty days' published notice, at 103 and accrued interest. Principal and interest payable in New York City in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for German, Federal, State, Municipal or other internal taxes of any nature, past, present or future, at the office of Ames, Emerich & Co., fiscal agents. Coupon bonds, denominations $1,000 and $500.

The following information is taken from statements of City officials and other trustworthy sources:

City of Duesseldorf The City of Duesseldorf, founded in 1288, is an industrial, commercial and banking center of northwestern Germany. It is the capital of the Administrative District of Duesseldorf and the seat of administration for the Province of Rhenish Prussia. During the last 15 years, its growth has been proportionately larger than that of any large city in Germany, and its population in June, 1925, was reported at 429,516.

Industrial Development For over half a century the City has been in the process of a great and continued expansion. Highly developed iron and steel industries, extensive machine and tool factories, together with a large number of commercial and business enterprises, have gained the City world fame. Foundries, locomotive works, truck and automobile factories, chemical works and kindred enterprises are also located here. Many of the leading German trade associations have their headquarters in Duesseldorf.

Bond Issue These bonds will constitute the direct obligation of the City of Duesseldorf, to which it covenants to apply all of its present and future property and its entire taxing power. It further covenants that if, while any of these Bonds are outstanding, it shall issue any loan secured by a specific lien on any of its properties or revenues, these Bonds shall share equally and ratably with such other indebtedness. At present no properties or revenues are pledged as security for any loan.

It is officially stated that the City of Duesseldorf has always punctually met all obligations under the laws in effect.

City-Owned Properties The City of Duesseldorf owns and operates public utilities supplying water, gas, electricity and tramway service, which are valued at $22,595,068. Net profits in 1924 totaled $1,522,581. Stock interests owned by the City in important enterprises are valued at more than $4,000,000. It also owns valuable real estate, including building sites, forest areas and agricultural lands. Total assets owned by the City are valued at more than $72,000,000 or more than seven times the maximum total funded debt to be presently outstanding.

Finances Taxable income of the inhabitants for 1924 was approximately $107,142,000. The assessed valuation of real estate is reported in excess of $330,000,000. Since the stabilization of the currency, the budget of the City has been consistently balanced and for the fiscal year 1924 showed a surplus, after all expenditures, of $180,592. The budget for 1925, including all extraordinary items arising out of proceeds of loans, balances at $21,460,714.

These Bonds will constitute the only external debt of the City and the only funded debt contracted since the stabilization of the currency. Under the Revalorization Law of July 16, 1925, the maximum annual charges, including interest and amortization, on the paper mark debt of the City is estimated not to exceed $600,000 a year. Total debt service, including such maximum liability and interest and amortization on this new issue, will require less than 5% of ordinary revenues in the 1925 budget.

Purpose of Issue Proceeds of this loan will be used for extensions and betterments to the City's utilities, designed to increase municipal revenues. They will be devoted primarily to extensions to the present electric light and power plant and for defraying the City's share of the expense in the construction of water-works for the joint use of the Cities of Duesseldorf and Duisburg.

From a letter of Mr. John R. Thompson, Chairman of the Board, the following information is summarized:

History and Business This Company was incorporated as a West Virginia corporation in 1914 to take over the business and assets of John R. Thompson, who started in the restaurant busines in 1891 with a single restaurant at State and Polk Streets, Chicago.

Since that time the business has increased to its present size entirely from earnings and now operates a chain of 108 restaurants in forty cities, of which number approximately one-half are in Chicago. Three additional restaurants will be opened within a month. A main commissary is operated in Chicago and a branch commissary in New York.

The success of the business is largely through the application to the restaurant business of the principles of chain store distribution, which under capable management has been so successful in other fields also.

Capitalization Under the terms of this offering the Company agrees to retire the $850,000 7% Preferred Stock now outstanding, so that except for $480,000 of Purchase-Money Mortgages and Building Bonds, the entire capitalization will consist of 240,000 shares of $25 par value common stock, all issued and outstanding.

The present offering of stock is part of the issue already outstanding and does not represent any new financing by the Company.

Dividends Regular dividends of 7% per year have been paid on the outstanding preferred stock of the Company from its incorporation.

Dividends have been paid on the common stock of the Company without interruption since January, 1916, and since January, 1922, have been at the rate of $3.00 per annum. In addition, an extra dividend of $.50 was declared in 1920 together with a stock dividend of 33 1-3%.

It is the plan of the management to increase this dividend rate to $3.60 per annum beginning January 1, 1926, payable monthly.

General The Company owns fees and leaseholds in various cities which are carried on their books at figures far below their actual and salable values.

The business has been uniformly regular in good times as well as in bad and general conditions have practically no effect on its volume or profits. Its restaurants are strategically located and no new ones opened except after careful survey.

The management which has been responsible for the growth and development of this business will continue in charge of the Company's affairs.

Authorized by the Director of Street Railroads of the City of Cincinnati and by The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio

Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Trustee

The following information has been furnished by Walter A. Draper, Esq., President of the Company:

HISTORY

The Cincinnati Street Railway Company, incorporated in 1880, owns the entire street railway system in Cincinnati with the exception of certain lines which it has contracted to acquire and pay for in its capital stock.

The Company's property has been leased since 1901 to The Cincinnati Traction Company, but this lease is to be terminated as of November 1, 1925, and direct operation of the system resumed by The Cincinnati Street Railway Company.

FRANCHISE

The Company has been granted by the City of Cincinnati a new 25-year franchise of the "service-at-cost" type. Under the terms of this franchise, fares are to be automatically adjusted from time to time to cover operating expenses, taxes, depreciation, fixed charges, and a return on capital stock amounting to 5% per annum during the first three years and thereafter to 6% per annum.

The City has the right at the end of each year to purchase the Company's properties for an amount equal to the aggregate of its then outstanding debt and capital stock issued under authority of the franchise. Upon completion of the present financing such purchase price will amount to more than $28,000,000.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds of these Notes are to be used to discharge obligations incurred in the termination of the lease of the Company's properties and to provide for fare control and working capital funds under the new franchise and for additions to property.

PROVISIONS OF ISSUE

These Notes are to be secured by a direct first mortgage on all of the Company's physical property except about one-third of its railway cars, on which, the lien of the Notes is to be subject to certain equipment trust obligations. The remaining $1,500,000 authorized Notes may be issued from time to time for general corporate purposes.

CAPITALIZATION

Outstanding after giving effect to this financing

First Mortgage 6% Notes (this issue)	$4,500,000
Equipment Trust Certificates	788,400
Total Funded Debt	$5,288,400
Capital Stock	22,761,950
Total Capitalization	$28,050,350

The control of the Company is owned in the community which it serves, more than half of its approximately 6,000 stockholders and all of its directors being residents of Cincinnati.

EARNINGS

Earnings of the properties to be operated have been reported by the former Lessee as follows:

Calendar Years	Operating Revenues	Operating Expenses, Maintenance, Taxes, and Depreciation*	Net Earnings Available for Interest
1920	$8,932,180	$6,988,589	$1,943,591
1922	8,163,051	5,877,677	2,285,374
1923	8,370,372	6,363,295	2,007,077
1924	9,291,767	6,764,134	2,527,633
12 Mos. Ended August 31, 1925	9,357,758	6,920,486	2,437,272

*The figures in this column include an annual rental of $100,600 paid by the former Lessee for the lines which The Cincinnati Street Railway Company has contracted to acquire and pay for in stock.

At the beginning of operations under the new franchise, the city franchise tax, which amounted to $534,645 in the twelve months ended August 31, 1925, is to be eliminated, and the fare for adults is to be reduced from 10 cents, the charge which has prevailed since October 1, 1924, to 8 1-3 cents (three tickets for 25 cents).

If these arrangements as to franchise taxes and fares had been in effect during the twelve months ended August 31, 1925, net earnings available for interest, without allowing for increased traffic due to lowering of fares, would have amounted to more than 4 times the $321,154 annual interest charges on the Company's total funded debt to be outstanding after giving effect to this financing.

Salient features as summarized by Mr. D. A. Belden, Chairman of the Board of the Community Power and Light Company

BUSINESS AND PROPERTY: The Company owns the entire outstanding common stocks, except directors' qualifying shares, and all the outstanding bonds of the Missouri Utilities Company, the Arkansas Utilities Company, the Community Power and Light Company of Texas, The Kansas Utilities Company, and the Texas Utilities Company. Through these subsidiaries, located in the states of Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and Kansas, the Company serves 130 communities having a population of approximately 270,000. Electric light and power will be furnished to 106 communities centred around and including Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff, Charleston, Eldon and California in Missouri; Helena and Paragould in Arkansas; Mexia, Marlin, Plainview and Lubbock in Texas, and Fort Scott, Kansas. Gas service is furnished to 49,000 population, including three of the communities above mentioned and Columbia, Mo., while ice service is furnished to over 126,000 population. Water service is also furnished in three communities and steam heat in one.

The power, gas, ice and water plants are well located to serve their respective territories. The power plants have a total installed generating capacity of 19,000 K. W., and additions now being made will bring the total generating capacity to over 21,500 K. W.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds from the sale of this $750,000 7% Cumulative First Preferred Stock and $250,000 8% Cumulative Participating Second Preferred Stock will be used to finance the acquisition of a number of operating properties merged or to be merged with one or more of the several subsidiary groups; to reimburse the Company for expenditures made in connection with additions and improvements to property and provide funds for further extensions, improvements and additions.

VALUATION OF PROPERTIES: Appraisals of different portions of the properties have been made by the following engineers: Wm. A. Baehr Organization of Chicago, Black & Veatch of Kansas City, and Fred A. Jones of Dallas.

The combined properties have a conservative present value, after making liberal deductions for depreciation, of $15,334,902, a sum in excess of the total capitalization of the Company and its subsidiary companies outstanding in the hands of the public upon completion of the present financing. This valuation includes the cost of additions made subsequent to engineers' reports and additions provided for by the present financing program. Surplus earnings of the subsidiary companies during the past few years have been reinvested in the properties.

EARNINGS: The surplus earnings available for dividends, depreciation and amortization in the twelve months ended August 31, 1925, after allowing for Federal income taxes, amounted to $736,705.21. This sum is equal to two and nine-tenths times the annual dividend requirements of the $3,250,000 7% Cumulative First Preferred Stock of the Community Power and Light Company and the $336,900 outstanding 7% Preferred stocks of its subsidiaries, and, after providing for such dividends, to over four and three-quarters times the annual cumulative dividend requirements of the 8% Cumulative Participating Second Preferred Stock.

Earnings in all departments are maintaining a substantial increase in both gross and net as compared with the same periods of last year, and further improvement is expected to result from the liberal expenditures made and to be made through present financing.

About 70% of the net earnings are derived from the sale of electric light and power, with gas, water and miscellaneous earnings providing the balance.

All legal details in connection with these issues will be passed upon by Messrs. Chapman, Cutler and Parker, of Chicago, for the Bankers, and by Messrs. Lehmann & Lehmann, of St. Louis, for the Company.

Salient features as summarized by Mr. Thos. O'Connor, President of the Corporation:

BUSINESS AND PROPERTIES: Purity Bakeries Corporation, which was incorporated December 1, 1924, under the laws of the State of Delaware, has acquired over 99% of the capital stock of the Purity Baking Company; 99% of the common stock and 90% of the preferred stock of the Tristate Baking Company, Inc.; over 58% of the common stock of the Grennan Bakeries, Inc., the largest exclusively cake manufacturing concern in the United States; substantially all of the capital stock of the Winkelman Baking Company and the entire capital stocks of the Nafziger Baking Company and the Williams Baking Company. Through the Purity Baking Company, the Corporation also holds the entire capital stock of the Wernig Baking Company, practically all of the capital stock of the Grocers Baking Company, and a controlling interest in the Banner Grocers' Baking Company, and is arranging to acquire the minority interest in the last-named company.

These several baking companies, which serve a territory with a population of several millions of people, have 35 plants, located as follows:

Minneapolis, Minn.	St. Louis, Mo.	Cleveland, Ohio
Saint Paul, Minn.	Sedalia, Mo.	Columbus, Ohio
Duluth, Minn.	Muskogee, Okla.	Hamilton, Ohio
Detroit, Mich.	Wichita Falls, Tex.	Toledo, Ohio
Jackson, Mich.	Chicago, Ill.	Akron, Ohio
Flint, Mich.	Decatur, Ill.	Pittsburgh, Pa.
Battle Creek, Mich.	Indianapolis, Ind.	Newark, N. J.
Springfield, Mo.	Cincinnati, Ohio	Burlington, Iowa
Kansas City, Mo.		Memphis, Tenn.

AN ESSENTIAL INDUSTRY: Among our national industries, the baking industry, which ranks seventh, is one of the few that thrive during periods of depression as well as in prosperous times. This is due to the fact that its products are daily necessities and are consumed by the great mass of the people. The baking industry probably heads the list of what may be termed the essential industries, as bread is essential to life itself. The remarkable stability of the baking business was strikingly demonstrated during the war. The fundamental factors are daily sales, cash dealings, quick turn-over and volume of production. Inventory losses are practically unknown as there is little accumulation of raw material and practically all of the output is disposed of daily.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds from the sale of this $2,000,000 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock will provide the additional working capital required to take care of the rapidly expanding volume of business.

EARNINGS: For the period from December 31, 1924, to September 12, 1925, the proportion of net earnings of the operating companies applicable to the present holdings of Purity Pakeries Corporation, as certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., Accountants and Auditors, amounted to $1,056,662.92. Based solely upon the results of this period, it is estimated that the net earnings for 1925 applicable to the holdings of Purity Pakeries Corporation will be in excess of $1,500,000, a sum equal to over THREE AND NINE-TENTHS TIMES the annual dividend requirements of the Preferred Stock outstanding upon completion of the present financing.

BENEFITS OF COMBINED OPERATION: The bringing together of the several subsidiary companies under a single management permits of a standardization of general policy and manufacturing processes, a co-ordination of advertising effort and a more economical purchasing system, and naturally results in operating and merchandising economies which are being reflected in steadily increasing profits. In addition, the profits are expected to reflect the steady increase in production resulting from the constant growth in population in the vast territory which the several companies serve, as well as from the new business which is constantly developing as the American housewife, recognizing the purity and nutritive value of the products of the great sanitary automatic bakeries of today, turns from the home-made to the bakery-made product.

ASSETS: The consolidated balance sheet of the Corporation and its subsidiary companies as at September 12, 1925, after giving effect as at that date to the issue of 20,000 shares of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, as certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., Accountants and Auditors, shows net tangible assets applicable to the stocks of the Purity Pakeries Corporation of $11,253,897.84, or over $200 a share for each share of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock outstanding upon completion of the present financing. This does not take into consideration the exceedingly valuable goodwill and trademarks of the subsidiary companies, which are carried in the balance sheet at a sum equal to over $37 additional for each share of Preferred Stock. The Preferred Stock is followed by 136,873 shares of Class A Stock and 181,459 shares of Class B Stock, which have an actual present market value of over $13,500,000.

PROTECTIVE PROVISIONS: The Certificate of Incorporation contains unusually strong provisions for the safeguarding of the Preferred Stock.

All legal details in connection with this issue of Preferred Stock will be passed upon by Messrs. Masten & Nichols, New York, for the Bankers, and by Messrs. President S. E. Summerfield summarizes his letter as follows:

"The business was started in 1911 with a capital of $30,000, and its growth to its present position, with total net assets valued at over $6,000,000 (exclusive of good-will) has been due entirely to accumulated profits.

"THE COMPANY IS NOT A BORROWER AT THE BANKS NOR HAS IT BEEN SINCE 1916.

"The demand for its product, marketed under the nationally known trade mark "Gold Stripe," has been so great that its factories have at no time been shut down for a single day for lack of orders.

"Outside of its own retail stores THE COMPANY EMPLOYS NO SALESMEN.

"Sales have increased as the merit of the hosiery has become more widely known, from 20,000 dozen in 1913 to 550,000 dozen in 1925 (2½ months estimated).

"Net earnings after Federal taxes at present rates and after depreciation charges in accordance with rates set by American Appraisal Company, as certified by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst and Messrs. Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery, Public Accountants, for the years 1921 to 1924, and for 1925 (with 2½ months estimated by the Company) were as follows:

1923	1,190,234.81
1924	1,513,804.51
1925 (2½ mos. est.)	2,000,000.00

"The above net profits for the five years ended December 31, 1925, average more than 4 times the dividend requirements on the $4,500,000 7% First Preferred Stock presently to be outstanding, and for 1925 (2½ months estimated) exceed 6 times such requirements.

"Earnings on the new Common Stock for the current year, similarly stated, exceed $5 a share.

"The Company will inaugurate dividends on the Common Stock at the annual rate of $2.50 per share.

For further particulars regarding the Company, its financial position and management, reference is made to a letter from the President, copy of which will be furnished on request.

Legal proceedings are subject to the approval of Messrs. Cravath, Henderson & De Gersdorff, for the undersigned, and Messrs. Spiro, Abrams & Felsteiner for the Company.

STATE OF WURTTEMBERG (GERMANY)

CONSOLIDATED MUNICIPAL EXTERNAL LOAN OF 1925

7% Serial Gold Bonds

Unconditionally guaranteed by the
STATE OF WURTTEMBERG, GERMANY
as to principal, interest and premium on redemption by endorsement on each bond

Dated November 1, 1925. Due in equal annual installments November 1, 1926, to November 1, 1945, inclusive.

Principal and semi-annual interest, May 1 and November 1, payable in United States gold coin of, or equal to, the present standard of weight and fineness, at the principal office either of The Chase National Bank of the City of New York or of Blair & Co. in New York, as well in time of war as in time of peace irrespective of the nationality of the holder and without deduction for any German Government, State or Municipal taxes, past, present or future. Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal only. Not redeemable prior to November 1, 1930. On November 1, 1930, and on any interest payment date thereafter, bonds then outstanding are redeemable in whole, or in part by lot irrespective of maturities, at 103 and accrued interest on 8 weeks' published notice.

The following information has been taken from statements furnished by Karl Lautenschlager, Esq., Chief Mayor of the City of Stuttgart, and Gottlieb Frank, Esq., representative of the other Associated Municipalities:

DIRECT OBLIGATION: These Bonds will constitute the direct, joint and several obligation of the 23 Cities of the State of Wurttemberg enumerated below and will furthermore be unconditionally guaranteed as to principal, interest and premium on redemption by endorsement of the State of Wurttemberg. The names of such Cities are

Stuttgart	Ulm		Ravensburg	Esslingen
Reutlingen	Tuebingen	Boeblingen	Rottweil	Goeppingen
Tuttlingen	Schwenningen	Heilbronn	Birkenfeld	Boeckingen
Ebingen	Nuertingen	Gemuend	Hoefen	Crailsheim
Waiblingen	Weingarten		Calmbach	Altensteig

The Cities severally covenant and agree that if while any of the bonds of this issue are outstanding, any of such Cities shall create or issue or guarantee any loans or bonds secured by lien or charge on any of its revenues or assets the bonds of this issue shall be secured equally and ratably with such loans or bonds or guarantee.

CITIES OF WURTTEMBERG: The 23 Cities which are obligated on these Bonds have a total population of about 700,000. The most important of them is Stuttgart, with a population of 330,000, the capital of the State of Wurttemberg and one of the largest and most important of the cities of Germany as regards trade, industry and culture. The Cities own valuable real estate, public buildings and productive enterprises, including electric light plants, gas works, water works, street railways, etc., which yield large revenues. The value of such municipally owned properties is estimated at more than $100,000,000. Private investments in industrial plants within these Cities are officially estimated to be in excess of $400,000,000, while the value of all properties subject to the several Cities' taxation is estimated at over $1,200,000,000.

FINANCES OF CITIES: The revenues of the 23 Cities for the year 1924 amounted to $27,200,000 and expenditures for the same year amounted to $24,400,000, leaving a net surplus of $2,800,000. This issue will constitute the only external debt of the Cities. The amount of the internal debt cannot be exactly determined until the law fixing the terms of revaluation of municipal obligations heretofore incurred will have had its full effect, but it is estimated that the amount of such debt will be between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

Under the legislation at present in force, passed to give effect to the Dawes Plan, no mortgages have been placed upon any of the public utility properties owned by the Cities.

STATE OF WURTTEMBERG: The State of Wurttemberg, which has a population of about 2,500,000 and an area of 19,509 square kilometers, is the third in size and the fourth in population of the German States. Agriculture, forestry and industrial establishments form the bases of the economic life of the State. Manufactures comprise widely diversified products which are exported all over the world. The widely known plants of Mercedes and Daimler motors, Bosch magneto works and Zeppelin Aircrafts are located in Wurttemberg. The value of the properties owned by the State is estimated at approximately $119,000,000. The financial situation of the State is sound. For the year 1924 revenues and expenditures balanced at approximately $26,190,000. The State of Wurttemberg has no external debt and the internal debt is practically nothing, being less than an amount equivalent to $72,000. The State properties and State revenues from taxes and duties are not subject to any charge under the Dawes Plan.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of the bonds issued will be used for the extension and betterment of the Cities' electric light and power plants, gas plants, water works, street railways and other purposes, all of which are designed to increase the municipal revenues.

The financial statistics in this advertisement are expressed in approximate terms of dollars converted at the rate of 4.20 gold marks to the dollar.

We offer the above Bonds "when, as and if" issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of all proceedings by our counsel. Interim Receipts or Temporary Bonds will be deliverable in the first instance.

$25,000,000

The Czechoslovak Republic

Secured External Sinking Fund Gold Loan of 1925, Series A Twenty-Year 7½% Bonds

Dated October 1, 1925 — Part of an authorized issue of $50,000,000 — Due October 1, 1945

Redeemable in whole or in part, at the option of the Government, or through the operation of the Sinking Fund, on any interest date at 105.

The Bonds outstanding at maturity will be paid at 105% of the principal amount thereof.

Sinking Fund sufficient to pay or redeem entire issue.

This Loan will be secured by a first specific charge on revenues from Excise Duties on Sugar and Alcohol, and by a specific charge on Customs Duties and net profits of the Tobacco Monopoly, junior only to the charge created in favor of the 8% Secured External Loan of 1922, now outstanding.

Upon repayment of the Loan of 1922, The Czechoslovak Republic will have the right to secure a new loan, not to exceed $50,000,000 in aggregate principal amount, with a lien upon its Customs Duties and net profits of the Tobacco Monopoly ranking equally and ratably with the lien created in favor of this Loan.

The following summary is based upon a letter of the Prime Minister, and the Minister of Finance, of The Czechoslovak Republic, copies of which may be had upon request to the undersigned:

The pledged revenues constitute four of the most regular and productive items of income of the Czechoslovak Government. Their respective yields in 1924 were as follows:

Sugar Tax	$5,096,426
Alcohol Tax	11,780,979
Customs	25,797,411
Net Profits Tobacco Monopoly	31,134,956

The combined revenues of the Sugar and Alcohol Taxes amounted to $16,877,405 during 1924, as compared with $3,750,000, maximum interest charges, at 7½%, upon the total authorized amount of the Loan, and, with the Customs Duties and net profits of the Tobacco Monopoly, yielded $73,809,772, as compared with $10,818,000, the total of maximum interest and sinking fund charges both on the 8% Secured External Loan of 1922 and on the total authorized amount of the Loan of 1925 (assuming sinking fund requirements on the unissued balance identical with the present Series A).

The proceeds of the present issue will be applied principally to the funding of Government short term indebtedness pursuant to a program designed to add materially to the financial stability of the Government and to strengthen the national credit at home and abroad. Other objectives of this program have already been achieved, including the balancing of the budget and the stabilization of the currency.

The Czechoslovak Republic received international recognition by the Treaties of Versailles, St. Germain and Trianon, which it signed as one of the Allied and Associated Powers. Its revenues, therefore, are not subject to control by the Reparations Commission and it has the unqualified and sovereign right to pledge them for the service of the Loan of which this issue is a part.

The funding of Czechoslovakia's indebtedness to the United States Government has recently been arranged by mutual agreement.

Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

We offer these Bonds for subscription, subject to allotment, if, as and when issued and received by us, subject to approval by our counsel of all legal proceedings in connection therewith. Subscription books will be opened at the office of The National City Company, 55 Wall Street, New York City, at 10 o'clock A. M., Tuesday, October 27, 1925, and will be closed in our discretion. It is expected that delivery of interim certificates will be made on or about November 16, 1925.

Of the present issue, $3,500,000 has been taken by Messrs. Hope & Company for offering in the Amsterdam market.

Inland Steel Company

Twenty-Year 5½% Debenture Gold Bonds

Due November 1, 1945

Coupon bonds in $1,000 denomination registerable as to principal. Interest payable May 1 and November 1.

Redeemable as a whole, but not in part, at option of the Company, upon not less than six weeks' previous notice, at 103½% and accrued interest on any interest date on or before November 1, 1935, at 102% and accrued interest on any interest date thereafter on or before November 1, 1940, and at 101% and accrued interest on any interest date thereafter prior to maturity.

Semi-annual sinking fund, beginning May 1, 1926, of 1% of the maximum principal amount of Bonds at any time outstanding, is to be applied to purchase of Bonds, if obtainable at their principal amount or less, or, if Bonds are not so obtainable within five months after each payment date, may be used for capital expenditures for which no additional securities are issued, at the rate of 75% of such expenditures.

For further information regarding the Company and this issue of Bonds, reference is made to a letter dated October 24, 1925, received from the Company, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned, and from which the following is quoted:

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

"The purpose of the issue of these bonds is to reimburse the Company for about $5,000,000 heretofore expended for expansions, additions and other capital purposes and to provide additional funds to complete the Company's present program, including the installation of Blast Furnace No. 4, which will increase the daily production of pig iron to about 2,600 tons, the construction of 74 additional Koppers By-Product Coke Ovens and the complete electrification of the Indiana Harbor plant. The additional earnings from the new facilities and the savings created by the electrification of the main plant are conservatively estimated at not less than $1,500,000 per annum.

BUSINESS AND PROPERTY

The business of the Inland Steel Company was organized in 1893 and is the result of a continuous development over a period of thirty-two years. The Company is the second largest producer of steel in the Chicago district, having an annual ingot capacity of 1,600,000 tons. Its business is the manufacture and sale of a widely diversified line of steel products. The Company is well integrated in regard to its supplies of such raw materials as iron ore and coal. Its ore requirements are met entirely through its ownership (direct or through subsidiary companies) in ore leases covering nine mines on the Mesaba and Cuyuna Ranges in Minnesota and Gogebic Range in Michigan, which, with coal properties in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Illinois, insure an adequate supply for a long period of time. The Company owns over six hundred acres of land at Indiana Harbor, Indiana, with frontages on the southern shore of Lake Michigan and the Government ship canal, where its main plant is located. The principal units, when the present program is completed, will include four blast furnaces, two hundred and four Koppers by-product ovens with complete benzol refinery, twenty-six open-hearth furnaces, blooming mills, sheet bar mills, rail mill, bar mills, sheet mills, plate and structural mills.

EARNINGS

The net earnings of the Company after charging depreciation, depletion, amortization and interest (but before deducting income taxes and interest on bonds since retired), averaged for the ten years 1915 to 1924 inclusive, $7,294,605 per annum, and for the year 1924 were $6,492,693. These average earnings are equal to 10.61 times and the 1924 earnings to 9.44 times the annual interest charges on the $12,500,000 Debenture Bonds presently to be outstanding. The earnings for the first nine months of the current year, after all charges as above stated, amounted to $4,054,995, or at the annual rate of 7.86 times the interest on the $12,500,000 Debenture Bonds. These earnings do not reflect the additional earnings and savings expected to result from the expenditure of the proceeds of these Bonds.

ASSETS

The net tangible assets, after deducting all reserves and liabilities other than this issue, are over $76,000,000, equal to more than $6,000 for each $1,000 Debenture Bond. Current Assets alone, not including $7,000,000 reserved for new construction, amount to more than $25,500,000, equal to about six times current liabilities. The book value of the properties of the Company represents actual expenditures less depreciation actually charged out of earnings, and is much below actual value. The Company has no notes payable and has had no banking indebtedness for the past seventeen years. There is no outstanding funded debt other than $425,000 of Bonds maturing serially to 1928, not redeemable before maturity.

The outstanding Stock of the Company, consisting of 100,000 shares Preferred Stock and 1,182,799 shares of Common Stock, has a present market value of over $60,000,000.

DESCRIPTION OF ISSUE

The Twenty-Year 5½% Debenture Gold Bonds will be the direct obligations of the Company and will be issued under an Indenture to First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, as Trustee, which will provide among other things that no mortgage or other lien (other than purchase money mortgages or pre-existing mortgages on after-acquired property), shall be created upon any of the properties or assets of the Company or of any subsidiary company, as defined in the Indenture, whether now owned or hereafter acquired, nor shall any such properties or assets be pledged, unless all the Debenture Bonds at the time outstanding are secured by such mortgage, pledge or other lien equally and ratably with all other bonds or obligations secured thereby, all as provided in the indenture. Current assets may, however, be pledged to secure indebtedness incurred in the ordinary course of business maturing not more than one year after the creation thereof."

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE ABOVE BONDS, SUBJECT TO ALLOTMENT, AT 98½% AND ACCRUED INTEREST TO DATE OF DELIVERY, TO YIELD 5⅝% TO MATURITY.

The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice, to reject any application, to allot a smaller amount than applied for, and to make allotments in their uncontrolled discretion.

The above bonds are offered if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the approval of their counsel. Temporary bonds will be delivered against payment in New York funds for bonds allotted, which temporary bonds will be exchangeable for definitive bonds when prepared.

Application will be made in due course to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

is just as important to the investor as discrimination in Foreign Government obligations, Railroad, Public Utility Securities or Industrial Stocks and Bonds.

Federal supervision of all Joint Stock Land Banks is primarily intended to provide credit for the farmer borrowers and security for the investor in tax-exempt Land Bank Bonds.

Stocks of Joint Stock Land Banks prove profitable investments when surrounded by the same circumstances and conditions as successful investments in Stocks of other institutions.

The group of Land Banks in whose securities we maintain reliable markets are selected after thorough analysis has disclosed conditions essential to satisfactory Land Bank operation.

The Coming World Exposition at Philadelphia—Trifling With a Great Project.

Things in Philadelphia regarding the contemplated World's Exposition in 1926, in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, have the present week taken the turn which it has for some time been evident they must eventually take. The program of a true world's exposition has been in effect abandoned. In place thereof there is to be an insignificant local exhibit, hardly deserving the name of a world's exposition and utterly at variance with the original design. It takes more than a Liberty Bell, with a crack in it, to make an International Exposition and Philadelphia cannot now, without universal condemnation, shirk the task it has undertaken. On Monday of this week (Oct. 26), only a little more than seven months before the Exposition is scheduled to open its gates, the only building in sight was the Administration Building, intended to house the officials and the working staff of the several divisions. This structure, though nearing completion, is not ready for occupancy. As for the distinctive exhibition buildings, contracts for only two of them have even yet been awarded, namely the Liberal Arts Palace and the Palace of Agriculture and Food Products, for $790,000 and $850,000, respectively. And on Monday the erection of the steel framework for the former, on foundations of piles and concrete, had just begun; with only a part of the building materials for this structure on the ground. No State or Foreign building was under way. The grounds have not even yet been fully graded; a large amount of cutting and filling remains to be done. And winter approaches.

An Appropriate Enterprise.

A celebration of the hundred and fiftieth anniversary of American Independence is eminently worth while. Philadelphia is the logical place to hold it. An exposition of progress in art, science and industry is a laudable method of commemoration. But an exposition is far more than a celebration. There is no objection to a reasonable amount of pageantry to visualize the historic events that transpired in Philadelphia and led to the formation of the United States. The American people will welcome this feature of the Exposition as part of their own. They will take pride in the political, social and industrial achievements of a century and a half of national development. In fact, the time is ripe for a backward look at the fundamental principles of liberty and law upon which our institutions are founded. Especially in this time of change and unrest the Constitutional epoch of our history becomes an anchor by which to hold the Ship of State to her original moorings. An entire people will join with the citizens of Philadelphia in recalling these early days of the Republic. And adequate exhibits of our agriculture, manufactures and commerce as they are to-day will exemplify the progress made under the guaranty and protection of our republican representative Government. But a municipal stadium, though it be the largest in the world at a cost of $2,000,000, has no place in the scheme save to afford visitors relaxation and entertainment from a serious study of the national and foreign exhibits. An International Exposition is not a frolic or a festival.

Inception and History.

The agitation for this Exposition began in May 1921. In March 1922 President Harding presented the matter to Congress, saying: "It is proposed to hold this exhibition on a scale of impressive grandeur commensurate with the occasion to be celebrated and the position of eminence in world progress which our nation has come to occupy." The present year President Coolidge, after receiving a delegation of Sesqui-Centennial officials on Feb. 14 1925, sent a special message to Congress which resulted in the passage and approval on March 3 1925 of a resolution by the Sixty-eighth Congress establishing a "National Centennial Exhibition Commission," "to represent the United States in connection with the holding of an international exhibition in the city of Philadelphia in 1926." Official invitations, signed by the President and Secretary of State, were thereupon dispatched to the States of the Union and nations of the world to participate in this "international exhibition." In this way the commemorative celebration took form as an International Exposition. What has Philadelphia done since the formal official launching of the enterprise by President Harding's message in March 1922? Hesitated over the site; failed to early conceive a comprehensive and working plan for so notable an exhibition, such as to enlist the timely interest of the States of the Union and the nations of the earth; failed to appropriate adequate funds; and, up to within six months past, given this wholly meritorious project a wavering and what must be termed a lukewarm support.

This Week's Fiasco.

And now, when actual construction work is under way, on Tuesday of this week, a change of plans is ordered by the board of directors, led by the Mayor as President of the Exposition, which, if allowed to stand, will reduce the whole enterprise to the stature of a local celebration without especial merit in itself, and of practically no interest to the foreign countries and our several States that are expected to send exhibits and erect buildings in what was announced to be an International Exposition. Mayor Kendrick, in speaking to the board, said:

It has been my hope that four large exhibition buildings would be built for our exhibitors, and I have proceeded in that hope. For two of these contracts have been signed, and they are now in the course of construction. Within the last forty-eight hours I have been informed by expert engineers in my Cabinet that it will be impossible to finish buildings No. 3 and 4 in time for the opening of the Exposition on June 1 next summer. Buildings No. 1 and 2 can be completed and will contain more than sixteen acres of exhibition space. We can produce a great amount of the exhibition building program, but not as much as we had originally hoped.

There also will be our stadium and a huge auditorium which is yet to be constructed. In view of the fact that 170 conventions are coming to the city next June, believing that the Sesqui will be held, we must proceed with the work. We must construct buildings and arrange an affair that will be as attractive as possible in the limited time that is left to us.

With the Administration Building, two exhibition buildings, the stadium and an auditorium we will have a very good start. We will have an electrical display throughout the city that has never been surpassed. President Coolidge has shown his willingness to come here for the opening of the Exposition. In view of these facts, it is obvious that the Exposition must open. With the Commercial Museum, the Art Museum and the new library we have a background against which we can build an affair that will be interesting to those who come here next year.

We hope that the State will continue with the plans which it has for the construction of an education building. Foreign nations participating probably will build their own buildings. Some of the States will do this also.

If we work shoulder to shoulder, not forgetting the purpose of the Exposition, we can focus the world on Philadelphia and carry out the International Exposition we had planned. Let us make it the biggest possible Exposition in the time left at our disposal. I hope that in the next few weeks a completed program will be ready that will be satisfactory. The changes made necessary by the switch in our program will be taken up by the various committees.

It is hard to conceive of a more complete fiasco. Coming up to Congress with an appeal for endorsement of this undertaking, and being invested with the trusteeship of a splendid enterprise, of benefit to the nation and the world, on the very brink of a forward movement toward success, the board of directors, representing the third city of the United States, throws up its hands, and flunks, for the alleged lack of time and money. From an original constructive plan embracing seven exhibit palaces, it shrinks to a contemplated four and then to an actual two. The Mayor talks as if in sixteen acres of exhibit space, in two buildings, representative exhibits illustrative of Fine Arts, Liberal Arts, Electricity, Manufactures, Machinery, Transportation, Agriculture and Mines and Metallurgy, can be displayed, by being thrown together, in a way that visitors who come to observe and study will be enlightened and edified. No such preposterous proposal was ever made before concerning an International Exposition. He proposes to crowd the aisles of these two buildings so that the visitor will have to be an adept at a bargain-day rush in a department store in order to see anything at all.

But this is not the most important consideration. The United States has invited the foreign countries to participate in this exhibition. It is centred around the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of our republican Government and institutions. It is to show our progress in industry, art and science, in conjunction with that of the nations of the earth. It is humiliating to extend this invitation and be compelled to recall it. It is a reflection upon the very form and purpose of our nation, to fail at the time of our greatest prosperity. Unless Philadelphia carries through with credit, it will become the jest of the people and the laughing stock of the world. Having accepted, at its own request, a magnificent emprise, it cannot now retreat, without bringing discredit upon the country and disgrace upon itself. It is the comparative value of exhibits that counts. It is the coming together of the peoples of earth in the emulation of industry and trade that makes for peace. If the nations do not come, the States will have less incentive to swell the showing made by our own people as a whole. Exhibitors will withdraw from their agreements. As a matter of fact, Philadelphia papers yesterday reported the United States Steel, the Bethlehem and Carnegie companies had withdrawn their offers to exhibit. Conventions that have chosen the Exposition City as a meeting place because of the added attraction of an International Exposition will not feel bound to come. Concessionaires who have counted upon an attendance due at an International Exposition will be loath to invest money upon the basis of a local celebration. Some of them, it is reported, having already spent large sums in preparation, are threatening to sue the city. Even citizens who have subscribed the three millions in participation certificates upon the basis of a seven-million or twelve-million construction policy, may feel absolved from further payments. But these are incidental effects. The action of the board of directors is not that of the people of Philadelphia, we are sure; it is not that of the Government of the United States. The national Government, no less than the City of Philadelphia, stands committed to the holding of an International Exposition. Shall the failure of one bring disrespect upon the other? Philadelphia must not fail. It has traditional pride; it has historic eminence; it has vast wealth; it is a great city of a great State. It proved its mettle in 1876; it is not decadent now. There is yet time for a strong pull and a pull all together. It should know no such word as fail. It should be worthy of its heritage.

Since the employment of Col. D. C. Collier as Director-General, an experienced exposition expert, progress has been made. But the time has come to say that only the most strenuous efforts of the people, rapid and liberal appropriations, a consistent and appropriate plan, will bring the enterprise to a meritorious success. On Wednesday the resignation of Director and Vice-President Trigg was tendered and accepted. On Thursday that of Director-General Collier was also tendered, and accepted as of Nov. 1 But a reconsideration on their part is possible, and in fact imperative. Only the spirit of 1776 is needed to bring about a triumphant achievement.

Purpose of an Exposition—Its Financial Sources.

A word may be said as to the financial obligations involved. Expositions cost money. They are inspirational and educative, and return, in intangible ways, far more than their cost. They are not intended to "boom" a city, and should not be suffered to do so. They bring the peoples of the earth together in the natural amity and concord of international trade. They spread the light of invention, the benefits of industry and commerce, the education of ideas and ideals, the principles and practices of peace, to every country. Favored nations are inspired and the less favored lifted up. Expositions do not pay, as a rule, their costs in dollars and cents, and ought not to be expected to pay. And because the returns are in enlightenment and advance, peoples and Governments must largely foot the expense. The Panama-Pacific International Exposition, celebrating the opening of the Panama Canal, an event of much trade importance to the world, held in San Francisco in 1915, was the last preceding great one. To this California appropriated five millions of dollars, San Francisco a like sum. Seven and a half millions, approximately, were contributed by popular subscriptions, and it was estimated the counties of California gave three millions more. To the Louisiana Purchase International Exposition, St. Louis 1904, the State of Missouri appropriated $1,000,000; the City of St. Louis $5,000,000; by amendments to Constitution and charter, "ratified by overwhelming majorities at the ensuing State election." To the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition the State of Pennsylvania has contributed $750,000. The citizens of Philadelphia have completed an initial popular subscription of three millions by the sale of "Participation Certificates." To this may be added a statement made that the City has advanced $500,000. A newspaper item of Oct. 20 states: "The association, it was learned, has on hand in ready cash approximately $1,000,000 in unexpended revenue." San Francisco had about five hundred thousand population, and ten years before had suffered from a devastating earthquake and fire. It suffered the additional misfortune that the World War came before its exposition opened. Yet San Francisco went on to a splendid accomplishment. Let Philadelphia ponder on this. Philadelphia has a population of two millions, vast manufacturing interests. Its own factories could fill any possible Machinery Hall with a magnificent exhibit. Having invited the trusteeship of this enterprise, which has the good-will and commendation of the people throughout the country, this splendid neighboring city must carry through to success or suffer in the public regard.

Trying to Avoid Taxation.

It seems to us that it is a mistake to stress the attempt to finance this Exposition without taxation. The whole people get the benefit and the whole people should pay through forthcoming appropriations. And the time is now. Does Philadelphia intend to ask the United States to sponsor to the world an exposition of art, industry and commerce, in the midst of a world-renowned manufacturing centre, and itself be parsimonious and laggard in financial support? What will the world say? This done, the Congress of the United States should come forward with an appropriation commensurate with the dignity of the nation. We are not so poor, as a nation, that we cannot welcome foreign exhibitors with splendid exhibition palaces. We are not so saving that we cannot foster world peace by the interchange of good-will, which, after all, as Mayor Kendrick has said, is one of the expected results.

A Tentative Financial Estimate.

On the material side there is, of course, a financial estimate of debits and credits: Exposition officials before the present week's desolating fiasco tabulated this estimate as follows: Estimated expenses: Exhibit construction, $7,500,000; administration expense, $7,200,000; special construction, $4,000,000; special events and free entertainment, $2,000,000; contingencies, $2,000,000; total costs, $22,700.000. Estimated receipts: Exposition's proportion of concessions revenue, $3,000,000; sale of exhibit space, $12,000,000; paid admissions, $18,750,000; total receipts, $33,750,000. This tentative financial estimate was, of course, subject to incidental change as the work proceeded. The important thing was not to have the cost-plan change the structural or exhibitional-plan. In addition there were the contributions by the different States and nations, which can still be counted on if the enterprise is carired out according to its original intent. As we have previously indicated, the standing of the United States is involved, which imposes the requirement of some financial contribution on the part of the Federal Government. With the goal in sight financial support can be secured, and in a way compelled, because of the interests involved. The work of the Exposition has reached an impasse, but by immediate action the snarl, it would seem, can still be untangled and success wrested from seeming failure. Other Expositions are object lessons. They have had their difficulties, and dark hours, but they won by persistence and pluck.

Financial Comparison—Cost of the St. Louis Exposition.

Comparative figures are valuable and informative. From David R. Francis's "The Universal Exposition of 1904," we learn that "the construction accounts aggregated $27,435,150," and further that "the cost of buildings and structures is thus summarized by the Division of Works:

	No. of Bldgs.	Cost.
"Exhibit buildings and structures by the Exposition	253	$7,405,629 68
Buildings constructed and owned by Washington University	13	1,378,000 00
National buildings	34	1,585,955 00
State, Territorial and Municipal buildings	45	1,269,076 00
Philippine buildings and structures	92	613,418 44
Miscellaneous and other buildings	74	415,715 00
Concession buildings and structures	448	3,919,425 00"

The Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis in 1904 (postponed a year from 1903, the commemorative date) was open 184 days. We learn from the same authority that the total admissions were 19,694,855; paid admissions, 12,804,616. Governor Francis, President of this Exposition, recites that the amount of money handled by the "Bureau of Collections" during the entire period of the Exposition totaled "$10,776,804 70," the principal items of which were: "Admissions, $6,224,245 65; concessions revenue, $2,832,390 70." On the side of appropriations St. Louis had the most remarkable experience of any Exposition on American soil, and it ought to furnish an object lesson to Philadelphia as to what can be done by energetic and persistent effort. In addition to the City and State appropriations of $5,000,000 and $1,000,000, respectively, St. Louis received from the national Government no less than $11,179,000, as told by Francis in his history, $4,600,000 of which was a loan, reimbursable, and which was paid in full. At page 56 of his volume he states: "The net amount in aid of the Exposition was $6,579,000." One single item in the Act of March 3 1901 was "aid to Exposition, $5,000,000." Other item appropriations were made in 1902 and 1903.

Admissions.

As to the estimated Philadelphia paid admissions, there is historic precedent to go upon. Comparative tables of the returns from gate receipts at Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco, indicate that with "more than half the population of the United States within a radius of 24 hours ordinary railroad traveling time" an attendance of 50,000,000 persons may reasonably be expected during the six months the Exposition will be open, yielding approximately the $18,750,000. But all this financial figuring implies a real International Exhibition that will attract the people and the domestic and foreign exhibitors. The money in sight to do all this is an announced $3,000,000 popular subscription already subscribed; $500,000 advanced by the city, and $750,000 appropriated by the State; together with such moneys as the "twenty-one foreign nations and eleven of our States have officially or otherwise indicated" they will spend in participation.

Incidental Benefits to Citizens and Railroads.

Figures that do not show in this analysis are the amounts the railroads will receive for passenger fares and freights, and the amounts the citizens of Philadelphia will receive for expenses of visitors while in the city. What will 50,000,000 persons—and by 50,000,000 persons is meant, of course, 50,000,000 paid admissions, not separate persons one time—spend for railroad fares and expenses? Without going into any further details, it would seem safe to lay down the following propositions: That the enterprise is entirely worthy; that the citizens of the nation will welcome it with good-will; that interests like the railroads that must derive incidental revenue therefrom in large amounts should get behind it with support and contributions (we are informed some of them are doing so), and that the City of Philadelphia and State of Pennsylvania and the Congress of the United States should unite in liberal financial backing that is not now in evidence. The city and the nation are committed to this beneficent enterprise as an International Exposition. Carried to a fitting conclusion it will add to the world's fund of knowledge, promote trade through the natural object lessons of the exhibits, and increase and cement world peace by the friendly intermingling of the peoples of the earth!

Quick Arousal of Interest Imperative—The Enthusiasm of 1876 Completely Lacking.

Above everything else, it is essential that the people of Philadelphia should become aroused and in turn should arouse the rest of the country regarding the undertaking and the event. Why is it that it was only within the past month that a Board of Design to supersede an alleged overworked City Architect was created? What more important than the ornateness of the exterior views, the unity of the whole design? Up to the present virtually no interest has been manifested in the coming Exposition outside of Philadelphia, and in Philadelphia attention has been so exclusively concentrated on the stadium, which, as already stated, is to cost $2,000,000, and is being built at city expense and designed to be the largest in the world, that the Exposition has been relegated to second place. Even though contracts, as mentioned above, have now been let, there has been a local lack of enthusiasm concerning the undertaking that has amounted to almost indifference, and in these circumstances it is not strange that no outside interest of consequence has yet been enlisted in the Exposition. It was not so back in 1876, at the time of the Centennial of the Declaration of Independence. The Editor of this paper was then in his teens, though already connected with the paper. He remembers the occasion well. The Philadelphia Exposition of 1876 was on every one's tongue months in advance. The utmost enthusiasm prevailed concerning it. Everybody was excited about it, not only in Philadelphia, but in New York. Every one looked forward to it as one of the grand events of a lifetime.

It would be difficult to explain the apathy which has existed on the part of Philadelphia towards the second Philadelphia World's Exposition, fifty years later, except on the ground that among the mass of the people everything has been subordinated to the big stadium which is in process of erection, and obviously this is an age of sports. But it is now time for the citizens of Philadelphia—we mean the rank and file of the population—to awake to the task that lies ahead, and show the zeal and energy necessary to ensure success. Enthusiasm easily becomes infectious, but often must first be created. No opportunity must be lost to press the claims of the Exposition.

Failure to Seize an Opportunity.

The Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce has latterly shown great zeal on behalf of the undertaking, but it seems to us that on at least one recent occasion it did not carry its zeal far enough. We have reference to the recent meeting of the American Bankers Association at Atlantic City and the choosing by the Executive Council of Los Angeles as the place for holding next year's convention, instead of Philadelphia. The latter did not fail to send in an invitation through the Chamber of Commerce, but apparently it did not press its claims sufficiently. At least that is the impression one gets from reading the account of the proceedings of the convention with reference to that particular matter. Three cities sent in invitations. Here is the full official stenographic report with reference to the invitations:

INVITATIONS FOR 1926 A. B. A. CONVENTION.

Executive Manager Shepherd: I hold telegrams and letters of invitation to the American Bankers Association to hold its next convention in three different cities. One is from Philadelphia, the other from Houston and the other invitation is from Los Angeles.

From Philadelphia:

Kindly extend greetings to your delegates assembled, also hearty invitation to convene the next Convention in Philadelphia. We urge your favorable consideration and assure you of every possible assistance to make the Convention successful.

PHILADELPHIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

From the President of the Houston Clearing House Association, Mr. George Hamman. This, I may say, is supplemented by letters from the Mayor and prominent citizens of Houston:

"The Associated Banks of Houston extend to the American Bankers Association a cordial invitation to hold their 1926 Convention in this city."

The third invitation, which comes from the Chamber of Commerce and the Clearing House Association and almost a multitude of individual bankers from California, I will not read here, but I will refer you to the banner which they have erected in this Convention Hall, inviting us to hold the 1926 Convention in the City of Los Angeles.

Apparently Philadelphia thought that tendering a formal invitation ought to suffice for the purpose. Los Angeles, on the other hand, not only sent in an invitation through its Chamber of Commerce and its Clearing House Association, but in order that there might be no doubt about its anxiety to have the convention, got numerous other bodies, as well as individuals to put in pleas for it also. Not only that, but it erected a banner in the Convention Hall at Atlantic City. It accordingly won out. Of course, the Executive Council of the A. B. A. in reaching its decision was governed mainly by the fact that this year's convention having been held at Atlantic City, close by Philadelphia, it was not desirable in the ordinary course that next year's gathering should take place at Philadelphia itself, but Philadelphia should have made the strongest endeavor to overcome this feeling by urging that the objection should not control in the case of an affair that comes once only in fifty years and that the great body of the bankers themselves would doubtless prefer for 1926 to congregate at Philadelphia, seeing that the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition was to be held there.

Methods of Advertising.

And at this point we may refer to the matter of publicity and exploitation. Both at St. Louis and San Francisco a large corps of trained writers was employed. At St. Louis it is recorded that the first efforts at an arousal of interest were devoted to historical articles. Surely, the foundation period of our Government is of supreme historical importance compared either with the purchase of the Louisiana Territory or the opening of the Canal. In both these previous Expositions it was the policy to prepare matter, historic, descriptive, argumentative, and offer it free to newspapers that would use it, and to encourage them in every way to do so. It is stated that at St. Louis "the St. Louis papers averaged twenty-eight columns a day for three years and five months" and that "each of the two morning papers of St. Louis printed during three years and five months from organization of Exposition to close an average of five and a half columns daily.

Says "The Universal Exposition of 1904," at page 76: "The space given by the press of the country to information about the World's Fair was almost beyond belief. In the month of April, preceding the opening of the Exposition, a partial record kept through several clipping agencies, showed 231,120 inches, or 1,848,,960 lines of space given by daily and weekly newspapers outside of St. Louis. This was at the rate of 431,424 words daily. In May the average was over 451,000 words daily and from that time until the closing weeks the attention given to the World's Fair by the press of this and other countries increased."

A Suggestion to the Railroads.

The service of the railroads ought also to be enlisted. These railroads stand to gain more than any other agency from the Exposition if it proves a success. The passenger traffic of the steam carriers has diminished heavily in recent years because of the competition of the automobile and the motor bus. In 1926 they will have the heaviest passenger traffic in their history if the work is rescued from its present fiasco and the Exposition proves worthy of the occasion. The roads in the Middle Atlantic States would, of course, benefit most, but all the roads would benefit in some degree—those to the North, the East, the West, the Northwest, and the Southwest, and even the transcontinental and Pacific roads. They will therefore be justified in helping in a financial way and they can also be made serviceable in spreading knowledge regarding the prospective Exposition. This knowledge should come to the public long in advance of the actual opening of the Exposition gates. Every railroad might well be asked to carry placards in all its cars reading somewhat like this: "In Planning Your 1926 Vacations or Business Trips Do Not Overlook the Philadelphia World Exposition. It is to be the Grandest of All Time." Placards of that kind meeting the eye everywhere would be more effective than anything else in making the entire population familiar with the coming event.

Architectural Splendors.

All this, of course, presupposes that the people of Philadelphia will keep the faith and meet all the requirements of what an American World Exposition should be. Observers will note that these United States International Expositions fall into ten-year periods, 1904-1915-1926. As the last decade is the most marvelous of all in scientific discovery and industrial achievement Philadelphia should easily surpass all its predecessors. As the eye notes the usual Exhibit Palaces that belong to an International Exposition, Education, Art, Liberal Arts, Varied Industries, Manufactures, Machinery, Electricity, Transportation, Agriculture, Horticulture, Forestry, Mines and Metallurgy, not only is material progress envisioned, but there dawns an architectural display that is a dream of beauty. A magic city rises, glows, fades, and is gone. But there remains a memory of man at his best, of artistic splendor at its highest. And the world is better for its having lived. To one who was privileged to stand on one of the hills of San Francisco and look down on the serried domes and facades of the exhibit palaces of that Exposition, grouped around open courts, golden in the sunlight or gleaming white in the electric floodlight at night, it was an experience never to be forgotten, edifying, uplifting, inspiring. Even, to-day, in little San Diego, where the buildings of Colonel Collier's own Exposition are still standing in Balboa Park, set in tropical surroundings, the beauty thrills the soul. Some day, some day, perhaps at the end of another decade, a city that has never had an International Exposition, for all its notable smaller ones, our own New York, may stage a permanent one in permanent buildings, where the peoples may annually gather to present to each other their progress in industry, art and science.

But in this instance Philadelphia, and Philadelphia alone, has the custody and the trusteeship of what was intended to be an international Exposition of the widest scope and the broadest design. The undertaking was not thrust upon it, but was assigned to its care because it solicited it and because the "cradle of Liberty" is the natural location for the celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the promulgation of the Declaration of Independence. The City cannot afford to prove recreant to its duty and thereby bring shame and disgrace upon itself and upon the whole country, for it must be remembered, as already pointed out, that the nation, relying implicitly upon the professions and good faith of the citizens of Philadelphia for carrying through the enterprise according to its original design, has put its own honor at stake by inviting all the countries of the earth to participate. Something must be done, and be done immediately, by the people of Philadelphia to retrieve the impending disaster. The entire population must bestir itself—bankers, financiers, merchants, railroad men, trade associations and labor unions—in the endeavor to regain the confidence of the rest of the world and avert everlasting obloquy. Not a moment must be lost in meeting the requirements called for by a true World exposition of international scope and character. These requirements are not met by a program limited to two main buildings, together with a stadium "and a huge auditorium which is yet to be constructed." We repeat that the City cannot afford to backslide. Its honor, its self-respect and its good repute are at stake. For this occasion it has the character and the dignity of the entire nation in its keeping, and it cannot bring discredit upon itself without at the same time bringing discredit upon the rest of the country.

The Financial Situation.

The speculative furore on the Stock Exchange continues with unabated vigor and further new high records for the year have been established the present week in a long line of share properties. The new gains have not been small, either. In fact, many of them have been of prodigious proportions and combined with previous similar advances they constitute a record of rising prices which has had few if any parallels in the past—a record, too, which is calculated to make persons of conservative temper pause.

Unquestionably trade and financial conditions are unusually favorable, and if it were not for the phenomenal extent of the antecedent rise this would afford a genuine basis for a higher level of values and for confidence in the future of these values. Trade activity has latterly sensibly increased in nearly all directions. The income statement submitted the present week by the United States Steel Corporation for the September quarter was a surprise by reason of the extremely favorable showing made. The motor industry is displaying a degree of activity wholly unlooked for at this season of the year. The farmers are finding themselves in better shape than at any time since the close of the war. Their purchasing and consuming capacity has as a consequence greatly increased, and this is being reflected in all directions. The railroads, too, are in better condition than at any time for a long period of years. They have for one thing regained control of their expenses. Except in the case of the anthracite carriers, which are suffering because of the strike of the coal miners, and those Southwestern roads that serve that portion of Texas where the crop yields were so seriously curtailed through long continued drought, returns of earnings, both gross and net, are extremely encouraging. But all this furnishes no warrant for a rampant and uncontrolled speculation such as the country has been witnessing during the last eighteen months. The situation is such as to call for extreme caution and the exercise of the utmost discrimination in making purchases.

Of course the fuel for the speculation is found in the abandon with which bank credit is being supplied, in no inconsiderable part because of the operation of the Federal Reserve banks. Every new weekly return of the Federal Reserve banks furnishes additional evidence to that effect. The member banks are borrowing more in the ordinary way through rediscounting, but in addition the Federal Reserve banks are enlarging credit accommodation through their open market operations. The volume of discounts for the twelve banks combined now stands at $589,994,000, against only $222,565,000 twelve months ago. In their open market operations the Reserve banks have reduced their holdings of Government securities, but on the other hand they have taken on a greatly increased load of acceptances, the holdings of which now stand at $328,717,000, against only $215,404,000 a year ago. The result is that the total of their earning assets is now up to $1,250,087,000, against but $1,024,176,000. If to this we add the fact that the reporting member banks themselves are lending $1,036,000,000 more than a year ago and that $789,000,000 of this represents sums loaned on stock and bond collateral, and that if we could have returns for all the banks these amounts would probably be doubled, nothing more is needed to explain what keeps Stock Exchange speculation alive in its present form.

The distinctive feature of the Government cotton crop report, issued by the Department of Agriculture at Washington on Monday of this week, setting forth the Oct. 18 condition of this year's crop, was the further increase of 12.7 pounds in the estimated average yield of cotton per acre, which is now placed at 164.7 pounds, as against 152 pounds on Oct. 1 (though this last has now been revised to 159.7 pounds) and 141.5 pounds on Sept. 1. The estimate of area abandoned since June 25 of this year is also given, and this is placed at 4.8%. In 1924, from June 25 to the close of the cotton season, the estimated abandonment of acreage was 3.0%, and for 1923 it was 4.1%. The abandonment in Texas for this year is placed at 9%. and for the other large cotton growing States it ranges from 1% to 2.5%, Arkansas and South Carolina showing a ratio of 2.5%, Oklahoma, North Carolina and Georgia 2%, and the Gulf States only 1% to 1.7%. For New Mexico, where the production of cotton is very small, the abandonment this year is 27%. In view of some of the earlier reports regarding conditions in the cotton belt this year, it is rather surprising that the abandonment of acreage in important sections was not higher than the estimates now given, although recent advices have shown that drought-stricken plants were revived to an unexpected extent and that considerable acreage in a large portion of the belt previously given up is being picked.

The revised estimate of area to be picked is now placed at 44,231,000 acres, and on this basis, allowing for a yield of 164.7 pounds of cotton per acre, the production this year is placed at 15,226,000 bales, which is 467,000 bales in excess of the estimate made on the Oct. 1 condition. Of course, the effect of this further addition to the size of the crop was a big slump in the price of the staple on the Cotton Exchanges. For 1924 the area harvested was 42,641,000 acres, the yield per acre 157.4 pounds and the final production 13,627,936 bales. All of the leading cotton States excepting North Carolina, show a much larger yield in the latest estimate, than in the one preceding, the increase for Texas being 175,000 bales. Other States reporting a gain include Arkansas and Georgia, while practically all cotton States, with the exception of Texas, show a large increase over the production of last year. The larger yield per acre for a number of the cotton States reflected in the report for Oct. 1, is not only confirmed, but further advanced in the latest estimate, notably for Arkansas and Mississippi, the gain for those two States, in the report issued this week over the revised Oct. 1 estimate, being 10 pounds, while for Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana there is an increase of seven pounds for each State. For Texas the gain is five pounds, making for the latter 117 pounds, against 112 pounds on Oct. 1 and 138 pounds, the final estimate of yield for that State last year. The Texas crop is now put at 4,050,000 bales, as against 3,875,000 bales on Oct. 1 and a final production for that State last year of 4,951,000 bales.

Omitting Texas, the latest estimate puts the total yield for all other States at 11,176,000 bales, which contrasts with 8,677,000 bales for these same States in 1924, an increase of 2,499,000 bales, or nearly 28%. According to the latest figures, the cotton crop of 1925 of 15,226,000 bales, will be the third largest grown, it comparing with a yield of 15,693,000 bales in 1911 and 16,135,000 bales in 1914. The Department in its report of Monday last points out that the indicated production of Oct. 18 last year was 7% below the final ginning. Should that apply to 1925, the final ginnings this year will be 16,290,000 bales. Ginnings to Oct. 18 this year break all previous records at 9,519,784 bales. This contrasts with 7,165,981 bales to the same date in 1924, while for 1914, at approximately the same date, ginnings amounted to 7,619,747 bales. It is noteworthy that for some of the cotton States the ginnings this year to date are well up to the latest estimate of total yield, notably for Georgia, where the production is now placed at 1,120,000 bales and ginnings to Oct.18 1,051,285 bales.

There were three disturbing and even threatening situations in Europe at the beginning of the week. It was not easy to determine which ranked first in this respect. Briefly they were the invasion of Bulgarian territory by the Greeks. This resulted in the calling of a meeting of the Council of the League of Nations in Paris for last Monday. Then there was the trouble encountered by Joseph Caillaux, Finance Minister of France, with respect to the finances of his country. That threatened to cause his overthrow at a meeting of the Cabinet, also held on Monday. Thirdly, the Nationalists in the German Cabinet opposed the Locarno treaties and three of them resigned last Sunday. At a meeting the next day the Cabinet, of which Chancellor Luther is the head, decided to remain in power, notwithstanding the resignation of three Ministers. It is not amiss to suggest that last Monday, Oct. 26, was an eventful day in Europe. Advices from both Athens and Sofia yesterday morning indicated that the Greek troops actually were out of Bulgarian territory and that representatives of the two Powers had signed a protocol that "all hostilities must immediately cease."

At the close of last week the situation between Greek and Bulgaria had become so acute that, as briefly noted in the "Chronicle" of Oct. 24, the League of Nations decided to act at once. This decision followed an application by Bulgaria for League intervention. Under date of Oct. 23 the Paris correspondent of the New York "Times" cabled that "Foreign Secretary Briand, Acting President of the League Council, called a meeting of the Council for Monday afternoon in Paris. At the same time he sent telegrams to both Athens and Sofia reminding Greece and Bulgaria of their obligations under Article XII of the Covenant of the League, summoned both to cease all military movements and to send delegates to Monday's Council meeting. Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Minister, telephoned M. Briand this afternoon he would attend the Council meeting." According to a special cable dispatch from Geneva to the "Times" that evening, "the Bulgarian note asking League intervention charges Greek aggression and invasion of Bulgarian territory and demands League action under Articles X and XI of the Covenant, the first of which guarantees the territory of members of the League and the second of which calls for League action in the event any member considers a situation exists which may lead to war."

As to the extent of the alleged damage resulting from the Greek invasion up to that time the Associated Press correspondent at Sofia said, also under date of Oct. 23, that "twenty-five killed, 15,000 homeless and 240 square milles of Bulgarian territory occupied by the Greeks. This is the consequence of the last two days' operations, amounting to regular warfare with the old Macedonian province as the battlefield, as given out in official quarters to-night." He added that "thus far the killed are said to be about evenly divided between soldiers and civilians, but, according to official information, panic-stricken inhabitants of the invaded region are fleeing before the Greeks without food and in utmost misery, and further casualties among these people are expected within the next few days."

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington last evening, "estimates placing the property damage during the French bombardment of Damascus at $10,000,000 and the loss of life at 1,000 persons have reached Washington, but there have been no official reports of Americans or other foreigners among the killed or injured. Detailed information is still awaited as to the damage done American property, and it is expected formal claims will be presented in Paris when complete data are at hand."

The situation looked better, even a week ago to-day. Word came from Paris that evening that "both Greece and Bulgaria have accepted intervention by the League of Nations in the dispute between them which for 48 hours threatened a Balkan war. The belief in the French capital is that the matter will be arranged amicably." It was added that "Athens notified M. Briand to-day that it had given instructions to Greek troops to halt their advance, and it is likely the first thing the League Council will do at its meeting on Monday will be a move to get the Greeks to withdraw behind their frontier, and, if it is true that Bulgarians are still on Greek territory, to get them back home. M. Carapanos, Greek Minister at Paris, has been designated to represent his country at Monday's meeting and the Bulgarian Ministers in Paris and London will be present."

Commenting on the situation in advance of the League Council meeting last Monday, the Paris representative of the Associated Press said in a cable message on Oct. 25: "An overwhelming peace impetus having been injected into Europe generally by the Locarno security agreements, the Council of the League of Nations which meets in Paris at 5 o'clock to-morrow afternoon in special session is determined, as League leaders said to-night, 'to stand no nonsense from the Balkan States.' Furthermore, the Council intends to prevent new military conflicts from wrecking Europe's new regime of co-operation. Hope that the Council can regulate the Greek-Bulgarian outbreak is to be found in the fact that both Bulgaria and Greece have expressed their willingness of abiding by the Council's decision, and that Greece in a formal note to the League of Nations to-day virtually agreed to withdraw her troops from behind the frontier provided Bulgaria does the same. Should both parties to the dispute retire to their respective frontiers, the problem from a League standpoint becomes different, for Bulgaria appealed to the League on the ground that Greece had invaded her territory. If mutual invasion ceases to exist, either Bulgaria or Greece must ask the Council to mediate on the causes of the conflict and bring in a solution calculated to prevent fresh outbreaks."

In direct contrast to the foregoing observations, the Associated Press representative in Paris cabled the same evening that "fighting continued on the Bulgarian front to-day at the very moment that members of the League of Nations Council were hastening to Paris for an extraordinary meeting calculated to extinguish the Balkan flame. From Sofia came word that two Bulgar towns, hitherto untouched—Pipernitza and Petrovo—had during the day been subjected to a bombardment by Greek troops. On the other hand, the aggression was not confined to the Greeks, if all reports are to be believed. An official Greek statement issued at Athens declared that the Bulgars had occupied Greek territory in the neighborhood of Demirkawour, refusing to retire. Admiral Hadjikiriakos, acting Foreign Minister, in a telegram to the Secretariat of the League, promised that the Greek forces would retire 'when the last Bulgarian soldier is withdrawn from Greek soil.'"

Very little seems to have been accomplished at the first meeting of the League of Nations Council last Monday afternoon. According to a Paris dispatch from the Associated Press, "the first sitting of the League of Nations Council, called to consider the Greco-Bulgarian crisis, was extremely brief. The members assembled at 6 p. m. and adjourned 35 minutes later." As to conditions at the scene of the trouble it was stated that "hostilities still are in progress between the Greeks and Bulgarians along the Macedonian frontier. An Athens correspondent, however, reports the Greeks and Bulgarians, acting at the instance of Rumania, will withdraw their troops behind their respective frontiers."

Notwithstanding the brevity of its session, it developed later that the Council acted promptly and definitely. The Paris representative of the New York "Times" cabled that evening that "the Council of the League of Nations in extraordinary session here to-day took a firm grip on the Greek-Bulgarian affair. In a virtual ultimatum it gave the disputing Governments 24 hours within which to report to the Council that they had given unconditional orders for the withdrawal of their troops behind the frontier and 60 hours within which to report withdrawal of the troops and cessation of hostilities." He added that "to these orders was added a solemn warning of the Acting President of the Council that withdrawal of the troops was not sufficient, but that all hostile acts must cease, and no musket or cannon fire be exchanged on either side. The Governments of Great Britain, France and Italy will send officers into the disputed area to see that the terms are carried out." Continuing, the "Times" representative declared that "never has there been a more impressive meeting of the League Council. The veteran statesman Briand, whose sudden illness earlier in the afternoon had caused a postponement of the session until 6 o'clock this evening, presided, and his grim face, his measured tones and carefully weighed words reflected the gravity of the occasion. The faces of all the ten statesmen comprising the Council showed their determination not to permit selfish interests or arrogance of the conflicting parties to endanger the peace of Europe and wreck the new peace so recently built up at Locarno."

The Associated Press correspondent in the French capital called attention to the fact that "in the same room where Woodrow Wilson in the closing days of the peace conference proudly read out the articles of the League of Nations Covenant and M. Clemenceau, as President, in staccato tones declared them adopted, the Council of the League to-night delivered what is virtually an ultimatum to Greece and Bulgaria that they must unconditionally and within 24 hours order all their troops to retire behind their respective frontiers. It is the first time since the birth of the League that the Council has gone so far. Its action constitutes the supreme test of the League's power to break up war. It was carried out in a tense atmosphere in the crowded Clock Hall of the Foreign Office."

The very next day, Oct. 27, word came from Athens through an Associated Press dispatch that "the Greek Government to-day ordered the prompt evacuation of Bulgarian territory by its forces." It was added that "the movement will be effected as soon as the Greek frontier guards have been restored to their former posts." Announcement was made in Paris the next day (Oct. 28) that Bulgaria also had notified the League Council that orders had been given to withdraw its troops behind its own frontier. Attention was called in a Paris dispatch to the fact that "this section of the Council's demands expired at 6 p. m. to-night, and 48 hours more is left for the opposing units to retire to their own territory." It was added that "to-night the Council decided unofficially to send a commission to the disputed area to investigate the causes of the outbreak."

The Paris representative of the New York "Evening Post" cabled on Oct. 27 that "it is stated around the Quai d'Orsay to-day that the celerity with which the League of Nations handled the Greco-Bulgarian clash would go a long way toward bringing the United States into the League." He very sensibly observed, "but the action of Greece in attacking Bulgaria and then stopping when told to by the League is anything but an argument why the United States should join the League when all the facts leading up to the border flash in the pan are considered. It points in the other direction, being an excellent reason why the United States should steer clear of European entanglements."

Announcement was made in a special cable message to the New York "Times" Tuesday evening from its Paris correspondent that "the League Council decided late this afternoon at a tea given by M. Briand to the Council members, that the League would follow up the Greek-Bulgarian incident and formulate a sort of Locarno agreement for the Balkans. With the war clouds brushed from the skies of Western and Central Europe, the Powers are determined to take every possible measure to prevent a conflict which might easily spread to other countries from breaking out in the Balkans." It was suggested also that "at the moment the Council must occupy itself with the important task of bringing the conflict of the two countries to an end and meting out justice to the injured party. At the Council meeting in December or March, France or Britain will officially ask the Council to take the necessary steps to insure permanent peace in Southeastern Europe. Probably a neutral zone between countries troubled by border incidents, arbitration and conciliation commissions and a general guarantee of the treaties by the League of Nations will be proposed."

In direct opposition to the official statements from both the Greek and Bulgarian Governments that their respective troops had been ordered to withdraw "behind their own frontiers," word came from Sofia in an Associated Press dispatch on the evening of Oct. 28 that, "despite the warnings of the League of Nations Council, Greek troops at daybreak continued to occupy Bulgarian territory and there were no signs they intended to withdraw." It was added that "Bulgarian officials, in making this announcement, said a number of villages were bombarded this morning." It was claimed, likewise, in an Associated Press cable message from Athens the same evening that "the Greeks were attacked by Bulgarian forces this morning near Ramna, it is officially stated. Ramna is ten miles west of Demirhissar and about five miles south of the border on Greek territory." Later Paris dispatches the same evening showed that the statements of the Greek and Bulgarian official representatives to the League authorities in Paris relative to the exact situation at the scene of military action were directly contradictory. The Grecian representatives were still claiming that the evacuation of Bulgarian territory by their troops had been completed. The New York "Times" representative in Paris said that "the Bulgarian representative, M. Marfoff, on the other hand, after reiterating that no Bulgars were on Greek territory and stating that his Government nevertheless issued orders for the retirement of any troops which might be in Greek territory, declared that advices from Sofia at 1 o'clock yesterday indicated that the Greeks were still on Bulgarian soil and that Greek artillery only that morning fired in the direction of Petrovo. By virtue of the orders given by the League Council, he said, officers had met at Demir Kapou to settle the question of Post 1. This had nothing to do, however, with the Rumanian suggestions, as the Bulgarian Government, he declared, while thanking the Rumanian Government for its good offices, had informed it that it could not deal directly with Greece, as the matter was in the hands of the League Council." The correspondent further said that, "while the affair is still greatly tangled and further League action is held up till to-morrow, it is evident that Greek intransigeance has broken and that the Council will be able to settle the whole affair according to the spirit and terms of the Covenant of the League of Nations."

The situation looked better Thursday evening. In an Associated Press dispatch from Paris it was stated that "the hostilities along the Greco-Bulgarian frontier have ceased and the troops of the two nations have withdrawn behind their respective boundary lines, making it possible for the League of Nations Council to proceed with a settlement of the dispute." According to the dispatch also, "this announcement was made in a report drawn up by the British Foreign Secretary, Austen Chamberlain, which was read and approved at a session of the Council convened shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon." This announcement was followed by an Associated Press dispatch from Athens under date of Oct. 29 stating that "it is officially announced that the Greek troops have evacuated Bulgarian territory." It was added that "the reported attack by the Bulgarians on the Greeks near Ramna on Wednesday morning, in consequence of which the Greeks were ordered to cease their withdrawal from Bulgarian territory, is now represented to have been an unimportant incident without casualties." From Sofia came word that "the Allied military attaches with Bulgarian and Greek officers signed a protocol yesterday on the bridge over the Struma. The chief points were that all hostilities must immediately cease; the Greeks must evacuate the occupied territory by 10 o'clock this morning in order to give the Bulgarian Government an opportunity to estimate the damage done in the occupied territory. Beginning at 1 p. m. to-morrow the Bulgarians will advance to their original frontier line. All firing has ceased and it would appear the conflict stands every chance of coming to an end. It is reported the Greek evacuation is taking place without incident."

The Damascus affair has been more disturbing, and likewise more embarrassing to ardent League of Nations adherents, than the trouble between Greece and Bulgaria. With the recall of General Sarrail virtually decided upon and the appointment of a "high-placed" civilian as his successor, the French Government hopes that the worst of this incident is over. It was stated in the earliest dispatches that the National Political Reform League, "an Arab organization, had reported that Damascus is in ruins as a result of a 50-hour bombardment by the French, with the loss of the lives of 25,000 men, women and children in the ashes." The British Foreign Office in London was said to have refused "to affirm or deny this story." In dispatches received in London, the substance of which was cabled to the New York "Herald Tribune" by its representative in the British capital, the affair was outlined as follows: "Fuller information reaching here shows that the Damascus crisis was horrible enough. It started by the French attaching the bodies of bandits to camels and parading them through the city. The spectacle of these bodies rocking to the rhythm of the camels' movements infuriated the natives. On the night of Oct. 17 they murdered and mutilated French soldiers in one of the poorer quarters of Damascus, besides massacring a number of Circassian auxiliaries of the French. Looting by brigands broke out in Damascus and alarmed the French, who thought it portended a general revolutionary uprising. At noon on Oct. 18 the French sent tanks through the bazaars at a terrific speed, firing to the right and left. The natives erected barriers to oppose them and many of the members of the tank crews were fired at from balconies and killed. That evening the French started shelling the old city with blank shells, but at 10 o'clock the following morning they started bombing this quarter with high explosives and kept it up for 24 hours. Airplanes flew overhead dropping bombs, while machine guns on the planes sputtered unceasingly. At noon on Oct. 20 the firing ceased, but only when the Arabs had agreed to pay an indemnity of £100,000." The London correspondent of the New York "Times" said that "French versions of the 48 hours' bombardment of Damascus are given in dispatches from Jerusalem published in this morning's papers. According to these dispatches, French representatives at Jerusalem confirm that the French used machine guns, artillery, airplanes and tanks in quelling the Damascus rising, but declare the damage done to the city was due to vandalism of the rebels and not to the troops. The French were compelled to erect barricades of barbed wire in order to localize the fighting."

In an Associated Press dispatch from Paris Wednesday evening it was stated that "the Syrian situation has assumed such a serious aspect that President Doumergue and M. Painleve, in their conference of an hour this afternoon, diverted fully half the time from consideration of the Ministerial crisis to discussion of the recent events in Damascus and its vicinity. This is the information imparted by the semi-official Havas Agency." According to the dispatch, also, "it is reported that General Sarrail, the French High Commissioner, has asked that 15,000 more French troops be sent to Syria to reinforce the garrison." The correspondent likewise claimed that "there is considerable dissatisfaction in France concerning the manner in which General Sarrail has handled the situation. Strong pressure is being brought to bear on the Government to compel his recall."

Word came from Washington Oct. 28 that "Americans in Damascus have been advised by the Consulate there to take refuge in Beirut until the situation in Damascus is thoroughly cleared up. The State Department, through the Consulate at Beirut, is making every effort to care for American refugees. Two American destroyers, ordered from Gibraltar, have arrived at Alexandria. So far no damage to American owned property has been reported to Washington."

Apparently the new French Cabinet will be called upon to wrestle, not only with the political and financial situations, but also with this outbreak in Damascus and the seemingly undiplomatic, if not incompetent, manner in which it was handled by General Sarrail. According to Paris dispatches yesterday morning, General Sarrail is likely to be recalled soon. The Paris representative of the New York "Times" cabled that "the solution of the Syrian difficulty which is being currently credited to the Government to-night is that the Socialist Deputy Paul Boncour, who has been an active participant in League of Nations matters, will be sent to Syria as Civil Governor. General Sarrail's recall would be thus cloaked as that decision of the French Government to place a civilian instead of a soldier as administrator of the League's mandate. Premier Painleve this evening refused to confirm or deny the rumor that he was looking for a successor to the Governorship of Syria. Before the Chamber meets on Tuesday he will, however, have to give some satisfaction to the Right on this matter or will be met by their solid vote against his new Ministry."

Once again France has been without a Cabinet. The Ministry headed by Paul Painleve as Premier tendered its resignation to President Doumergue at 2.15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 27. It had been formed on "April 16 to succeed that of Edouard Herriot, which also went down through the refusal of Parliament to accept its financial policy." The Paris representative of the Associated Press cabled the following account of the incident: "A French Cabinet, for the second time within six months, has been wrecked on the rocks of finance. Premier Painleve waited on President Doumergue at the Elysee Palace this afternoon and handed him the collective and unanimous resignation of the Ministry. The immediate cause of the wreck was Finance Minister Caillaux's plan for restoration of the country's finances. His plan rejected the capital levy which the parties of the Left, comprising the majority in the Chamber of Deputies, are committed to introduce in Parliament.' The Cabinet itself was divided on the question, Premier Painleve—essentially a man of the Left—favoring such a levy, while M. Caillaux opposed it. Aware that he would be overthrown by his own friends in an open Chamber fight, the Premier apparently resolved to get rid of the elements in his Cabinet objectionable to the Left groups and presented the collective resignation of the Cabinet to the President at 2.15 o'clock this afternoon." Continuing he said: "M. Caillaux steadfastly refused to save the life of the Cabinet by 'agreeing to be a scapegoat, offered to the Left groups.' M. Caillaux argued that the other Cabinet members were jointly responsible with him. They had watched the elaboration of his plan and had supported him until now, and they must sink or swim together. That Caillaux is still a power to be reckoned with was shown when he was summoned by President Doumergue immediately after the departure of Premier Painleve from his resignation visit. It was the first time in the history of the Third Republic that a member of a fallen Ministry other than the Premier had ever been consulted by the President of the Republic before the latter conferred with the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber."

In a dispatch Tuesday evening the Paris representative of the New York "Times" said: "Subsequently it was stated that President Doumergue would certainly ask M. Painleve to-morrow to re-form his Government. M. Herriot, Senator Henry Berenger and Louis Malvy were among those who assured the President that M. Painleve was the only man who in the present circumstances could form a Cabinet. Deputy Cazals, President of the Radical Socialist group in the Chamber, was of the same opinion."

Definite announcement was made in Paris on Oct. 28 that "Premier Painleve informed President Doumergue this evening that he would form another Cabinet." It was stated also that "M. Painleve's hesitancy in accepting the invitation extended to-day was due to a resolution adopted this afternoon by a general meeting of the Left parties in which the capital levy, although not mentioned as such, was made an essential condition of their support for a new Cabinet. M. Painleve also hesitated about accepting the mandate because the Radicals insist several members of the former Herriot Ministry be included in the new Government."

After working all night M. Painleve presented his reconstructed Cabinet to President Doumergue on Thursday, by whom it was accepted promptly. In addition to resuming his duties as Premier, M. Painleve took over those of the Minister of Finance. Aristide Briand continues as Foreign Minister. Announcement was made that "the Cabinet also contains a new portfolio, that of Minister of Budget, which will be filled by Georges Bonnet, former Under-Secretary of State to the President of the Council."

The portfolio of Commerce was declined by both Charles Chaumet and Louis Loucheur. M. Painleve announced M. Chaumet will be named Governor of the Bank of France.

Commenting on the new Cabinet, the Paris correspondent of the Associated Press said: "The new Cabinet is received generally with suspended judgment, everybody apparently waiting to see what Painleve is able to do as Finance Minister, which portfolio he has taken in addition to the Premiership. The combination as it stands is regarded as containing no new element of strength, and whether the departure of Finance Minister Caillaux proves an element of weakness is what political circles and the general public are waiting for. The Senate and Chamber of Deputies, which had been called to meet to-day, held only perfunctory sessions, listening to eulogies of the members who have died since the last sitting and then adjourning until next Tuesday to hear the declaration of the new Ministry."

In a cable message to his newspaper the same afternoon, Oct. 29, the Paris correspondent of "The Sun" said: "A new Government has been formed along the anticipated lines, with Painleve taking Caillaux's place as Finance Minister and a few other changes, obviously due to a desire to give Herriot's followers a share in the Ministerial swag. The seventieth Ministry of the Third Republic is likely to have a short but by no means merry life. Its immediate business is to meet the Treasury difficulties. The present convention with the Bank of France gives the Government a margin of 1,650,000,000 francs. Considerable payments will have to be made Oct. 31, and already Treasury bonds to the value of 3,600,000,000 francs have been presented for payment. As it is impossible to put through any scheme of capital levy in time to meet this situation, and as the incoming taxes cannot possibly fill the gap, the new Government is faced with an old dilemma, and must either proclaim a moratorium or have recourse to some kind of inflation, which will only be acceptable under the most stringent guarantees."

Coming as it did the very next day after the formation and acceptance of the new French Cabinet, the following Associated Press dispatch from Washington last evening may be regarded as specially significant: "It is learned on high authority that Senator Victor Henry Berenger will be appointed soon to succeed Emile Daeschner as French Ambassador to the United States. The decision of the Government to change Ambassadors in Washington is closely related to the American debt funding negotiations. Foreign Minister Briand has impressed upon Premier Painleve and others of his colleagues in the Cabinet that another effort should be made to settle the debt. Senator Berenger is regarded as the best man available to act for a debt settlement. His financial authority in France, his intimate acquaintance with the subject and the ideas he derived from his recent experiences in Washington as a member of the Caillaux debt mission have persuaded the Government that, if something more is to be done, he is the man to do it. There is a disposition in some quarters to criticize Ambassador Daeschner for his dispatches to the Foreign Office prior to the departure of the French mission for the United States, it being declared that these advices left M. Caillaux and his party under misapprehension regarding the real attitude of the American Debt Funding Commission."

The trouble in the Cabinet over the French financial situation appears to have come to a head first at a meeting of that body on Oct. 23. Finance Minister Caillaux was reported to have been censured by other members for not having worked out and submitted a definite plan for the rehabilitation of the country's finances. Senator de Monzie, Minister of Public Instruction, was said to have "put the issue to M. Caillaux squarely," declaring, "we are only a week from the opening of Parliament. It is about time to show something definite." What purported to have occurred was further reported as follows by the Paris correspondent of the New York "Times" in a dispatch on the evening of Oct. 23: "M. Caillaux made a sharp rejoinder, but most of the members of the Cabinet supported M. de Monzie's view, and in a heated discussion which ensued M. Caillaux finally threw up his hands, exclaiming: 'No matter what I propose now as a solution, none of it will be accepted,' Several Ministers leaped to their feet in response to this declaration and asked M. Caillaux whether, in the face of such an admission by him, it would not be advisable for him and the rest of the Cabinet to resign. M. Caillaux, however, insisted that he could not quit the Cabinet except following a vote in Parliament. 'I will quit when you do,' he said, addressing himself to Premier Painleve. Several Ministers continued to argue in favor of a collective resignation by the Cabinet in order to spare M. Painleve the pain of a sure defeat in the Chamber, but the Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Briand, swung the decision to the contrary when he pointed out the necessity of getting Parliament to adopt the Locarno accords before the Government falls." The correspondent also stated that "whatever financial plans M. Caillaux may have proposed, they did not get the approval of the Cabinet to-day, and after a long session the Ministers adjourned to meet again on Monday."

The attitude of the French Premier and the position that apparently he was setting up for himself were outlined in a special cable dispatch to the New York "Times" on Oct. 25, in part as follows: "In such terms as seem likely to make his continuance as Minister of Finance all but impossible in a Government which depends for a majority on the Radical and Socialist parties pledged to a capital levy, Joseph Caillaux at Chateau du Loire laid down to-day his financial policy. He refused absolutely to have anything to do with proposals for the reduction of interest rates on Government rentes or for a levy on capital in any form. But he did so on grounds which carried the offensive into the enemy's camp. Radicals and Socialists were risking, he said, creation of a new feudalism. The big financial interests were already prepared to reap the benefit of a capital levy. They were ready to advance money to farmers on land mortgages with which to pay their contribution for the salvation of the State and so defeat the Socialists' aim and increase the power of capitalism. His warning was perhaps only the beginning of revelations which may alter the whole course of the present struggle, but also it may be useless. So long as he held office he declared he would do his best to bar the road of progress to these feudal lords who sought to dominate the democracy. But he also is prepared for retirement and for a new martyrdom. The situation within the Cabinet prevented him from dealing in detail with his own plans for betterment of the fiscal situation. Ruling out, however, conversion of rentes and the capital levy there was left 'progressive taxation to the full capacity of the country, especially on large fortunes, and economy.' By these orthodox means, he declared, the country could be saved and a sinking fund provided for absorption of its crushing debt. Time, patience and confidence were what were needed."

The action said to have been taken by the Government to rally the franc was outlined in part as follows by the Paris representative of the Associated Press in a dispatch, also on Oct. 26: "The drop in the franc was brought to a sharp halt to-day by Government intervention in the market and a grave warning to speculators in the form of criminal proceedings opened by the Minister of Justice against unnamed parties for illicit exportation of capital. Finance Minister Caillaux allowed the franc to reach 25 to the dollar before deciding to make use of the Morgan loan, having, according to information around the Bourse, caught some French bankers largely short of francs on foreign exchanges, principally Amsterdam. Finance Minister Caillaux, it is said on the Bourse, is killing two birds with one stone, putting the speculators in a bad position and at the same time gaining a point against the political-financial opposition directed at him by certain important banks. News of the criminal proceedings against speculators selling francs abroad spread swiftly around the Bourse. At the same time certain banks began offering pounds and dollars freely, bringing an immediate reaction, which was accentuated throughout the session."

Dealing with pretty much the same matters, the Paris correspondent of "The Sun" said in a cable message on the evennig of Oct. 26: "Caillaux has put up a most energetic fight against his enemies both within and without the Ministry. He has constantly declared that his policies have aroused the enmity of a big Paris banker who is a heavy contributor to radical party funds. Recently he uttered a thinly veiled threat of inquiry into exchange transactions of some of his bitterest critics. At the Cabinet meeting to-day Briand announced that information from abroad showed that certain Frenchmen have been selling the franc heavily. Caillaux announced that he had opened an inquiry into all recent exchange dealings, an inquiry which is supported completely by the Minister of Justice, with a view to prosecution."

As noted in earlier paragraphs, the Painleve Ministry fell on Oct. 27. After working all night the former Premier presented the personnel of a reconstructed Cabinet to President Doumergue on Oct. 29. The Premier has assumed also the duties of Minister of Finance. Aristide Briand continues as Foreign Minister. It is doubted in Paris that this Cabinet will be able to stand for more than a few weeks.

The trouble in the German Cabinet over the Locarno treaties evidently began on the evening of Oct. 23 by "the conditional rejection of the Locarno treaties on the part of the Nationalists' Federal Executive Body." According to a special wireless message to the New York "Times" from Berlin on Oct. 24, "Chancellor Luther told the Nationalists plainly that if they persisted in turning down treaties forthwith before the logical consequences of Locarno have time to make themselves felt in the occupied territory, he will inaugurate a Cabinet crisis himself without their help." The correspondent suggested also that "the effect of such a development upon President von Hindenburg's position alone must give them pause. The aged Field Marshal is understood to be deeply depressed at the Nationalists' obstructionism and the dire possibilities arising therefrom. He himself stands solidly with Dr. Luther and Dr. Stresemann. Thus, if the action of the Nationalists, chief of the Government parties, should precipitate a Ministerial crisis and a Reichstag election that action would be directed against President von Hindenburg as well as against his Ministers." He further observed that "the Nationalists, by whom he was nominated for the Presidency, would have to go before the voters on a platform opposing the first important undertaking in foreign affairs attempted under his administration and with his approval. Obviously this would be damaging, both to von Hindenburg and his erstwhile supporters, not to speak of the nation at large." Continuing, he said: "'How seriously the President regards the situation is evidenced by the cancellation of his long-planned trip to his Hanover home. To-day's Cabinet, sitting under his chairmanship, reached no decision, as, indeed, it could not, since the power of decisions is in the hands of the Nationalist caucus meeting to-morrow."

The position of the Nationalists was brought to a head by the resignation last Sunday evening of their three representatives in the Luther Cabinet. The Berlin representative of the New York "Times" cabled that evening that "the Nationalist Ministers withdrew from the German Government to-night. The Cabinet officers who handed their resignations to Chancellor Luther are Dr. Schiele, Minister of the Interior and his party's official representative in the Cabinet; Herr von Schlieben, Minister of Finance, and Herr Neuhaus, Minister of Commerce." He explained that "their retirement was the result of ratification earlier in the evening by a caucus of the Nationalist Reichstag members of a resolution condemning the 'results of the Locarno treaties at present available' as inacceptable, adopted by the party's Federal executive organism Friday night." Continuing, the correspondent observed that "thus the exponents of reactionary Junkerism after all appear to have stood by their colors. Strong pressure from provincial organizations, it is understood, forced Count Westarp and the other Parliamentary leaders to caryr out their oft-repeated threat of rejecting the security compact, despite their own reluctance to take so radical a step."

Commenting at greater length upon the situation arising from the resignation of the three Nationalist members, the Berlin representative of the Associated Press said in a dispatch on Oct. 25 that "neither a Cabinet nor a Parliamentary crisis is expected to follow the resignation of the Ministers. The situation to-night indicated that Chancellor Luther will fill the vacancies with non-partisan Ministers, then appear before the Reichstag for ratification of the security pact and arbitration treaties initialed at Locarno. A meeting of the Nationalist Party members of the Reichstag was held to-day, but it was attended by only about 50 of the 111 members. A resolution was adopted unanimously approving the decision of the three Ministers to resign. This action by a section of the Parliamentary group of the Nationalists is taken as evidence that the reactionaries are anything but united on the question of accepting or rejecting the Locarno agreements. Political circles close to Dr. Stresemann, the Foreign Minister, declare that Chancellor Luther is determined to continue the peace program inaugurated at Locarno and that a crisis has not arisen. The Chancellor believes that he is assured of the necessary vote in the Reichstag to ratify the pact and treaties, with the aid of the three middle parties and the Socialists, whose combined votes are sufficient to yield a strong majority. The suggestion that President von Hindenburg will dissolve the Reichstag and issue writs for a new election is thought to be impracticable of fulfillment, owing to the brief time limit between now and Dec. 1, the date fixed for formal signing of the documents at London."

At a meeting of the Cabinet on Oct. 26, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Berlin on Oct. 26, "Chancellor Luther's Cabinet decided to remain in office, notwithstanding the resignation yesterday of the three Nationalist Ministers, whose party has declared its dissatisfaction with the security agreements negotiated at Locarno." The Berlin representative of "The Sun" cabled that afternoon that "the Locarno pact will be signed and if the Nationalistic Reichstag stands in the way, will be laid before the people for a referendum vote. This was the attitude expressed to-day in the Reich's Chancellory, where Dr. Luther is working at high pressure this morning in an attempt to smooth out the situation which resulted from the flat decision of the radical Nationalists yesterday to disavow the Locarno proceedings and recall their party members from the Cabinet." Continuing, he said: "Developments this morning show that the Chancellor himself will not resign, as reported last night, and that Stresemann is not involved in the Nationalist edict. Both Stresemann and Luther are determined to carry out the Locarno agreement and if a Reichstag majority is withheld, Hindenburg himself can empower them to sign and fight it out later in the national body. This, however, undoubtedly would throw the country into new elections, which is the last thing desired. The Nationalists made but slight gains in yesterday's municipal elections, while the Communists gained more than 100% and as a result of this trend the Nationalists are expected to calm down perceptibly."

In a special cable dispatch to the New York "Times" the same evening it was stated definitely that "the Luther Cabinet for the present will continue to govern Germany, and the Reich's foreign policy, out of which were evolved the Locarno treaties, consequently is unchanged by the withdrawal of the Nationalists from the Government." It was added that "this decision was reached at a meeting of the rump Cabinet to-night, following President von Hindenburg's acceptance of the Nationalist Ministers' resignation this morning and numerous parleys between the Chancellor and the leaders of the parties still loyal to the Ministry." Instead of the Chancellor attempting to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of the three Nationalist members, "it was announced that Dr. Luther would take over the portfolio of Finance surrendered by Dr. von Schlieben, Defense Minister Gessler the Ministry of the Interior, vacated by Herr Schiele, and Transportation Minister Krohne the Ministry of Commerce, of which Her Neuhaus was the incumbent."

Speaking before the German trades unions at Essen on Oct. 28, Chancellor Luther discussed the Locarno treaties and Germany's part in putting them into effect. He said: "We must awake confidence in the future. If the consequences which we have a right to expect as the result of Locarno are brought to pass, then the vast majority of the German people will be for the treaties drawn up there. It remains an open question how best to enable the people to express their will—whether in the Reichstag or through a direct referendum to the electorate. A historical task lies ahead and a duty higher than that imposed by party considerations faces us. I have faith in Germany." The Berlin representative of the New York "Times" suggested that "thus the Chancellor menaced the Nationalists with a general election and at the same time severely condemned their subservience to the interests of their party."

No further changes have been recorded in official bank rates at leading European centres from 9% in Berlin; 7% in Italy; 6% in Paris; 5½% in Belgium and Denmark; 5 %in Madrid and Norway, 4½% in Sweden; 4% in London and 3½% in Holland and Switzerland. Open market discount rates in London remain firm and finished at 3¾% for short bills and at 3¾%@3 13-16% for three months' bills, the same as last week. Money on call at the British centre advanced to 3⅞%, but closed at 3⅝%, as compared with 3% a week ago. In Paris open market discounts continued at 4½% and in Switzerland at 2⅛%, the levels established the previous week.

The Bank of England continues to lose gold and in its statement for the week ending Oct. 29 reported an additional decline of £2,457,957. Moreover, note circulation increased £438,000, and accordingly, reserve was reduced £2,896,000, while the proportion of reserve to liabilities suffered another setback—falling to 23.79%, from 25.21% last week and 29.02% for the week of Oct. 14. In the corresponding week of 1924 the ratio stood at 19¾% and a year earlier at 19%. Public deposits were again expanded, namely £1,488,000, but "other" deposits fell £6,567,000, while loans on Government securities decreased £2,200,000. An increase of £38,000 was shown in loans on other securities. The Bank's gold holdings now are £150,282,799, as against £128,484,503 a year ago (before the transfer to the Bank of England of the £27,000,000 formerly held by the Redemption Account of the Currency Note issue) and £127,674,137 in 1923. Reserve aggregates £27,054,000, as compared with £24,642,328 in 1924 and £22,631,407 a year earlier. Note circulation stands at £142,979,000, against £123,592,175 a year ago and £124,792,730 in 1923, while loans amount to £74,099,000, in comparison with £76,203,838 one year ago and £72,020,272 two years ago. Clearings through the London banks for the week were £809,302,000, against £768,299,000 last week and £707,744,000 a year ago. The 4% minimum discount rate of the Bank has not been changed. We append herewith comparisons of the different items of the Bank of England return for a series of years:

a Includes, beginning with April 29 1925, £27,000,000 gold coin and bullion previously held as security for currency note issues and which was transferred to the Bank of England on the British Government's decision to return to gold standard.

b Beginning with the statement for April 29 1925, includes £27,000,000 of Bank of England notes issued in return for the same amount of gold coin and bullion held up to that time in redemption account of currency note issue.

Another gain in the gold item was reported by the Bank of France in its statement this week, the amount being 3,127,486 francs. Total gold holdings now aggregate 5,547,557,725 francs, as compared with 5,544,430,239 francs for the corresponding date last year and 5,539,232,529 francs the year previous. Of the foregoing amounts, 1,864,320,907 francs were held abroad in 1925, 1924 and in 1923. Following the decrease of the past two weeks, note circulation rose 79,470,000 francs, bringing the total notes in circulation up to 46,678,543,545 francs, as compared with 40,528,502,770 francs for the same time last year and 37,848,181,435 francs the year before. During the week silver increased 75,000 francs, bills discounted rose 790,920,000 francs and general deposits were advanced 160,328,000 francs. On the other hand, advances decreased 73,979,000 francs and Treasury deposits fell off 8,378,000 francs. Comparisons of the various items in this week's return with the statement of last week and with corresponding dates in both 1924 and 1923 are as follows:

Contraction in note circulation and a further small addition to gold holdings, constituted the outstanding features of the statement issued by the Imperial Bank of Germany, under date of Oct. 23. The report showed that note circulation had been reduced 98,716,000 marks. But other maturing obligations increased 29,014,000 marks and other liabilities 11,841,000 marks. As to assets, holdings of bills of exchange and checks again fell heavily, the decline being no less than 171,688,000 marks, while advances decreased 14,918,000 marks. Increases, however, were shown of 17,055,000 marks in reserve in foreign currencies and 2,038,000 marks in silver and other coins. Notes on other banks were augmented 8,820,000 marks, investments 9,668,000 marks and other assets 90,960,000 marks. Gold and bullion increased 204,000 marks, to 1,204,718,000 marks, which compares with 630,502,000 marks last year and 467,026,000 marks in 1923. Note circulation now outstanding aggregates 2,395,209,000 marks.

The weekly statements of the Federal Reserve banks, issued on Thursday afternoon, revealed a further addition to gold stocks and another reduction in the volume of bills discounted, although accompanied by materially larger open market operations. According to the report for the System, gold holdings increased $4,200,000. Rediscounting of Government secured paper remained on a level with the figures of last week, but "other" bills were reduced $13,000,000, so that total bills discounted declined that amount and now aggregate $589,994,000, as compared with last year's total of $222,565,000. Holdings of bills bought in the open market increased no less than $35,400,000. The grand total of bills and securities (earning assets) increased $20,500,000 and deposits moved up $13,200,000 as compared with last week. At New York, as a result of additional gold arrivals, gold holdings increased $45,400,000. Rediscounting of paper secured by Government obligations fell off $9,100,000; other bills, however, increased $3,400,000, with the net result a decrease in total bills discounted of $5,700,000. Open market purchases expanded $13,300,000. Total bills and securities increased $6,500,000, while deposits recorded the large addition of $43,300,000. Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation remained virtually stationary for the banks as a group, but increased $5,200,000 locally. Member bank reserve accounts were increased $44,500,000 at New York and $21,000,000 for the combined System. Continued enlargement in deposits served to counteract the effect of increases in gold holdings, so that the reserve ratios showed very little change. The New York institution reported an advance of 0.5%, to 82.4%, but that of the System declined 0.1%, to 72.5%.

Last Saturday's statement of New York Clearing House banks and trust companies was featured by elimination of all surplus reserve and the recording of a deficiency in reserve of more than $4,000,000. Loans expanded $25,198,000. In net demand deposits there was an increase of $4,482,000, to $4,474,664,000, which is exclusive of Government deposits to the amount of $19,000,000. Time deposits, however, fell off $18,929,000, to $562,411,000. Cash in own vaults of members of the Federal Reserve Bank increased $1,679,000, to $46,446,000, although this is not counted as reserve. Other changes included a decline in reserves of State banks and trust companies in own vaults of $453,000 and of $316,000 in the reserve of these same institutions kept in other depositories. A contraction in the reserves of member banks with the Reserve Bank in amount of $14,482,000 occurred, and this brought about a loss in surplus above legal requirements of $15,266,150, completely wiping out last week's excess reserve of $10,429,950, and leaving a deficit in reserve of $4,836,200. It should be noted that the figures given herewith for surplus are based on the requirement of 13% reserves, against demand deposits for member banks of the Federal Reserve, but not including $46,446,000 held in vault by these member banks on Saturday last.

All that can be said about the local money market is that it is still surprisingly easy. A 5% rate for call loans was established, but most of the loans throughout the week were arranged at a lower level. Some idea of the conditions prevailing can be had from the single statement that on Thursday call money was quoted at 4¾% all day, and that the demand was said to have been light. Still the transactions in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange on that day were close to 2,500,000 shares. Yesterday 5% was the rate all day. As it was the last day of both the week and month for arranging accommodations, this was not regarded as unusual. Time money has been corespondingly easy. The statement of the United States Steel Corporation for the Sept. 30 quarter and that of several of the large motor vehicle manufacturing companies showed the extent to which business had expanded in those lines. Increases have been reported in other industrial lines also. Mercantile interests say that their business is showing improvement. The sales of mail order houses continue large. Car loadings for the week ended Oct. 17 were in excess of 1,000,000 cars, the 13th consecutive week that this record had been made. The stock market has continued extremely active, with prices of industrial shares generally, and in some cases sharply, upward. The offerings of new securities have kept up. Still, with it all, money has been easy to the extent indicated. Under such circumstances predictions as to the immediate future are of little value.

Dealing with specific rates for money, call loans this week covered a range of 4½@5%, as against 4@5% last week. Monday 5% was the high, with 4½% the low and the rate for renewals. On Tuesday, although no loans were made above 5%, the renewal basis was advanced to 4¾%, and this was the minimum. The range on Wednesday was unchanged, at 4¾@5%, with 4¾% the ruling rate. On Thursday a flat rate of 4¾% was named and all loans on call were negotiated at this figure. Increased firmness developed on Friday and the result was an advance in the call rate to 5%, which was the high, low and also the basis for renewals for the day. In time money a firm undertone again prevailed, with a further fractional advance to 4¾@5% for all periods from sixty days to six months, as against 4½@4¾% for the shorter maturities a week ago. Preparations for meeting month-end settlements were responsible for the stiffening. Trading, however, was quiet and featureless.

Commercial paper was likewise higher, with the bulk of the business now at 4½% for four to six months' names of choice character and 4½@4¾% for names not so well known, as against a range last week of 4¼@4½%. New England mill paper and the shorter choice names, however, are still being dealt in at 4¼%. A good demand was noted and offerings of high-grade names were quickly absorbed, particularly by out-of-town institutions. The supply of bills offering was somewhat light.

Banks' and bankers' acceptances remain at the levels previously current. Trading showed the usual slowing down that accompanies firmness in the call market, and the aggregate turnover was relatively small. Interior banks supplied most of the limited business. Prime bills were in smaller supply. For call loans against bankers' acceptances the posted rate of the American Acceptance Council was advanced to 4½% from 3½% last week. The Acceptance Council makes the discount rate on prime bankers' acceptances eligible for purchase by the Federal Reserve banks 3⅜% bid and 3¼% asked for bills running 30 days, 3½% bid and 3⅜% asked for 60 days, 3⅝% bid and 3½% asked for 90 days, 3¾% bid and 3⅝% asked for 120 days, 3⅞% bid and 3¾% asked for 150 days, and 4% bid and 3⅞% asked for 180 days. Open market quotations are as follows:

Underlying conditions in the sterling exchange market did not change essentially the present week, and trading continued quiet, with buying power usually sufficient to absorb the bills offered and maintain price levels. The upward tendency that developed last week persisted and quotations were advanced from 4 84⅜, the opening figure, to 4 84⅝. Cotton bills were on offer in rather more liberal volume than was the case recently, and towards the latter part of the week the selling pressure began to make itself felt and caused a slight dip that brought demand bills down to 4 84⅛. As had been predicted last week by many well-informed market observers, good engagements showed a sharp falling off, the only shipments reported from Great Britain being about $2,500,000 in bars said to be on the Mauretania. This appeared to bear out to some extent the opinion then expressed that gold imports had ended definitely. Some of the more conservatively inclined, however, regard this view of the matter as a trifle premature on the ground that commercial bills are still coming on the market in fairly heavy volume and must be expected to continue for several weeks to come. As a matter of fact, it is claimed that the apex of the movement has not as yet been reached, and should the buying for London account, that figured so prominently in recent trading, cease, rates are likely to sag again. In the event that the Bank of England rate remains unchanged, indications would seem to point to a decline to lower levels for sterling and a renewal of gold imports direct from London. A factor, however, which may complicate the present exchange situation, so far as gold imports are concerned, is the reappearance of South African gold on the London market. Recent cable advices state that the greater part of last week's shipment of Transvaal metal was taken by American banks at a figure well under the Bank of England's trading rate. There is thus an element of uncertainty regarding gold movements, because of the competition in bidding for the metal. According to authorities on the subject, open market prices for gold on the London market are influenced by a number of considerations, chief among which are the rate on South African pounds, the sterling dollar rate, rupee rates and the prospective scope of the demand from India. As South Africa is expected to ship gold at a rate of about £3,000,000 a month from now on, it is believed that this will tend to strengthen sterling rates and at the same time be amply sufficient to supply the American demand.

Referring to the day-to-day rates, sterling exchange on Saturday last was strong and advanced to 4 84⅜@4 84 7-16 for demand, 4 84¾@4 84 13-16 for cable transfers and 4 81⅛@4 81 3-16 for sixty days; trading was not active, but the inquiry was more than sufficient to absorb all offerings. On Monday a further gain of ⅛ cent carried demand to 4 84½@4 84⅝, cable transfers to 4 84⅞@4 85 and sixty days to 4 81¼@4 81⅜. The market was steady on Tuesday but a trifle easier; demand ruled at 4 84½ (one rate), cable transfers at 4 84⅞ and sixty days at 4 81¼. Wednesday the trend was again reactionary and a range of 4 84⅜@4 84½ was quoted for demand, 4 84¾@4 84⅞ for cable transfers and 4 81⅛@4 81¼ for sixty days; increased offerings of cotton bills were responsible for the weakness. Dulness characterized Thursday's dealings and demand was fractionally lower, at 4 84¼@4 84 5-16, cable transfers at 4 84⅝@4 84 11-16, and sixty days at 4 81@4 81 1-16. On Friday irregular weakness made its appearance and a further small loss took place, to 4 84⅛@4 84¼ for demand, to 4 84½@4 84⅝ for cable transfers and to 4 80⅞@4 81 for sixty days. Closing quotations were 4 80⅞ for sixty days, 4 84⅛ for demand and 4 84½ for cable transfers. Commercial sight bills finished at 4 84, sixty days at 4 80⅜, ninety days at 4 79⅝, documents for payment (sixty days) at 4 80⅝, and seven-day grain bills at 4 82⅞. Cotton and grain for payment closed at 4 84.

Only two gold engagements were reported, namely, $1,000,000 consigned to the International Acceptance Bank, and $1,500,000 for the Equitable Eastern Banking Corp., all in bars, and expected to arrive on the Mauretania. Gold continues to flow to Canada, shipments having been made this week by the New York Trust Co. and the Royal Bank of Canada of approximately $2,750,000, making a total of about $16,500,000 on the current movement. The Bank of England exported about £510,000 in sovereigns to India and Argentina and bought £200,000 in gold bars.

One million dollars in gold from the Bank of England is being shipped to-day on the White Star steamer Homeric, consigned to the Illinois Merchants Trust Co. at Chicago. The shipment, which is in the form of standard gold bars, is the first of a number of gold shipments for which arrangements were made by H. G. P. Deane, Executive Vice-President of the bank and in direct charge of its foreign banking business, who has recently returned from Europe. These importations represent a part of the bank's credit balances abroad, arising from the payment of foreign commercial loans made early in the year, and are something of an innovation in Chicago's foreign banking operations. The total amount of gold to be imported, according to Mr. Deane, will be governed by interest and exchange rates.

Trading in Continental exchange was marked by sharp, irregular price movements that carried quotations first in one direction, then in the other, with the final outcome the establishment of new low records. This applies primarily to French francs, which showed alarming weakness at times, and as a result of repeated and often panicky attempts to sell broke about 13¼ points from the low point of last week, and touched 4.06. Buying support on the part of the authorities was tendered at intervals, consequently the price seesawed sensationally, rallying to 4.18¼, dropping back to 4.11½, then rising to 4.29¼, only to slump off again to 4.14, with the close 4.19¾. On some days of the week a range of 15 points was noted. Trading in francs was heavy as well as feverish and excited at foreign centres, and quite overshadowed movements in all other branches of the market. Opinion as to the direct cause for the gyrations was somewhat mixed, some asserting that it was largely due to speculative maneuvring, while others claimed that it was wholly in response to anxiety over the political upheaval. In all probability an admixture of both was at bottom of the crash in values. It seems certain that the resignation of Premier Painleve and his Cabinet aroused grave fears for the future of the already tottering franc and was responsible for a fresh rush of French holders to place their funds abroad. Locally bankers held off to await the outcome of the crisis. Later in the week a partial rally took place on news of the formation of a new Painleve Cabinet; though it was felt that the stability did not reflect approval of the policies to be adopted as much as hope that this body would be able to form some plan of action for financial reconstruction that would be acceptable to the French Parliament. In the interim the Bank of France is expected to sustain franc values, but it is freely conceded that the only real relief of the present intolerable situation is an agreement on the debt question, which would open the way to negotiations for much-needed American loans. On Wednesday reports that the French Government was using the Morgan loan to support francs caused a wild rush to cover short commitments. Some speculative interests were badly squeezed when the rate shot up 18 points, to 4.29¼. Belgian francs, though in the main firm, lost ground slightly and receded for a while to 4.48; moved up to 4.53½, and then sold off to 4.47¼, then rallied to 4.54, all on light trading. Italian lire were dull and heavy, hovering around 3.94, and the week's range was 3.92¼ to 4.00¼. A falling off in activity in lire has been noted, the general inclination being to wait the results of the Italian debt conferences to be held next week in this country. It is claimed that almost constant official support has been necessitated to uphold the lire even at its present level, and should the debt funding negotiations prove a failure, a sharp drop is feared. Present artificial levels are said to have caused a falling off in the volume of remittances to the mother country by Italians abroad, so extensive as to have affected Italy's international balances. On the other hand, a debt settlement will undoubtedly be followed by the placing of a large Italian loan here and a general forward movement in industrial development. German and Austrian currency remains pegged, with no trading to speak of. Greek exchange, despite the numerous unsettling military developments of the week, held at around 1.32@1.33, then closed at 1.29¾. In the minor Central European group, trading was dull and quotations not greatly changed. Polish zlotys continues to rule around 16.70, but finished at 16.65.

The London check rate on Paris finished at 115.20, against 114.60 last week. In New York sight bills on the French centre closed at 4.19¾, against 4.20¼; cable transfers at 4.20¾, against 4.21¼; commercial sight bills at 4.18¾, against 4.19¼, and commercial sixty days at 4.14¼, against 4.14¾ a week ago. Closing rates for Antwerp francs were 4.51½ for checks and 4.52½ for cable transfers; this compares with 4.54½ and 4.55½ the previous week. Reichsmarks finished at 23.81½, against 23.81 for both checks and cable transfers. Austrian kronen continue to be quoted at 0.0014⅛. Lire closed the week at 3.95½ for bankers' sight bills and at 3.96½ for cable transfers, as against 3.98½ and 3.99½ a week earlier. Exchange on Czechoslovakia finished at 2.96⅜ (unchanged); on Bucharest at 0.47¾, against 0.47⅞; on Finland at 2.52¼ (unchanged), and on Poland at 16.65, against 16.70. Greek exchange closed at 1.29¾ for checks and at 1.30¼ for cable transfers, in comparison with 1.33 and 1.33½ the week previous.

As to the neutral exchanges, formerly so-called, there is nothing in the way of important new developments to report. Attention appeared to be centred upon francs and lire to the exclusion of all else, and even the Scandinavians were to some extent neglected; although the trend was upward and moderate gains were scored for a time that carried Danish and Norwegian some 15 points up. Later part of the advance was lost, but the close was firm. Dutch guilders ruled firm and a trifle higher, and the same is true of Swiss francs, both of which were dealt in to a limited extent. Spanish pesetas were inactive and practically unchanged.

Bankers' sight on Amsterdam finished at 40.22, (unchanged); cable transfers at 40.24 (unchanged); commercial sight bills at 40.14, against 40.14, and commercial sixty days at 39.78 (unchanged) from last week. Swiss francs closed at 19.25 for bankers' sight bills and at 19.28 for cable remittances, which compares with 19.25¾ and 19.26¾ a week earlier. Copenhagen checks finished at 24.96 and cable transfers at 25.00, against 24.70½ and 24.74½; Checks on Sweden closed at 26.73 and cable transfers at 26.77, against 26.73 and 26.77, while checks on Norway finished at 20.38 and cable transfers at 20.42, against 20.24 and 20.28 last week. Spanish pesetas closed at 14.31½ for checks and at 14.33½ for cable transfers, as compared with 14.32 and 14.34 a week ago.

With regard to South American quotations, these ruled firm and slightly higher for a time, but later receded and finished slightly lower. Trading was dull and movements narrow. Argentine checks closed at 41.20 and cable transfers at 41.25, unchanged from a week ago. Brazilian milreis finished lower at 14.84 for checks and at 14.89 for cable transfers, comparing with 15.11 and 15.16 the week preceding. Chilean exchange was firmly held and closed at 12.13 (unchanged), while Peru finished higher at 3 96, against 3 88 last week.

The New York Clearing House banks, in their operations with interior banking institutions, have gained $2,487,513 net in cash as a result of the currency movements for the week ended Oct. 29. Their receipts from the interior have aggregated $5,651,013, while the shipments have reached $3,163,500, as per the following table:

As the Sub-Treasury was taken over by the Federal Reserve Bank on Dec. 6 1920, it is no longer possible to show the effect of Government operations on the Clearing House institutions. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York was creditor at the Clearing House each day as follows:

Note.—The foregoing heavy credits reflect the huge mass of checks which come to the New York Reserve Bank from all parts of the country in the operation of the Federal Reserve Systems' par collection scheme. These large credit balances, however, reflect only a part of the Reserve Bank's operations with the Clearing House institutions, as only the items payable in New York City are represented in the daily balances. The large volume of checks on institutions located outside of New York are not accounted for in arriving at these balances, as such checks do not pass through the Clearing House but are deposited with the Federal Reserve Bank for collection for the account of the local Clearing House banks.

The Fall of Caillaux.

The resignation of the Painleve Government in France, and the formation of a new Ministry without M. Joseph Caillaux as Finance Minister, was no occasion for surprise. Something of the kind, either the resignation of the Ministry or its more or less radical reconstruction on the side of finance, has been forecast every since the failure of the French debt negotiations at Washington, and the reported refusal of the Government to approve the compromise which was offered. The debt issue, however, is only one of several issues which not only made M. Caillaux's continuance in office unlikely, but which also raise doubts as to whether the new Ministry which has been formed may reasonably hope for a long lease of life.

The main reason for M. Caillaux's downfall is, of course, his failure to devise and put into operation effective remedies for the generally disordered financial condition of France. The difficulties of the task were admittedly great. They included the stabilization of the franc, the stopping of ruinous speculation in francs and a debilitating export of capital, the funding of the foreign debt on practicable terms of payment, the establishment of rigorous economies in public expenditure, and such provision of revenue as should make possible a bona fide balancing of the budget. To do all of these things at the same time would have been a huge undertaking, even under conditions which in any proper sense could be regarded as normal, but the difficulties in the way were rendered many times more serious by the existence of an inflated currency as a heritage from the Herriot Government, the necessity of funding a huge domestic debt consisting mainly of short-term obligations, a pronounced unwillingness in the country to accept heavy increases in taxation, and a political situation in general which made the Minsitry unstable.

It was unfortunate for M. Caillaux, whose financial abilities his worst enemies have never denied, should have been heralded into office as a kind of financial wizard from whom miracles were to be expected. It was equally unfortunate that he should have occasionally spoken on financial questions with a confidence which his performance failed to justify. One who is hailed as a savior, and talks in a large way of what he expects to do, must realize what is expected of him or suffer eclipse, and eclipse has happened, for the moment at least, to M. Caillaux. Whether or not, however, taking all the circumstances into account, he might have succeeded better than he did is less important for the future of France than is a clear realization of the nature of the difficulties which he faced, and which Premier Painleve, who has himself taken over the portfolio of Finance, will also have to meet.

It was clear from the beginning, for example, that M. Caillaux had behind him no solid body of public opinion committed to any of his proposed reforms. Over against his apparent failure to do anything important to check inflation, or, until the very eve of his downfall, to check speculation in the franc, is to be placed the notorious fact that inflation has many influential supporters in France, and that the lesson which German experience should have taught has not, apparently, been everywhere learned. It is matter of common knowledge that a considerable body of French opinion has from the first been stubbornly opposed to paying the French war debt, and criticism of the United States for its attitude in the matter has been often unfriendly, and at times violent. The balancing of the budget, again, by means of economies on the one hand and increased taxation on the other, has encountered two obstacles which no Finance Minister has yet succeeded in overcoming. One of these is the apparently invincible reluctance of the French people, particularly the agriculturists and peasants, to pay heavy taxes, and at the same time invest their savings in the short-term National Defense bonds which the Treasury has emitted in a mighty stream. The other is the huge debt which has been piled up in the reconstruction of the invaded departments—a work undertaken on a prodigious scale in fatuous hope of unlimited reparations from Germany. The most, apparently, that it has been thought possible to do is to provide, by successive steps, a considerable but insufficient increase of taxation in comparison with the period before the war, and to enforce some economies in Government expenditures, but both together have been insufficient to balance the budget, and the formal balance which was being talked about a few months ago turns out to have been at best only a matter of bookkeeping.

To these difficulties are to be added two others, one of them financial, the other mainly political. The ambitious scheme of a consolidated loan, launched with high hopes by M. Caillaux as the first part of his financial program, has failed. Of the 20,000,000,000 francs which it was said he expected to obtain through the exchange of old securities for new, only about one-third of that amount appears to have been subscribed. Practically, the crushing burden of a short-term domestic debt remains. On the other hand, the Radical Socialists, the party of M. Herriot, without whose support in the Chamber of Deputies the Painleve Ministry could not hope to continue, has demanded a capital levy as a solution of the financial problem, and the proposal is not without support in other parties. It is to the credit of M. Caillaux that he has refused to entertain the idea of a levy upon capital, notwithstanding that M. Painleve appears to favor it, and that he has preferred to go out of office rather than yield his opposition, but the Radical Socialists have not abandoned their contention, notwithstanding a modification of the language in which they have phrased it, and one of the rocks on which the old Ministry split remains to endanger the new one.

Other troubles, some personal and some political, have contributed to the growing instability of the Ministry. Politically and personally, M. Caillaux was a liability as well as an asset, for his past has not been wholly forgotten, notwithstanding his spectacular return to public life. The Radical Socialists, able for the time being to enforce their will by sheer weight of votes, have seemed rather more concerned to carry through their radical program than to save the finances of France, and none of the other party groups has shown much capacity for constructive leadership. The Riff war has been an enormous expense, and the end of the conflict is not yet in sight. Within a few days the storm which has long been gathering over French policy in Syria has broken, and the disastrous and tragic bombardment of Damascus has created a political and diplomatic situation which it will tax M. Painleve's powers to deal with and at the same time keep himself in power. For the difficulties in Morocco and Syria M. Caillaux, of course, is not responsible, but his failure to produce an acceptable program of financial reorganization, at a time when grave troubles were developing in other directions, made it inevitable that the Ministry, once it was faced with shipwreck, should throw him overboard.

The outlook for the reconstructed Ministry is not clear. M. Painleve's moderate and conciliatory policy in general has undoubtedly strengthened him personally as well as politically, and M. Briand, who continues as Minister of Foreign Affairs, contributes added prestige because of the successful outcome of the Locarno Conference. On the other hand, the dropping of M. Caillaux and the addition to the Cabinet of a Minister of the Budget as a relief to the Minister of Finance, have not of themselves done anything to solve the financial problem, and the issue of the capital levy is still to be met. The question of the war debt to the United States has not been advanced in the direction of settlement, and the exact status of the debt settlement with Great Britain, contingent as it was upon the terms of settlement with the United States, is in doubt. It is certainly to be hoped that the new Ministry, notwithstanding a slightly increased leaning to the Left, may speedily find a way of extricating France from its troubles. It would be idle, however, to pretend any longer that the financial situation of France is not serious. What is earnestly to be wished is that the country may not be allowed to drift into financial collapse.

Indications of Business Activity

THE STATE OF TRADE—COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

Friday Night, Oct. 30 1925.

Spurred by the first real touch of winter retail trade in the United States has improved noticeably during the week. Business in general makes a better showing than a year ago. It has been cold and stormy all over the country. Last night, even as far south as Texas and Oklahoma, the temperautre was down to 18 degrees. It has been snowing here to-day. It all helps the sale of seasonable goods. Raw wool is firmer without being active. But it has been rising at the Australia sales this week. Woolen and worsted goods for fall and winter wear under the stimulus of colder weather have been in better demand. An active business has been done in silk, and some of the Paterson, N. J., mills have been running night and day. Some of the New Bedford cotton mills are beginning to run night shifts and production is stimulated at North Carolina and Georgia mills by a better demand for goods, and devices to make up for the curtailment of hydro-electric power, which, however, is now increasing with higher streams. Worth Street has been less active at some decline in prices, with raw cotton lower for the week by $10 a bale. In fact, raw cotton is the cheapest of any time in recent years since May 1922. To-day most deliveries were well below 19 cents. Manchester, Eng., is jubilant over the advent of cheaper raw cotton. It reports a better business with India, even if that with China is not so promising as it might be. Strikes and political agitations militate against business with China as a matter of course. Anthracite coal has become very scarce here, owing to the continuance of the strike, with no present signs of its ending in the near future. But measures are being taken here to avert any acute scarcity of fuel by purchases of some 200,000 tons of bituminous coal by New York dealers. Larger purchases will be made if necessary. Coke is also being utilized, though at the rather curious price of $17 50 per ton. Anthracite is being sold to households on the East Side at 75 cents per 100 pounds. At the same time the output of soft coal and coke is increasing, with prices twice as high as 30 days ago. Pig iron shows an upward tendency with coal and coke rising, and a fair business is reported in some directions. There is no activity. Steel rails have been in good demand and the automobile companies are buying on a fair scale. The drift of steel prices is towards a higher level.

Wheat has advanced some 3 to 5 cents per bushel during the week and at one time there was a good export demand. Latterly it has fallen off. It seems to be a fact beyond controversy that the Russian crop is greatly overestimated. But the rise during the past week was at least partly due to the effects of overselling, though there was also evidence of a liberal absorption of wheat by the domestic trade. It looks now as though the acreage planted to winter wheat might not be as large as was at one time expected. Rains have retarded field work. High grades of wheat are relatively scarce and cash premiums are still notable, with farmers marketing very slowly. The trouble is, however, that American prices are too much above an export level, so that Manitoba wheat is being sold rather than American to Europe. Rains and snows have interfered with the husking of the corn crop and there has been some damage. One striking fact is that rains and snows in Canada have so hampered threshing that fully 100,000,000 bushels are said to remain unthreshed in the fields. Bad weather may reduce the Canadian supply of merchantable wheat. Rains and cold weather have damaged cotton over most of the belt. The grade has been lowered. It looks now as though the cotton crop this year would be on the whole rather a low grade one. The rains have had one good effect, however, of increasing the supply of hydro-electric power in the South Atlantic States, thus helping the mills, though more rain is needed there. Freezing weather, it is feared, has hurt the Western beet root sugar crop, and it was partly owing to this that raw sugar has latterly been firmer here, after falling to a new low price of 1 15-16 cents. That is said to be below the cost of production. Cotton during the week, as already stated, has fallen some 200 points, as opinion has gradually seemed to veer to the Government's idea of the size of the crop, namely 15,226,000 bales, with the probability of something over 16,000,000 bales, counting linters. Speculation in cotton is light, for the outside public prefers stocks, grain and real estate. Under the circumstances about the only buyers are the mills and shorts. The mills are now buying less freely. It is a curious sign of the times in business that there is an abnormal rush of freight to Florida, so much so that some of the railroads and steamship lines have had to declare embargoes. Car loadings in general still make a very good showing; that is, well above 1,000,000 cars, even allowing for some falling off in grain, and, of course, in the anthracite trade. Most of the metals are higher than a week ago. Bad weather has interfered with building in some parts of the country. But it is certain to be taken up again at the first opportunity. There is a very noticeable demand for machine and agricultural tools and implements; also for jewelry and radio apparatus. Unemployment is being reduced. In Detroit, Mich., it is stated that 70,000 more people are at work than a year ago. Chicago business is said to be fully as good as at any time this year. Birmingham, Ala., is busier. In fact, there is a cheerful note in most of the reports from all over the country. There is no big buying of cotton goods for distant delivery from the very fact that raw cotton has been declining and buyers hope for still lower prices. But taking the wholesale and jobbing trade in general it has felt the favorable repercussion from the rising retail business. Coffee has advanced with Brazilian markets rising and more or less Brazilian buying here in New York, probably in "defense" of the coffee price. At the same time consumption is large, with the price 3 cents per pound lower on Rio than a year ago. Dealings on the New York Stock Exchange have continued remarkably active, and despite some irregularity, various securities have reached new high levels. In London bonds have been in better demand, though to-day stocks were rather irregular there. The clash between the Greeks and the Bulgarians has been stopped by the intervention of the League of Nations, which is thus shown to be of a utility not heretofore suspected by many in healing discord in the family of nations.

At New Bedford two floors of the Wamsutta sheeting mill have been placed on a day and night schedule and the rest of the sheeting plant will be similarly operated next week. The Wamsutta has been successful recently in manufacturing and marketing of Rhea fabric designed for industrial uses. New Bedford fine goods mills have been rapidly increasing their production schedules and have reached virtually a full-time basis. The Butler mill is said to be running at full capacity. Fine yarn mills are also recovering fast. At New Bedford, too, several spinning companies have received sufficient new business to warrant resumption of full time and are operating their preparatory departments night and day. Among yarn mills operating nights are the Nonquitt, Manomet and Sharp. At Sommerworth, N. H., the Great Falls Woolen Co. resumed operations on Oct. 26. Durham, N. C., wired that cotton mills are resorting to novel methods to keep their plants going full time, despite the power curtailment. The Oneida mills, at Graham, N. C., manufacturers of novelty goods, are connecting up their looms with tractors. With 160 looms working full time this 800-loom mill hopes to keep up with its big orders. The temporary installation of gas engines by the Charlotte Knitting Co. of Charlotte, N. C., hosiery manufacturers is another interesting innovation. With the use of this supplementary power the Charlotte mill is able to run in full time. Gastonia, N. C., wired: "From the standpoint of the cotton mills the drought situation in Gaston County, yarn mill centre of the section, continues serious. Gaston County mills are running less than three days a week. The little rain has not produced any appreciable effect on the situation. Only continuous and heavy rains for several days will have any real effect, officials say. Mill owners are now unable to keep up with the demands and are possibly losing some orders to others because of inability to give early delivery on rush orders." At Juliette, Ga., the Juliette mill has started up again, it is said, after having been closed for several months owing to low water. At Charlotte, N. C., after having been shut down for some time, the Fort Mill Manufacturing Co. Mill No. 1 at Fort Mill, S. C., has resumed operations. Despite recent heavy rains the North Carolina power situation has not much changed and the Southern Power Co. maintains its curtailment schedule of 2½ days a week.

At Auburn, N. Y., on Oct. 27 the strike at Auburn Woolen Co., lasting six weeks, was settled. Workers accepted, it is understood, a wage cut of 10%, but are assured that a full time schedule will be maintained. At Passaic, N. J., 400 workers on strike for 10% increase in wages have returned at an increase of 7½%. At North Bergen, N. J., about 250 rayon goods weavers on strike at the Hillcrest silk mills have been warned to return to their looms at once or have their places filled by others. The operatives struck last week against a 20% cut in wages and a three-shift, three and four looms to a worker plan against the two-shift, two looms per worker system previously in force.

Some Lancashire mills closed for months are reported to be reopening. Lancashire hails cheaper cotton as the herald of better times.

At Haverhill, Mass., five local unions of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union open parleys at once with the Haverhill Shoe Manufacturers' Association on a new working schedule to be adopted there Jan. 1. Some 8,000 shoe workers were represented.

There was a snow fall in Brooklyn on Oct. 24 and also a snow flurry at White Plains, N. Y. Later a very heavy rain set in here and along the Atlantic Coast on the 24th which lasted all night, clearing in the afternoon of the 25th. But a gale of 85 miles began here at 1:30 p. m. and did great damage. Gales swept the entire Atlantic seaboard and liners were late in docking. Five were killed in and near New York City. The storm did much damage in parts of Massachusetts. In Alabama 17 persons were killed. On the night of the 28th inst. rain, hail and a gale here of 50 to 60 miles brought freezing temperatures. There was snow at Washington, N. J. The mercury fell 17 degrees from 51 in the morning. The worst October cold wage in the history of the Weather Bureau gripped the Northwestern Plains. Icy air from Alaska caused a fall in the temperature to 16 below zero in the Dakotas. Snow accompanied the cold wave and spread to the Chicago region. At Chicago it was 19 above. It was the first real snow there this year. In other sections of the Central West the snow was heavier. Railroad traffic was delayed. The 16 below zero temperature reported by Rapid City, N. D., was 18 degrees below the lowest October mark on record and 1 degree lower than the record for December. Through the Dakotas, northwestern Nebraska and eastern Montana new records for cold were made. It was 21 to 32 degrees in Texas and Oklahoma, 35 in Arkansas and unseasonably cold elsewhere in the South. At Ogdensburg, N. Y., on Oct. 28 the second blizzard of the fall covered northern New York with three inches of snow. The Central West and Rocky Mountain region has been covered with snow and a cold wave has prevailed in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana. It was 31 in New York on the 29th inst., 20 at Chicago and Cincinnati, 28 at Cleveland with snow, 12 at Helena, 22 at Indianapolis. To-day it snowed or sleeted here and the thermometer fell. It was 35 at 3 p. m. It was 18 degrees last night in Texas and Oklahoma.

Federal Reserve Board's Summary of Business Conditions in United States—Increase in Production in Basic Industries.

"Production in basic industries and factory employment increased in September," says the Federal Reserve Board in its monthly summary of general business and financial conditions throughout the several Federal Reserve districts, based upon statistics for the months of September and October. The Board's review, made public Oct. 28, continues:

Distribution of commodities, both at wholesale and retail, continued in large volume, and the level of prices remained practically unchanged.

Production.

The Federal Reserve Board's index of production advanced 2% in September, notwithstanding the suspension of anthracite mining. The volume of output increased considerably in the iron and steel, bituminous coal, and textile industries, while the decreases which occurred in some other industries were relatively small.

Automobile production was larger than in August, but continued to reflect the effects of curtailment incidental to changes in models. Number of employees on factory payrolls in September was larger than in August in nearly all reporting industries. Building contracts awarded did not equal the record level of August, but continued large as compared with earlier months. Total contracts awarded during the first nine months of this year were nearly as large as for the entire year 1924.

Crop conditions, as reported by the Department of Agriculture, showed considerable improvement during the month, and the indicated yields of cotton, corn, oats, barley and hay were larger than a month earlier, while forecasts of wheat and tobacco production were slightly smaller. Marketing of crops increased further, but was smaller than last year.

Trade.

Wholesale trade was 9% larger in September than in August, and sales in all lines except dry goods were larger than a year ago. Sales of department store and mail order houses showed considerably more than the usual increase and were larger than a year ago. Stocks of merchandise at department stores also increased more than usual and at the end of the month were 4% greater than a year ago. Wholesale firms in all leading lines except groceries reported smaller stocks on Sept. 30 than a month earlier.

Total merchandise freight car loadings were larger than during the same month of any previous year. Coal shipments were smaller than in August, owing to the anthracite strike, and shipments of coal and of grain products were smaller than in September of last year.

Prices.

The level of wholesale prices, as measured by the index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, declined slightly. Among groups of commodities, grains, woolen goods and furniture showed price declines, while prices of coal and building materials advanced. In the first half of October prices of grains, wool and rubber increased, while prices of sheep, hogs, sugar and cotton declined.

Bank Credit.

At member banks in leading cities the volume of loans, both for commercial purposes and on securities, increased further between Sept. 16 and Oct. 14, and at the middle of October total loans of these banks were nearly $650,000,000 larger than at the end of July. During the same period demand deposits of these banks increased by about $360,000,000, but were below the level of the beginning of the year, while the volume of their borrowings at the Reserve banks increased by about $200,000,000 to the highest point of the year.

Total volume of Reserve bank credit outstanding was larger in October than at any other time during 1925, reflecting increases during the two preceding months, both in discounts for member banks and in acceptances bought in open market. This growth has been due primarily to the seasonal increase during the period of about $100,000,000 in currency circulation and there has also been a considerable increase in member bank reserve balances, accompanying a growth in their deposits.

In October the rates on prime commercial paper were firmer and the renewal rate on call loans averaged higher than in September.

Domestic Business Conditions According to the Government.

Further reports on business conditions to the Department of Commerce, covering the month of September (made public yesterday, Oct. 30), show increases over August in general factory employment, the number of real estate transfers, the production of malleable castings, maple flooring, and illuminating glassware, the cut of North Carolina pine lumber, billings of cotton finishing goods, and consumption of tobacco, while the production of paving bricks, the cut of Southern pine lumber, and exports of automobiles declined. The amount of long-term real estate securities floated was greater than in August.

Compared with September 1924, increases occurred in factory employment, real estate transfers, the cut of North Carolina and Southern pine lumber, the production of maple flooring, malleable castings, paving brick and illuminating glassware, the consumption of tobacco, billings for cotton finishings goods, and exports of automobiles. Real estate security flotations in September were greater than a year ago.

New York Department of Labor Reports Continuance of Heavy Building Program.

The New York State Department of Labor, through Commissioner James A. Hamilton, reports under date of Oct. 27 that there was no abatement in the heavy building program in New York State. Twenty-three cities together issued permits valued at over 102 million dollars during September. In September 1924 the estimated cost of planned work was only 57 million dollars. The unusual activity of the third quarter brought building work for the nine months of 1925 10% above that for a similar period in 1924. The increase came in commercial and industrial buildings as well as in residential. Commissioner Hamilton also states:

The September figures exceeded August by about two and a half million dollars. The unusual feature in the increase for the State was that it appeared entirely outside New York City. The Westchester cities and several up-State cities were responsible for the September gain.

In New York City the reduction in building plans followed an exceptionally active August. It was also limited to Manhattan and Queens and appeared in residential buildings, apartments in the former and single dwellings in the latter. Both these classes had broken all records for the year in August.

Manhattan reported a total of $30,000,000 for September. Factories and mercantile buildings advanced to a high point for the year as office buildings had done in August. Brooklyn came next with a total of $20,000,000 as residential building and places of amusement gained. The Bronx had the busiest month of the year when the value of permits reached 16 million dollars. Of this 3 millions went for schools, but apartments and non-residential construction went up also. Plans for building in Queens were a little above those for the Bronx, and Richmond kept almost even with August.

The four Westchester cities, Mt. Vernon, New Rochelle, White Plains and Yonkers, together issued permits which called for an expenditure of almost 5 million dollars, about three-fifths of which was for residential work. This was a decided increase over August, which, however, was rather low, and it was 75% above September 1924.

Ten of the eighteen up-State cities reported September had been a more active month than August. This group included most of the larger cities of the State—Albany, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Niagara Falls. The most startling gain appeared in Albany, where a school valued at a million and a quarter dollars was planned. In Buffalo more permits were issued but the total valuation for the month, $2,600,000, was the same as that for Albany.

In Rochester and Niagara Falls, schools were important in bringing the value of permits above August. Building work in Syracuse progressed in all classes of construction. Permits issued in September passed previous months of this year and last in value.

Schenectady and Troy reported the lowest totals since February, but in both these cities this followed an active August.

Increase in September Department Store Sales in Federal Reserve District of New York Compared with Previous Month and Year Ago.

In its report of retail trade the Nov. 1 "Monthly Review of Credit and Business Conditions" by the Federal Reserve Agent at New York says:

Reports from 72 leading department stores in this district showed the usual seasonal increase in sales from August to September and a gain of 2% over the unusually large sales in September last year. For the fourth consecutive month more stores reported increases than decreases in sales compared with a year previous. In the case of apparel stores, however, sales were 4% smaller than a year ago.

Department store stocks of merchandise on hand at the end of the month were nearly 4% larger than last year, a slightly greater increase than occurred in sales, so that the rate of stock turnover was somewhat smaller than in September last year. For the year to date, however, the rate of turnover has been almost identical with that of the corresponding period last year.

Sales of furniture and cotton goods, especially sheets, pillow cases, &c., also showed substantial gains, while sales of woolens dropped behind last year, and business in men's and women's clothing was also generally slow.

The average amount of the individual sales transaction in September was $3 01, compared with $3 02 a year previous.

Further Moderate Improvement in New England Business Situation.

In its analysis of the business situation, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston has the following to say in the Nov. 1 issue of its monthly review:

Further though moderate improvement has taken place in the business situation in New England during recent weeks. The September figure of the New England business activity index, calculated by this bank to measure the general level of activity in the leading trades and industries of New England, was the highest since the early part of 1923. Speaking in general terms, it may be said that business in New England, so far as volume at least is concerned, is good. Shoe production has shown considerable improvement in this district in the past three months, and September output was the largest for the year to date, and larger than the same month of either of the two previous years. The consumption of raw cotton by New England mills during September was slightly larger than it August, but was considerably greater than in September last year, and closely approached the consumption of September 1923. The woolen textile industry is not as active as the cotton textile industry. The consumption of wool by New England mills during September was slightly greater than in August, but less than in the corresponding month of either of the two previous years. In spite of the approach of cold weather, the building industry remains very active. Contracts awarded in September were approximately equal to those of August, and very much larger than at this time a year ago.

Shipments of merchandise by New England railroads reached a new high volume for the year late in September. Car loadings have averaged higher than in the corresponding period a year ago ever since last January.

October was a very good month for retail trade. Boston department stores reported that their sales during the first three weeks of the month were 15% larger than in the first three weeks of October last year. Sales for the entire month of September were also above those of the corresponding month a year ago, as a result of a large volume of charge business. Charge sales have been relatively better than cash sales each month of this year. Installment sales have shown large increases when compared with those of last year, the gain in September, for example, amounting to 78%.

Money rates have strengthened further, and the volume of loans made for commercial purposes increased sharply in October.

September Wholesale Trade in Federal Reserve District of New York Larger Than in August, but Smaller Than in September of Last Year.

Regarding wholesale trade in the local Federal Reserve District, the Nov. 1 monthly review of credit and business conditions by the Federal Reserve Agent at New York reports as follows:

Wholesale trade in this district, measured by a weighted index of the sales of 200 principal dealers, showed seasonal increases in most lines from August to September, but was 6% smaller than a year ago, due to substantially smaller sales of women's apparel and drugs, and to slight declines in groceries, jewelry and diamonds.

Sales of machine tools, which reflect industrial activity, showed a large gain over last year. Commission house sales of cotton goods were also much heavier than a year ago, while substantial gains occurred also in sales of silk goods, stationery, paper and hardware.

Stocks of shoes continued substantially larger than a year ago, and silk goods stocks also showed a considerable increase, after showing decreases during the early months of the year. Jobbers' stocks of cotton goods and hardware, on the other hands, continued smaller than a year ago, and stocks of jewelry and diamonds were also below those of last year.

Larger Sales Reported by Chain Stores in Federal Reserve District of New York in September as Compared With Year Ago.

According to the Nov. 1 "Monthly Review of Credit and Business Conditions" by the Federal Reserve Agent at New York, "all types of chain stores continued in September to report larger sales than a year ago, and in most cases the comparisons with the sales of a year previous were much more favorable than those reported at this time last year. Sales per store, however, were smaller than a year ago in four out of seven lines." The "Review" also says:

The outstanding gain in September was in chain drug stores, where total sales showed the largest increase over a year previous in a long period. Ten-cent store systems, variety stores and tobacco chains also showed increases of about the usual amount, but the gains in grocery, shoe and candy sales were smaller than those reported in the three months preceding.

Percentage comparisons of the number of stores operated, total sales, and sales per store with those of a year ago are shown in the following table:

Increase in Department Store Sales in Federal Reserve District of Boston.

According to preliminary reports received by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, sales of New England department stores during the first three weeks of October were of very favorable volume. During that period sales showed an increase of 15% over the corresponding period in October of last year. Sales of the Boston department stores during the first full week of October were the largest of any week since the second week of June. Sales for this week in October have been exceeded only twice this year, and in each of these cases by only a small margin. These advances are from the Industrial Statistics Division of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, which also supplied the following information under date of Oct. 29:

The following summary of wholesale and retail sales is based on the final figures for September and for the year to date:

SALES CONDITIONS.

	Sept. 1925 Compared with Sept. 1924.	Jan. through Sept. 1925 Compared with Jan. through Sept. 1924.
Connecticut department stores	+6.0%	+2.8%
Maine department stores	+3.3	+0.2
Massachusetts department stores	+2.0	+0.6
Rhode Island department stores	+8.5	+2.3
Vermont department stores	+3.6	—2.4
Boston department stores	+0.5	—0.8
Boston women's apparel shops	+5.4	+6.9
New Haven department stores	+7.6	+3.2
Providence department stores	+8.5	+2.3
New England department stores	+1.9	+0.2
New England wholesale grocers	—11.9	—1.5
New England wholesale shoe concerns	+8.9	+8.6

The Rhode Island and Connecticut department stores still continue to report larger increases over a year ago than the stores in other sections of New England. New Haven and Providence, important trading centres of these two States, have shared in the large volume of sales received throughout these States. The Boston women's apparel shops have been consistently reporting favorable increases over their sales of last year. Up to the middle of October the sales of these stores had increased during twenty-seven weeks of this year and decreased during only thirteen weeks in the weekly comparisons with 1924. Wholesale grocery sales during September were of good volume, but an exceptionally large volume of sales during September of last year caused a seemingly poor showing in the decrease of nearly 12%, as shown in the table of sales.

Variations in New England credit conditions are outlined in the following table:

CREDIT CONDITIONS.

Percentage of Total Accounts Outstanding at the First of September Collected During September.

Boston department stores	45.8%	43.8%
Boston women's apparel shops	50.5	48.2
New Haven department stores	52.7	52.2
Providence department stores	56.2	52.2
New England department stores	48.2	46.0
New England wholesale grocery concerns	71.2	72.4
New England wholesale shoe concerns	27.7	28.8

The rates of collections of the wholesale shoe and grocery concerns were more satisfactory than the department store rates.

SALES AND STOCKS, BY DEPARTMENTS, NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT STORES.

January Through Sept. 1925, Compared With January Through Sept. 1924.

Silk and muslin underwear	—5.2	—2.1
Women's and children's shoes	+5.1	—13.5

With the exception of silks and velvets, dress goods sold poorly in September. Youths' apparel, both girls' and boys', sold very well, as did men's clothing and furnishings. Furniture and luggage also had large increases over sales of September 1924.

General business conditions in the Philadelphia Federal Reserve District, with the exception of the anthracite mining region, continued to show improvement during September and October, according to the Business Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, dated Nov. 2 and made public yesterday (Oct. 30). Much of this recent betterment, it is true, says the bank, is of a seasonal nature, but as compared with the fall of 1924, industrial and commercial activity is on a distinctly higher level. Factory employment in the States of the district has been advancing since July, and in September the number employed was 5% larger than in the same month last year. The bank continues:

Total wage payments, which are a better measure of manufacturing output, were 6% greater than in September 1924. The volume of check payments in the district increased from August to September and in the latter month was 12% above the level of a year ago. That distribution of goods is also at a high rate is indicated by larger shipments of merchandise and increased buying at retail, especially of apparel and shoes. Wholesale conditions are somewhat mixed, for although September showed gains in all lines, only in drugs, jewelry and paper were sales larger than in 1924.

Building continues to be very active in the district, although the value of new building for which contracts were made and permits issued in September was slightly less than in the preceding month. Building materials are in good demand and many plants are working at nearly capacity to fill existing orders. In most cases prices are firm but quotations on several grades of lumber have been lowered.

Demand for iron and steel products has been increasing noticeably; new orders for pig iron, rails, sheets, hardware and many other products are larger than they were a month ago. Operations throughout the industry have expanded.

Although the effects of the anthracite strike on the bituminous market are not strikingly evident, demand has increased seasonally, and output continues above the 1924 levels.

The market for most textile products has experienced further betterment. Silk goods continue in excellent request and most mills in the district are operating close to capacity. Cotton mills are also more active and demand continues undiminished although prices of both yarns and goods have recently declined somewhat. Fair business is reported by woolen manufacturers and some improvement in worsted lines. Hosiery continues in excellent demand at firm or advancing prices. Carpet manufacturers report inactive trade awaiting the opening of the new season early in November.

The shoe and leather industries are fairly active and the market for hides and skins has been generally firm, though with lower prices for cow hides.

Crop conditions in the Philadelphia district continue satisfactory and relatively better than in the country as a whole. The average crop yield is close to the ten-year average and the livestock outlook is also favorable.

Advance Report for September on Electric Power in Philadelphia Federal Reserve District.

Production of electric power by 11 systems in the Philadelphia Federal Reserve District and sales to industries and transportation companies were smaller in September than in August, says the Department of Statistics and Research of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, which further says:

This loss is largely attributable to the industrial slackening in the anthracite region, for productive activity elsewhere in the district advanced in September. As compared with last year, however, reporting systems showed substantial gains in output and sales.

Advance Report for September on the Automobile Trade in Philadelphia Federal Reserve District.

Regarding the automobile trade in the Federal Reserve District of Philadelphia, the Reserve Bank's Department of Statistics and Research says:

Following the recent announcements of price reductions on many models, sales of automobiles by 14 reporting distributors in the Philadelphia Federal Reserve District increased substantially in September as compared with the previous month. Wholesale business was 7.6% greater in value and retail sales gained 27.4%. In the wholesale trade the less expensive cars accounted for most of the increase, as sales of the more expensive makes were less; while at retail the latter showed large gains. Stocks of automobiles also increased heavily, but holdings of the expensive makes were less than in August. Stocks of used cars also increased but sales were smaller.

Expansion in Manufacturing Industry in Chicago Federal Reserve District.

"Reports from representative industrial plants of the district indicate an expansion in manufacturing activity, the volume of employment at plants with an aggregate of about 380,000 men registering an increase of 1.6% for the period Aug. 15 to Sept. 15," says the "Monthly Business Conditions Report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago," dated Nov. 1, which goes on to say:

While the increases for firms located within the State of Illinois alone averaged a slightly higher gain, the trend was fairly uniform throughout the district as well as for a majority of the industries represented. Metals and metal products, which group comprises over a third of the total volume of employment reported for all the industrial groups, added 1.3% to its forces during the month. Food products, chemicals, leather and leather products showed marked expansion. The work at stone quarries, brick yards and cement plants, on the other hand, declined slightly, and paper mills and rubber products made definite curtailments in their employment.

Because the work at the industrial plants is generally on an hourly basis, pay-roll figures were greatly affected by the inclusion of Labor Day in the period for which many of the returns were made. Consequently only one of the industrial groups records a gain in the earnings for this period, the seasonal expansion in certain food products more than offsetting the shorter number of working hours. For firms whose reports did not include this holiday the change in pay-rolls corresponded closely to that shown by the volume of employment.

Reports issued by the Employers' Association of Detroit show that employment in that city the second week in October was 7% larger than for the same week in September. The effect of the general though moderate expansion in manufacturing activity, coupled with weather conditions favorable for outdoor work, was apparent at the free employment offices of Illinois where the number of applicants for each 100 places available decreased from 139 to 120 during September.

Gain in Wholesale and Retail Trade in Federal Reserve District of Chicago.

With reference to merchandising conditions in the Federal Reserve District of Chicago, the monthly business conditions report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, dated Nov. 1, says:

Wholesale Trade.

Distribution of goods at wholesale in this district during September was seasonably larger than the August volume. For the second time this year all five commodity groups covered by the bank's survey registered expansion over the preceding month, and of the separate firms only 17 reported declines. With the exception of groceries, however, the group increases were not so pronounced as last year.

For nearly half of the firms September sales were smaller than in the corresponding month of 1924, drugs alone averaging a gain. By the end of the third quarter of 1925 cumulative sales were 5% larger for drugs, and slightly ahead of a year ago for hardware, but 4% lower for dry goods, 5% for groceries, and 13% smaller for shoes.

As in 1924, the upward movement in trade increased the accounts outstanding so that, despite heavier collections, all groups reported amounts on their books at the close of September in excess of the Aug. 31 balances. Comparisons with a year ago show declines in collections for the grocery and dry goods groups and in accounts receivable for the shoe group as well.

Reporting dry goods houses with one exception, the majority of hardware, and about half the shoe and drug dealers reduced their stocks during the month, so that as in 1924 grocery firms were the one group in which inventories were generally higher on Sept. 30 than at the beginning of the month. For 26 out of 54 firms stocks were heavier than a year ago.

Department Store Trade.

Department store reports for September reflect the usual seasonal developments—a marked gain in sales compared with the preceding month, general additions to stocks, and heavier collections.

Of the total number of firms reporting to this bank for both August and September, 62 indicated a larger volume of trade during the second month, while 28 showed declines. In comparison with September last year slightly less than half registered gains. Cumulative sales for the first nine months of 1925 for 79 stores are 4.7% ahead of a year ago.

With two exceptions reporting stores made net additions to inventories during September, aggregate stocks for 63 firms at the end of the month exceeding the Aug. 31 balance by 7.3%. For 48 firms inventories were 0.2% below a year ago, 21 showing declines; in proportion to sales, however, goods on hand this September are lower, the month's business representing 31.8% of average stocks as compared with 28.4% last year.

For over 60% of the firms collections during September exceeded the August receipts, the district gain amounting to 5.4%; accounts outstanding by the end of the month had increased 12.9%, with only 12 stores reporting reductions. Forty-seven firms furnishing both 1924 and 1925 data collected in September this year 40.5% of accounts outstanding at the beginning of the month, of ½ of 1% below the corresponding ratio last year; for two-thirds of these stores collections were larger than in 1924, and for a larger proportion accounts on the books were heavier.

Retail Shoe Trade.

Twenty-two firms furnishing data on retail shoe sales during September averaged a gain of 11.9% over August. For 12 of these firms collections totaled 11.5% larger than receipts in the preceding month, although individually the majority showed decreases. Accounts outstanding rose 9.2% during the month, only 2 out of 13 firms reporting reductions. In stocks the increase of 2.6% reflects gains at 10 stores and declines at 4.

Agricultural and Business Conditions in Federal Reserve District of Minneapolis.

Under date of Oct. 30 the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis issued the following district summary for the month:

Business in this district during September continued on a level well above that of a year ago, both in physical volume and in money value. Debits in September were one-tenth larger than in the same month of last year, owing to a heavy movement of livestock and a noteworthy recovery of business in the grain belt cities of North Dakota. During the first two weeks of October, however, debits were one-tenth below the same period in the preceding year owing to the extraordinarily heavy activity of the grain trade last year and the slowing down of grain marketing after the end of September this year. However, the total of debits for all our cities, excepting the terminal market cities, during the first half of October this year were one-third greater than their debits in the same half month last year. The improvement in the physical volume of business also appears to be quite general, as total car-loadings increased in spite of the fact that the car-loadings of grain declined. Shipments of flour, iron ore, linseed products and miscellaneous freight increased substantially as compared with a year ago.

Grain receipts increased seasonally in September, but did not quite equal the volume of September last year. A much larger portion of this year's crop is being held by farmers unsold on storage tickets than for several years. Cash prices for all the grains, except flax, declined during the month, and bread wheat and flax alone were selling on an import basis at prices above the levels of a year ago. The situation with reference to the feed grains has been particularly depressing to their prices due to large stocks, particularly of oats. Stocks of all kinds of grain at terminals were one-half again as large at the end of September as last year. Trading in grain futures increased during the month one-tenth, as compared with a year ago.

Livestock receipts in September, measured by the number of head, were well above the volume a year ago, owing to a movement of calves and hogs much larger than is customary for this season of the year. Prices for livestock exhibited mixed trends during the month, but the quotations for all grades except stocker and feeder steers, were above the levels of a year ago.

There is some uncertainty as to the exact situation with reference to merchandising. Retail sales and stocks of department stores increased slightly as compared with September last year, while the only marked gain in wholesale trade was in the sales of shoes. September sales at wholesale this year were fairly satisfactory, with about the same totals as in September last year, as the comparison is being made with the unseasonably large volume of Sept. 1924. In the rural districts and smaller cities, there was an apparent improvement in the volume of effective purchasing power. Sales of lumber by retail yards scattered throughout this district increased substantially as compared with last year. Pronounced increases in building activity for the first nine months of 1925 as compared with the same months in 1924 have been exhibited in a large portion of our smaller reporting cities.

Insurance companies during September bought city mortgages in much larger volume and the public made larger purchases of foreign and industrial bonds than either a year ago or a month ago.

Prospective business activity as indicated by building statistics has improved greatly, both as compared with a year ago and a month ago, after making allowance in the latter comparison for seasonal tendencies. Industrial building increased.

Financing and banking conditions may be characterized as easy. Banks in the larger cities increased their loans, chiefly of a commercial and agricultural character, both during September and during the first half of October, without increasing their borrowings from this Federal Reserve Bank. At the same time, this Federal Reserve Bank experienced a reduction in loans to borrowing member banks located in the country districts. A very general increase took place throughout the district in deposits, and the demand for Federal Reserve notes for hand-to-hand circulation was much greater than usual during September. Interest rates were substantially unchanged during the month.

Newsprint Price Cut with Larger Output—Increase in Competition Also Said to Have Prompted Move of Two Companies.

With reference to the recent reduction in the contract price for newsprint, referred to in our issue of Oct. 17 (page 1856) the New York "Evening Post" reported the following from Toronto Oct. 24:

Increased competition, consequent upon increased production in Canada and Newfoundland, has resulted in a reduction in the contract price of newsprint for 1926 from $70 to $65 a ton, according to the announcements already made by the Belgo-Canadian Co. and the International Paper Co., which will probably necessitate similar reductions by Abitibi and Spanish River.

The event has not been unforeseen, either by the stock market or the producers. While the combined influence of Wall Street and of the plenitude of money, unemployed industrially, has resulted in a bull market here, the pulp and paper stocks for the last nine months have had little part in the rising movement.

Special reasons have resulted in one or two exceptions; for instance, Wayagamack, which has closely approached its price of two years ago because of its installation of a newsprint plant, in addition to its present machinery for the making of kraft paper.

Most of the larger companies for several months have been offsetting the expected price reduction by diminishing overhead expenses. They have been more particular recently to build extensions in proximity to the combined advantages of forest reserves, good transportation facilities and sufficient water power to permit the ready lease of surplus hydro-electric energy.

The total value of pulp and paper exported in September amounted to $8,842,780, or an increase of $2,029,540 over that of September 1924. During the first three-quarters of the present year the exports of these products reached $111,519,865, compared with $103,050,000 for the first nine months of last year.

Pulp has experienced an unusually strong demand this year, owing to the part that this commodity plays in the manufacture of rayon, or artificial silk.

Canadian Exports of Pulp and Paper in September and Nine Months.

The following is from the Toronto "Globe" of Oct. 21:

Total value of pulp and paper exports from Canada during September was $13,686,006, an increase of $1,085,396 over the total for August and of $2,029,540 over September 1924, according to the report issued by the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

Wood pulp exported in September had a value of $4,843,226, an increase of $1,021,069 over the previous month, and the highest monthly total recorded since the year 1920.

Exports of paper in September were valued at $8,842,780, an increase of $64,327 over the previous month.

Comparison between September 1925 and the corresponding month in 1924 is shown below:

	Sept. 1925.	Sept. 1924.

For the first nine months of the current year exports of pulp and paper were valued at $111,519,865, as compared with a value of $103,050,333 in the corresponding months of 1924, an increase for this year of $8,469,532. Exports of pulp for this period amounted to $34,181,917, while exports of paper accounted for $77,337,940.

Exports of pulpwood in September were 117,715 cords, valued at $1,237,132, a decline from the previous month, when the total was 148,672 cords, valued at $1,566,479.

Pulpwood exports for the first nine months of the year amounted to 1,185,495 cords, valued at $11,775,969, compared with 1,090,425 cords, valued at $11,140,838, exported in the first nine months of 1924.

Raw Silk Imports Increased During Year from 46 to 59 Million Pounds.

The American woman's wardrobe has expanded during the past year to a point where raw silk imports into this country have grown from 46 to 59 million pounds. This commentary on fashion's influence over industry is to be gathered from a study of the mid-year report of the silk trade, just issued by the Silk Association of America. The association says:

Not only has the total silk consumption grown tremendously, according to the report, but with the yardage for a dress reduced to a minimum, the number of garments in the individual silk wardrobe has increased even more than these figures imply. Prices were popular and fashion demanded silk—it was unquestionably a silk year.

High colors have taken the lead over sobriety in dress; how more and more country girls are wearing not only silk stockings but chiffons; how the fewer articles of underclothing worn have affected the glove silk trade; how the Canton strike has interfered with fashion; these are some of the interesting sidelights on the silk trade found in the trade review, which opens the report.

Weekly Lumber Production Gains Slightly.

The inference from telegraphic reports received by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, from 363 of the larger softwood mills of the country, for the week ended Oct. 24, is that there was a slight increase in national lumber production and a slight falling off in shipments and new business. Compared with the same week of 1924 the past week shows a general gain.

The unfilled orders of 241 Southern Pine and West Coast mills at the end of last week amounted to 570,347,721 ft. as against 582,555,454 ft. for 233 mills the previous week. The 130 identical Southern Pine mills in the group showed unfilled orders of 270,855,246 ft. last week as against 272,665,491 ft. for the week before. For the 111 West Coast mills the unfilled orders were 299,492,475 ft. as against 309,889,963 ft. for 103 mills a week earlier.

Althogether the 363 comparably reporting mills had shipments 96% and orders 89%, of actual production. For the Southern Pine mills these percentages were respectively 107 and 105; and for the West Coast mills 95 and 88.

Of the reporting mills, the 355 with an established normal production for the week of 213,688,182 ft., gave actual production 109%, shipments 104% and orders 97% thereof. The following table compares the national lumber movement as reflected by the reporting mills of seven regional associations for the three weeks indicated:

	Past Week.	Corresponding Week 1924.	Preceding Week 1925 (Revised).
Mills	363	347	353
Production	238,670,281	219,541,912	234,428,342
Shipments	228,396,138	211,704,545	233,521,626
Orders (new business)	213,260,339	211,921,526	228,789,136

The following revised figures compare the lumber movement of the seven associations for the first forty-three weeks of 1925 with the same period of 1924:

	Production.	Shipments.	Orders.
1925	10,436,596,336	10,326,633,843	10,124,459,664
1924	9,992,559,627	9,926,479,013	9,617,143,920

The mills of the California White and Sugar Pine Manufacturers Association make weekly reports, but for a considerable period they were not comparable to orders with those of other mills. Consequently, the former are not represented in any of the foregoing figures. Four of these mills reported a cut of 4,538,000 ft., shipments 3,526,000 and orders 3,899,000. The reported cut represents 11% of the total of the California Pine Region.

The Southern Cypress Manufacturers Association of New Orleans, (also omitted from above tables because only recently reporting) for the week ended Oct. 21, reported from 18 mills a production of 6,010,830 ft., shipments 6,180,000 and orders 6,580,000. In comparison with reports for the previous week when two fewer mills reported, this Association showed a substantial increase in production, a considerable increase in shipments and a good gain in new business.

Weekly Lumber Review of West Coast Lumbermen's Association.

One hundred and three mills reporting to West Coast Lumbermen's Association for the week ending Oct. 17, manufactured 101,233,741 feet of lumber; sold 95,848,354 feet, and shipped 101,453,221 feet. New business was 5% below production. Shipments were 6% above new business.

Forty-five per cent of all new business taken during the week was for future water delivery. This amounted to 43,581,379 feet, of which 24,667,864 feet was for domestic cargo delivery, and 18,913,515 feet export. New business by rail amounted to 1,551 cars.

Forty-four per cent of the lumber shipments moved by water. This amounted to 44,296,246 feet, of which 32,544,389 feet moved coastwise and intercoastal, and 11,751,857 feet export. Rail shipments totaled 1,714 cars.

Local auto and team deliveries totaled 5,736,975 feet.

Unfilled domestic cargo orders totaled 109,669,404 feet. Unfilled export orders 101,850,559 feet. Unfilled rail trade orders 3,279 cars.

In the first 42 weeks of the year production reported to West Coast Lumbermen's Association has been 4,196,673,088 feet, new business 4,320,902,708 feet and shipments 4,377,248,782 feet.

No Changes Recorded in Crude Oil or Gasoline Prices —South Dakota State Gasoline Stations Unconstitutional.

Crude oil and retail gasoline prices remained unchanged throughout the week. California fuel oil was reduced in price by the Standard Oil Co. of California which on Oct. 28 published the following list of reductions: Fuel oil at Richmond Refinery, reduced 21 cents per barrel, at El Segundo, 20 cents per barrel and at points supplied therefrom, 20 cents per barrel. The company also announced reductions in the current prices offered for crude oil at the wells, ranging from 15c. per barrel of heavy grades to no reduction on the lighter grades. The new base price for heavy oils in the San Joaquin Valley is 75c. per barrel and the new base price for heavy oil in Southern California is 85c. per barrel.

A despatch from Mitchell, S. D. on Oct. 29 declared that all State-operated gasoline stations were ordered to cease selling motor fuel at once by F. W. Marmon. The report was given in the New York "Times" of Oct. 30 as follows:

The order was issued on instructions from the State Highway Commission as a result of the opinion handed down on Oct. 28 by the State Supreme Court, holding that the retailing of gasoline by the State is unconstitutional.

Attorney General B. F. Jones will be requested by Governor Carl Gunderson to ask the Supreme Court to review its decision declaring participation by State officials in the gasoline business unconstitutional.

More Pronounced Decline in Crude Oil Production.

Steel Trade Improves—Pig Iron Market Situation Is Speculative.

Betterment in the steel market is more pronounced this week and is shown in a further increase in new business and in the firmer stand on prices taken by leading producers, observes the "Iron Age" in its Oct. 29 market review. Railroad demand, apart from heavy rail bookings, is growing; pig iron prices have advanced again, as the coke situation has tightened, and the expectation of a large-scale operation of mills through the winter is now more pronounced, continues this authority, from which we quote further as follows:

October gains in unfilled orders have been general in the heavy products. With the large rail contracts closed in the past week, that total has gone beyond 1,000,000 tons, and the inquiry still pending may increase it by 200,000 to 300,000 tons in the near future.

Not only is the situation in merchant pig iron and in coke more highly speculative than a week ago, due to the anthracite strike, but there is the remarkable feature that coke has been sold by several leading steel companies, in view of its high price and great demand for domestic use. As high as $10 has been paid for crushed coke, and blast furnace coke has gone to $8 50 and $9 at ovens.

A further uncertainty of the pig iron market is the fact that blast furnaces having their coke bought to the end of the year can make a larger profit by reselling it than by using it in the production of pig iron.

Increased pig iron sales and inquiry have been a feature of the week. In all districts sales for the first quarter of 1926 have been at higher prices, and a further early advance of 50c. to $1 is indicated.

Greater than expected, the Steel Corporation's earnings for the third quarter at $42,400,000 were $1,776,000 more than for the April-June period. Railroad earnings of the corporation, especially in the case of ore roads, ran well above those for the second quarter.

Farm implement works are running fuller than at any time in three years and leaders in that industry look for a large demand in 1926. Current steel orders from motor car companies are well beyond the promise of August and September.

Steel works operations ranging from 80 to 83% are reported from the leading districts, and at the same time delivery periods, particularly in bars, are gradually lengthening.

In the Chicago district new sales of finished steel in October, rails being an important factor, have been thus far nearly 25% above those of September, with specifications running 30% beyond those for last month.

The price advances in sheets, running from $1 a ton on black to $3 a ton on automobile body stock, are more definitely established this week. Hot-rolled flats, hoops, bands and strips are stronger and leading makers of cold-rolled strips announce a $3 advance from the recent low level. Rivets and cap and set screws are likewise higher. Steel scrap, on good buying at Pittsburgh, is up 50c. a ton.

An order for 1,000 box cars from the Central of Georgia and an inquiry for 1,000 steel gondolas from the New York Central are new items in railroad equipment, and there is a growing volume of smaller orders.

In rails, the New York Central distribution of 206,745 tons is the leading announcement, 155,000 tons of the total being specified for early delivery. Without formal inquiry, upward of 150,000 tons is looked for as a Pennsylvania reservation, also 85,000 tons for the B. & O. and probably 100,000 tons for the Santa Fe. The Missouri Pacific has bought 40,000 tons and the Southern Railway, 46,200 tons.

Structural steel awards of the week are swelled to 61,000 tons by the letting of 20,000 tons of steel for a large office building in New York and 11,200 tons for New York subway work. A blast furnace to be erected near St. Louis and a club building in Chicago will each take 3,500 tons. Of 25,000 tons of new work in the market, a viaduct for Jersey City and an exposition building in Philadelphia call for 4,500 tons each.

The "Iron Age" composite prices show an advance in both pig iron and finished steel. Pig iron has gone up 50c. to $20 38, being now $1 42 above its low point in July and more than $1 above the low level of last November. Finished steel is up to 2.410c. per lb., from 2.403c. the last four weeks and 2.396c. for the six weeks before that period. The usual comparative price table stands this week as follows:

Oct. 27 1925, Finished Steel, 2.410c. Per. Lb.

October proved a very satisfactory month to the iron and steel industry, adding materially to unfilled orders, to operations and to the strength of prices, declares the "Iron Trade Review" this week. Its closing days have witnessed a further extension of this rising movement, with general sentiment, perhaps, at its most cheerful point in the entire revival. Buyers have supplied new business in the liberal fashion of recent weeks. Producers with mounting backlogs and more uncertain over future costs, have made various new attempts to establish higher prices. Ingot operations are hugging close to 80%, adds the "Review," giving further details which we quote herewith:

The momentum of the present situation is being registered by various comparative records. This is especially true in the Chicago district where shipments of pig iron and finished steel already have exceeded the twelve months of 1924 and may reach the highest point for all time. The same thing applies to cast iron pipe. Leading wrought pipe producers have closed their fiscal year 25% in excess of the preceding period. October sheet business was the best of the year.

Price developments this week have included an advance of $2 per ton by some makers of galvanized sheets, of $3 per ton by certain cold-rolled strip mills and a stiffer stiuation in plates. Cap and set screws are up five points and a leading rivet manufacturer has a new base of 2.60c., up $2. More sheet bars were sold this week at $35, Pittsburgh.

A skyrocketing coke situation due to forced buying of anthracite substitutes for domestic purposes chiefly by the East remains a spectacular feature. Spot sales this week were at $9 and $10, ovens. The effect on metallurgical consumers is altogether sentimental, for while they are not buying in the present flurry, they see a very definite prospect of higher prices for themselves later. A Pittsburgh steelmaker seeking 25,000 tons of furnace coke was quoted $9 and declined to buy.

Another upward sweep of 50 cents to $1 per ton became effective generally in pig iron this week. This is based on the heavy immediate needs of melters which is driving them into the market steadily and on the reluctance of producers to obligate themselves for the future. Buying on the present scale has not been seen in the last three years. The Buick Motor Co., after buying 14,000 tons for last quarter, is seeking 21,000 for first quarter. Inquiry for steel-making grades has come to life at Pittsburgh. Valley basic has gone to $19 50.

Led by an award of 20,000 tons for an office building at New York, construction activity has produced another big weekly tonnage in steel. The total of contracts let is 47,599 tons. Two bridges at Pittsburgh about to be closed call for 19,000 tons. Reports of the award of a large international bridge at Detroit are preliminary to assurance of the project.

The American Can Co. and other large buyers have taken 5,000,000 boxes of tin plate for 1926. With the announcement of the award of 206,745 tons of rails by the New York Central System, railroad participation in the market this week has been more prominent. Of these rails 155,000 tons is a firm order and the balance is optional. Other rail orders closed are 45,200 tons by the Southern and 40,000 tons by the Missouri Pacific. Inquiries call for 25,000 tons for the Texas & Pacific, 15,000 tons for the Wabash and 8,500 tons for the Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis. The Santa Fe order of 75,000 to 100,000 tons is awaited. The Frisco is expected to place 4,000 and the Missouri Pacific 3,000 cars this week. The New York Central has a new inquiry for 1,000 gondolas.

After keen competition the Pennsylvania RR. has distributed 60,000 tons of car repair steel among three leading producers.

A more buoyant market is defined by the "Iron Trade Review" composite of 14 leading iron and steel products which shows the widest advance in ten months. This week's figure is $37 95, against $37 61 last week, $37 45 three months and $38 61 one year ago.

Domestic Exports of Cotton, Cotton Cloths, Yarns, Thread and Hosiery.

The Department of Commerce at Washington on Oct. 24 issued its monthly report on the domestic exports of cotton, cotton cloths, yarns, thread and hosiery for the month of September and the nine months ending with September 1925, with comparisons for the corresponding periods in 1924.

The exports of raw cotton were larger this year in quantity both for the month and the nine months period than last year, 752,324 bales having been shipped out in September 1925, as compared with 737,485 bales in September 1924, and 4,919,914 bales for the nine months of 1925, against 3,465,942 bales in the nine months of 1924. In value, the exports of raw cotton for the month of September were slightly smaller, due to the lower price prevailing this year, the value being $97,439,995 in September this year, as compared with $97,603,862 in September last year. For the nine months, however, there is a very heavy increase, $632,773,412 being the value this year, as against $526,571,417 last year. Cotton cloths and manufactures have increased both in quantity and value in the nine months of this year as compared with the nine months of last year. Below is the report in detail:

Domestic Exports of Meats and Fats.

The Department of Commerce at Washington gave out on Oct. 21 its monthly report on the domestic exports of meats and fats for September. This shows that in September the total quantity of meats and meat products exported was less than in the corresponding month last year, but the value of these exports was somewhat larger, 45,425,652 lbs. being exported in September 1925, against 54,881,443 lbs. in September 1924. The value of these exports in September this year amounted to $9,354,197, against $8,383,932 in September last year. The total of animal oils and fats for September was also smaller than last year. For the nine months ended with September the exports of meats and fats have been generally less than in the corresponding period last year, both in quantity and value. The report is as follows:

Large Decrease in Domestic Exports of Grains.

The Department of Commerce at Washington gave out its monthly report on Oct. 21 on the exports of grains and and preparation thereof for September and the nine months ending with September, as compared with the corresponding periods in the previous year. The exports heavily decreased as compared with the month of September 1924. The value of the shipments was only $35,896,582 in Sept. 1925, against $71,182,653 in the same month of the previous year. For the nine months ending with September however the value of the exports was $292,839,370 as compared with $217,446,258 for the same nine months of 1924. The report is as follows: The wheat exports in September 1925 were only 9,390,685 bushels as against 32,662,007 bushels in Sept. 1924; the flour exports no more than 800,310 barrels against 1,462,767 bushels and the rye exports but 1,041,893 bushels against 11,563,445 bushels. Barley, corn, oats and rice however went out in increased quantities.

Production of Bituminous Coal in September.

The table below presents the best available estimates of bituminous production by States for September; the distribution being based on figures of railroad loadings furnished by the American Railway Association. Total production during the month amounted to 46,817,000 net tons—1,934,000 tons more than in August. The average daily output in September was 117,000, or 6.8% greater than that in the preceding month, according to the statistics issued by the U. S. Bureau of Mines, from which the following is quoted:

Bituminous Coal and Coke Markets Active With Higher Prices.

With the exception of the New York district, there was a decided let up in the demand for bituminous coals along the Atlantic seaboard during the past week, declares the "Coal Trade Journal" on Oct. 28. Anthracite was, with the exception of a little buckwheat, entirely off the market but furnace coke for heating purposes was in good demand and prices were steadily rising with the supply none too good. The bituminous steam trade at Boston was quite inactive but prepared sizes were in great demand. On account of large stocks at the southern loading piers, prices at Boston were still down with those at Providence slightly better. A large supply of New River slack was available but demand was absent. The advance in prices at the West Virginia mines slowed up sales in smokeless prepared and the same applied to the low volatiles of central Pennsylvania. The demand for coke continued strong although sales of the Connellsville product slowed up on account of the great rise in oven quotations. Retail prices on anthracite have advanced in Greater Boston, the "Journal" goes on to say, giving further details as follows:

At New York all markets with the exception of anthracite show great activity with dealers in coke rather feverish. Low volatile prepared grades were hard to get and prices proportionately high. A very good business was done in prepared high volatile bituminous coals and prices were up.

With only a small amount of anthracite pea coal left, householders in Philadelphia turned their attention to substitutes and to installing apparatus for the economical burning of anthracite and low volatile soft coals. The bituminous market was in the midst of a temporary slump except that the demand for the low volatile coals from central Pennsylvania was good. Pool prices were unchanged except pools 9 and 10. Coke was running wild with demand steadily increasing and prices soaring.

Except for the prepared sizes used by householders as substitutes for anthracite, the Baltimore bituminous market was in the midst of a slump. Coke was very active at high prices. Pool prices dropped in most grades. Export shipments so far this month have been small. Anthracite was very scarce but had not risen in price to any great extent.

Stocks at the Virginia piers were still over the 300,000 mark, the bulk of which was low volatile, all of which has kept the average price below $5. Some premium coals were quoted at this figure but only nominally as stocks of these grades were pretty well sold up.

Due to the anthracite strike the central Pennsylvania district increased its loadings again last week and more mines have started in to prepare coal in domestic sizes. Operators in that district think at least some portion of their new market will stick after anthracite is again available. Prices on some pools were up while others were off a nickel. The demand for domestic coal in the Pittsburgh district is good but ample production and keen competition kept prices down. The industrial market took more coal but some of this was from foreign districts. Production in the district gained last week even though fewer union mines were working. By-product coal moved well, but mostly on contract and purchases by the railroads were larger. Prices on the whole were firm though unchanged. The demand for heating coke forced up prices in the Connellsville district to great heights and demand was feverish with many idle ovens starting up.

There was a decided improvement in the demand for lump and other prepared sizes in northern West Virginia last week, particularly for shipments to New England, western New York and Canada. Prices were much firmer except for mine-run, the demand for which was limited. This also applied to slack. Both union and non-union production fell off somewhat.

The colder weather increased the demand in southern West Virginia materially but without any increase in production and prices were very firm. This was particularly noticeable in the smokeless fields but the effect was felt to a marked degree by high volatile operations. A strike of railroad firemen and engineers on the Western Maryland seriously crippled shipments from the Upper Potomac and western Maryland fields last week. Otherwise, price and production conditions in these fields were unchanged. Production in the Virginia territory was larger and the spot demand, particularly for shipments to southern markets, increased. Supplies on hand were large, however, precluding any appreciable rise in prices.

A much better tone pervades the bituminous coal trade, thanks to the stimulating influence of biting autumn temperatures over a large portion of the country, the "Coal Age" declared on Oct. 29. Naturally enough, the firmness is most marked in screened and sized coals suitable for domestic use. Less change is in evidence in the steam-coal business, though railroad consumption is heavy. Movement to the lakes is especially heavy for this time of year, 3,323 carloads having passed through Cincinnati in this trade last week. Embargoes were necessary on the Pennsylvania and B. & O. lines because of congestion at Toledo and Sandusky, observes the "Age" in continuing its weekly market review, from which we quote:

West Virginia smokeless is coming back strong, especially in the Middle West, where prices are mounting steadily. For that matter, Illinois and Indiana prepared coals are in such good demand that "no bills" are being cleaned up and unfilled orders are beginning to be in evidence. Screenings are a trifle weaker, however, due to the output having been too heavy for the market to absorb easily. Kentucky is getting better working time in all fields, some of the product replacing West Virginia coal now going to the East.

Seasonal briskness makes the trade at the Head of the Lakes and the Southwest. All-round firming up is in evidence at Cincinnati and the other Ohio markets also are somewhat stronger. Even Pittsburgh shows signs of a steady influx of strength. All the Eastern markets are steadily gaining except Baltimore, which is rather flat, and New England, where buying has eased off.

Despite rumors of a compromise being at hand, the end of the anthracite strike seems to be as far off as ever. The wholesale market has practically disappeared and retail stocks of domestic sizes, except of pea, are beginning to feel the strain of the lopsided movement. Buckwheat is still in plentiful supply, but tightening, and the end of the stock of pea is said to be in sight. Coke is the headliner in demand as a hard-coal substitute, so much so that prices are steadily advancing, but the supply, even under forced pressure, can never hope to catch up with the present demand.

The "Coal Age" index of spot prices of bituminous coal on Oct. 26 stood at 178, the corresponding price being $2.15, compared with 176 and $2.13, respectively, the week before.

Dumpings at Lake Erie prots during the week ended Oct. 25, according to the Ore & Coal Exchange, were: Cargo, 809,488 net tons; steamship fuel, 41,208 tons—a total of 850,696 net tons, compared with 934,433 tons in the preceding week. Hampton Roads dumpings in the week ended Oct. 22 totaled 437,190 net tons, against 355,202 tons in the previous week.

Trade Conditions in Wilkes-Barre—Gains Shown Despite Coal Strike—Miners' Savings.

In a review Oct. 8 of trade conditions in the Wyoming Valley (Pa.) as seen by the Miners' Bank of Wilkes-Barre, reference is made to the big earnings, with the resultant large savings of the miners, the review stating:

General trade is somewhat spotty in this district, showing gains as compared with a year ago in some branches and showing losses in other branches. The gains predominate, however, and explain why this section is having a pretty good retail trade in spite of the strike. This is not unnatural, for the history of such disturbances shows that the miners often have to feel the pinch of hard times before their wives and sweethearts go into conference and decide that it is time for the men to go back to work. When this stage has been reached the procedure of returning the men to their old places soon gains momentum.

Large Savings.

But the miners this year have been especially well placed financially, which is not unnatural in view of the fact that hundreds have been drawing from $250 a month to $550 a month. This explains the heavy automobile sales to anthracite workers and the ability of the men in many instances to take their families away on long vacations as soon as it was known that there was to be a strike and that the mines were to be actually closed down. No one begrudges the anthracite miners good earnings and comfortable living standards, for the work is difficult and often dangerous, despite the fact that the present protective measures are probably the best and most elaborate that the industry has ever seen. As compared with safety devices and living conditions existent now and those in force at the time of the great strike of 1902, enormous gains have been achieved. The industry in this interval has been literally revolutionized to the benefit of this entire community.

Bituminous Coal Output Remains Practically Unchanged—Anthracite Strike Continues—Coke Output Increases.

The rate of bituminous coal production remained about the same as that of one week ago, reported the United States Bureau of Mines on Oct. 24. Anthracite output remains practically nil. On the other hand, the production of coke gained by about 11%, according to the Bureau's statistics, from which the following extracts are taken:

Total bituminous production during the week ended Oct. 17, including lignite and coal coked at the mines, is estimated at 11,767,000 net tons, an increase of less than 1% over that of the week preceding. Responding to stimulated demand, soft coal output during the month of September was maintained at a daily rate of about 1,843,000 tons. The rate established so far during the two full weeks in October is about 1,950,000 tons per day—a gain of almost 6%.

BEEHIVE COKE.

Based on reports received from the principal coke-carrying roads, the production of beehive coke during the week of Oct. 17 is estimated at 226,000 net tons, an increase of 23,000 tons, or 11.3%, when compared with the preceding week. Compared with the corresponding week of 1924, the gain was 79,000 tons, or 53.7%.

The "Weekly Courier" states that production in the Connellsville District for the week of Oct. 17 increased to 143,440 net tons, a gain of 11% over the preceding week. Both furnace and merchant interests contributed to the increase, there being 929 additional ovens fired, 422 at furnace plants and 507 at merchant plants.

Earnings of Anthracite Miners.

Figures of earnings of anthracite miners were made public as follows by the Anthracite Operators' Conference on Oct. 20:

The following figures compiled from actual payrolls show the amount of cash received by anthracite miners in their pay envelopes—after all deductions for supplies and pay of their laborers.

These are not selected earnings. Some miners receive more than $500 for a month's work. These are earnings of miners (paid by the ton, car or yardage) who worked any considerable part of the days the mines operated in 1924:

921 men worked 275 days and received $3,947 each, or $14 33 a day.
231 men worked 274 days and received $3,445 each, or $12 57 a day.
290 men worked 271 days and received $3,347 each, or $12 36 a day.
373 men worked 272 days and received $3,246 each, or $11 91 a day.
402 men worked 272 days and received $3,146 each, or $11 55 a day.
601 men worked 271 days and received $3,044 each, or $11 22 a day.
676 men worked 272 days and received $2,950 each, or $10 85 a day.
761 men worked 270 days and received $2,849 each, or $10 51 a day.
957 men worked 270 days and received $2,744 each, or $10 14 a day.
1,190 men worked 268 days and received $2,648 each, or $9 89 a day.
1,254 men worked 268 days and received $2,548 each, or $9 51 a day.
1,392 men worked 266 days and received $2,450 each, or $9 20 a day.
1,477 men worked 265 days and received $2,349 each, or $8 85 a day.
1,605 men worked 263 days and received $2,246 each, or $8 53 a day.
1,439 men worked 261 days and received $2,151 each, or $8 25 a day.

Those men who earned less than the above worked only four or five days a week, due to failure to take advantage of their opportunities.

The 1924 average earnings of 18,957 contract miners whose wages have been compiled is $2,437 70 and to make these earnings the miners worked an average of less than 6¾ hours per day.

Men paid by the day received in 1924 an average of $1,717 10.

The anthracite workers are now on strike for a 10% increase for the contract miners and $1 per day for the day men above the wages shown here.

These figures are published in answer to the claim that mine workers are underpaid.

1924 was selected because it showed a full year's pay. Monthly pay in July and August of 1925—the last two months before the strike—was at an even higher rate than 1924.

Current Events and Discussions

The Week With the Federal Reserve Banks.

The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve banks on Oct. 28, made public by the Federal Reserve Board, and which deals with the results for the twelve Federal Reserve banks combined, shows a decline of $13,000,000 in holdings of discounted bills and of $2,900,000 in foreign loans on gold, together with an increase of $35,500,000 in open-market acceptance holdings and of $900,000 in Government securities. Total bills and securities went up $20,500,000 and cash reserves $3,800,000, while Federal Reserve notes in circulation remained practically unchanged.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta shows a decrease of $6,600,000 in discount holdings, the New York bank $5,700,000, Richmond $4,600,000, Cleveland $4,000,000, St. Louis $3,800,000 and Minneapolis $2,300,000. After noting these facts the Federal Reserve Board proceeds as follows:

The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis shows a decrease of $3,300,000 in this item, Minneapolis of $3,200,000, Philadelphia $2,300,000 and Cleveland $2,000,000. Treasury certificates on hand went up $700,000 and Treasury notes and U. S. bonds $100,000 each.

Federal Reserve note circulation increased $5,300,000 at the New York bank and $2,100,000 at Cleveland, and declined $3,000,000 at the San Francisco bank. The remaining banks report smaller changes in Federal Reserve note circulation for the week.

The Week with the Member Banks of the Federal Reserve System.

The Federal Reserve Board's weekly statement of condition of 723 reporting member banks in leading cities as of Oct. 21 shows an increase of $14,000,000 in loans and discounts and a decrease of $3,000,000 in investments. These changes were accompanied by an increase of $42,000,000 in time deposits and by declines of $91,000,000 in net demand deposits, of $86,000,000 in Government deposits and of $46,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks. It should be noted that the figures for these member banks are always a week behind those for the Reserve banks themselves. Member banks in New York City reported an increase of $14,000,000 in loans and discounts and of $6,000,000 in net demand deposits, together with decreases of $12,000,000 in investments, $20,000,000 in Government deposits and $61,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve Bank. Further comments regarding the changes shown by these member banks are as follows:

Loans on U. S. Government securities went up $7,000,000 in the St. Louis district, banks in other districts showing little or no change in this item. Loans on corporate stocks and bonds were higher than the previous week by $72,000,000, of which $50,000,000 was reported by banks in the New York district and $15,000,000 in the Chicago district. "All other," largely commercial, loans and discounts show a decline of $64,000,000, reductions being shown for all districts except Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco. The principal decreases were $28,000,000 in the New York district, $13,000,000 in the Chicago district and $8,000,000 each in the Boston and St. Louis districts.

Investments in U. S. securities show but nominal change in any of the Federal Reserve districts. Holdings of other bonds, stocks and securities were reduced $5,000,000, decreases of $11,000,000 and $3,000,000 in the New York and Atlanta districts, respectively, being partly offset by small increases in the Boston, Cleveland, Dallas and San Francisco districts.

Net demand deposits declined in all districts except Dallas. The principal reductions were as follows: Kansas City, $24,000,000; San Francisco, $15,000,000; St. Louis, $11,000,000; Richmond, $10,000,000; Chicago, $8,000,000, and Philadelphia and Atlanta, $7,000,000 each.

Time deposits increased by $42,000,000, increases of $15,000,000 and $8,000,000 being reported by the Kansas City and Chicago districts, respectively. Banks in all other districts except Minneapolis reported nominal increases in this item.

Net withdrawals of Government deposits aggregated $86,000,000, reductions being shown for all districts. The principal decreases were as follows New York district, $25,000,000; Cleveland district, $13,000,000, and San Francisco and Chicago districts, $10,000,000 and $9,000,000, respectively.

Reductions of $55,000,000 and $20,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks were reported by the New York and Boston districts, respectively, while comparatively small increases were shown for some of the other districts.

On a subsequent page—that is, on page 2129—we give the figures in full contained in this latest weekly return of the member banks of the Reserve System. In the following is furnished a summary of the changes in the principal items as compared with a week ago and with last year:

Weekly Digest of Cables Received from Foreign Offices by the Foreign Bureau of the Department of Commerce at Washington.

DENMARK.

The present deflation program in Denmark has affected general business conditions but the sentiment for a relatively rapid return of the crown to parity continues to grow in spite of recent wide fluctuations. Industrial activity is very low, notably in the iron, metals and textile industries and unemployment in consequence is growing rapidly. Price levels are reacting downward and business on the whole is dull. Shipments of farm products are fair at somewhat steadier prices. Foreign trade during August returned lower figures both for imports and exports. Final accounts for the fiscal year 1945-25 resulted in a deficit of 33,000,000 crowns.

NORWAY.

There has been no noticeable change in the commercial and industrial situation of Norway during the past month. Financial conditions are improving, partly as a result of the strength of the exchange and partly to continued inflow of foreign capital. Foreign trade is developing in a very gratifying way, with the result that the unfavorable trade balance has been reduced considerably. Bank credits and note circulations are being gradually contracted as a result of the deflation in prices.

AUSTRIA.

The effect upon Austrain exports of the restrictions placed by Poland upon imports has become more marked. Production has not generally diminished but it is believed that except for staple articles, stocks in the hands of manufacturers are increasing. Unemployment is increasing, as is usual at this time of the year, and on Oct. 15 amounted to 117,000, an increase of 4% as compared with Sept. 15. The strike in the Donawitz works of the Alpine Mining Co. which began on Sept. 22 ended on Oct. 19 with a compromise increasing wages in the lower categories. The strike in the Siemens electrical factories, which began about the same time as the Alpine Mining Co. strike, ended on Oct. 10 with a 5% increase of wages to women. The Austrian National Bank increased its reserve cover for circulation and deposits from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 by one point, reaching 60%. Savings deposits continue to increase. The Government closed accounts for August show provisionally a net surplus of $1,700,000 after expending for construction and improvements $1,200,000.

CHINA.

Generally unsettled conditions and delays in rail transportation are slowing down the autumn business revival in China, and are having a serious effect upon trade throughout the country, especially in the Yangtze Valley. With the exception of Canton, the situation in South China coast ports shows improvement. Trade in iron and steel is slow, while the automotive market has been disappointing. Lumber is moving fairly well due to building activities and street improvements in the foreign settlements. Business conditions in North China appear less unfavorable than in the vicinity of Shanghai and further south.

HAWAII.

With harvests practically completed, the month of October has been characterized by a general slowing up of Hawaiian business. The building industry in Honolulu is showing considerable activity, 308 permits having been issued in September. The four Hawaiian rubber companies estimate that their production for the year will reach 2,300,000 lbs.

ARGENTINA.

Crop conditions are very favorable, while the export movement of live stock and agricultural products is generally slow, but active in spots. There is an increased interest in wool exports, with the new clip estimated at 300,000 bales and a carryover of 50,000. The import demand, except for agricultural implements, automobiles, and specialties, is dull and stagnation in most lines of local business continues. Stocks of imported goods are generally normal. Failures are increasing and interior collections are reported more difficult.

BRAZIL.

Exchange fluctuated widely during the month, but strengthened about the 15th with a general tendency to firm. The principal reasons for this improvement are the favorable trade balance, the recent entrance of foreign capital, and the withdrawal of 217,678,000 milreis of notes. Coffee prices declined gradually during the month, with coffee interests showing considerable concern over the heavy price reductions in recent months. The market for most lines of imports is very dull, due to the continued money shortage, and the fact that many firms are now taking inventory. The Pernambuco sugar trade is extremely depressed. The agricultural machinery market is dull, while automobile sales are below normal. The demand for rubber tires fell off considerably from last month, due to overstocking prior to price increases. Demand for shipping space for American and European ports was active during the first part of the month but fell off the last two weeks, especially to the States.

CHILE.

Business in general was very good in Chile during October, both in production of domestic goods and movements of import lines. Copper and iron ore production continues at the same high levels, but the demand for coal continues slow. Nitrate production is at high levels with sales for the first 24 days of October over 1,000,000 metric quintals. Total sales for delivery during the remainder of 1925 are above those of last year, amounting to 13,300,000 metric quintals. Early prospects for agricultural products are suspended.

PORTO RICO.

Business in Porto Rico was generally dull, especially in the agricultural districts. Imports of construction materials and staple foodstuffs are fairly active, but in other lines the import movement is small. Weather favors crops, with the coming sugar crop believed by the trade to be equal in size to that of last season.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.

Foreign trade of the Dominican Republic continues on a high level and the retail trade reports a satisfactory volume of sales. Several American firms have recently extended their business in the Republic.

HAITI.

The exportation of coffee during the last 90 days from Haiti reached 31,000,000 kilos, which was practically the entire crop. The large volume of imports continues.

Rumanian Debt Misrion Furthei Delays Visit to United States.

In reporting a further postponement of the visit to the United States of the Rumanian Debt Mission, the Associated Press advices from Bucharest, Oct. 29, said:

The departure of the Rumanian debt funding commission to the United States has again been postponed. The reason now given is that M. Titulescu, head of the commission, has been delegated to represent Rumania in several matters presently to be considered by the Reparation Commission.

The mission had originally planned to sail for the United States October 10. The cancellation of its passage was noted in our issue of Oct. 10, page 1747.

Agreement for Funding of Esthonia's Indebtedness to United States.

An agreement for the funding of Esthonia's debt to the United States was signed at Washington on Oct. 28 by Minister Piip for the Esthonian Government and Secretary Mellon for the American Debt Commission. Under the agreement reached, says the New York "Herald Tribune's" advices from Washington, the United States Government struck off from the books approximately $2,000,000 of the indebtedness which was lost when the steamship John Ross, carrying a cargo of surplus war supplies to Esthonia, was sunk by a mine in the Baltic Sea. The account in that paper says:

The amount of the indebtedness to be funded is $13,830,000, computed as follows:

Principal amount of obligations to be funded	$13,999,145 60
Credit allowed for total loss of cargo on sinking of steamer John Ross, sunk by a mine in Baltic Sea	1,932,923 45
Balance	$12,066,222 15
Interest accrued and unpaid thereon to Dec. 15 1922 at rate of 4¼% a year	1,765,219 73
Total principal and interest accrued and unpaid as of Dec. 15 1922	$13,831,441 80
To be paid in cash by Esthonia on execution of agreement	1,441 88
Total indebtedness to be funded into bonds	$13,830,000 00

The basis of the settlement is the same as that made with Poland, Esthonia having the option to liquidate the amounts due under the agreement on or before Dec. 15 1930, in part by semi-annual cash payments as follows: June 15 1926, $50,000; Dec. 15 1926, $50,000; June 15 1927, $75,000; Dec. 15 1927, $75,000; June 15 1928, $100,000; Dec. 15 1928, $100,000; June 15 1929, $125,000; Dec. 15 1929, $125,000; June 15 1930, $150,000; Dec. 15 1930, $150,000; total, $1,000,000.

The balance is to be funded into bonds of Esthonia similar in terms to the bonds first to be issued under the agreement.

The $13,830,000 principal amount of bonds of Esthonia to be issued uder the funding agreement mature serially over a period of 62 years and bear interest at the rate of 3% a year up to Dec. 15 1932 and 3½% thereafter.

Agreement for Refunding Latvia's War Debt to the United States.

The agreement for the refunding of the indebtedness of the Republic of Latvia to the United States, signed at Washington, Sept. 24, mention of which was made in these columns Sept. 26 (page 1524), is referred to in the October number of the Bulletin issued by the Federal Reserve Board. The amount of the indebtedness to be refunded, including interest to Dec. 15 1922, is $5,779,562 76; of this $4,562 76 is to be paid in cash, leaving $5,775,000 to be funded into bonds. With regard to the agreement, the Federal Reserve Board says:

Under the proposed agreement, which is subject to the approval of Congress and of the Saeima of Latvia, bonds of Latvia will be issued maturing serially over a period of 62 years, with interest at 3% to Dec. 15 1932 and at 3½% thereafter. The terms of the settlement, it is stated, are substantialy the same as those of the settlement with Poland and Great Britain, "except that Latvia has the option to liquidate the amounts due under the agreement on or before Dec. 15 1930, in part by semi-annual cash payments," of from $30,000 to $50,000, for a total amount of $400,000, the balance due in this initial period of five years to be funded into bonds similar to those provided in the agreement. It is noted that this is the seventh funding agreement concluded by the World War Foreign Debt Commission, following agreements already approved by Congress with Great Britain, Finland, Hungary, Lithuania and Poland, and an agreement with Belgium, which, together with the present agreement, will be submitted to Congress at its next session.

Offering of $25,000,000 Bonds of Czechoslovak Republic —Issue Disposed of—Books Closed.

It was announced on Oct. 26 that the National City Co. and associates, including Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Kidder, Peabody & Co., and Hope & Co. of Amsterdam, Holland, had closed with the Czechoslovak Republic negotiations for the flotation of an issue of $25,000,000 secured external sinking fund gold loan of 1925, series A, 20-year 7½% bonds. On Oct. 27 public offering of the bonds was made at 96 and interest, to yield over 8%, by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the National City Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co.; Lee, Higginson & Co. and Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co. Simultaneously $3,500,000 of the issue was offered to investors in Holland by Hope & Co. The loan negotiations, in which the two leading Czechoslovak financial institutions, the Zivnostenka Bank and the Boehmische Escompte Bank and Credit Anstalt of Prague collaborated, were concluded here on behalf of the Czechoslovak Government by that country's special financial delegation which recently successfully arranged at Washington for the funding of the Czechoslovak debt to the United States Government. The agreement providing for the refunding of Czechoslovakia's war debt was referred to in these columns Oct. 17, page 1861. The subscription books to the new bond issue were closed shortly after they were opened at the offices of the National City Co. on Oct. 27, the issue, it was announced, having been oversubscribed. The bonds will bear date Oct. 1 1925 and will become due Oct. 1 1945. They will be redeemable in whole or in part, at the option of the Government, or through the operation of the sinking fund, on any interest date at 105. The bonds outstanding at maturity will be paid at 105% of the principal amount. A special sinking fund has been provided for the present issue, which will start immediately, and will be sufficient to pay or redeem the entire amount in substantially equal semi-annual installments, either by purchase in the market, if obtainable at or below 105 and interest, or, if not so obtainable, by redemption by lot at 105. The bonds are part of an issue of $50,000,000 authorized under laws of the Czechoslovak Republic (Law No. 245 of Dec. 14 1923, Law No. 278 of Dec. 12 1924, and Law No. 110 of March 31 1922). They are secured by a first specific charge on revenues from excise duties on sugar and alcohol, and by a specific charge on customs duties and net profits of the tobacco monopoly, junior only to the charge created in favor of the 8% secured external loan of 1922, now outstanding. The bonds are in coupon bearer form in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal only. Principal, interest (April 1 and Oct. 1) and premium are payable in New York City at head office of the National City Bank of New York, fiscal agent, in gold coin of the United States of America of the present standard of weight andf ineness, without deduction for any Czechoslovak taxes or duties, present or future, and payable in time of war as well as in time of peace, whether the holders of the bonds be subjects of a friendly or hostile State. Principal, interest and premium are also collectible at the option of the holders at the city office of the National City Bank of New York in London, England, in pounds sterling, or at the office of Hope & Co., Amsterdam, Netherlands, in guilders, in each case at the then current buying rate of such office for sight exchange on New York City, New York. The purpose of the issue is indicated as follows:

The proceeds of the present issue will be applied principally to the funding of Government short-term indebtedness pursuant to a program designed to add materially to the financial stability of the Government and to strengthen the national credit at home and abroad. Other objectives of this program have already been achieved, including the balancing of the budget and the stabilization of the currency.

In advices under date of Oct. 21 to the offering houses, Antonin Svehla, Prime Minister of the Czechoslovak Republic, and Ing. Bohdan Becka, Minister of Finance of the Czechoslovak Republic, state in part:

The loan, of which the present issue of Series A bonds forms a part, is authorized for a total amount limited to $50,000,000, or its equivalent in other currencies, and will be secured by a specific lien or charge upon the revenues of the Republic arising from excise taxes now or hereafter levied upon sugar and alcohol, which lien or charge shall be superior to any and every other lien or charge now existing or hereafter created, and by a specific lien or charge upon the customs duties of the Republic and upon the net profits of the tobacco monopoly, which lien or charge shall be junior only to the specific charge created in favor of the holders of the bonds of the Czechoslovak State loan of 1922, now outstanding, the interest and cumulative sinking fund requirements of which amount to approximately $4,436,000 per annum. Upon repayment of the Loan of 1922, the Czechoslovak Republic will have the right to secure a new loan not to exceed $50,000,000 in aggregate principal amount with a lien upon its customs duties and the net profits of the tobacco monopoly, ranking equally and ratably with the lien created in favor of this loan.

The sugar tax and the alcohol tax during the past three years have together yielded an average return of approximately $15,828,750. The customs receipts and the net profits from the tobacco monopoly over the same period have averaged approximately $51,834,406. The revenues specifically pledged, on the basis of the past three years, and after making due allowance from the receipts of the customs duties and the net profits of the tobacco monopoly for the requirements of the 8% secured external loan of 1922, would leave available for the service of the loan $63,227,156 per annum, or over 19 times the maximum interest and sinking fund charges on the present issue of Series A bonds, which will reach a maximum during the first year (not exceeding $3,191,000), after which the interest charges for the series will decrease materially, year by year, through the action of the sinking fund.

The 8% secured external sinking fund gold loan of 1922, authorized for a total amount of $50,000,000, was offered simultaneously in New York, London and Amsterdam, $30,500,000 in 1922 and the balance in 1924, and is now outstanding approximately as follows: $23,250,000 in the United States, $23,250,000 in Great Britain and $3,500,000 in Holland. Pledged revenues during the last three years have been equivalent to more than 11½ times interest and sinking fund requirements.

Debt.

The total actual debt of the Republic, officially computed as of approximately July 31 1925, was Kc. 30,540,724,334.10, made up as follows:

Consolidated debt	Kc.	16,045,462,152.50
Short-term debt	"	6,242,794,000.00
Foreign credits	"	4,478,468,181.60
Bank loans	"	515,000,000.00
Debts in pursuance of the treaties	"	3,259,000,000.00
Total of all public debts	Kc.	30,540,724,334.10

This total, equivalent to $885,681,006, represents a per capita debt of $65 06 (1921 census), and includes Czechoslovakia's indebtedness to teh United States Government, the principal amount of which has been fixed by mutual agreement at $115,000,000 as of June 15 1925. The United States Government has accorded Czechoslovakia terms of payment generally similar to those granted the British Government, with certain alleviations in the schedule of cash payments during the earlier years which will protect Czechoslovakia from undue financial hardship. As regards the debts in pursuance of the treaties referred to above, there remain unsettled only liabilities concerning properties taken over from former Austria-Hungary and an eventual "Liberation" indemnity. The Government, however, is convinced that these questions will be settled in a manner favorable to Czechoslovakia.

Of the above consolidated debt, amounting to approximately $465,318,400, some $146,000,000 represents pre-war debt of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire definitely assumed by Czechoslovakia, while about $229,000,000 represents capital expenditures of the Government during the period 1919-1925, devoted to railroads, telegraphs, telephones, bridges, roads, public buildings, &c.

Revenues and Expenditures.

Since 1922 there has been a constant reduction in expenditures, and during 1924, especially, remarkable progress has been made in attaining a balanced budget. The accounts for 1924 show that ordinary revenues exceeded ordinary expenses by a surplus, applied mostly to the reduction of Government short-term debt. Budget estimates for 1925 indicate a surplus of ordinary revenues.

In 1924 the net yield of the main items of taxation amounted to $243,888,621, as compared with budget estimates of $221,655,864, and actual returns for 1923 of $226,826,660. Actual returns from these sources, therefore, exceeded budget estimates by 10%, and the yield of the previous year by 7½%, reflecting both the healthy condition of the revenues and the conservative basis on which budget estimates are computed. The Government is making every effort to reduce total expenditure, especially by the reduction of personnel, so that the proposed relief in the matter of the present heavy direct taxation may be realized. On the other hand, a proposed increase in the suagar tax is estimated to yield about $9,500,000 additional revenue annually.

Currency—New Central Bank of Issue.

The currency of Czechoslovakia is the Czechoslovak Crown, issued in the form of notes by the banking office of the Ministry of Finance, which is pecifically prohibited by law from making advances of any kind, directly or indirectly, to the Government. As a result of this policy, Czeshoslovakia has been remarkably successful in maintaining a great measure of stability in its currency. The rate of exchange hsa improved from around 2 cents at the time of the issue of the first portion of the 8% secured external loan of 1922, to over 2.90 cents at present, at which approximate level it has remained stable for the past three years. The amount of State notes in circulation on Jan. 1 1921 was Kc. 11,288,000,000, as against Kc.7,695,077,000 on Aug. 31 1925. Beginning with 1926, another step in advance will be taken by the creation, upon the basis of laws already passed, of a new central bank of issue, which will take over the functions of the banking office of the Ministry of Finance, and will be known as the Czechoslovak National Bank. This bank will be charged with the legal duty of maintaining the value of the Czechoslovak Crown at the level at which it has been stabilized and within certain maximum and minimum relations to the United States dollar. This bank will be independent in its management and privately controlled. It will have the sole right of note issue.

Application will be made to list the bonds on the New York Stock Exchange. They were offered subject to allotment, if, as and when issued and received, subject to approval by counsel. It is expected that delivery of interim certificates will be made about Nov. 16 1925.

Offering of $8,400,000 State of Wurttemberg (Germany) Bonds—Issue Placed—Books Closed.

Blair & Co., Inc., Chase Securities Corporation, and Halsey, Stuart & Co. offered on Oct. 28 a new issue of $8,400,000 State of Wurttemberg (Germany) Consolidated Municipal External 7% gold bonds. The subscription books were closed at noon on the 28th, the issue, it was announced, having been oversubscribed. The bonds, dated Nov. 1 1925, mature serially in equal annual installments, Nov. 1 1926 to Nov. 1 1945, inclusive. They are unconditionally guaranteed as to principal, interest and premium on redemption by endorsement on each bond by the State of Wurttemberg, which is the third in size and fourth in population of the German States. The bonds constitute the direct joint and several obligation of 23 cities located in the State of Wurttemberg, including the capital Stuttgart. The present offering will constitute the only external debt of these cities, as against which they own real estate, public buildings and productive enterprises, including electric light plants, gas works, water works, street railways, etc., the value of which is estimated at more than $100,000,000. The values of all properties subject to the several cities' taxation is estimated at over $1,200,000,000. The proceeds of the loan are to be used for the extension and betterment of the cities' electric light and power plants, gas plants, water works, street railways and other purposes, all of which are designed to increase the municipal revenues. The bonds were offered at prices (100.48 to 93.90) to yield, according to maturities, from 6.50% to 7.65%. The bonds, coupon, in denominations of $1,000 and $500, are registerable as to principal only. Principal and semi-annual interest (May 1 and Nov. 1) will be payable in United States gold coin of, or equal to, the present standard of weight and fineness, at the principal office either of the Chase National Bank of the City of New York or of Blair & Co., in New York, as well in time of war as in time of peace, irrespective of the nationality of the holder and without deduction for any German Government, State or municipal taxes, past, present or future. They are not redeemable prior to Nov. 1 1930. On Nov. 1 1930 and on any interest payment date thereafter, bonds then outstanding are redeemable in whole, or in part by lot, irrespective of maturities, at 103 and accrued interest on 8 weeks' published notice. The State of Wurttemberg, it is announced, has no external debt and the internal debt is practically nothing, being less than an amount equivalent to $72,000. The State properties and State revenues from taxes and duties are not subject to any charge under the Dawes plan. The bonds were offered "when, as and if" issued and accepted and subject to the approval of all proceedings of counsel. Interim receipts or temporary bonds will be deliverable in the first instance. The financial statistics are expressed in approximate terms of dollars converted at the rate of 4.20 gold marks to the dollar.

Offering of $1,750,000 City of Duesseldorf (Germany) Bonds—Issue Disposed of—Books Closed.

Ames, Emerich & Co., the Federal Securities Corporation and Strupp & Co. offered on Oct. 27 an issue of $1,750,000 City of Duesseldorf (Germany) 7% external serial gold bonds at from par and interest to 93⅞ and interest. The yields range from 7% to about 7.65%. The issue is dated Sept. 1 1925 and is due $87,500 annually Sept. 1 1926 to 1945, inclusive, and is redeemable after Sept. 1 1930 at 103 and accrued interest. The syndicate announced on the day of the offerings that the issue had all been sold and the books closed. The bonds, coupon, will be in denominations of $1,000 and $500. Principal and interest (Mar. 1 and Sept. 1) will be payable in New York City in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for German Federal, State, municipal or other internal taxes of any nature, past, present or future, at the office of Ames, Emerich & Co., fiscal agents. The following information is from the offering circular:

These bonds will constitute the direct obligation of the City of Duesseldorf, to which it covenants to apply all of its present and future property and its entire taxing power. It further covenants that if while any of these bonds are outstanding it shall issue any loan secured by a specific lien on any of its properties or revenues, these bonds shall share equally and ratably with such other indebtedness. At present no properties or revenues are pledged as security for any loan.

Finances.

Taxable income of the inhabitants of Duesseldorf for 1924 was approximately $107,142,000. The assessed valuation of real estate is reported to be in excess of $330,000,000. Since the stabilization of the currency, the budget of the city has been consistently balanced and for the fiscal year 1924 showed a surplus, after all expenditures, of $180,592. Figures prior to 1924 are not obtainable on account of the inflation of the mark. The budget for 1925, including all extraordinary items arising out of proceeds of loans, balances at $21,460,714. The high degree of industrial activity in Duesseldorf is evident from the fact that corporation taxes alone yield five times as large a revenue per capita of population as the average throughout Germany.

These bonds will constitute the only external debt of the city and the only funded debt contracted since the stabilization of the currency. Under the Revalorization Law of July 16 1925 the maximum annual charges, including interest and amortization, on the paper mark debt of the city is estimated not to exceed $600,000 a year. Total debt service charges, including such maximum liability and interest and amortization on this new issue, will require less than 5% of ordinary revenue in the 1925 budget.

Purpose of Issue.

Proceeds of this loan will be used for extensions and betterments to the city's utilities, designed to increase municipal revenues. They will be devoted primarily to extensions to the present electric light and power plant and to defraying the city's share of the expense in the construction of water works for the joint use of the cities of Duesseldorf and Duisburg.

Dawes Plan Charges.

Under the operation of the Dawes plan, in order to assure reparations payments under the Versailles Treaty (Article 248) charges will be imposed upon municipally-owned works similar to those on private industrial enterprises. Payments for this purpose by the municipally-owned utilities of Duesseldorf are estimated at about $63,676 for the twelve months beginning Sept. 1 1925, the first period for which such payment is required, and $127,345 per annum thereafter.

Safeguards.

Under the law, budgets of cities, including all debt charges, must be submitted in advance to the proper authority, upon whom devolves the duty of seeing that cities meet their obligations. This loan has been specifically approved by the President of the Provincial Administration, who sanctions such loans only provided that the cities are financially able to meet the charges. Taxes may be levied by the cities, in general, provided that such levies do not conflict in any way with the taxes of the Reich. The German Government has power to enforce payment of interest and amortization charges on every municipal loan through its right to withhold taxes levied by the Reich. This loan has also received the approval of the Council of Foreign Loans of the Ministry of Finance, Berlin.

All conversions from German to United States currency have been made at 4.20 gold marks to the dollar. Pending delivery of definitive bonds, interim receipts of Ames, Emerich & Co., countersigned by United States Mortgage & Trust Co., New York City, will be delivered.

Issue of $1,500,000 Bonds of City of Heidelberg (Germany) Sold.

F. J. Lisman & Co., Morgan, Livermore & Co. and A. M. Lamport & Co., Inc., were members of a syndicate which on Oct. 20 formally offered $1,500,000 City of Heidelberg (Germany) external 25-year 7½% sinking fund gold bonds. Prior to the formal offering the bonds had all been sold. The issue is dated July 1 1925 and will become due July 1 1950. The bonds will be redeemable by a 1½% cumulative sinking fund which operates to redeem the entire issue by maturity, by purchase in the open market or by drawings at 105. They are callable on any interest payment date as a whole or in part at 105 and accrued interest. The bonds are in denominations of $1,000 and $500. Principal and interest are payable in United States gold dollars of the present standard of weight and fineness at the office of the Chatham Phenix National Bank & Trust Co., New York City, trustee, without deduction of any present or future German taxes. Coupons are payable Jan. 1 and July 1. The issue was offered at 98½ and accrued interest, to yield 7.65%. Regarding the purpose, etc., of the issue, we quote as follows from the circular:

Purpose of Issue.

The proceeds of this issue will be used exclusively for productive purposes, such as the development of the electric works, gas works and water works, all of which are designed to increase the municipal revenues.

City Owned Properties.

The total value of city owned properties amounts to $10,174,500, or over 6½ times the amount of this issue. 70% of the city's properties represent revenue-producing assets. The city owns the electric light and power works, gas works, water works and stock yards. The electric tramway and mountain railroad system is incorporated as a private company, of which the city owns the majority of shares.

Security.

These bonds constitute a direct obligation of the City of Heidelberg. The city has never pledged any of its property and has agreed, while any of these bonds are outstanding, not to pledge its property nor its taxing power in any manner without giving these bonds equal security under the pledge.

Revenue From Property and Taxation: 1913, $1,098,000; 1914, $1,143,000; 1924, $2,281,000; 1925, estimated, $2,580,000.

Finances of the City.

The budget of the city has always been balanced and in 1924 showed a surplus of $176,000. The city's total funded debt amounts to $207,000. In addition the city has a short-term obligation of $1,314,000, due 1927. This is a 5% credit in gold marks which was placed with Swiss banks in 1917.

Application will be made to list the bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

Offering of Bonds of Tennessee and Mississippi Joint Stock Land Banks.

Brooke, Stokes & Co. and the First National Corporation of Boston offered on Oct. 19 at 103 and accrued interest, to yield about 4⅝% to the optional date in 1935 and 5% thereafter, $1,300,000 5% farm loan bonds of the Mississippi Joint Stock Land Bank and $1,000,000 5% farm loan bonds of the Tennessee Joint Stock Land Bank. The bonds will bear date Aug. 1 1925 and will become due Aug. 1 1955; they are not callable before Aug. 1 1935. They will be in coupon form in denominations of $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000, interchangeable for fully registered bonds. Interest (Aug. 1 and Feb. 1) and principal payable at the office of the First National Corporation of Boston, in New York, or at the Bank of Commerce & Trust Co., Memphis, Tenn. The stock of these joint stock land banks, except directors' qualifying shares, is owned by the Bank of Commerce & Trust Co. of Memphis, Tenn. Both joint stock land banks are operated by the same officers and the same clerical force and occupy the same office space. The directors are either officers or directors of the Bank of Commerce & Trust Co. The two land banks concentrate the major portion of their loans in the delta section of Mississippi, Tennessee and Arkansas. The two banks were among the first organized under the Federal Farm Loan Act, the Mississippi Bank having been organized in June 1918, charter No. 6, and the Tennessee Joint Stock Land Bank at the same time, charter No. 7. The name of the latter bank originally chartered as the Arkansas Joint Stock Land Bank, was changed to Tennessee Joint Stock Land Bank in 1922. Under the Farm Loan Act operations of any one bank are limited to two adjoining States. It being desired to operate in the three adjoining States of Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas which conjoin at Memphis it was necessary to organize two banks, which, however, are so closely allied as t be virtually a unit. The Mississippi Bank, it is stated, has earned $164,272 72 up to and including Sept. 30 1925, of which $62,000 has been distributed in dividends and the balance of $102,272 72 held as reserves and undivided profits; the Tennessee Bank has earned $126,302 15, of which $50,000 has been distributed in dividends and $76,302 15 has been held as surplus, reserves and undivided profits. Present capitalization is $350,000 and $250,000, respectively. The two banks have placed 671 loans, the amount loaned representing 33.02% of the appraised value of the land and improvements, about the lowest of any bank in the system. Loan statistics as of Sept. 30 1925 follow:

Central Illinois Joint Stock Land Bank of Greenville, Illinois, to Be Merged With St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank.

Announcement of the purchase of controlling interest in the Central Illinois Joint Stock Land Bank of Greenville, Illinois, is made by William R. Compton, President of the William R. Compton Co. of St. Louis. As a result of the purchase the Central Illinois Joint Stock Land Bank will be consolidated with the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank.

This is learned from the St. Louis "Globe-Democrat" of Oct. 20, which says:

The purchase was financed by the Compton Co. and involved a cash payment of more than $800,000.

Compton is chairman of the Board of the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank and of the St. Louis Agricultural Credit Corp. He is also president of the American Trust Co.

The Greenville institution is capitalized at $660,000. It is understood the price paid for its stock was around $125 a share.

The control of the Central Illinois bank will give the St. Louis land bank total assets of more than $21,000,000 with capital and surplus approximating $1,500,000 and actual loans to farmers in Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Indiana totaling $20,000,000, according to L. L. Beavers, president of the St. Louis bank. The combination, Beavers said, will cut down overhead and build up for St. Louis one of the largest institutions in the land bank system.

The St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank was organized with a capital of $250,000 by Compton in 1922. The St. Louis Agricultural Credit Corp., recently organized with a capital of $400,000, will represent the Compton interests, until the St. Louis and Greenville land banks are amalgamated.

Payment Suspended by British & North European Bank of London.

A special cablegram from London Oct. 26 to the New York "Journal of Commerce" said:

The British & North European Bank has suspended its payments and a liquidator was appointed to-day. Difficulties encountered by institutions in Central Europe associated with the B. & N. E. caused the collapse, which, however, is unimportant in a relative sense.

Dominion to Mint Bullion—Arrangement with Canadian Gold Miners to Return Gold Coin in $10 Pieces —Bankers Ask for Bars.

The following special advices from Toronto are from the "Wall Street Journal" of Oct. 28:

The Dominion Government has agreed hereafter to accept bullion from Canadian gold mines and return gold coin to the mining companies. This will be in the form of $10 gold pieces. Canadian Bankers' Association will ask that gold be returned as fine gold bars, if requested, against which legal tender notes can be issued.

This action will obviate heavy costs previously borne by gold mines in shipping to the United States mint for refining, which are made heavier by existing slight premium on Canadian dollars. But for Ottawa sanction, mint could only have minted gold into sovereigns. Under new arrangement, coin will be returned for bullion within 14 days and attempt is being made for finance department to place sufficient gold at mint's disposal to make immediate payment possible.

New York mint refining charges are $2 88 per $1,000, against $2 28 at Ottawa. Additional saving of 90 cents per $1,000 from Porcupine and $1 20 from Kirkland Lake will be made in express shipments to Ottawa.

Berlin Would Curb Foreign Borrowing by German Cities.

The following (Associated Press) advices from Berlin, Oct. 21, is taken from the New York "Journal of Commerce":

Municipal loans are being frowned upon by the Ministry of Finance, which insists that German cities refrain from borrowing money except in extraordinary cases, to insure productivity.

The Ministry's consulting board for foreign credits, which passes on such loans, has notified municipalities to avoid all unnecessary foreign loans in order to protect German currency. It emphasized the necessity to utilize all available foreign credits for industry and agriculture.

The board denies reports in circulation concerning a number of German cities having floated foreign loans, pointing out that up to the present the board has sanctioned loans only to the cities of Berlin, Cologne and Munich.

Discussing the financial situation with the heads of German municipalities, Minister of Finance von Schlieben laid emphasis on the necessity for all communities of the Reich to restrict expenditures to essentials. At the meeting Herr Kaufmann, Vice-President of the Reichsbank, told the municipal leaders that it was necessary for their communities to restrict foreign borrowing.

Fascisti Ban Italian Stock Exchange Operations.

The "Wall Street Journal" of Oct. 27 reported the following from Florence, Italy:

To help stabilize the currency, members of the Fascisti Party have been ordered not to participate in Stock Exchange operations.

More Money for Colombia.

Following the recent offering of a $3,000,000 loan in behalf of the Province of Antioquia, Republic of Colombia, the Foreign Department of Moody's Investors' Service has learned (Oct. 21) that American bankers have agreed to extend a $2,000,000 loan to the Department of Caldas.

The Department of Caldas, formerly a part of the Department of Antioquia, is one of the smallest of the Departments of Colombia, containing only 7,915 square miles and a population of less than 450,000. The indebtedness of the Department includes, inter alia, the balance of a loan of 400,000 pesos obtained from the Banco de Caldas for the construction of the Caldas Railway. In 1921 the Provincial Government authorized a loan of $2,000,000 to be used exclusively for the active work on the railway. The loan is to be guaranteed by the Railway and by various departmental revenues.

Improvement Shown in Note Issue Department of State Bank of U. S. S. R.

The statement of the Note Issue Department of the State Bank of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics on Oct. 1 shows an important improvement in the items comprising security for note issues. Firm cover in the form of precious metals and foreign currencies, show a considerable increase, the improvement being in respect of the items of gold on account of foreign currencies.

In comparison with the statement of Sept. 16, firm cover increased by Ch.1,770,000, the increase in respect of its constituent items being as follows: Gold from Ch.16,810,000 to Ch.18,470,000; platinum from Ch.2,860,000 to Ch.3,180,000. Foreign currency, on the other hand, shows a decrease from Ch.4,680,000 to Ch.4,670,000. Bank note issues for the last two weeks increased from Ch.72,700,000 to Ch.75,660,000, namely, by Ch.2,960,000, or 4.1%. The balance available for further issues increased by Ch.3,040,000 from Ch.300,000 on Sept. 16 to Ch.3,340,000 on Oct. 1.

It should be further noted, that bank note issues increased during the last three months from Ch.66,450,000 to Ch.75,660,000, namely, by Ch.9,210,000 as against the proposed Ch.12,500,000 provided for in the credit program of the State Bank. This curtailment was due to the fact that the movement of grain purchases proceeded more slowly than was originally anticipated, and also to the fact that large funds came in from other sources. In the first instance this applies to sums received on current accounts and deposits which exceeded the amount provided for in the program by over Ch.4,800,000.

The following is the Oct. 1 statement of the Note Issue Department of the State Bank of the U. S. S. R.: Slump in Trade of Irish Free State.

The trade of the Irish Free State for the first six months of 1925 showed considerable of a decline over the same period of 1924, according to the European Division of the Department of Commerce. During this year it equalled £49,124,107, and last year £55,528,297. Imports up to June 30 this year were £30,352,455, showing a considerable decrease from £33,358,382 for last year. Exports of Irish products likewise decreased during that period, with a total of £18,199,199, as compared with £21,533,693. Re-exports for this year totaled £572,853 and for last year £636,222. These figures disclose that the slump was quite general, and affected both inward and outward cargoes. The Department's advices, made public Oct. 26, add:

The decrease in imports was very welcome to the financial and industrial interests of the Irish Free State. Since the large part of imports are food products, it would tend to signify increasing production. However, a detailed study of imports shows that imports of foodstuffs tend to increase, except for sugar, tobacco and maize.

Practically all the leading manufactured import commodities showed declines. Manufactures of iron and steel (exclusive of cutlery and machinery) dropped from £1,165,998 to £947,064; motor cars from £564,238 to £421,195; cotton goods from £1,048,185 to £910,833, and boots and shoes from £1,119,017 to £973,528.

The decrease in exports was general although in some few instances increases were noticeable. The largest part of the decrease was in cattle, with a value for the first six months of 1924 of £7,220,717 and for the same period of this year only £5,170,138. Decreases were also recorded in exports of horses, pigs and sheep. The value of pigs exported fell from £684,271 in the six months period of 1924 and £230,097 of this year. Exports of bacon showed a slight decrease from £1,359,986 during this period of last year to £1,271,937 this year, while exports of fresh pork declined slightly. On the other hand, exports of fish increased from £265,104 to £316,043. Exports of butter decreased from £1,124,836 to £885,844, while exports of eggs in the shell increased from £1,903,150 to £1,967,749. Exports of porter, beer and ale, which are the second largest item in the export line, increased from £2,655,142 to £2,858,636. Exports of motor car parts, wool, hides and skins, show decreases, while linen goods increased.

The general tendencies are too varied to attempt a definite explanation. Poor crops caused a decrease in exports and an increase in imports. Increasing industrialization and more settled economic life led to greater production, thus decreasing imports. Despite these slight fluctuations, the general direction of trade remained practically the same, with Great Britain dominating the trade, Northern Ireland occupying second place, the United States third place, with other countries far behind.

The various parts of the Empire occupy prominent positions in the trade with the Irish Free States. The trade is well scattered, with imports coming from every part of the world.

Proposal to Increase Memberships of New York Stock Exchange—Opposition Voiced Thereto.

The Governing Committee of the New York Stock Exchange on Oct. 28 approved a proposal to enlarge the membership from 1,100 to 1,125; a resolution under which the 25 additional seats would be authorized has been submitted to the members for action. President Simmons in advising the members of the proposed move stated that "for over 45 years the total number of our membership has remained unchanged," while "the scope and functions of the Exchange have enormously expanded"; the "remarkable growth of security investment all over the country," he says, "has increased the demand for New York Stock Exchange seats." Regarding opposition to the proposal which the movement has encountered, the New York "Times" of yesterday (Oct. 30) said:

Immediately following the close of business, a meeting of members opposing the plan was called, and a committee appointed to request all members of the Exchange to vote "no" to the Governors' proposal on the ground that it would be detrimental to their interests.

Eben Stevens, spokesman for the committee and a member of the Stock Exchange since 1896, said the proposal had not even met with unanimous approval on the part of the Board of Governors, and that if the proposition were put to a vote to-day it would be overwhelmingly defeated. At the meeting, according to Mr. Stevens, considerable dissension developed as to the manner in which the proposal was adopted.

"The procedure followed," according to opinion expressed at the opposition meeting, Mr. Stevens said, "gives the impression that 1,060 members of the New York Stock Exchange cannot be trusted and that the forty members of the Board of Governors are the power which should dictate to the majority.

Criticism of the Governors.

"The Governors were also criticized for not being open and above board with the members in the matter and not submitting the proposal for an open discussion before the amendment to the constitution was adopted and submitted to the members for criticism. Objection was also raised to the method of voting upon amendments submitted to members."

Under the present constitution, Mr. Stevens pointed out, all amendments are adopted unless opposed by a majority of the membership. Under such a plan, members not voting and deceased members, if any, automatically vote in favor of the amendments, regardless of the number of negative votes cast by the active members.

"From the opinion expressed at the opposition meeting," Mr. Stevens added, "the concensus was that there are some hidden reasons for the proposed increase in membership, and that members opposing the plan are not satisfied with the reasons contained in the letter sent to members by President E. H. H. Simmons approving the increase. In regard to the point that the increase in membership is necessitated by the expanding business being transacted on the Exchange, this was viewed as a joke on the part of those attending the opposition meeting.

"The New York Stock Exchange," he continued, "has ridden through panics and booms without an increase in membership during the past forty-six years, and it can continue to do so for many years to come. The chief point on which a large group of the members of the Exchange are opposing the measure is that it seriously affects their equity. Each increase in membership naturally curtails the equity of the existing memberships, and the belief prevails that if the proposed increase of twenty-five in membership is approved, there is no telling when a similar proposition will be put before the members by the Board of Governors and no telling when a limit will be reached on membership."

Wants Future Generation to Pay.

Concerning the argument that the proceeds from the sale of the new seats could be used to liquidate the mortgage and other indebtedness on the new building, the feeling of the opposition committee was that this should be left for future generations.

We give herewith President Simmons's letter to the members:

Members of the New York Stock Exchange:

Gentlemen:—The Governing Committee at its meeting to-day, approved an increase in the total memberships in the New York Stock Exchange from 1,100 to 1,125, and the sale of these additional seats in the usual way, but under the limitations as to price herein below indicated. The Governing Committee has carefully considered this proposition and its approval to-day is the result of a thorough study of the situation. The formal resolution will be submitted for your consideration.

For over forty-five years the total number of our membership has remained unchanged. Meanwhile the scope and functions of the Exchange have enormously expanded, its listings have greatly increased, and a comparable growth has occurred not only in the aggregate volume but also in the number of separate transactions daily effected on the floor. There has been, in recent years, a remarkable growth of security investment all over the country, which has increased the demand for New York Stock Exchange seats by out-of-town firms and to-day a large number of these seats are so held. This has emphasized the need of assuring for the future an adequate active membership on the Exchange floor itself.

The 25 new Exchange memberships will be offered for sale on the following basis: 5 seats at $135,000 each, 5 seats at $137,500 each, 5 seats at $140,000 each, 5 seats at $142,500 each, and 5 seats at $145,000 each. The usual initiation fee must be paid by the purchaser in each case. Existing memberships which may be offered for sale, will, in every instance, be accorded preference over the newly created memberships, provided, of course, that they are offered at the same or at a lower price than those above specified.

The funds obtained as a result of this sale of new seats can be devoted to capital expenditures or the extinguishing of the present obligations of the Exchange and its subsidiaries, and thus lead to a reduction in the annual dues of our members.

I heartily recommend the approval of this resolution.

Very truly yours,
E. H. H. SIMMONS, President.

The following is the resolution adopted by the Governing Committee:

October 28 1925.

The following resolution was adopted by the Governing Committee on Oct. 28 1925, and is submitted to the Exchange in accordance with the provisions of Section 2 of Article XII of the Constitution:

Resolved, that the membership of the Exchange shall be increased by twenty-five (25) memberships, and that the additional memberships shall be disposed of to applicants for membership approved by two-thirds of the entire Committee on Admissions, at the following prices:

Five at $135,000 each	Five at $142,500 each
Five at $140,000 each

It being understood that on the election to membership of the purchaser of any of the above memberships, he shall pay to the Exchange, in addition to the above stated prices, the sum of four thousand and ten dollars ($4,010), such sum being the amount of the customary initiation fee and contribution to the Trustees of the Gratuity Fund payable by applicants upon election.

E. V. D. COX, Secretary.

It was announced yesterday (Oct. 30) that President Simmons will invite members to meet him in the Governing Committee room at 3:30 p. m., Wednesday, Nov. 4, to hear arguments regarding the resolution:

T. J. Sutliffe, Assistant Director of Publicity of New York Stock Exchange.

Tracy J. Sutliffe, previously Assistant Financial Editor of the New York "Herald Tribune," has become Assistant Director of Publicity of the New York Stock Exchange. Prior to the merger of the "Tribune" with the "Herald" Mr. Sutliffe was Financial Editor of the "Herald." He had also been with the morning "Sun."

Members of New York Stock Exchange Approve Amendments Increasing Commissions on Bond Transactions.

The amendments to the Constitution of the New York Stock Exchange increasing the rates of commission on bond transactions have become effective, having been approved by the members. The amendments, to which reference was made in these columns Oct. 17, page 1865, had previously been approved by the Governing Committee. The vote of the members, announced this week, was as follows:

19 disapproving
11 defective ballots

359 votes cast.

New Trading Records on New York Stock Exchange.

The recent extraordinary volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange has brought many new records; the "Wall Street Journal" of Oct. 29 comments on this as follows:

Statisticians are put to it to keep up with records in regard to trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Few records have not been broken in this huge market and these bid fair to be exceeded by new altitudes before the present movement is over.

The industrial averages are at a record peak. Those keeping charts and tables of averages have had to get new charts and put additions to the tables on the wall. Of course, the number of stocks listed has been about doubled in a decade.

The 3,000,000-share day is yet to be attained in this upward swing. The last time it was recorded was on Dec. 21 1916. The 2,000,000-share days' series has been shattered and over half a year of million-share days has been recorded.

a To date. b December 1924. c November. d Record not broken.

The New York "Times" of Oct. 27, referring to the heavy trading witnessed on the Exchange, stated:

More separate issues of common and preferred stocks were traded in on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday than on any single five-hour day in that institution's history. The total was 589, as compared with the previous high record of 587, established on Oct. 16.

Trading again was on a large scale, scales running well over the 2,000,000-share mark. The market continues to exhibit a great deal of strength, and there were sharp gains in several issues, led by the motor shares. On the other hand, the cross-currents in the market were strongly defined and some sharp declines were recorded here and there throughout the list.

An advance in the call money rate to 5% just before the close did not receive a great deal of attention because it was recognized that with the approach of the month-end calls funds were likely to be a little lighter.

The ticker was up to the market most of the day and was only five minutes behind at the close.

The same paper on Oct. 17 had the following to say regarding the large transactions:

Largest Day's Trading Since War.

The transactions of 2,684,000 shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday made up the largest day's business since Dec. 21 1916, when 3,049,090 shares changed hands. Prior to that date the trading of yesterday had been exceeded on only seven occasions—Aug. 20 1906, with 2,697,000 shares; Dec. 8 1904, with 2,884,000; May 9 1901, with 3,072,000; May 3 1901, with 2,920,000; May 2 1901, with 2,842,000; May 1 1901, with 2,825,000; and April 30 1901, with 3,270,000.

Petition for Holiday on New York Stock Exchange To-day (Oct. 31) Denied.

The Governing Committee of the New York Stock Exchange denied on Oct. 29 the petition for a holiday on the New York Stock Exchange to-day (Saturday, Oct. 31) sought by some of the members, who it is said planned to avail of the proposed suspension to catch up with business accumulated during the recent heavy trading. In stating that the proposal was not viewed favorably by the Governors, the "Wall Street News" said:

The possibility of any such step being taken is scouted by those who should be informed about the policy of the Exchange. It was stated in those quarters that such action would be altogether unreasonable, especially in view of the fact that it would necessitate loans of call money made on Friday running over until Wednesday.

Record in Stock Clearing—Exchange Machinery Congested by Market Activity.

The New York "Times" printed the following under the above head in its issue of Oct. 20:

As a result of the recent record-breaking activity in the stock market and the high prices at which securities on the Stock Exchange are now being quoted, settlements for stocks through the Stock Clearing Corporation established a new high record for all time yesterday, according to Samuel F. Streit, President of the organization. The record was established, both from the standpoint of the amount of stock cleared and the money value involved.

Settlements of these transactions have congested the machinery of the Stock Exchange and all hands have been called upon to work overtime in clearing the slates each day. All brokers and member firms have been called upon to make their deliveries as early as possible, for the purpose of speeding up the machinery, and banking institutions also have been requested to assist the Stock Clearing Corporation in every way possible.

New Stock Tickers Set Up—Chicago and Philadelphia Brokerages Get "Movie" Devices.

The following is from the New York "Times" of Oct. 27:

In accordance with the plan for extending the new method of displaying stock quotations in brokerage houses in the same manner as they are now shown on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange and Curb Exchange, installations of "movie tickers" in Philadelphia and Chicago were begun yesterday simultaneously with additional installations in New York City. This announcement was made yesterday by the Trans-Lux Corporation.

About twenty of the new devices are to be installed in Philadelphia and ten in Chicago. Next week installations will be begun in Boston and probably in Washington, it was said, with Pittsburgh and St. Louis following. The Western Union Telegraph Co., which is co-operating with the Trans-Lux Corporation in the nationwide extension of this service, will have charge of setting up and maintaining the tickers.

U. S. Supreme Court Upholds U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Ruling that Liability of Charles A. Stoneham as an Alleged Secret Partner in Defunct Brokerage Firm of E. M. Fuller & Co. Must Be Passed Upon in Brankruptcy Court.

On Oct. 19 the United States Supreme Court at Washington declined to pass upon the liability of Charles A. Stoneham, principal owner of the New York National League Baseball Club (New York Giants), as an alleged secret partner in the bankrupt brokerage firm of E. M. Fuller & Co. of this city, according to Associate Press dispatches from Washington on that date, appearing in the New York daily papers of Oct. 20. Albert H. Bernard and others raised the question in the interest of creditors who have claims approximating $2,000,000. The New York "Herald-Tribune" in its issue of Oct. 20 quoted William M. Chadbourne, counsel for the committee of creditors of E. M. Fuller & Co., as saying in regard to the decision:

"The decision clears the way to the immediate trial of the issue whether Charles A. Stoneham was a partner of E. M. Fuller & Co. Proceedings to have this question determined were instituted by the creditors in the spring of 1924. They were vigorously resisted by the attorneys for Stoneham, who took the position that this issue could not be tried out in the bankruptcy proceeding.

"The Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the decision of Judge Hand that the Bankruptcy Court was the proper place to try this issue. The decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals stands and it is now possible for the creditors to proceed with the case."

The decision of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals (our last reference to the affairs of E. M. Fuller & Co.) was reported in the "Chronicle" of June 27, 1925, page 3267.

Brokerage Firm of W. H. Dickenhorst & Co., Newark, Fails.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed in the Federal District Court in Newark, N. J., on Oct. 28 against W. H. Dickenhorst, doing business under the firm name of W. H. Dickenhorst & Co. at 9 Clinton Street, that city, Mr. Dickenhorst, giving his consent to the petition. The liabilities were listed in the petition at $250,000 and the assets at $160,000. Later John A. Bernard was appointed receiver under a bond of $25,000. The firm, which was a member of the New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, had conducted a brokerage business in Newark for the past seventeen years. In a letter sent to the 204 creditors of the failed firm on Oct. 29 by William Harris, counsel for the brokerage house, a speedy reorganization of the firm "with as little loss to customers as possible" was promised, according to the Newark "News" of that date. In the meantime, it was said, the business would be continued for ten days by the receiver. The following statement of causes which led to the firm's insolvency (as printed in the "News") was made by Mr. Harris:

Walter H. Dickenhorst, the sole owner of W. H. Dickenhorst & Co., consented to the appointment of a receiver because of present financial difficulties arising by reason of the fact that recent stock market activities raised the marginal requirements necessary for the firm to carry with its New York corresponding brokers.

Mr. Dickenhorst for years past adopted the policy of carrying all his customers on a reasonable margin, using his own resources to make up the difference between the margin put up by clients and the marginal requirements of the New York brokers, and when recently the various New York stock exchanges began calling for more margin than Mr. Dickenhorst could raise and by reason of the inability of some of Mr. Dickenhorst's customers to raise the proper margin and by reason of Mr. Dickenhorst's own losses, he found himself in a position where he was unable to raise additional money and therefore was compelled to take this step, which he did in order to equally protect all customers.

Mr. Dickenhorst advises me that all customers' securities are entirely intact in either the vault or in collateral loans with the Fidelity Union Trust Co. He further advises me that he has approximately $35,000 cash on hand with the Fidelity Union Trust Co., $75,000 cash equity with the New York corresponding brokers, and other securities and equity which will amount to over $50,000 and upward. The liabilities he believes will not exceed $250,000.

We are going to ask the receiver in this matter to employ an accountant to verify all transactions and give us a correct statement of the assets and liabilities. I hope that this will be done shortly so that my client will be in a position to make an effort to reorganize the business and ultimately endeavor to cause no customer a loss. Each customer will be informed as to the progress of any plan of reorganization.

W. H. Dickenhorst has been in the stock brokerage business in the city of Newark for the past seventeen years.

Consolidated Stock Exchange Firm of W. A. MacDonald & Co. Bankrupt.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the U. S. District Court on Oct. 24 against the New York Consolidated Stock Exchange firm of W. A. MacDonald & Co., with main offices at 25 Beaver Street, this city, following the firm's suspension from the Exchange earlier in the day for failure to meet its obligations. The petitioning creditors claim that the firm paid out $20,000 in preferential payments. While the financial position of the firm was not revealed in the bankruptcy petition, the liabilities, it is estimated, will approximate $175,000 and the assets about $120,000. The following statement in regard to the firm's suspension was issued on Oct. 24 by Thomas B. Maloney, President of the Consolidated Stock Exchange:

MacDonald & Co. was suspended as the result of an examination now being made by the accountants of the Bureau of Auditing and Accounting Department of the Exchange. This examination revealed that an employee of the firm embezzled a large amount of money, which impaired the firm's financial position. The failure is a very small one.

W. A. MacDonald, who was the sole member of the failed firm, was admitted to membership in the New York Consolidated Stock Exchange in October 1900. The firm maintained an uptown office at 4 West 40th Street. On Monday, Oct. 26, Federal Judge Thacher named Lee J. Perrin as receiver.

Brokerage House of Wilson & Chardon, New York, Fails—Receiver Appointed.

On Saturday, Oct. 17, an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the Federal District Court against the stock brokerage firm of Wilson & Chardon, 62 Broadway, this city, following the firm's suspension earlier in the day from the New York Consolidated Stock Exchange for failure to meet its obligations. The petitioners were Frank Tiernan & Co., Dr. Isidore H. Knopf and Harry S. Wyncoop, with claims aggregating $1,668. No estimate of the liabilities and assets was contained in the papers. Judge Thacher appointed Alfred C. Coxe Jr. receiver under a bond of $20,000. The defendant is said to have made a preferential payment of $345 while it was insolvent and transferred certain assets. The failed firm consisted of Leslie B. Wilson, North Castle, N. Y.; Ludwig Chardon, of South Orange, N. J., and Howard E. Richmond, of Richmond Hills, Queens. In reporting the failure in its issue of Oct. 18, the New York "Times" said, in part:

Little official information on the reasons for the failure were obtainable yesterday afternoon, as the offices of the firm were left in the hands of a few clerks, who aided the receiver and his assistants in making an examination of the books and assets.

In responsible quarters it was said that one of the members of the firm had been speculating on the short side of the stock market during recent months without the knowledge of the other two partners. When this condition was revealed, it was said, Chardon and Richmond immediately ordered an investigation of the firm's accounts and assets, and it was then learned that the organization was unable to meet its obligations. It was further asserted that while nothing definite was known regarding the size of the failure, the firm, according to the information, carried all of its stocks. The firm, according to members of the Exchange, had an excellent reputation and has been considered substantial.

L. B. Wilson, senior member of the firm and the floor partner on the Consolidated Exchange, had been a member of that organization since 1902. The present partnership was formed in 1913. The petitioning creditors filed claims aggregating $1,668, but shortly after the announcement of the suspension one customer appeared at the office of the firm seeking information who claimed he had a credit balance of nearly $20,000.

J. S. Lamont, Former President of the Failed Boston Firm of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., Wanted for Alleged Concealment of Assets, Found.

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Concord, N. H., on Oct. 26, printed in the Springfield "Republican" of the next day, James S. Lamont, former President of the defunct Boston firm of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., was on that day (Oct. 26) arraigned at Lancaster, N. H., on a Federal indictment charging him with conspiracy to conceal the assets of the bankrupt firm. Lamont (for whom the Federal authorities had been looking for several weeks) was found, the dispatch stated, in a hunting camp near Pittsburg, N. H., close to the Canadian border in the northwest section of the State. The former broker was to be taken to Portsmouth, N. H., the following day (Oct. 27), where an order was to be sought for his removal to Boston. The arrest of George F. Redmond, the former Treasurer of the failed concern, with Mrs. Redmond and Mrs. Lamont, on similar charges, was reported in our issue of Oct. 24 last, pages 1988 and 1989. Secret indictments returned by the Federal Grand Jury at Boston charged that the four defendants withheld from the receiver of the company $200,000 worth of securities.

Comptroller of Currency McIntosh Endorses McFadden Banking Bill—George M. Reynolds of Chicago Opposed to Provision Governing Real Estate Loans.

According to Associated Press dispatches from Omaha, Neb., Oct. 21, Comptroller of the Currency J. W. McIntosh, in addressing members of the Nebraska Bankers Association stated that the McFadden bill, by strengthening the position of the national banks, offers a benefit to every community possessing a national institution. The dispatch continued:

It will enable the banks to give a better and more complete banking service and beyond that, he said, it looks to maintaining the vitally important contact of the Federal Reserve System with the small towns and rural communities.

Mr. McIntosh explained the provisions dealing with branch banking and informed his audience how branch banking is conducted in Canada. Under the system in vogue in Canada, the branch manager is nothing more than a "dignified bank clerk," whose authority extends to making loans under rigid rules and regulations, and there are no local banks in many communities. In the United States, he said, this would enormously centralize the control of the country's credits and would enmesh the entire financial establishments in a maze of red tape, with inevitable consequences of disaster to the agricultural interests in particular, he contended.

"The McFadden measure by making it safe to the rural banks to continue their independent existence, and by expanding their power to serve the peculiar needs of their constituencies, preserve our traditional system of banking under which the great economic development of your Western country has been achieved," he said.

That part of the McFadden-Pepper bill which is to be revived in the next Congress, extending to national banks the power to use demand deposit money for real estate loans, was denounced by George M. Reynolds, Chairman of the Board of the Continental & Commercial Bank of Chicago, in an address before the Nebraska Bankers Association on Oct. 22, it is learned from Associated Press accounts.

Owen D. Young Appointed Chairman of American Section of International Chamber of Commerce, Succeeding Late A. C. Bedford.

The American Section of the International Chamber of Commerce announces the appointment of Owen D. Young as Chairman of the American Committee of the International Chamber, succeeding the late A. C. Bedford. Mr. Young has taken an active part in the affairs of the International Chamber ever since it was organized at Paris four years ago. Since then he has served as one of the three American directors. He also served as a member of the Economic Restoration Committee of the Chamber, which recently made a world economic survey with a view to making the Dawes plan more fully effective. The survey was submitted to the meeting of the International Chamber at Brussels last June, and steps are now being taken to put into operation the suggestions made by the committee looking to the stabilization of conditions in Europe. In announcing Mr. Young's acceptance of the chairmanship, the Executive Committee of the American Section says that it "counts itself fortunate in having secured Mr. Young's acceptance of the task of carrying on the work to which Mr. Bedford gave so unselfishly of his time and so generously of his devoted energy."

Federal Reserve Board Rules That Cottonseed Is a Readily Marketable Staple—Warehouse Receipts Covering Cottonseed Eligible for Rediscount.

In announcing a ruling to the effect that cottonseed may be classed as a readily marketable staple, the Federal Reserve Board in the October number of its Monthly Bulletin says:

The Federal Reserve Board has recently had occasion to rule on the question whether cottonseed is "a readily marketable staple" or a "non-perishable, readily marketable staple agricultural product" within the meaning of the Federal Reserve Act and the Board's Regulation A.

Inasmuch as cottonseed is an agricultural product of such uses as to make it the subject of constant dealings in ready markets, with such frequent quotations of prices as to make (a) the price easily and definitely ascertainable, and (b) the staple itself easy to realize upon by sale at any time, it unquestionably is "a readily marketable staple." While cottonseed may ferment and deteriorate if exposed to heat, yet, when stored under proper conditions, it may be preserved for years. When so stored, therefore, or when shipped in such a manner as to protect it adequately against deterioration, it may be classed as a "non-perishable, readily marketable staple agricultural product."

The Board is of the opinion, therefore, that (1) a bankers' acceptance secured by a warehouse receipt for cottonseed, or (2) a bill of exchange payable at sight or on demand drawn to finance the domestic shipment of cottonseed and secured by bills of lading or other shipping documents conveying or securing title to such cottonseed, is eligible for rediscount by Federal Reserve banks; provided the cottonseed upon which the instrument is based is stored or shipped under such conditions as to protect it adequately from deterioration, and provided the acceptance or bill of exchange complies in all other respects with the requirements of the law and the Board's regulations.

The question whether such paper is desirable from a credit standpoint is, of course, a question for determination by the Federal Reserve Bank to which the paper is offered for rediscount rather than by the Federal Reserve Board.

The Board was also requested to rule on the question whether notes secured by warehouse receipts covering cottonseed are eligible or desirable for rediscount. The eligibility of notes for rediscount does not depend upon the existence or character of collateral security, but upon the purpose for which the notes are drawn or the purpose for which their proceeds are used. The collateral securing notes offered for rediscount is material only as bearing upon the desirability of the paper from a credit standpoint, which is a question for the determination of the Federal Reserve Bank to which such notes are offered for rediscount.

Tax Revision Advocated by Thomas B. Paton and Other Representatives of American Bankers Association—Argument on Revocable Trusts.

Several representatives of the American Bankers Association appeared last week at the hearings in Washington before the House Ways and Means Committee on the provisions of the new Revenue Bill. On Oct. 22 Thomas B. Paton, General Counsel for the Association, urged a reduction in the corporation tax of 12½%. He proposed that the tax be lowered to 10% and that the corporation exemption be increased from $2,000 to $5,000. Mr. Paton also suggested that the capital stock tax of $1 be abolished, says the New York "Times," which added:

He argued that as a general proposition the same amount of income pays much greater taxes as corporate income than it would as income of the individual stockholders, and that the time is now opportune to consider the equity of the corporation as a taxpayer to a commensurate share of the reduction.

If corporation taxes are maintained while individual income alone is reduced, the tendency will be to dissolve corporation organizations and do business as individuals, but banks are not in a position to do this, but must continue to do business as corporations," said Mr. Paton. "The revenue derived from the 500,000 taxpaying corporations of the country is greater than that derived from the more than 7,000,000 individual income tax payers."

The capital stock tax is estimated to yield $93,000,000 in 1926, and according to Representative Bacharach, the corporation tax brought in $916,000,000 in 1925. Reduction to 10% would mean a revenue loss of $180,000,000, Mr. Bacharach said to Mr. Paton. To Representative Crisp of Georgia Mr. Paton said the bankers would prefer one tax; that is, consolidation of the capital stock tax with the corporation levy. To Mr. Garner he said that his Association would rather have the estate and gift taxes abolished than to have the changes they asked on the capital stock and corporation taxes.

The "Times" account also states that Mr. Paton told the committee that the American Bankers League had no connection whatever with his organization, and that establishment of its headquarters in Washington had caused "a good deal of trouble" to the American Bankers Association. The "Times" continued:

"We take the ground that we adequately represent the banking interests hrough our membership of 22,000 banks out of the 28,000 banks," he said. The League, we understand, simply sends out circulars to bankers saying wants taxes reduced and asking contributions."

"It's a sort of propaganda organization, isn't it?" asked Mr. Garner.

"I should say so, although I am in a delicate position," replied Mr. aton.

"Well, I'll assist you and say it is," declared Mr. Garner.

While Mr. Paton was on the stand Representative Garner asked him if is organization would favor spreading the public debt payment to sixty-two years and using more money to reduce taxes this year. Mr. Paton aid that "unofficially and as an individual" he would prefer to see the debt pread over a longer period than is now being done.

"I have never found a business man yet who did not want the payment spread further," commented Mr. Garner.

This theory of allocating the debt payment over a longer term of years and applying more money to present tax reduction is gaining favor steadily with Democrats. Senator Caraway of Arkansas joined Representative Garner and Senator Swanson of Virginia to-day in their advocacy of the idea.

The omission of the provision making income from a revocable trust taxable as part of the net income of the grantor of the trust, the repeal of the publicity section of the Federal revenue act and abandonment of the Federal estate and gifts tax, were among the recommendations made to the committee by bankers representing the American Bankers' Association.

William H. Baden, Assistant Trust Officer, Washington Loan and Trust Co., who presented the argument on revocable trusts on Oct. 21 also advocated omission of the provision for taxing, as part of the net income of the grantor, income of a trust that may be distributed or held for future distribution to the grantor, or where part of the trust income is applied to insurance on the life of the grantor. Mr. Baden said in part:

These sections tend to retard a beneficent form of trust. It seems unjust that a person be taxed for income he does not himself receive, while the person who actually receives it is exempt. During the existence of the trust the grantor is not the recipient of the income. The recipient of the income should pay the tax and not the man who created the trust. This provision means penalizing those actuated by charitable and benevolent impulses.

In reply to a statement by the chairman of the committee, who said these provisions were enacted to prevent tax-dodging frauds and contended that the maker of a trust could put the burden of the tax where it ought to be by providing that the beneficiary pay to him the amount of the tax on the trust income, Mr. Badon said that this would not result in a fair distribution since in some cases it would mean that a man of moderate means would have to pay a tax which may put him into the classification of the surtax brackets. He continued:

What we would like the committee to consider is more faith in the morality of the average man of moderate means; that he is not a tax dodger. The income he gives away through the use of this trust is larger than the tax he would pay. It should not be maintained that inasmuch as he is giving away some future income, whatever the tax on it would be, he is actuated by selfish motives. Instead he must be influenced by either generosity or some other high motive.

The revocability feature of the trust takes effect only if exercised. Experience shows that it is very seldom exercised, and then it is not for the purpose of evading the tax, but to make sure the donor's bounty will not be misused. By reserving the right to revoke the donor has the power to withdraw the bounty if it is not serving its purpose of aiding, rather than harming, the beneficiaries. In most instances the actuating purpose is not to reveke but to control the bounty.

To constitute income within the meaning of the constitutional grant of power, the Supreme Court has held that it must be received by the taxpayer for his separate benefit. It is undeniable that the trusts which are the subject of this investigation the recipient of the income is different from the creator of the trust. The income of a revocable trust is the property of the beneficiary and not of the grantor until such time as the trust is actually revoked. The corpus of the trust and the income arising from it has passed from the grantor, the corpus reposing in the trustee and the income in the beneficiary. Therefore, it seems to be unconstitutional to tax the grantor for income which he does not himself receive and which others have received.

Raymond H. Berry, Assistant Secretary Detroit Trust Co. and member of the Special Committee on Taxation, American Bankers Association, argued for repeal of the publicity section of the revenue act, saying in part:

There are only two reasons I can assign for legalizing the Bureau of Internal Revenue to make public the income tax paid by a taxpayer First, to force delinquents to file returns and pay taxes; second, to be the means of frightening taxpayers into filing more proper returns. I am not certain I have guessed the reason, but I am certain that, whatever the reason, the justification is a dismal failure. I venture the prediction that the revenue collected as a result of this provision would not exceed $5,000.

The section does not furnish information for the apprehension of delinquents not cause taxpayers to be more careful in their tax returns, but it does entail some work and expense to the Government. It reduces to obsolescence one's private affairs by legalizing curiosity seekers snooping into matters they can not obtain otherwise. It permits unscrupulous salesmen to take undue advantage of information. I believe the better class of newspapers do not condone the publishing of lists of taxpayers. This section has been abused by persons seeking divorces, using the information in connection with the suit for alimony. It is the means of causing less respect for the laws made by Congress by the Government's legalizing and making public that which for centuries has been considered confidential.

The argument for repeal of the Federal estate tax and gifts tax was presented by F. W. Denio, Vice-President Old Colony Trust Co., Boston, and member of the Association's Special Committee on Inheritance Taxation. He said:

The issue is a simple one; namely in view of the estimated surplus yield of Federal taxation and of the existence of a sound income ta law capable of meeting Federal requirements, shall a special form of taxation, known as the Federal estate tax, enacted to meet a great emergency, be continued longer? The 1925 yield was approximately $101,000,000. This represents only about 2½% of the oridnary revenues of the Federal Government. The reduction in revenue involved is well within the surplus. Elimination of the tax will still leave a substantial margin to be applied in reducing taxation from other sources.

Whenever an estate tax has been made a part of the Federal revenue program the need arose from a war. The present tax has been in force nine years. Comparing the present tax with former ones which have been repealed, there appears to be less justification for its continuance than there would have been for the former ones.

We submit that there is no justification for continuing emergency taxation after the emergency has passed. The American Bankers Association is of the opinion that, in order to be entitled to be a part of the permanent taxing policy of the Federal Government, as distinguished from an emergency tax, tax burdens should be upon a broad base rather than narrow ones, such as the estate tax, which in the year just closed was assessed against less than 15,000 returns. Retention of an emergency tax tends to make it permanent, regardless of its revenue-producing ability, the financial necessity for its continuance, or the existence of other adequate and more sound sources of revenue.

The present Federal estate tax represents a real tax on capital. Such a tax is necessarily unsound and unscientific because it tends to defeat itself as a revenue producer. In addition, it cannot be questioned but that such a tax destroys initiative. A man who is devoting his energies to create an estate which will be liquid enough to sustain the enormous burden of such a tax upon his death can not use his wealth in the develop ment of new industries.

The uncertainty of yield of the tax is another reason against its usefulness. No tax is absolutely settled in its yield, but one element of a satisfactory form of taxation is a reasonable degree of certainty of yield. It is conspicuous by its absence from the Federal estate tax.

If the income tax is adequate for meeting the financial needs, then additional forms of taxation are expensive to administer to the extent that they cost anything, because it is all unnecessary expense.

We recognize the necessity of adequate returns and the desirability of a broad base of taxation, but the number of returns any taxpayer is required to make should be reduced to a minimum. To that end multifarious forms of taxation should be reduced to a minimum. We therefore favor the repeal of special taxes as rapidly as the financial condition of the Treasury will permit. The estate tax return is, and always will be, a complicated and burdensome one for the taxpayer.

Twenty-nine States allow the Federal tax to be deducted in computing their State inheritance tax. Collection of the Federal estate tax has seriously cut into the yield of the State taxation systems. To sustain their revenues these States would have to amend their laws to disallow that deduction and thus increase the burden of their own citizens. We see no occasion for interfering with established State systems of taxation any longer than the emergency continues which necessitated the interference.

In nine States there are so-called community property laws. In general they provide that one-half of the property acquired after marriage belongs in equal shares to husband and wife. Suppose a man in a community property State leaves all his property to his wife. His Federal estate tax is figured on half the amount of the property which would be the base for his tax if he had died a resident of one of the other States. The result is the taxpayer is punished severely in the States which have no community property law.

The present law provides for a credit up to 25% of the amount of the Federal taxes for inheritance taxes paid to the State domicile. This operates to coerce the States into enacting inheritance tax laws of a sufficient severity to make use of the credit. There is nothing to prevent increasing the credit to 50% or even to 100%. The full effect of this 25% credit is not reflected even in the reduced yields of last year, and the increase in the percentage can have no other effect but to reduce the yield of the Federal estate tax, so that its purpose becomes frankly one not of production of revenue for the needs of the Federal Government, but a club to control State policies on matters of inheritance taxation.

A number of States have enacted a form of income taxation to take the place of the general property tax on intangibles, thereby producing an increased revenue over the yield of the general property tax, which worked poorly on that class of property. Why should not Congress grant a credit on Federal income tax returns for all or 25% of the income tax paid by a taxpayer to his State? There seems to be as much justification for it as there is for any credit on the Federal tax for State inheritance taxes.

We do not argue that the Federal Government has not the legal right or power to interfere with the domestic policies of States by passing legislation which tends to coerce the States in their domestic policies to conform with the ideas of Congress as to what is proper. What we do say is that in our opinion, if the Federal Government can raise its necessary revenue under a sound system of taxation which does not interfere with the domestic policies of the various States, we are entitled to expect that it will raise Federal revenues without such interference, and that it will repeal tax laws which have that effect at the earliest moment they become unnecessary.

National Industrial Conference Board Opposed to Federal Estate Tax—Repeal of the Law Urged.

The repeal of the Federal estate tax law in the forthcoming session of Congress would but slightly affect the total revenue of the Government during the fiscal year 1926, and only moderately in the fiscal year 1927, according to an analysis of the tax situation by the National Industrial Conference Board, 247 Park Avenue. The repeal of the law is urged by the Board, which on Oct. 26 said:

The amount of revenue derived from the Federal estate, or so-called inheritance tax (including the auxiliary gift tax), during the last fiscal year was approximately $109,000,000, or less than 3% of the total ordinary revenue of the Federal Government, acording to the Board's latest taxation study, just completed. Should the tax be repealed, the report declares, by March 15 1926, estates of persons dying before that date will still be taxed at the present rate, and the loss of the few remaining months of the fiscal year would be small. Material revenue also would still be collected from this source even in the fiscal year 1927, it is pointed out, as considerable time generally elapses between the death of a person and the payment of the Federal tax by his estate.

The position of the Conference Board membership, consisting of leading executives of all branches of industry, of transportation and finance, is described as "uncompromising opposition" to the Federal estate tax in principle, in the Board's report, "Proposals for Changes in the Federal Revenue Act of 1924." Ultimate if not immediate elimination of the tax is urged. If not entirely eliminated by the next Congress, the Board advocates a reduction of one-half of the tax in January 1926 and ultimate repeal in January 1927.

The Conference Board concurs in the view that the levying of inheritance taxes should be left entirely to the States. One of its chief objections against it is that Federal taxation in this field aggravates a situation of "vexation, confusion and chaos," resulting from the multiple and overlapping inheritance tax claims of the various States. In 38 States the Board's report records, if a resident dies leaving stock in a domestic corporation, the shares are taxed by three competing jurisdictions, the State of domicile, the State of incorporation and by the Federal Government. If the corporation is incorporated in more than one State each may join in levying on the stock. Thirty States tax bonds deposited within their confines irrespective of the domicile of the owner. Some States tax transfers of stock of companies merely operating in the State.

So burdensome are the combined multiple estate taxes in some isolated cases that the total tax has eaten up a material portion of the estate. Litigation resulting from the complexity of the various claims often amounts to more than the tax itself, the report says.

Building Plans for Sesqui-Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia Cut Down—Resignation of Two Directing Officials.

The action of Mayor Kendrick of Philadelphia in rejecting the $12,000,000 building program planned for the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, scheduled to open June 1 1926, caused the resignation on Oct. 28 of Ernest T. Trigg as Chairman of the Executive Committee and as Vice-President of the Sesqui-Centennial Association, and on the following day the resignation occurred of Col. David C. Collier as Director-General of the Exposition. The Mayor's recommendation for a curtailment of the building plans was laid before the Board of Directors at a meeting at the Bellevue-Stratford on Oct. 27. This meeting, which followed a conference between the Mayor and officers of the Sesqui-Centennial Association, was attended, according to the Philadelphia "Inquirer," by about 30 of the 47 members of the Board, including a large number of city officials. The Mayor's recommendation for the cutting down of the building program is said to have been unanimously approved by the directors present. The "Inquirer" points out that the new building program is but a fraction of the $12,000,000 program which Exposition officials had worked out, with provision for not less than seven exhibit buildings. The new plan provides only for the completion of two exhibit buildings already under contract, and the construction of an auditorium. As a result, instead of becoming an international affair, the exposition would simmer down to a local exhibition. In an article last night (Oct. 30) from its Washington correspondent, the New York "Evening Post" said that "the Federal Government's interest and activity in Philadelphia's sesqui-centennial celebration depends upon what sort of show the people of Philadelphia decide they want to offer the world in 1926. The article continued:

If the exhibition is to be merely a small one, housed in two buildings, the Government will base its co-operation along the lines of a two-building fair.

If the directors of the sesqui change their minds again and decide to hold a pretentious party, the Government will throw money and material into the exhibition to help make an impression upon foreing visitors.

Commission Promises Aid.

That much was made clear here by the members of the Federal Commission appointed by the President to act as advisers to the directors of the Sesqui-Centennial Exhibition.

When it was announced in Philadelphia early this week that the building program was to be curtailed and the proportions of the far considerably modified, the first question asked in Washington was: "What will the Government do, the Government which has assumed the role of host to the nations of the world and invited them to a great world fair in Philadelphia?"

Secretary Hoover, the most active member of the Federal Commission, answered that question.

City to Decide, Says Hoover.

Following a conference with George Akerson, Secretary to the Commission, who had been in Philadelphia for the past few days studying the affairs of the sesqui-centennial, Mr. Hoover issued the following statement:

"The Federal Commission will, of course, co-operate to the fullest extent in any modified policy of the sesqui-centennial. These policies are solely the province of the people of Philadelphia."

That was all the silent Secretary would say, but in other quarters talk ran freely that the most recent upheaval of the exhibition's affairs had reacted unfavorably in Washington.

Building May Be Abandoned.

The State Department, under whose auspices the original invitations to foreign countries were sent out, will possibly advise these nations of the curtailment in the program. Such a modification would naturally await action by the consuls of these nations here, who will naturally advise their countries of the chante in the plans.

That the proposed Government building on the exhibition grounds would not be built, if the sesqui is to assume the proportions of a country fair, was assured.

The Government intends to proportion its co-operation to the size of the fair, and instead of sending huge exhibits from each of the departments, exhibits that would fill a whole building in themselves, it will probably now cut its exhibition to the bone.

From the Philadelphia "Inquirer" of Oct. 28 quote the following regarding the presentation of Mayor Kendrick's new program at the directors' meeting:

The controversy which arose after the rejection by the Mayor of the $12,000,000 plans of Exposition officials served to set the entire meeting in a tension as Mr. Kendrick opened the building program discussion under the heading of "new business" after routine matters and reports of officers of the Exposition had been heard.

After referring to the successful completion of the drive to raise $3,000,000 of Exposition funds by sale of participation certifictaes as "the first time we have had a real and substantial foundation to stand on," the Mayor went directly to the core of his subject.

Experts Urge Smaller Plan.

"It was my hope that we might have four large buildings on the Exposition grounds," he said, "of which two are already under way. Within the past forty-eight hours, however, I have been informed by my experts, who are the engineering members of the Mayor's Cabinet, that it will be impossible to finish Buildings Nos. 3 and 4 in time for the Exposition next summer.

"We must realize that it is impossible to do more, yet we can still focus the eyes of the world on Philadelphia and can carry out a great international exposition. Let us make it as big as posisble with the means at hand and in the time available.

"I hope a complete program of events which are being planned can be announced within the next few weeks

"If we had had the $3,000,000 which was recently raised when I came into office as Mayor, or even at the time Colonel David C. Collier came to Philadelphia as Director-General, we would have had time to make a larger affair than is now possible, but this can still be made a large and great celebration."

Possibility of one more building which might be used for exhibit purposes was suggested by the Mayor in the announcement that he hoped the State of Pennsylvania may see fit to construct an Education Building with the $700,000 provided by the Legislature for participation in the Exposition. He said this has been suggseted to Harrisburg and is being considered.

Ten Nations to Exhibit.

Upon the conclusion of his talk the Mayor invited discussion from the floor of the meeting, but a moment later Samuel M. Vauclain, who was one of the leaders in the movement to defeat the Exposition when it was first proposed, offered a motion that the suggestions made by the Mayor be adopted as the plans of the board. The vote on his motion was unanimous.

Ten foreign nations and seven States have thus far officially announced their intention to participate in the exposition, Col. Collier reported to the directors, while participation of still other States and nations, he added, is virtually assured.

Sale of exhibit space to date has totaled 111,648 square feet, while 1,899,-078 additional square feet has been tentatively engaged. These figures were given by Ernest T. Trigg in his report as Chairman of the executive committee. He also called attention to the fact that no provision has yet been made for housing the art exhibits, which are planned.

Richard L. Austin, Controller, in a report on the finances of the Exposition, said that the association has an anticipated income of $1,715,504 95, which is unencumbered. Sale of exhibit space to date, he said, will yield $350,000 revenue.

At the conclusion of the meeting, it was suggested to the Mayor that the administration building now being constructed on the Exposition grounds might be converted by slight alterations into an exhibit structure.

"I would be in favor of that," he said. "I am satisfied that we have not made a mistake to-night in taking the action we did, and that we will have a great celebration."

A resolution was passed on Oct. 29 by the City Council of Philadelphia approving the stand of Mayor Kendrick; it was introduced by Councilman Cox, Chairman on Finance, and it reads as follows, according to the "Ledger":

"Commending the Mayor of Philadelphia for the position he has taken in connection with the Sesqui-Centennial Celebration in 1926.

"Whereas, the movement for the holding of a proper Sesqui-Centennial celebration was launched about four years ago;

"And whereas, due to many changes made and suggested from time to time, there was little real progress and no definite plan being before the people of Philadelphia to arouse their interest and enthusiasm;

"And whereas due entirely to the persistent efforts of the present Mayor to bring about the holding of a dignified and economical celebration of the birth of the Nation, he evolved a definite plan, providing for the carrying into effect of his pledges repeatedly made for a dignified and proper celebration of this great anniversary by proper pageantry and the housing in two large buildings, now under construction, with adequate space for proper exhibits typifying the progress made in inventions, in the industries, art, &c., since the holding of the Centennial Celebration in 1876;

"And whereas, on Tuesday, October 20 1925, at a large and representative gathering of the Board of Directors of the Sesqui-Centennial Association this plan was presented by Mayor Kendrick, he properly stressing the dignity of the celebration, its economy and the necessity of its opening on June 1 1925, particularly because of the 170 conventions which have accepted the invitation of the city for next year, it having been represented to them that here in 1926 would be held the Sesqui-Centennial Celebration, the Board of Directors, without a dissenting voice, approved this plan of Mayor Kendrick.

"And, whereas, in view of the vote of confidence given to the Mayor by representative men and women of Philadelphia, composing the Board of Directors, the City Council (the representatives elected by the people), should also show its approval of this wise and economical plan, therefore,

"Resolved, by the Council of the City of Philadelphia, that, in view of the position taken by His Honor, Mayor Kendrick, in connection with a dignified and economical celebration of the 150th anniversary of the birth of the Nation, known as the Sesqui-Centennial, this Council commends him for all he has done to make the coming celebration one that will be befitting the dignity of the City of Brotherly Love, and pledge our individual support to any and all matters coming before this body which will in any way assist in making the Sesqui-Centennial Celebration a success."

In tendering his resignation to the Mayor, Mr. Trigg said:

For many months I have neglected my business and my personal affairs in order to give to the Sesqui-Centennial what measure of ability I possess, believing the occasion to be one which should appeal to the patriotism of every American, and especially to every Philadelphian.

Now that a definite limit has been set on the construction program, I feel that the celebration can better be carried out by members of your official family, with whom you can be in hourly contact.

Under these circumstances, I am convinced that the time has arrived when I can retire from active direction of the Sesqui affairs and return to my business without injury to the cause.

I therefore ask that I be relieved of the Chairmanship of the executive committee and the Vice-Presidency of the Sesqui-Centennial Exhibition Association, to take effect as soon as the work can be turned over to those you select to carry it on. I shall be glad to continue as a director, if you desire, and assure you of my sincere interest in you and all of the many constructive things you are doing for Philadelphia.

I furtner assure you of my willingness to be of assistance to you and your associates at any time you may call upon me in the further work of the Sesqui, or in any other place where I can be of constructive help.

Mayor Kendrick made known the acceptance of the resignation in the following statement:

Ernest T. Trigg to-day resigned as Chairman of the executive committee of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition Association. His resignation immediately was accepted by the Mayor.

The following is Colonel Collier's letter of resignation to the Mayor:

I have given careful thought to your earnest request that I continue as Director-General of the Exposition, notwithstanding the limitation placed on the building program, but unfortunately, I cannot see my way clear to do so.

Because of the enthusiastic and persistent work I have carried on with members of Congress, Chambers of Commerce, representatives of foreign Governments and the press in support of the program adopted by the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors for an exposition of real international proportions, I feel that the handicap now imposed upon me by the limited program would largely destroy the value of my services.

As now planned, the celebration is adequately financed and can easily be carried to a successful and creditable conclusion by you. My contract with the City of Philadelphia does not expire until Jan. 1 1927, but I should very much like to be relieved from this contract as of Jan. 1 1926, or sooner, if you feel that you can dispense with my services without serious inconvenience to the man who shall assume the management of the enterprise.

I shall remain in the East for some time and, even after I have finished the work here, if you so desire, I shall be glad to act in an advisory capacity without charge and to assist in every way I can to make the affair a great success.

The Mayor's acceptance of Colonel Collier's resignation was announced as follows:

Colonel Collier to-day presented his resignation, to take effect Jan. 1 1926, or sooner. I have accepted it to take place Nov. 1, and on next Monday—assisted by my Cabinet—will take charge of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition affairs until the services of an outstanding business man can be procured to direct the movement.

Colonel Collier's salary will continue until Dec. 1, during which time he will serve in an advisory capacity when called upon.

On Oct. 29 the "Inquirer" said:

Collier Reveals Cause of Rift.

That the Mayor's revised program for a "small but dignified" exposition was the direct cause of the rift, was evident in an unguarded remark made by Col. Collier.

"The two exhibition buildings the Mayor proposes, he said, "will cover an area two acres smaller than the combined exhibition space available at the Centennial Exposition here 50 years ago.

"It will not be nearly enough space to make the celebration a worthwhile one.

Mayor Opposed to Postponement.

While it never was officially stated, it became known yesterday that both Collier and Trigg favored either a postponement of the opening or else the extensions of the time to include 1927.

Mayor Kendrick was opposed emphatically to this change. He pointed out that some 170 organizations had pledged to hold their conventions here during the celebration period, and that he did not want to disappoint the individuals who were attracted here by reason of the Sesqui.

President's View in Doubt.

What view the President will take of the situation is a matter of conjecture. Collier, in outlining the Exposition to the Chief Executive some time ago, laid before him plans for the expenditure of $12,000,000 for buildings.

As a result, the President invited the nations of the world to participate, and ten are known to have accepted the invitation. Now, with the changed plans, it is not known what President Coolidge will do.

The Philadelphia "Ledger" in its news columns yesterday (Oct. 30) said, among other things:

With the approval of the Mayor, program by Council following the resignation of Colonel Collier, concessionaires who had hoped for a last-minute adjustment which would have restored the Exposition to its original proportions saw their hopes totter.

Telegrams and telephone calls poured into Sesqui headquarters, at 523 Chestnut St., constantly throughout the afternoon.

Big Concerns Recall Agreements.

It was learned that the United States Steel Corporation, the Bethlehem Steel Co. and the Carnegie Steel Co., all of which had contracted for a huge display space, had recalled their exhibit agreements.

Disappointed concessionaires hinted at suits against the city to recover large sums of money spent for equipment in the expectation of returns on their investment now believed impossible.

It was said that F. W. Talbott, who holds the "Venice" concession has spent more than $175,000 to procure launches, gondolas and equipment for the proposed lagoons and waterways.

Maxwell Ayrton, who has backed the transportation of the "Treasure Island" concession, a feature of the Wembly Exposition in England, is reported to have expended approximately $100,000.

One Sesqui authority remarked as the flood of inquiry kept pouring in, "the whole thing has been shot to pieces."

The "Temple of Solomon" concession, will, however, be erected, according to John Wesley Kelchner, the promoter. Through Mr. Kelchner's spokesman, V. P. McCormick, it was learned that not only would the huge concession be constructed, but that Mr. Kelchner's offer of a "Peace Forum" to tne city, through Mayor Kendrick, will be constructed and paid for by Mr. Kelchner at a cost of $250,000. That is taken as a substantial guarantee that his whole project will appear and be ready on the opening date.

"So far as our concession is concerned, it will go up, even if there is no Sesqui at all," said Mr. McCormick.

Dwight F. Davis Succeeds John W. Weeks as Secretary of War.

John W. Weeks, who resigned two weeks ago as Secretary of War, sailed for South America on Oct. 24, his sole concern, he said, with his departure being to recover completely from a major operation which he underwent about six months ago. At the time of his resignation on Oct. 13 Secretary Weeks issued a farewell statement in which he referred to the frequent criticisms of the General Staff, which he said, in his opinion, "has been the result of misinformation." "The advice and assistance of the General Staff is so helpful and necessary in the conduct of the greatly diversified military establishment," said Secretary Weeks, "that I do not believe a Secretary of War, no matter how competent, could serve the best public interest if any material modifications were made in its functions." Dwight F. Davis, of Missouri, who had been Assistant Secretary of War, was named by President Coolidge to succeed Mr. Weeks as Secretary (Mr. Davis took the oath of office Oct. 14), and Colonel Hanford MacNider of Iowa, former Commander of the American Legion, was appointed Assistant Secretary on Oct. 15, succeeding Mr. Davis. Secretary Weeks's resignation was tendered to President Coolidge in the following letter:

The Secretary of War, Washington, Oct. 13 1925.

Dear Mr. President:

I regret that it seems unwise for me to serve any longer as Secretary of War. Due to your kindness I have continued in offiec during the past six months, hoping that about this time I would be able to resume active duty. While my health has greatly improved and I hope to recover ultimately, I am not now in condition to undertake the responsibilities of any intensive occupation, and my doctors inform me that I shall not be able to do so for some months.

It seems to me that in justice to you, the best interests of the military service and the proper consideration of the important non-military problems entrusted to the War Department I should no longer hold an office I cannot adequately fill. I therefore respectfully tender my resignation.

In doing so I want to express my entire confidence in the success of your Administration and my sincere regret that I cannot continue officially the extremely pleasant relationship I have enjoyed with you and your advisers. Thank you for the kind consideration you have shown me during my service as a member of your Cabinet.

Very respectfully yours,

JOHN W. WEEKS.

The President, The White House.

The following is the President's reply:

The White House, Washington, Oct. 13 1925.

My dear Mr. Secretary:

Your favor notifying me of your final determination to resign as Secretary of War on account of your health has been received with a great deal of regret. I am pleased to know, however, that your physical condition is growing more hopeful each day, and that with a relief from official duties there is prospect of a good recovery.

I recall that you were entering public life 21 years ago when you came to Northampton to speak during your first campaign for election to Congress. You have the distinction of serving your home city, being a member of the national House and Senate, and sitting in the Cabinet under two Administrations.

Perhaps no more valuable suggestion was made to the Congress during the war than the proposal you made for preparing for peace. It will remain with the law for national forests, which bears your name, as a tribute to your statesmanship.

I cannot dispute that this entitles you to feel that you have given all that could be required of you in looking after the welfare of your country. I value your ability so much, and appreciate so highly the familiarity that your long experience in Washington has given you with the affairs of Government, that I feel your retirement to be a distinct loss. My personal relations with you have been such that I feel that the country is losing a valuable public administrator and I am losing intimate contact with a friend.

Your wise conduct of the office of Secretary of War has been a great satisfaction to me, and in the well-earned leisure that private life will afford you I trust you will fully regain your strength and find time to continue your interest in the well-being of our country. The administration of your office has been such that you will go down in history as a great Secretary of War.

In accepting your resignation I extend to you every good wish for your continuing welfare.

Very cordially yours,

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Hon. John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.

The following is Mr. Weeks's statement:

My resignation has been tendered to the President. I had hoped to be able to resume my duties, but my physicians advise me that it will be several months before I am able to undertake any strenuous work. Due to the very kind consideration of President Coolidge, I have remained in office in the hope that I could soon return to the Department. I have devoted the past 25 years to public service. It is my main interest and naturally I dislike to leave it. I have come to the conclusion, however, that the nation is entitled to a better performance of this important public duty than I am able to give at this time and, therefore, I have resigned.

I am especially reluctant to leave the War Department at this time. With a regular army of 12,000 officers and 125,000 men, a National Guard force of 175,000 men, a reserve of more than 90,000 officers, the annual citizen's military training corps of between 30,000 and 40,000 men, and the reserve officers' training corps, it is not to be expected that there will be unanimous agreement as to the policies of the War Department. There may be room for legitimate criticism, but on the whole this great force has worked together as a unit and during my incumbency I can say that they have worked together most harmoniously.

I believe that under the Defense Act of 1920 the army of the United States has made the greatest advance in its history and has never been more efficient or more prepared for immediate and effective expansion to meet the requirements of war. I take this opportunity to publicly express my gratitude to General Pershing, General Hines and the other officers who have been instrumental in developing the one-army plan and who have so loyally supported my administration of the Department. I have every confidence that a fair investigation of the army will demonstrate its efficiency and preparedness.

Since its organization the General Staff of the army has been frequently criticised. In my opinion this has been the result of misinformation. Many of the best officers in the army serve on the General Staff, the personnel of which is constantly changing. I doubt if an officer is now on duty with it in Washington who was here when I took charge of the Department. The advice and assistance of the General Staff is so helpful and necessary in the conduct of the greatly diversified military establishment that I do not believe a Secretary of War, no matter how competent, could serve the best public interest if any material modification were made in its functions.

Furthermore, unless the Secretary of War received advice from a group of officers representing all branches of the army he might act upon incomplete information. When Secretary of War Root was instrumental in creating and organizing the General Staff, the army took an important step forward.

The President has appointed as my successor the Hon. Dwight F. Davis. Mr. Davis has had two and half years' experience in the War Department, the first two years in the performance of the duties assigned by law to the Assistant Secretary of War, and the past six months to acting Secretary of War. He has administered the affairs of the Department with intelligence and ability. I have every confidence in his judgment and common sense. I am grateful to him for his wise counsel and assistance to me, and I know he will enjoy the same loyal support that I have received during the past four and a half years.

In leaving the public service I am mindful of the friendly support I have received from the press. Naturally, I have been criticized, but with one or two exceptions the criticisms have been honest and probably justified. My association with the Washington newspaper correspondents has been one of the most pleasant features of my work in the Department. I have never hesitated to speak most freely to them on official and personal matters, and my confidence has never been violated. My cordial relationship with the newspaper men will be one of the very happy memories of my public service.

It is with great personal regret that I leave the War Department. I love the army. The same patriotic spirit and devotion to country that led it to victory in the World War imbues its officers and enlisted personnel in time of peace. I have an unshakable faith in our army and a deep gratitude to my associates who have been so largely responsible for its administration during my incumbency as Secretary of War. I leave them with the assurance that I will continue my interest in their problems and will always be ready to assist national defense to the extent of my ability.

Mr. Davis, in a statement in tribute to Secretary Weeks, said:

In the resignation of Secretary Weeks the War Department loses a true friend and the country a valuable public servant. According to the unanimous opinion of army officers he is one of the great War Secretaries of modern time, ranking with Elihu Root. He is regarded as a great Cabinet Minister by all public men who know him. In addition to his high talents Mr. Weeks has the advantage of experience resulting from a long and varied public and political career.

An able executive, possessed to an unusual degree of that uncommon quality, common sense, he carries with him into private life the respect, the admiration and the affectionate regard of the whole War Department. In spite of my own promotion, I sincerely share the universal regret at his resignation. There will be no changes in the broad general policies governing the Department.

President Coolidge on Breaking Down of Functions of Parenthood—Commends Work of Y. M. C. A. In Training of Citizenship.

That "it is increasingly true that the hope of the future lies in the youth of the present" was pointed out in an address by President Coolidge in Washington on Oct. 24 at the forty-second international convention of the Young Men's Christian Association. The President at the same time commented upon "the indications that the functions of parenthood are breaking down," that "too many people are neglecting the real well-being of their children, shifting the responsibility for their actions, and turning over supervision of their discipline and conduct to the juvenile courts." "What the youth of the country need," said the President, "is not more control through Government action, but more home control through parental action." In stating this the President said:

The home is the cornerstone of the nation, and any effective better-homes movement must begin with the training of the youth for those responsibilities, or we shall see the disposition to attempt in some way to turn over to the Government the responsibilities for the rearing of children constantly increased.

Commending the activities of the Association, the President said that "probably no other lay force asserts so large an influence upon the young people as that which you represent. It stands," he continued, "as a direct challenge to materialism. . . . It is a most practical effort in the training of citizenship." He remarked that "in addition to the contribution which the Associations are making to the strengthening of the home and the building up of citizenship, they are a source of great assistance to the church and its work." We quote herewith what the President had to say:

Mr. Chairman, members of the convention:

This gathering has brought together from nearly all the American States and Canadian Provinces the lay leaders of what has come to be a great world movement. It is a body representative of Young Men's Christian Associations, not only of large and small cities, and of the town and the countryside, but also of those located in institutions of learning, centres of industry, at the convergence of railroad systems, in army and navy posts and stations, and among our colored population. Wherever there are young men these associations recognize that there is a field for their activities.

This is one of the oldest international conventions that are held on this continent. For more than the allotted span of three-score years and ten it has been in existence, forming one of the strongest bonds of common interest between the provinces and the States. It illustrates in a most striking way that the influence of men banded together to do good tends to increase rather than to diminish. The lay forces of these two great North American powers, in their united efforts to preserve the faith and build up the character of youth, have not only seen their power gradually extended until it reaches an innumerable host, but have also seen it contribute to a great harmony of interests between two neighboring nations. Since 1851, when the first international association included only the beginnings in Boston and Montreal, the movement has spread over the earth until now it includes 9,000 branches in more than fifty different countries, with an active membership of 2,000,000, not including other millions of older men who, through their past contact, have broadened their vision, raised their ideals, and strengthened their character. One of the greatest services which our country has rendered to humanity has been in providing almost entirely the initiative, leadership and financial support which have carried the associations into nearly every corner of the globe.

It must be apparent that such a far-reaching success, running over so long a period of time, could not have been accomplished unless it was making an important contribution to society and was in harmony with the vital forces of progress. Institutions which are not useful decline and perish. It is only those which minister to the needs of their times which increase and multiply. Time tests out every appeal and proposal, but, rejecting all others, grants and adopts only those which contribute to the breadth and value of life. It could only be because it was recognized as performing a most notable service that this movement, lasting so long and spreading so far, could have reached its present strength of virility.

This movement has brought into existence and organized one of the greatest lay forces that the world has ever seen. One of the chief characteristics of Christianity is that it is a militant and crusading faith. Those who have become partakers of its inspirations and its consolations, since it first began its early march over the hostile territory of the Roman Empire, have been constantly spreading its truths among all their associates. If that faith is to maintain its vitality that work must go on. It is not enough that there should be action in the pulpits—there must be reaction in the pews. It will not be sufficient to have exalted preaching by the clergy unless there is exalted living by the laity. Your Christian Associations represent a practical effort to organize and augment in every field the lay forces and to translate the truths of religion into the life of the people.

It is increasingly true that the hope of the future lies in the youth of the present. Probably no other lay force asserts so large an influence upon the young people as that which you represent. It stands as a direct challenge to materialism. It is a constant assertion that there is something more than the things that are seen. It seeks to overcome the tendency of an age of profusion which is so likely to develop into a condition of luxury and pleasure, selfishness and ease, destructive of the vitality and character of society. It is an effort to secure that development which only comes through action, and to strengthen the physical, intellectual and moral life by an ever active campaign against disease, ignorance, poverty and other evils. It seeks to create better understanding, to reveal young men to themselves, to show them their great powers, to direct them into unselfish ways, to give them more self-control and broaden the whole scope of their lives. It is a most practical effort in the training of citizenship.

One of the important results of all these activities is the preparation of young men to be the future heads of the homes of the people. There are too many indications that the functions of parenthood are breaking down. Too many people are neglecting the real well-being of their children, shifting the responsibility for their actions, and turning over supervision of their discipline and conduct to the juvenile courts. It is stated on high authority that a very large proportion of the outcasts and criminals come from the ranks of those who lost the advantages of normal parental control in their youth. They are the refugees from broken homes who were denied the necessary benefits of parental love and direction. The home is the cornerstone of the nation, and any effective better-homes movement must begin with the training of the youth for those responsibilities, or we shall see the disposition to attempt tn some way to turn over to the Government the responsibilities for the rearing of children constantly increased. What the youth of the country need is not more control through Government action, but more home control through parental action.

These associations are an effort in that direction. Through the High-Y clubs they have reached the older boys in the high schools, and through the Employed Boys Brotherhoods they have performed important work in industrial centres. They have taken a strong hold in directing the moral and religious life in many of the State universities and the principal colleges of the country. They are intrenched along nearly all the great railway systems of the United States and Canada and are doing a most promising work among the merchant marine of our Atlantic and Pacific ports, as well as those of Europe and the Far East. Ever since the Spanish War they have maintained the principal welfare agency in the American Army and Navy. They have adapted themselves to the youth of all nationalities and races and become an indispensable factor in multitudes of great industrial establishments, ministering through the physical, intellectual and the spiritual to the whole range of life of young men.

Special emphasis is being placed upon the need of training for citizenship Not only by the general development of character, by encouraging industry and discouraging waste, are they strengthening the community and raising up leaders, but by informing the young respecting the teachings of the New Testament and of the Hebrew prophets they are providing them with a grasp on the principles which must underlie all enduring civilization. Through countless study circles and in open forums they are given opportunity to read and discuss the current economic, social and political problems under the admonition that such training is not intended alone for personal betterment, but to prepare for a wiser discharge of public obligations.

It is realized that every youth is a potential lawmaker, law interpreter and law enforcer; that in the coming days their word, their action and their franchise will inevitably exert some ruling influence over the lot of their fellowmen.

In addition to the contribution which the associations are making to the strengthening of the home and the building up of citizenship, they are a source of great assistance to the church and its work. Through their contact with students in high schools and colleges they are an important factor in interesting some of the best qualified young men in the vocation of the Christian ministry. The missionary departments of the student associations have been instrumental in recruiting over 12,000 student volunteers to serve under the boards of North America in the foreign fields. These volunteers form a most practical part of missionary effort abroad. They are composed not only of evangelists, but they reach into the field that is treating disease through their physicians, they reach into the field that is remedying ignorance through their teachers and writers, and they also reach into the field that is seeking to improve agricultural and industrial methods through their scientific and vocational experts. They are demonstrating the practical value of enlightened civilization which rests on religion. They are carrying into the life of distant peoples a true interpretation of that which we consider best in America and Canada. Beside the standards which are oftentimes none too high of those who make foreign contacts solely for the purposes of gain, go this great multitude of those who, chosen for their unselfishness, have dedicated their lives to the service of others, in order that an accurate knowledge of the true standards of our people, out institutions and our civilization may carry their better influences to the knowledge of all the world.

But while that which we send abroad is important, that which we keep at home is even more important. It would be difficult to find any leaders in the life of our present day who have not in one way or another come under the influence and the teaching of our countless associations. They speak not only from the pulpit but from the bench and the bar, from the pages of journalism and the halls of legislation, from industry and commerce and finance. These are all on a higher plane and exerting a more humanizing influence because of the results of this geeat work.

Perhaps one of the most significant results that is flowing from all these activities is the unifying influence which they are producing. We do not all need to be alike, but it is usually more helpful and certainly more comfortable to put the most emphasis on those characteristics which we have in common rather than to dwell too much on divergence and dissimilarities. One leads to friendship and co-operation, while the other is likely to develop contention and animosity. Amid all the divergent influences that have been manifesting themselves among the different peoples of the earth in recent times, it is exceedingly reassuring to realize that there is a quiet and constructive effort on the part of a world-wide brotherhood of Christian youth for co-ordination and harmony. The same factor is at work in bringing together the different religious denominations. Because so many of their leaders have been accustomed to a common experience in their youth under the leadership of the associations, a sympathetic cord of increasing strength is bringing about a spiritual union of North America with the nearby countries of Latin America, Europe and the lands of the Eastern churches of Russia, the Balkans and their neighboring States. When the people of different countries are finding so much on which they can agree, it is more and more unlikely that their Governments will disagree.

The same influence is being cast over our domestic affairs. Employer and employee are being brought together in a common fellowship. Much is being done to diminish and disperse race antagonisms. It was the American association that established the interracial commissions, which it is generally agreed have been of great importance in the past few years in promoting better understanding and relations between the white people and the colored people. This example has been an inspiration to students of the problem of race relation in all parts of the world.

But it is impossible to do more than sketch in the briefest way some of the outstanding features of the work of this organization that plays such an important part in molding the character of youth in all parts of the world. It is a great instrument for domestic improvement and international progress. In addition to all the local outlays, the National Council alone has a budget of over $4,000,000 for the coming year. It is difficult to imagine a field where such an expenditure could be more beneficially made. The remarkable results which this organization accomplished in Southeastern Europe in helping to restore the morale of those shattered peoples is well known to all students of that situation. The help that is likely to be given in China through the access which these associations have to the student bodies promises to be important, far-reaching and beneficial. Wherever there is a religious work to be performed, this organization will be found doing more than its share and accomplishing most desirable results.

America has many reasons for pride and satisfaction in the spirit and character of its citizenship. It is gratifying to know that it has the resources with which to make these outlays and perform these services. We ought to be thankful in remembering that our own people do not need to receive this kind of assistance from any other people. We are able to look after our own. But that which rises above all other considerations is the fact that our people are imbued with a religious charity which makes them disposed to extend these benefits to those who are less fortunately circumstanced at home and abroad. There are those who constantly reprove our people and our Government for an alleged failure to assist other peoples. I do not know that any one could ever say that we were doing enough, but it is my strong suspicion that those who are making the loudest complaints have never taken the trouble to ascertain what we have done and what we are doing. It is gratifying beyond measure to realize how the steady, courageous, generous hand of the real America continues to reach out to those in need. It stands as a conclusive answer to all censorious criticism. These works stamp America with a continuing effort working for moral regeneration.

Milton E. Ailes, President of the Riggs National Bank of Washington, D. C., and a former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday (Oct. 30) at his summer home near Harper's Ferry, W. Va. Mr. Ailes, who was 58 years of age, went to Washington from Shelby County, Ohio, very many years ago to look for a job. He got one as a day laborer in the Treasury Department and studied the rudiments of finance while doing menial tasks around the great buildings. His rise was rapid, and when Lyman J. Gage became Secretary of the Treasury he recommended that President McKinley appoint Mr. Ailes as an Assistant Secretary, a position he held until he entered the banking field. His acquaintance among public men of the last generation is said to have been unsurpassed by any one not identified with Washington official life. In the celebrated row between the Riggs Bank and the Treasury Department under Secretary McAdoo's administration, Mr. Ailes was one of the storm centres and bore the brunt of the fight for the bank. The strain, it is thought, affected his heart, and he had not been a well man since. For many years he was Treasurer of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee.

John F. Smulski, President of the North-Western Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago, announces the organization of the North-Western Securities Co., a corporation chartered under the laws of the State of Illinois for the distribution of first mortgages and first mortgage real estate gold bonds, as well as Government, municipal public utility, railway and industrial securities. The new company has a capital stock of $200,000 and a surplus of $50,000, all of which with the exception of qualifying directors' shares is owned by the North-Western Trust & Savings Bank. It has been organized especially to provide increased facilities for the service of the growing investment clientele of the North-Western Trust & Savings Bank. The offices of the company are in the same building with the bank at 1201 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago. Colonel Cedric E. Fauntleroy, formerly head of C. E. Fauntleroy & Co., investment securities, has been appointed Vice-President and Manager of the North-Western Securities Co., and will give his entire time and attention to its affairs. He has had extensive investment experience and has headed a successful organization of his own for the past four years. During the World War Colonel Fauntleroy was a member of the Lafayette Flying Corps in France. After the Armistice he organized the Kosciusko Escadrille, which he headed during its famous campaigns in Poland during the Polish-Bo'shevik War, and remained its Commander for the three and one years until it was demobilized.

The Fourth Northwestern State Bank, an institution recently organized in Minneapolis, will open for business at Cedar and Riverside avenues, that city, on Monday, Nov. 2, according to the Minneapolis "Journal" of Oct. 27. The location, management and staff of the new bank are the same as those of the present South Side office of the Northwestern National Bank, it is said, and its officers are practically the same as in 1922 when the bank operated as the South Side State Bank, namely A.. A. McRae, President; F. E. Kenaston and O. O. Erling, Vice-Presidents; Sam T. Throbeck, Cashier, and C. M. Jorgenson and Claudia Dahl, Assistant Cashiers.

Wickham retired more than a year ago, has resigned from the institution and returned to his former position as a bank examiner for the National Banking Department, according to the Omaha "Bee" of Oct. 14. The "Bee" further stated that with the resignation of Mr. Wilson the affairs of the institution were being directed by Roy Maxwell and G. F. Spooner, Vice-President and Cashier, respectively, of the bank. Frank F. Everest, the President, is on a hunting trip in Canada, it was said.

At Fort Dodge, Iowa, on Oct. 23, Otto M. Thygesen, the former Cashier of the Otho Savings Bank, Otho, Iowa, pleaded "guilty" to forging a note for $1,300, and was sentenced by Judge B. R. Bryson to serve an indeterminate term of not more than ten years in the Fort Madison Penitentiary, according to a special press dispatch from Fort Dodge on that date to the Des Moines "Register." On Oct. 5, according to the dispatch, Thygesen confessed that he had misappropriated approximately $25,000 of the bank's funds and used the money to speculate in stocks. The closing of the institution and the arrest of the Cashier was mentioned in these columns in our issue of Oct. 17 last.

A press dispatch from Charles City, Iowa, on Oct. 22, printed in the Des Moines "Register" of the following day, stated that George F. Heitz, former President of the defunct Farmers' Trust & Savings Bank of that place, was acquitted on that day (Oct. 22) in the District Court at Osage. Mitchell County, Iowa (where the case was tried on a change of venue), when Judge M. F. Edwards instructed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant. The dispatch further stated that three other former officials of the bank may be tried on the same charge.

According to the Des Moines "Register" of Oct. 15, an initial dividend of 20% is being distributed to the depositors of the defunct Commercial Savings Bank of Des Moines, Iowa, as the result of an order issued on Oct. 14 by Judge Meyer to L. A. Andrew, the State Superintendent of Banking. The Commercial Savings Bank failed on Dec. 31 of last year, as reported in the "Chronicle" of Jan. 3 1925, page 53.

The resignation of Thomas F. Lawrence as a Vice-President of the Insurance Bank of St. Louis and as a Vice-President and director of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. of that city, was regretfully accepted by M. E. Singleton, the President of the institutions, on Oct. 20, according to the St. Louis "Globe-Democrat" of Oct. 21. Mr. Lawrence's duties in both instances will be assumed by Mr. Singleton, it is understood.

The First National Bank of Mobile, Ala., reached its 60th anniversary on Oct. 18. A reception to its friends and the public generally to signalize the event, was held in its banking rooms on Saturday, Oct. 17, from 5 to 9 p. m.

Miller, formerly Cashier at central office, elected a Vice-President, central office; C. E. Shepard, heretofore Cashier at Mitchell Street office, appointed Cashier at central office; George L. David, Chief Clerk at central office, promoted to Assistant Cashier in same office; C. L. Sharpe, Chief Clerk in Mitchell Street office, elected Cashier in that office; E. T. Johnson, former Cashier of Tenth Street branch, elected an Assistant Vice-President in New Business Department, and James Sarter, Auditor, elected Cashier at Tenth Street office.

That the Commercial Bank of Athens, Athens, Ga., had been consolidated with the Citizens & Southern Bank in Athens (the head office of the latter institution is in Savannah) was reported in an Associated Press dispatch from that city on Oct. 27, printed in the Atlanta "Constitution" of the following day. Announcement of the proposed merger was made by Mills B. Lane, President of the Citizens & Southern Bank, and Hugh H. Gordon Jr., President of the Commercial Bank of Athens. The consolidation, it is understood, became effective Oct. 28. The Commercial Bank of Athens, according to the dispatch, had resources of more than $1,000,000 and was among the strongest banking houses of northeast Georgia. As noted in these columns on Aug. 8 the Citizens & Southern Bank opened a branch in Athens on Aug. 1 last, when it took over the affairs of the American State Bank of that place, which had failed the previous April.

The Los Angeles "Times" in its issue of Oct. 20 stated that the directors of the Americommercial Corporation of Los Angeles, the holding company for the Bank of America and the Commercial National Trust & Savings Bank, had voted the previous day (Oct. 19) to increase the outstanding capital of the corporation by 20,000 shares, which would be offered to stockholders of record Oct. 21 at $200 a share. This announcement was made by L. M. MacDonald, the President of the corporation, following the meeting of the board. The "Times" went on to say, in part:

> The addition of the new stock, Mr. MacDonald stated, will increase the amount of shares in the hands of the public to approximately $6,000,000. Before the increase, the company had 39,747 shares outstanding.
> Proceeds from the sale of the stock will be used for the purposes of expansion and the improvement of facilities. Mr. MacDonald plans to distribute some of the stock to customers of the controlled banks living in the communities outside of Los Angeles as part of a general campaign to obtain a wider distribution of ownership.
> The Americommercial Corporation, through the Bank of America, the Commercial National Trust & Savings Bank, and the Community State Bank, and the Community State Bank of Glendale, now has 25 banking offices in Southern California, of which the Bank of America has 13 and the Commercial National 11. It is represented in Los Angeles, Pomona, Torrance, Fullerton, Culver City, Anaheim, Santa Barbara, Huntington Park and Glendale.

Referring to the new stock of the Americommercial Corporation in its issue of Oct. 21, the San Francisco "Chronicle" said:

> To prevent speculation, the stock will be available only to those who owned it yesterday (Oct. 20) or of record as of opening of business to-day. A small attempt to trade in rights resulted in a small block selling at $7 50 a right. The rights are to be distributed on a basis of one for each four now held.
> The stockholders will be given 10,000 shares, and the rest will be held by the company for distribution to residents and officials of the corporation in new towns in Southern California in which the Americommercial Corporation enters. The rights must be exercised by Nov. 15. Payment must be made by Nov. 30 and the stock will be issued on Jan. 2.

The officials of the Americommercial Corporation in addion to Mr. MacDonald, the President, are: Orra E. Monnette, Chairman of the Board; W. A. Bonynge Jr., First Vice-President; E. C. Abel, Assistant Vice-President, and P. R. Williams, Secretary and Treasurer.

The Citizens National Bank of Los Angeles and the Citizens Trust & Savings Bank, of which J. Dabney Day is President, have successfully concluded a new business drive, which gained 8,737 new depositors, with an aggregate of $12,088,995, or 20% above the objective of $10,000,000. The campaign was planned and carried through by Frank C. Mortimer, Vice-President and Chairman of the Campaign Committee. He was formerly an executive of the National City Bank of New York. In addition to teams formed from the employees of the banks, directors, stockholders and officers organized themselves into committees to assist in the work. The committee headed by the President more than doubled its quota. During the campaign care was taken not to disturb harmonious banking relations with other institutions, but rather to obtain transfers of funds held in other cities and to secure a due share of corporation business in which directors and stockholders were interested. At the conclusion of the drive, and on the occasion of the celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the bank, deposits for the first time exceeded $100,000,000, the date coinciding with the payment of the one hundredth consecutive dividend.

The First Securities Co. of Los Angeles, Cal., announced on Oct. 20 through John E. Barber the election by the board of directors of H. O. Barroll as Vice-President. The following appointments in the First Securities Co. Bond Department were also announced: F. S. Baer, Manager; C. F. Seidel, Assistant Manager Buying Department, and R. H. Parsons, Sales Manager.

Officers and employees of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank and the First Securities Co. joined in doing honor to John M. Elliott, Chairman of the Board of the First National, with the rounding out on Oct. 21 of his forty-fourth year of service with that institution. Mr. Elliott on Oct. 6 celebrated his 81st birthday. In his honor on Oct. 21 a reception and entertainment was held in the auditorium of the new Chamber of Commerce Building. Henry M. Robinson, President of the First National and Chairman of the Board of the Pacific-Southwest Bank, presided. Senator Frank P. Flint, a director of the First National, delivered the introductory address presenting Mr. Elliott. Mr. Elliott entered the service of the First National as a bookkeeping expert in 1881. The following year he was appointed an Assistant Cashier and in 1885 he was elected Cashier. In 1892 he was elected President of the institution and served in that capacity until 1917, when he became Chairman of the board of directors. Mr. Elliott is also a director of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank. A native of South Carolina and a student in the Georgia Military Institute at Marietta in 1861-62, he enlisted in the Confederate Army in the latter year, serving that year and throughout 1863 in Company F, 53rd Georgia, later being detailed to the Signal Corps. He saw service in Georgia and South Carolina. In 1864 he was in the small force that retreated in front of Sherman's march to the sea.

Referring further to the proposed amalgamation of the Crocker National Bank of San Francisco, the First National Bank of that city, and the latter's affiliated institution, the First Federal Trust Co., to form the Crocker First National Bank of San Francisco, an outline of the plan under which the consolidation is to be effected was contained in a letter received on Oct. 22 by the stockholders of the First National Bank from John A. Hooper, Chairman of the Board, and other directors of that institution, according to the San Francisco "Chronicle" of Oct. 23. A meeting of the shareholders of the First National Bank has been called for Dec. 10 next, at which the terms of the consolidation will be considered for ratification. The bank's transfer books, it is said, will be closed on Dec. 8. The outline of the proposed plan, as printed in the before-mentioned paper, is as follows:

1. The First National Bank of San Francisco has a present outstanding stock issue of 30,000 shares of the par value of $100 each. The shares of the First National Bank of San Francisco carry with them the equitable ownership in a corresponding number of shares in the First Federal Trust Co.

2. There will be transferred to a national banking association, to be called "Crocker First National Bank of San Francisco," which new bank will be created either by an amendment to the charter of one of the existing national banks or by the creation of a new banking association as may be determined, the business of the two present national banks. The new national banking association will have an authorized capital stock issue of 60,000 shares of the par value of $11 each. The shares of the new national bank will carry with them the equitable stock ownership in the capital stock of the Crocker First Federal Trust Co., the successor to the First Federal Trust Co.

3. This plan will become effective only when approved by the shareholders of the respective banks owning at least two-thirds of their respective outstanding shares of stock.

4. The Crocker National Bank of San Francisco will contribute to the new banking association capital assets equal in value to the capital assets contributed by the First National Bank of San Francisco, including the assets of the First Federal Trust Co., and there will be allotted to the shareholders of the Crocker National Bank of San Francisco 30,000 shares of the capital stock of the new institution and to the shareholders of the First National Bank of San Francisco 30,000 shares of the new institution. All the present shareholders of the First National Bank of San Francisco will be given the opportunity of exchanging their present holdings, share for share, for stock of the new institution.

5. A syndicate composed of the following shareholders of the First National bank, viz.: John A. Hooper, Walter S. Martin and James K. Moffitt, has been formed, and if the proposed plan is so ratified by the shareholders of the First National Bank then this syndicate offers at any time within 30 days after the aforesaid ratification by shareholders, to pay to any shareholder of the First National Bank who does not wish to exchange his stock for stock in the new bank the sum of $300 per share, said sum to be payable upon delivery of certificates of stock, properly endorsed. The address of such syndicate is room 817, First National Bank Building, San Francisco.

It is contemplated that the new institutions will ocupy the present premises of the First National Bank of San Francisco and First Federal Trust Co.

By the combination of these old-established institutions there will result a national bank and a trust company having combined capital assets of approximately $14,000,000, with aggregate deposits of approximately $100,000,000. Your directors have investigated this situation carefully and are unanimously of the opinion that the proposed plan is advantageous to the shareholders of the First National Bank. At the present time the book value of its shares is approximately $240 per share, which value includes the value of the equitable ownership in a corresponding number of shares in the First Federal Trust Co.

The execution and exercise of the within proxy and power of attorney will not prevent any shareholder from selling his stock to the syndicate for $300 per share within 30 days after said ratification.

Reference was made to the proposed union of the banks in our issue of Oct. 24, page 2003.

THE WEEK ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

Motor stocks were the dominating feature in the New York stock market this week and continued to attract a generous share of the speculative activity, though industrials and specialties also were in strong demand at improving prices. Trading has continued very active, the volume of business on nearly every day closely approaching 2½ million shares. The trend of prices has, on the whole, been strongly upward. In the two-hour session on Saturday the volume of sales exceeded 1¼ million shares and many important issues advanced to new high ground. Motor stocks, led by General Motors, were in strong demand at advancing prices, the single exception being Chandler Motors, which yielded 12 points from its previous close to 43, though it recovered part of its loss before the day ended. Specialties also were in demand, United States Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry bounding forward 7 points to above 127, and Railway Steel Spring made a net advance of 7 points to 174. Railroad stocks made little progress, the only exception being Pittsburgh & West Virginia, which moved sharply forward 7 points to above 91 for the first time. The market trend was somewhat confused on Monday, though trading continued active and more than forty stocks established new high high records for the year. Railroad shares were more active and several advanced to new tops for 1925. The strong stocks of the group were: Southern Railway, Erie, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Nickel Plate, and Pere Marquette. New York Central crossed 128, the highest price touched in fifteen years. Motor shares continued in demand, Chrysler making a new top and General Motors scoring a net advance of 2⅛ points. United Cigar Stores was in special demand and closed with a net advance of 5⅞ points. The market opened strong on Tuesday and many of the more active issues moved forward to new high ground during the forepart of the session. Motor stocks were again the centre of interest, Chrysler shooting forward 7 points to a new high record at 223, though it lost a considerable part of its gain in the downward reaction of the final hour. Tobacco issues were the strong stocks of the day and new tops were recorded by United Cigar Stores, Schulte and Tobacco Products. Railroad securities were in demand at advancing prices, and New Haven stock moved above 40. Other strong railroad stocks included Pere Marquette, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central and Nickel Plate. A strong upward tendency predominated in the opening hour on Wednesday and many prominent issues rolled up new high records. The list included United Drug, which moved vigorously forward 7⅞ points to 162 at its high for the day; also Continental Can, Woolworth, United Cigar Stores, American Type Foundry and Fox Films. American Woolen was particularly active at improving prices, and General Electric bounded upward 17¼ points to 317¾. Motor shares under the leadership of Packard Motors scored substantial gains, and General Railway Signal recorded a net gain of 8¼ points. Interest centred largely in high-priced industrials and motor shares during the forenoon on Thursday. Practically every issue displayed increasing strength in the early trading, though many of these lost their gains in the flood of selling later in the day. Noteworthy in the list of strong stocks were such issues as General Railway Signal, National Lead, New York Canners, Anaconda Mining and American Smelting. Motor stocks also were in strong demand at improving prices, substantial gains being recorded by Hudson Motors, Nash Motors and Pierce-Arrow. Studebaker moved into new high ground at 67, and Chrysler advanced 8 points to a new top, declined 10 points and rallied to 234, making a net gain of 2¾ points for the day. The outstanding feature of the trading on Friday was the sensational jump of more than 14 points by Atlantic Coast Line to a record high of 215. Another feature of special interest was the advance of Pennsylvania to 50, the highest level reached since 1918. Motor shares continued to advance, the strong stock including Dodge Bros. A, Chrysler, Jordan Motor Car and Mack Trucks. Hudson reached a new peak at 114 and General Motors was up nearly two points at its high for the day. Other noteworthy advances included du Pont, 2⅛ points, American Can 3¼ points, Sloss-Sheffield 2⅞ points, Anaconda 2⅛ points, International Nickel 3¼ points, Seaboard Air Line 4 points, and Goodrich 3½ points. The final tone was buoyant.

THE ENGLISH GOLD AND SILVER MARKETS.

We reprint the following from the weekly circular of Samuel Montagu & Co. of London, written under date of Oct. 14 1925:

GOLD.

The Bank of England gold reserve against notes on the 7th inst. amounted to £156,110,285, as compared with £158,641,230 on the previous Wednesday. There have been large shipments of gold to New York and withdrawals from the Bank of England have been made for this purpose. A large proportion of the gold offered in the open market was also taken for the United States, and some purchases were made on behalf of India and the Continent. The following movements of gold to and from the Bank of England have taken place since those reported in our last issue:

	Oct. 8.	Oct. 9.	Oct. 10.	Oct. 12.	Oct. 13.	Oct. 14.
Received	------	£500,000	------	------	------	------
Withdrawn	£38,000	1,037,000	------	£784,000	£749,000	£55,000

£10,000 sovereigns were withdrawn for India. During the week under review £2,163,000 on balance has been withdrawn. From May 20 last, when the total amount of gold received by the Bank of England since the resumption of an effective gold standard first exceeded the total withdrawals, movements of gold showed a net influx until yesterday. The withdrawal of £749,000 on that day made a net influx of £68,000, increased to-day to £123,000 by the further withdrawal of £55,000. The United Kingdom imports and exports of gold during the week ending 7th inst. were

The following figures show the gold imports and exports of the United Kingdom during the month of September last:

The Transvaal gold output for September last amounted to 797,247 fine ounces, as compared with 808,218 fine ounces for August 1925 and 799,422 fine ounces for September 1924.

SILVER.

Silver has been a steady market during the week, purchases having been made both for account of China and the Indian Bazaars. Inquiry for silver for cash delivery has been well maintained, as the Indian demand has been mostly for silver for shipment by this week's steamer, which is due to arrive in Bombay in time for the November settlement. America has not been inclined to sell, but the Continent has disposed of a little silver in this market. Mail advice from Bombay under date of the 25th ult. states as follows: "For some little time our market has been showing a steady increase in speculative activity and the week under report was no exception. Banks are also operating more freely and the Bazaar is emerging out of the lethargy into which it had sunk during the monsoon. It must still buy to some extent in the London market and in New York in order to establish normal conditions during the November settlement. There is no change in the upcountry offtake which continues at the low figure of about 80 bars per day, but with the busy season approaching there must soon be indications of greater activity. Our stock is small." The following table shows the imports and exports of silver to and from the United Kingdom during the week ending the 7th inst.:

Imports.		Exports.
Norway	£72,000	Germany	£22,130

Complete and exact details for the week covered by the foregoing will appear in our issue of next week. We cannot furnish them to-day, inasmuch as the week ends to-day (Saturday), and the Saturday figures will not be available until noon to-day. Accordingly, in the above the last day of the week has in all cases had to be estimated.

In the elaborate detailed statement, however, which we present further below, we are able to give final and complete results for the previous week—the week ended Oct. 24. For that week there is an increase of 19.2%, the 1925 aggregate of the clearings being $10,594,154,189, and the 1924 aggregate $8,884,742,988. Outside of New York City the increase is 17.1%, the bank exchanges at this centre recording a gain of 21.1%. We group the cities now according to he Federal Reserve districts in which they are located and from this it appears that in the Boston Reserve district there is an improvement of 14.5%, in the New York Reserve district (including this city) of 21.1% and in the Philadelphia Reserve district of 12.7%. In the Cleveland Reserve district the totals are better by 14.5%, in the Richmond Reserve district by 19.3% and in the Atlanta Reserve district (chiefly by reason of the gain at Miami) by 38.2%. The Chicago Reserve district has an increase of 11.7% and the St. Louis Reserve district of 5.7%; but in the Minneapolis Reserve district there is a decrease of 18.6%. In the Kansas City Reserve district there is a gain of 2.5%, in the Dallas Reserve district of 1.1% and in the San Francisco Reserve district of 33.2%.

In the following we furnish a summary by Federal Reserve districts:

NOTE.—Beginning with the statement of Oct. 7 two new items were added in order to show separately the amount of balances held abroad and amounts due to foreign correspondents. In addition, the caption, "All other earning assets," now made up of Federal intermediate credit bank debentures, has been changed to "Other securities," and the caption, "Total earning assets" to "Total bills and securities." The latter term has been adopted as a more accurate description of the total of the discounts, acceptances and securities acquired under the provisions of Sections 13 and 14 of the Federal Reserve Act, which are the only items included therein.

Weekly Return of the Federal Reserve Board.

The following is the return issued by the Federal Reserve Board Thursday afternoon, Oct. 29, and showing the condition of the twelve Reserve Banks at the close of business on Wednesday. In the first table we present the results for the system as a whole in comparison with the figures for the seven preceding weeks and with those of the corresponding week last year. The second table shows the resources and liabilities separately for each of the twelve banks. The Federal Reserve Agents' Accounts (third table following) gives details regarding transactions in Federal Reserve notes between the Comptroller and Reserve Agents and between the latter and Federal Reserve banks. The Reserve Board's comment upon the returns for the latest week appears on page 2103, being the first item in our department of "Current Events and Discussions."

NOTE.—Beginning with the statement of Oct. 7 two new items were added in order to show separately the amount of balances held abroad and amounts due to foreign correspondents. In addition, the caption, "All other earning assets," now made up of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank debentures, has been changed to "Other securities," and the caption, "Total earning assets" to "Total bills and securities." The latter term has been adopted as a more accurate description of the total of the discounts, acceptances and securities acquired under the provisions of Sections 13 and 14 of the Federal Reserve Act, which are the only items included therein.

General Motors Corporation.

(Report for Nine Months Ended Sept. 30 1925.)

Pres. Alfred P. Sloan Jr., commenting upon the earnings of the corporation for the 9 months ended Sept. 30 1925, said in part:

General Motors net earnings after depreciation and all charges for the quarter ending Sept. 30 were $28,161,730. After deducting dividends on the Pref. and Debenture stocks amounting to $1,910,023 there remained $26,251,707, equivalent to $5 09 per share on the Common stock. This includes dividends received from subsidiaries but does not include equities earned by subsidiaries in excess of dividends paid. If the corporation's equity in the undivided profits of Fisher Body Corp., General Motors Acceptance Corp. and other subsidiaries were to be included, the amount earned on the Common stock for the quarter would be $28,647,896. This would be equivalent to $5 55 per share on the Common stock.

Net earnings after depreciation and all charges for the 9 months were $74,243,966. The amount available for the Common stock was $68,514,172, equivalent to $13 27 per share on the Common stock, and $14 57 per share including the equity of all subsidiaries. Cash in banks, Government securities, and temporary loans and marketable securities total $143,308,120. This is $3,933,058 in excess of that reported as of June 30 1925.

Comparison of the above earnings with previous years indicate that this establishes a new record for the third quarter and for the 9 months. The third quarter is substantially the same as the second quarter of the current year, which in turn resulted in the biggest earnings of any quarter of the history of the corporation. This has been accomplished in the face of the fact that the corporation introduced its current series of cars in August. Production in July and August was therefore very materially affected with profits correspondingly reduced. However, both sales and earnings for September were the largest of any month of any year in the history of the corporation. Furthermore, earnings for the 9 months exceed those of any previous entire year.

All divisions are operating at capacity and our dealers are accumulating very little stock. As a matter of fact, unsold stock in the territory is very materially below the corresponding period of last year and is actually subnormal. We feel that all this is due to the splendid reception given our current series of cars announced in August, as well as the excellent business the motor car industry as a whole is enjoying. General Motors is not planning any increase in plant capacity of any great moment. As will be noted from our statement, our plant investment after depreciation, as of Sept. 30 1925, is actually less than the corresponding item as of Dec. 31 1924. While it is contrary to the corporation's policy to make any forecasts as to the future, as things look at this time we expect to be able to maintain very satisfactory schedules during the winter.

Cash in banks, U. S. Government securities, and temporary loans and marketable securities, at Sept. 30 1925, amounted to $143,308,120; sight drafts, $15,764,676; notes and accounts receivable, $23,866,182; inventories, $92,485,761; totql current assets, $277,136,233. Current liabilities were $79,865,530, leaving an excess of current assets over current liabilities of $197,270,703. This compares with $161,105,281 as of Dec. 31 1924, an increase of $36,165,422, and with $188,614,557 as of June 30 1925, an increase of $8,656,146.

Class I railroads during the first nine months in 1925 placed in service 1,342 steam locomotives compared with 1,657 during the same period last year and 2,963 during the corresponding period in 1923. The same roads on Oct. 1 1925 had 237 locomotives on order compared with 285 on the same day last year and 1,242 two years ago. During the month of September this year 129 locomotives were installed in service.

These figures as to freight cars and locomotives include new, rebuilt and leased equipment.

Matters Covered in "Chronicle" Oct. 24.—(a) Widespread use of railroads by automobile manufacturers; Western lines handle more than 307,000 carloads annually, p. 1977. (b) Revenue freight continues to run in excess of a million cars a week, p. 1978.

Alton & Eastern RR.—Stock.—

The I.-S. C. Commission on Oct. 20 authorized the company to issue $5,000 Common stock, (par $100).

The company was organized in Illinois, Dec. 22 1924. In Feb. last the Commission authorized the company to acquire and operate a line of railroad extending from Grafton to East St. Louis, Ill., a distance of 37.91 miles. This line formerly was a part of the road of the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis RR., the abandonment of which had previously been authorized and was purchased at foreclosure sale by James Duncan for $1,350,000. The company now proposes to issue its authorized Capital stock of which 46 shares will be delivered to Duncan as part payment for the property acquired, and the remaining shares will be distributed as directors' qualifying shares.—V. 120, p. 1876, 1198.

Bangor & Aroostook RR.—Reported Detroit Men Buying Control.—

Control of approximately 40,000 of the 77,000 shares of Common stock of the company has been obtained by a group of Detroit, Mich., business men, according to Bangor, Me., press dispatch, which adds that efforts to obtain a large part of the Preferred stock amounting to approximately 35,000 shares, also are being made.—V. 121, p. 1565.

Boston & Maine RR.—Bus Line Seeks New Franchise.—

The Boston & Maine Transportation Co., a subsidiary has filed a petition with the New Hampshire P. S. Commission for authority to operate motor coaches connecting Rochester, Somersworth, Rollinsford, Dover, Madbury and Durham, N. H.—V. 121, p. 2034, 1673.

Chesapeake & Ohio Ry.—Virginia Commission Withdraws Approval of Lease of Road to Nickel Plate.—

The Virginia Corporation Commission has never approved the proposed lease of the C. & O. Ry. to the Van Sweringen interests, Judge William F. Rhea, Chairman of the Commission, wrote Commissioner B. H. Meyer of the I.-S. C. Commission Oct. 28. Judge Rhea advised Commissioner Meyer that the State Commission "desires to withdraw any approval and to stand in a neutral position except for what might be set forth in its petition to your Commission under date of March 12 1925."

The State Commission expressed itself as opposed to the proposed lease and added: "It is believed that the primary interest of that system will lie in the development of the port of New York, and whereas the C. & O. has been solely interested in the development of the port of Hampton Roads, it is probable that its policy will be changed so that it will become interested particularly in the development of its coal traffic, without proper regard to the development of traffic through the port of Hampton Roads." —V. 121, p. 1903, 1565.

Chicago & Alton RR.—Interest Payments.—

The protective committee for the 3% Ref. 50-Year Gold bonds (Charles A. Peabody, Chairman) announces that the receivers paid, on Oct. 29 1925, on the bonds, the interest which became due on Oct. 1 1925, with interest thereon at 6%.

Depositors should present their certificates of deposit to New York Trust Co., 100 Broadway, N. Y. City, depositary, or to Illinois Merchants Trust Co., Chicago, Ill., sub-depositary. Upon such presentation: (1) Depositors who have not received in advance of the Oct. 1 1925 interest will receive such int. with int. thereon at 6% to date of payment by the receivers; (2) those who have already received an advance of the Oct. 1 1925 int. will be credited with the repayment thereof.—V. 121, p. 1674.

Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry.—Over 50% of Bonds Deposited under Kuhn, Loeb-National City Plan.—Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the National City Co., reorganization managers under the plan and agreement dated June 1 1925, have announced that deposits under the plan now constitute more than 50%, or a clear majority for the bonds involved in the reorganization.

Committee Representing Bondholders and Stockholders Criticise Roosevelt & Sons Plan—Favor Kuhn, Loeb-National City Co. Plan.—The advantages offered to bondholders and stockholders by the Kuhn, Loeb & Co.-National City Co. plan of reorganization, already declared operative, far outweigh any advantages claimed by the proponents of the so-called Roosevelt plan, according to statements issued to bondholders and Preferred and Common stockholders of the road by the committees headed by Frederick H. Ecker, Mortimer N. Buckner and Donald G. Geddes, respectively.

The statement of the Ecker committee, discussing at length the relative merits of the two plans, declares that the prime requisites of sound reorganization are not met adequately by the Roosevelt plan.

The statement to the stockholders asserts that "the adoption of the Roosevelt plan would be injurious to both classes of stock and disastrous to the Common stock," and adds that "the Roosevelt plan seems to suffer from the peculiar defect that it seriously injures the stockholders without conferring corresponding benefits on bondholders.

The statement of the Ecker committee to the bondholders says:

Roosevelt Plan Distinctly Less Advantageous to Bondholders than Presen Plan.—A careful analysis of the so-called "Roosevelt plan," as compared with the reorganization plan which has been declared operative by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and National City Co. as reorganization managers, has convinced the committee that the Roosevelt plan is distinctly less advantageous to bondholders than the present plan.

Requisites of Sound Reorganization.—In aiding in the formulation of the present plan the committee constantly had three prime requisites in view, viz.:

1. That all debts of early maturity should be funded and to that end that the debt to the U. S. Government amounting to $55,000,000 should (subject to such reduction as might be accomplished) be presently liquidated by funds provided by the stockholders at an annual cost of not more than 5% and for bonds junior in lien to the new financing mortgage.

2. That the reorganized company should have moderate fixed interest charges and a financial structure that would enable it to raise the money from time to time required for capital purposes at the lowest cost and place the enterprise in a position to meet even a repetition of the unfavorable conditions of the last few years without risk of receivership; and

3. The foregoing requirements having been met, that it should be mandatory upon the reorganized company to apply all of the available earnings to the payment of 5% interest on the investment represented by the bonds participating in the reorganization.

These prime conditions are fully met by the present plan. They are not adequately met by the Roosevelt plan.

Roosevelt Plan Puts Burden of Liquidating Government Debt Within Fifteen Years on Reorganized Company.—The Roosevelt plan retains the basic defect of all the Roosevelt proposals in that instead of providing, through an assessment upon the stockholders, for the present liquidation of the Government debt of $55,000,000, it proposes to continue $50,000,000 of that debt (secured by $75,000,000 of 5% bonds ranking equally with the fixed interest bonds to be issued to the bondholders for 25% of their holdings) and to lay upon the reorganized company the burden of liquidating that debt within 15 years by annual serial payments averaging almost $5,000,000 a year beginning four years hence.

The Roosevelt plan makes no adequate provision for raising the money that would be required to meet these installments. It is presumably intended to pay them out of earnings since the estimates of the Roosevelt plan assume that as installments of the Government debt are paid off fixed interest charges of the new company will be reduced pro tanto. But earnings would not be available for this purpose unless and until the full cumulative 5% interest, and beginning 1936 the cumulative sinking fund of ½% per year, have been paid on the new adjustment bonds. In their letter approving the present plan, Coverdale & Colpitts made an estimate of the average future earnings of the system which would be available for interest upon the Adjustment bonds. Under these estimates, if the Roosevelt plan were adopted, there would be no earnings available for the retirement of the extended Government debt in 1929 when the first installment of the extended debt would fall due, and the aggregate of the estimated excess earnings over and above the interest on the Adjustment bonds to the end of 1934 (the latest date to which the engineers' estimates run) would be considerably short of the aggregate of the average installments on the extended Government debt during that period.

Whatever may be the value of estimates of earnings, it is perfectly clear that no reorganization can be predicated upon the use of earnings in excess of the engineers' estimates. Furthermore, it is doubtful if the stockholders could be induced to participate in the plan if practically all of the earnings for the next fifteen years are appropriated in advance to the retirement of the extended Government debt.

In the opinion of the committee, therefore, it would, as a practical matter, be necessary to raise most if not all of the money required to pay the serial maturities of the Government debt by the sale of the new 5% bonds to be pledged to secure the extended debt. Certainly there is little basis for hope that such bonds could be marketed at par as is the case with the 5% bonds to be issued under the present plan which are to be taken by the stockholders at par.

No Certainty That Government Debt Can Be Extended at 4½%.—It should be added in passing that the assumption in the estimates of the Roosevelt plan that the Government debt can be extended at 4½% and that the fixed interest charges of the new company will be relieved of even this interest as serial payments are made on account of the debt, overlooks two contingencies; first, that the proposed extension of the debt, both in respect of the period of extension and the rate of interest, is dependent upon Congressional action which may not be forthcoming; and second, that, as above stated, the money required to meet the annual installments will probably have to be realsed by the sale of 5% bonds on such terms as may be obtainable, doubtless increasing the annual interest charge rather than removing it, as the Roosevelt estimates assume.

Roosevelt Plan Weakens Financial Structure by Creating Short Time Maturities of Almost $5,000,000 a Year.—Quite apart from the likelihood that the ultimate cost of financing the payment of the Government debt will exceed 5%, the recurring necessity of raising on the average almost $5,000,000 a year for 11 years, beginning four years hence, for the payment of that debt is a serious defect in the Roosevelt plan. For 15 years these annual maturities would be a burden upon the credit of the new company, necessarily embarrassing its financing of capital expenditures and increasing the cost of such financing. The elimination so far as possible of all substantial short time maturities is one of the chief requisites of any sound reorganization. Contrary to the assumption of the Roosevelt committee, this has been the rule of successful reorganizations in the past except where such maturities consisting of underlying bonds could not be disturbed, or advantageously disturbed, or where bonds, issued for new money in the reorganization, had to be issued at a high rate of interest which it might reasonably be expected could be reduced in a few years.

Roosevelt Plan Increases Fixed Charges.—Even if the Government debt (which now bears interest at 6%) could be continued and refunded at 4½% interest, under the Roosevelt plan the fixed interest charges are increased over the fixed interest charges under the present plan by about $1,524,567 a year for five years and $2,101,944 a year thereafter, thus further weakening the new company's financial structure.

Roosevelt Plan Deprives Directors of Right in Their Discretion to Apply Part of Earnings for Capital Purposes.—The provision of the Roosevelt plan which deprives the directors after five years of the right, in their discretion, to retain one-half of the first $10,000,000 of available income in any year for capital expenditures materially weakens the financial position of the new company. The committee much prefers the provision of the present plan which, while permitting the application of the entire available net income to the payment of the interest upon the new Adjustment bonds, gives the directors (a majority of whom will represent the bondholders during the non-cumulative period) the right, but not the obligation, to retain in any year for capital purposes one-half of the first $10,000,000 of available income and makes mandatory the application of all remaining available income to the payment of interest on the Adjustment bonds. Once the cumulative period begins the bondholders can not be materially adversely affected by any temporary withholding of earnings which the exigencies of the new company may require.

Supposed Advantages of Roosevelt Plan.—As an inducement to bondholders to surrender the advantages of the present plan as above stated, the Roosevelt plan offers to bondholders the following supposed advantages:

(1) Bondholders participating in the plan would receive, for 25% of their present bonds, new fixed interest bonds bearing 4% interest for five years and 5% interest thereafter;

(2) Bondholders would receive in respect of the 5% income adjustment bonds to be issued for the remaining 75% of their present bonds, additional contingent interest of 1% (equivalent to ¾% on their present bonds) payable out of earnings after 4% has been paid upon the pref. stock; and

(3) Instead of issuing to stockholders, for an aggregate assessment of $70,032,548 as under the present plan, $60,698,820 of 5% bonds ranking ahead of the new income adjustment bonds, or about 86% of such assessment, the new company under the Roosevelt plan would issue for an assessment of $23,334,320 an equal face amount of 5% income adjustment bonds of the same issue as those to be issued to bondholders for 75% of their holdings.

In the opinion of the committee, these pretended advantages largely disappear on analysis and at best are no compensation for the serious defects of the Roosevelt plan.

The issue to bondholders of fixed interest-bearing bonds for 25% of their holdings is unimportant. In the first place, it merely amounts to splitting into two parts the security which takes the earnings available for interest to the present bondholders, one part being the equivalent of 1% for five years and 1¼% thereafter on the present bonds; and the other part an income charge of 3¾% on the present bonds. The value of the two parts taken together can be no greater than that of the security given under the present plan which represents a 5% return on the present bonds. Indeed, the dilution of the adjustment bonds by the issue of $23,334,320 thereof to the stockholders, coupled with the issue of $75,000,000 of prior lien bonds as collateral to the Government debt (in contrast to the $60,698,820 of such bonds issued under the present plan to retire that debt and furnish new money), will, it is believed, make the Roosevelt combination of two securities less valuable than the single security issued to bondholders under the present plan.

Moreover, even the unfavorable earnings of the current year and the previous year would, under the provisions of the present plan, compel the payment upon the entire issue of income adjustment bonds of an amount of interest exceeding the interest upon such fixed interest-bearing bonds, thus depriving the offer of fixed interest of any real value. In the opinion of this committee, it is much better to use the earnings to build up the investment position of the adjustment bonds issued for the full amount of the existing bonds as under the present plan, than to increase the prior fixed charges and weaken the position of the income adjustment bonds as is done under the Roosevelt plan.

The contingent interest of 1% upon the income adjustment bonds (equivalent to ¾% on the present bonds) payable only after 4% has been paid upon the pref. stock is distant and illusory. It may be several years before 4% dividends can be paid on the pref. stock, and even then a board of directors could hardly be expected to pay an additional 1% upon the adjustment bonds unless it were in a position at the same time to pay the remaining 1% on the pref. stock. Therefore, the present value of this contingent interest is almost negligible from the investor's point of view.

As to the third supposed advantage, it will be found that the Roosevelt plan does not materially improve the mortgage rank of the bondholders as compared with the present plan. While under the present plan $60,698,820 of 5% bonds ranking ahead of all the new income adjustment bonds are to be issued against an aggregate assessment of $70,032,548 (against $9,333,728 of which no securities are to be issued), under the Roosevelt plan the $57,737,699 of new fixed interest-bearing bonds issued to bondholders for 25% of their existing bonds must share their lien with $75,000,000 of new 5% bonds of the same issue which would be issued to secure, and of which substantially more than the present amount of the Government debt would doubtless ultimately have to be sold to provide for the payment of, the extended Government debt.

The joint statement of the committees representing the Preferred and Common stockholders says:

Roosevelt Plan Distinctly Less Favorable to Stock Than Present Plan.—A comparison of the two plans leaves no doubt in the minds of the committees that the so-called "Roosevelt plan" is distinctly less favorable to both classes of stock than the plan which has been declared operative by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and National City Co. as reorganization managers, and which has been adopted and approved by the committees (representing the Pref. and Common stockholders.)

Roosevelt Plan Injurious to Both Classes of Stock and Disastrous to Common Stock.—The adoption of the Roosevelt plan would be injurious to both classes of stock and disastrous to the Common stock. Indeed, the Roosevelt plan seems to suffer from the peculiar defect that it seriously injures the stockholders without conferring corresponding benefits on bondholders.

Essential Differences Between Two Plans.—From the point of view of stockholders the following are the essential differences between the two plans:

(1) Instead of providing for the present liquidation of the $55,000,000 debt of the company to the U. S. Government, the Roosevelt plan proposes (assuming Congress confers the necessary authority) to continue $50,000,000 of that debt at 4½% interest, secured by $75,000,000 of 5% bonds ranking just behind the new financing mortgage, such extended debt to be paid off in serial instalments averaging almost $5,000,000 a year beginning four years hence.

(2.) Instead of giving to the present bondholders new 5% income Adjustment Bonds for the full amount of their present bonds, the Roosevelt plan proposes to give them, for 25% of their holdings, fixed interest bonds of the same rank as those to be used to secure the extended Government debt, bearing interest at 4% for the first five years and 5% thereafter; and, for the remaining 75% of their holdings, there would be issued 5% income Adjustment Bonds which will be entitled to additional 1% contingent interest payable out of earnings after the new Preferred stock has received 4% in any year and before the Preferred stock will be entitled to receive its full 5% and before any dividend can be paid upon the Common stock.

(3.) Instead of requiring the stockholders to pay an assessment of $28 per share in the case of Pref. stock, and $32 per share in the case of the Common stock, for which they will receive ($24 and $28 respectively), new 5% fixed interest mortgage bonds issued under a closed mortgage ranking just behind the new financing mortgage as under the present plan, the Roosevelt plan assesses stockholders only $10 per share for both classes of stock for which they are to receive $10 of 5% income Adjustment Bonds.

Roosevelt Plan Increases Charges Fixed and Contingent Ahead of Stock.—A fatal objection to the Roosevelt plan from the point of view of stockholders is that, as compared with the Kuhn, Loeb-National City plan, the Roosevelt plan increases the annual prior charges (fixed and contingent) which must be paid before more than 4% can be paid on the Preferred stock and before any dividend can be paid on the Common stock by at least $1,769,872 for the first five years, and by at least $2,347,249 after five years, or approximately 2% on the entire issue of Common stock.

Roosevelt Plan Makes Adjustment Bonds Cumulative Three Years After Date of Issue.—Under the Roosevelt plan there might well be a still further increase in the charges prior to dividends on the Preferred and Common stock because of the provision of that plan that the interest on the new income Adjustment Bonds "becomes cumulative, beginning three years from date of issue" while under the Kuhn, Loeb-National City plan the interest on the Adjustment Bonds becomes cumulative only after Jan. 1 1930. Therefore if the earnings should be disappointing during the years 1928 and 1929 a very serious accumulation of deferred interest on the income Adjustment Bonds might be carried over to the subsequent years to be made up before the payment of dividends on either class of stock could begin.

Roosevelt Plan Apparently Proposes to Pay Government Debt Out of Earnings.—The plight of the stockholders would be even worse, if, as has been stated on behalf of the Roosevelt committee and as seems to be assumed in their estimates of future fixed charges, it is intended to provide for the payment of the extended Government debt by a cumulative charge, beginning four years hence and continuing eleven years, averaging almost $5,000,000 a year on earnings after the payment of the cumulative 5% interest upon the income Adjustment Bonds, and after payment also of the sinking fund of ½% a year which begins in 1936. Such an appropriation to the retirement of debt of an amount of earnings equal to more than 4% a year upon the Preferred stock, together with the increased prior charges proposed by the Roosevelt plan, would certainly long postpone the possibility of dividends on the Preferred stock and would render the position of the Common stock well nigh hopeless.

Roosevelt Plan Weakens Financial Structure by Increasing Fixed Interest and Creating Short Time Maturities.—The stockholders would also suffer, as would the bondholders, from the weakening of the financial structure of the new company contemplated by the Roosevelt plan in that it increases fixed interest charges by at least $1,524,567 for the first five years (assuming the interest on the Government debt to be only 4½%), and thereafter by at least $2,101,944 and in that it provides for the extension of $50,000,000 of the Government debt to be paid off at a rate averaging almost $5,000,000 a year after four years without any adequate provision for raising the money required for this purpose thereby creating embarrassment for the new company in financing its capital requirements and increasing the cost of such financing.

The prior fixed interest charges will be even greater if the Government debt (which now bears 6% interest) is extended at a higher rate than 4½% and will increase if new bonds are issued for the payment of the instalments of the extended debt at interest rates which would undoubtedly have to be considerably higher than 4½%.

Roosevelt Plan Retains Sinking Fund for Bonds.—It should be added that, in spite of the increase in the prior charges, the sinking fund of ½% on the new Adjustment Bonds beginning in 1936 provided for in the Kuhn, Loeb-National City plan is retained in the Roosevelt plan.

For these serious (and, from the point of view of the Common stock, fatal) concessions the stockholders are offered a reduction of the cash assessment from $28 per share in the case of Preferred stock and $32 per share in the case of Common stock, to $10 per share for both classes of stock.

Roosevelt Plan Reduces Net Cost of Assessment Only Slightly.—Most of this apparent reduction in the assessment fades away upon analysis. Under the Kuhn, Loeb-National City plan Preferred stockholders receive $24 and Common stockholders $28 in new fixed interest 5% bonds issued under a closed mortgage ranking just behind the new financing mortgage, now quoted at about 82½ on a when issued basis, which would reduce the net assessment to not more than $8.20 per share in the case of Preferred stock and not more than $8.90 per share in the case of Common stock. Under the Roosevelt plan stockholders receive for their assessment only income Adjustment Bonds junior to $132,737,699 of new fixed interest bearing bonds ($57,737,699 to be issued to bondholders for 25% of their holdings and $75,000,000 to be issued to secure the extended Government debt) for which 45 would be a fair value, taking into account the increased prior fixed interest charges. This would leave as the net assessment under the Roosevelt plan $5.50 per share for both Common and Preferred stock. Certainly this net reduction in the assessment of $2.70 per share on the Preferred stock and $3.40 per share on the Common stock, or even a much larger reduction, would be no compensation for the radical sacrifices required of the stockholders under the Roosevelt plan.

Another Stockholders' Committee Formed.—A notice to the stockholders Oct. 22 says:

The committee (below) representing a large amount of the Preferred and Common stock, have asked the Court to permit them to intervene on behalf of the stockholders in the receivership and foreclosure proceedings now pending in the Federal Court at Chicago. Without intervention stockholders have no standing in Court and cannot be heard on matters touching their interests, nor effectively set in motion any proposal or question any action taken.

Two Government proceedings now pending may profoundly influence the value of the stock, namely, the Western District rate hearing before the I.-S. C. Commission and the inquiry of one of the Commissioners into the conduct and management of the St. Paul Ry. Until the results of these inquiries are at least within view, and until the attitude of the Government upon the extension of its $55,000,000 loans is more definite, your interests cannot properly be determined.

Security holders of railroads in the Northwestern region are actively represented by counsel in the rate hearing. They have already introduced the testimony of their expert and others and a plan is about to be proposed and supported by them to secure an increase of rates in Western trunk-line territory to the average of other sections of the Western District. It appears to us that action along these lines by the I. S. C. Commission would make possible a reorganization of your railroad to your advantage. To this and other ends intervention in the pending Court proceedings is sought by our committee.

No one else representing the stockholders, so far as we know, is actively participating in these matters. No other stockholders' committee has appeared, either personally or by counsel, at the rate hearing or elsewhere in the proceedings.

Two plans of reorganization have thus far been presented to the security holders of the St. Paul Ry. We are in no way committed to either of these plans. Our object in the proposed intervention is solely to represent the interests of the stockholders, to prevent any precipitate action that may be injurious to them or that may foreclose them from sharing in a reorganization based upon the probable earning power and future development of the railroad property. We have retained as our counsel in the Court proceedings Wm. Church Osborn of Osborn, Fleming & Whittlesey, New York, and Lessing Rosenthal of Rosenthal, Hamill & Wormser, Chicago.

French Bondholders Fight St. Paul Plan.—

A cable dispatch from Paris Oct. 26 says: "Charles Loeb, an American attorney living in Paris, will sail Oct. 27 for New York, having been retained by the recently constituted bondholders' protective committee of the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul, of which Georges Casmeze is Chairman. Mr. Loeb said in connection with his assignment:

"'If the reorganization committee does not modify its plan in respect to the European 4% loan of 1910, due last June, application may be made through the United States courts for sale of the road or for an order restraining the reorganization managers from paying in full obligations of the road contracted subsequent to the 1910 loan.

"I shall make every effort and use every arm of the United States law to satisfy what I consider the just claims of the committee I represent, whose membership is composed chiefly of French investors."

Massachusetts Savings Banks Support Roosevelt Plan.—

The Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts, it was announced Oct. 26, has recommended that its members deposit their junior bonds with the bondholders' protective committee organized by Roosevelt & Son. —V. 121, p. 2034, 1903.

Chicago & North Western Ry.—Nine Months' Balance Over Fixed Charges of $7,882,000 Covers Full Year's Dividends.—President F. W. Sargent says:

Our dividends for the full year were more than covered by the end of September. For the 9 months our surplus after all charges was $7,882,000, an increase of $3,054,000 over the same period last year. This increase was made in face of a decline of $2,126,000 in gross.

While maintenance charges for the 9 months were less than a year ago, we feel that we have accomplished more actual work on the property. During July, August and September the ratio of bad order cars was reduced by 1%, and ratio of bad order locomotives by 2%. In 9 months transportation expenses were reduced $3,476,882.

Surplus after all charges in September was $2,174,000, an increase of $395,000 over last year, despite a decrease of $183,000 in gross. In that month transportation expenses decreased $400,000 and the transportation ratio was the lowest in several years.

For the balance of the year I look for a narrow increase over last year. October results should show as well as September.

Certain sections of our territory had a very good corn crop, and the territory as a whole averages better on the corn crop than a year ago. That will offer a background for some increase in business in the winter months, as compared with last winter.

Numerous plans are being pushed in an effort to produce further economies

As to the commutation rate case, the next step will be to apply to have the Federal Court injunction against interference by the State Commerce Commission made permanent. There is nothing new in this case from the passenger rate case of 1920, in which the action of the I.-S. C. Commission was affirmed by the U. S. Supreme Court in what is commonly known as the "Wisconsin Passenger Rate Case."—V. 121, p. 1566, 1457.

Chicago Peoria & St. Louis RR.—Applications.—

The Chicago Springfield & St. Louis RR. recently applied to the I.-S. C. Commission for authority to acquire and operate the line formerly owned by the Chicago Peoria & St. Louis RR. from Springfield to Lock Haven, Ill., 78.78 miles. The Jacksonville & Havana RR. made application at the same time to take over and operate the line formerly owned by the C. P. & St. L. RR. between Jacksonville and Havana, Ill.

An application is also pending before the Commission for the granting of authority to the Chicago & Illinois Midland Ry. to acquire and operate that part of the Chicago Peoria & St. Louis RR.'s line between Springfield and Pekin, Ill., 77 miles. (See also Chicago & Illinois Midland RR. in V. 121, p. 1456.)—V. 120, p. 3183.

Los Angeles & Salt Lake RR.—Supplemental Tentative Valuation.—

The I.-S. C. Commission has issued a supplemental tentative valuation report increasing the single-sum value for rate-making purposes as tentatively reported on June 7 1923 for the property wholly owned and used as of June 30 1914 from $45,000,000 to $45,200,000, the increase being attributable to an increase in the amount allowed for working capital from $1,000,000 to $1,200,000. The company had brought suit in the District Court at Los Angeles, Calif., to set aside the Commission's tentative valuation and had submitted additional evidence which the Court certified to the Commission for its consideration. The Commission then re-opened the case and took some additional testimony and after further consideration made the above change. The difference of $1,021,093 between the working capital shown in the books and that allowed was treated as property not used for common carrier purposes. ("Railway Age.")—V. 120, p. 2008.

Maine Central RR.—Declares Dividend of 2½% on Account of Arrearages on the Preferred Stock.—The directors on Oct. 30 declared a dividend of 2½% on account of accumulations on the outstanding $3,000,000 Preferred stock, together with the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼% on that issue, both payable Dec. 1 to holders of record Nov. 16. This payment will reduce accruals on the Preferred stock to $15 per share.—V. 121, p. 2035.

Minneapolis St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Ry.—Bonds Offered.—Public offering of $8,136,000 1st Consol. 5% Gold bonds, due July 1 1938, is made to-day at 99½ by Dillon, Read & Co. and the National City Co.

Proceeds will be used to retire a like amount of Minneapolis Sault Ste. Marie & Atlantic Ry 1st 4s, due next Jan. 1. This accomplished, the Consolidated 5s of the Soo System will become a straight first mortgage on the entire Soo property, including 3,298 miles of road, terminals, land and buildings.

Bonds under this mortgage, which are guaranteed as to interest by the Canadian Pacific Ry., will then be outstanding to the amount of $71,147,000, of which $56,863,000 are 4s and $14,284,000, including this issue, will be 5s.

The Soo System is controlled by the Canadian Pacific through ownership of a majority interest in the Common stock and gives to the Canadian Pacific its chief entrance into the United States. The Soo in turn owns and operates the Wisconsin Central.

The earnings statement of the Soo System for 1924 showed total operating revenues of $28,724,693 and net available for interest after rentals as $5,707,119. Interest on the 1st Consol. Mtge. bonds including the bonds now offered amounted to $2,988,720.

For the nine months ended last Sept. 30, the company reports total revenues of $20,775,070, against $18,878,340 in the same period of 1924, while net income available for interest on funded debt for the same period was $4,182,311, against $2,144,718.—V. 121, p. 1566.

Mobile & Gulf RR.—Operation & Extension.—

The I.-S. C. Commission on Oct. 12 issued a certificate authorizing the company to acquire and operate in inter-state commerce a line of railroad extending from a connection with the Southern Ry., at Fayette, in a general southerly direction for a distance of approximately 30 miles, and to construct an extension of the railroad from its present southern terminus to a connection with the Mobile & Ohio RR., at Buhl, a distance of approximately 3⅓ miles, all in Fayette and Tuscaloosa Counties, Ala.

The company was incorp. July 1 1925 in Alabama, for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, and operating the line covered by this application. The line of railroad involved is now a logging road operated by the W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co., to serve the lumber company's mill at Fayette. It is represented that this logging road has been gradually extended southward from Fayette for the past 13 years; that the present owner acquired it in 1918 for $175,000, at which time it was 25 miles long; that at that time the last 5 miles were laid with 20 and 30 pound rail; that the line has since been substantially rebuilt and extended about 5 miles; that the entire length is now laid with 56 and 60 pound rail; that the present equipment is worth $35,000; and that the property is now in excellent condition. The company proposes to pay $275,000 for this property. It is stated that $5,000 capital stock has been issued, and that company will secure authority to issue approximately $295,000 additional capital stock for the purchase of the line and the construction of the extension.

Norfolk & Western Railway.—Extra Dividend.—

The directors have declared an extra dividend of 1% and the regular quar. div. of 1¾% on the outstanding Common stock both payable Dec. 19 to holders of record Nov. 30. An extra dividend of like amount was paid on the Common stock in June 1916, March 1917, Dec. 1922, Dec. 1923 and in Dec. 1924. As of Dec. 31 1924 the Pennsylvania RR. owned $41,698,200 of the company's outstanding $134,794,300 Common stock, par $100.—V. 121, p. 195.

Oregon Trunk Ry.—Construction Plan in Oregon.—W. F. Turner, Pres. of the Oregon Trunk Ry., in a pamphlet, "The Right Thing for Oregon," says:

The application of the company to the I.-S. C. Commission for permission to build from Bend to Klamath Falls, a distance of 178 miles, at a cost of approximately $6,500,000, is a matter of vital interest to Oregon. It is unthinkable that any resident of Oregon would wish to discourage or obstruct a development of this magnitude, opening up a new line of communication and promoting commerce and industry in the State.

But, nevertheless, there is opposition, some of which is evidently based upon a lack of information as to the object and purpose of this project, but some of which is to be attributed to the claim of another railway system to exclusive rights in the territory thus to be penetrated. The ingenious theory is advanced that a section of country already occupied by a railroad system belongs to it for traffic purposes, and it is an infringement of vested and intrenched rights when a competitor seeks entrance into this preserve.

It seems obvious that if this is carried to its logical consequence there can be no Bend to Klamath railroad built by the Northern Lines, but also no other new lines in western Oregon where a competitor is equally well anchored. Thus, railroad building in Oregon, excepting by the company already located, will forever be prohibited.

A statement of Ralph Budd, Pres. of the Great Northern Ry., in behalf of that company and Northern Pacific Ry., which together own the Oregon Trunk Ry., says in substance:

The Oregon Trunk Ry. was projected from a connection with the Spokane Portland & Seattle Ry. at Fallbridge, Wash., up the Deschutes River and into central and south central Oregon. Reconnaissance and location surveys were made during 1909-1910. Contracts were let and construction work begun as far south as the north boundary of the Klamath Indian Reservation, a distance of 235 miles from the Columbia River. Maps of definite location were filed with the Department of the Interior and approved by the Commissioner of the General Land Office and by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs over the public lands on the route through the Klamath Basin and across the Cascades to the Rouge River Valley. The line was completed to Bend, a distance of 157 miles, at a cost of approximately $16,000,000, and brought about an important industrial development at that point. There being no prospect of similar activity south of that place in the immediate future, it was deemed wise to suspend railroad construction for the time being, although $225,000 had already been expended in engineering, acquisition of right of way, clearing and grading south of Bend. The World War and the consequent adverse effect on industry and railroad expansion then prevented resumption of the plans which were interrupted in 1910 until the present time.

Now large lumber manufacturers who own timber in the Klamath region plan to establish mills and cut timber if the Oregon Trunk is built from Bend to Klamath Falls. Agricultural activity also will be stimulated by the improved railroad transportation and the contingent industrial growth.

The Oregon Trunk as it stands is an uncompleted project. The most difficult and expensive portion of the line has been built, but a relatively small portion of the productive area has been reached. It is a part of the Spokane Portland & Seattle Ry. system which is one of the means by which the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways serve the State of Oregon, the other being by the coast line running south from Vancouver, B. C., through Seattle and Tacoma to Portland.

The investment in the Spokane Portland & Seattle Ry. System is over $100,000,000. With its subsidiaries, the United Railways, Gales Creek & Wilson River, Portland Astoria & Pacific, Oregon Electric and Oregon Trunk railways, it reaches producing territory which thus is afforded the benefits of markets throughout the country served by the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Chicago Burlington & Quincy and Colorado & Southern railways and their connections. By its short, low grade route between Portland and Spokane it gives the Northern Pacific and Great Northern direct and favorable access to the lower Columbia and Willamette River valleys.

In Central Oregon the most important product is lumber. Mills have been established at Bend, where approximately 10,000 car loads of lumber are cut annually. This is not sufficient to support the two railroads which now terminate at that point. It is estimated that the timber in the territory tributary to Bend will keep those mills going for about 25 years more. Additional traffic is needed, therefore, to secure the investment already made in the Oregon Trunk and the S. P. & S. railways. By carrying out the original intention of building into the Klamath country, I believe this requirement will be met; that benefit will result to the Oregon Trunk, to the public generally, and to the lumber manufacturers who are operating and will operate in that region; and that no injury will be done to any other carrier. It was confidently expected when the Oregon Trunk was built to Bend that later it would be completed into this territory and enjoy the traffic it could obtain by so doing.

The stand of merchantable timber which will be reached by extending the Oregon Trunk from Bend to Klamath Falls is estimated at 35 to 40 billion feet. The present output of lumber from mills located in the vicinity of Klamath Lake and the Sprague and Williamson rivers is approximately 12,000 carloads annually. With the entrance of the Oregon Trunk into that territory, I believe the output of lumber will be more than doubled.

It is estimated that after five years from completion of the line 28,000 to 30,000 carloads will be shipped annually from the territory reached by the extension. If the Oregon Trunk should handle 14,000 carloads per year the freight revenue that will accrue to the lines of the so-called Hill System from these shipments is estimated at $4,400,000 per year. As it will be moved over the existing trackage, except south of Bend, this large contribution of earnings to the system lines will be brought about by the construction of approximately 178 miles of railroad at a cost of approximately $6,500,000. The out of pocket cost of operation for handling these additional 14,000 carloads is estimated at $2,200,000 per year. Adding $500,000 for taxes and interest on the cost of the proposed line makes $2,700,000, leaving $1,700,000 per year to apply on the present system investment, which will not need to be increased to handle the additional traffic.

While the traffic on the line it is now proposed to build will be comparatively light, it will be long haul and will increase the traffic density of the system.

The territory served by the 19,000 miles of Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Burlington east of the Rocky Mountains is practically devoid of forest and is a territory which consumes large quantities of lumber.

The year 1923 was a period of financial depression in that part of the United States and lumber consumption may be expected to increase greatly as conditions return to normal. Better crops and better prices for farm products in 1924 and 1925 already have increased the purchasing power of the residents of those States and also the demand for lumber there. The Oregon Trunk, if completed to Klamath Falls, would afford a direct and favorable line to reach all of that consuming territory.

The States east of Chicago also consume large quantities of lumber of the character produced in the Klamath region. If the Oregon Trunk is built from Bend to Klamath Falls, distances between Klamath Falls and Chicago by the various freight routes will be approximately as follows: Great Northern, 2,481 miles; Northern Pacific, 2,579 miles; Southern Pacific (via Ogden), 2,480 miles.

Between the Sprague River and Chicago approximate distances would be: Great Northern, 2,437 miles; Northern Pacific, 2,535 miles; Southern Pacific (via Ogden), 2,520 miles.

But distance is not the only important element in cost of railroad transportation. The Oregon Trunk and the S. P. & S. to Spokane is a route of low operating cost because of light grades and easy curves. From Spokane to Chicago the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, in conjunction with the Burlington, afford favorable lines for moving freight at low cost for similar reasons.

By the very nature of things, it is common for railroad systems to compete for traffic which would move a considerably longer distance by one route than by another. For example: The Willamette Valley is served by the Southern Pacific, which handles its traffic to the East via the Sacramento Valley and Ogden; it is also served by the Great Northern, Union Pacific and Northern Pacific, which handle their traffic via the Columbia River. The distances via these routes between Chicago and Portland, the metropolis of the Willamette Valley, are as follows: Southern Pacific (via Ogden), 2,827 miles; Great Northern, 2,257 miles; Union Pacific, 2,261 miles; Northern Pacific, 2,355 miles.

Again, the Union Pacific competes for traffic in Seattle, the distance from Seattle to Chicago by the four routes serving it being as follows: Union Pacific, 2,442 miles; C. M. & St. P., 2,177 miles; Great Northern, 2,217 miles; Northern Pacific, 2,373 miles.

Similarly, the distances by the various routes from Spokane to Chicago are: Union Pacific, 2,270 miles; C. M. & St. P., 1,882 miles; Great Northern, 1,878 miles; Northern Pacific, 1,976 miles.

The distances I have given are by freight routes for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific. The distances by passenger lines are considerably shorter by both of them.

That the Northern Lines operate on a favorable cost basis is indicated by the fact that their operating ratios are relatively low compared with other roads.

The unsatisfactory earnings of the roads in the Northwest region is quite generally recognized and I believe it is fully appreciated by the public as well as by the I.-S. C. Commission. How to improve their situation without unduly increasing rates is a troublesome question. Everything practicable should be done to improve their earnings by building up the volume of traffic handled. Here is an opportunity to help two of the Northwest carriers by permitting them at a relatively small increase in investment to increase their traffic and in that way to come more nearly earning a fair return.

All of these things have convinced the officials of the Oregon Trunk that that railway should be extended from Bend to Klamath Falls, both in the interest of the public, which will be served by such an extension, and in the interest of those who have invested in the Oregon Trunk and the parent lines, the Northern Pacific and Great Northern. Had it not been confidently expected that the Oregon Trunk would be built beyond Bend and so reach territory of much greater traffic possibilities, it would not have been begun. Indeed the character of the road that was built as far as Bend is proof of the expectation that it would be an important line. As a completed project, I believe it will justify its conception; uncompleted, like almost any unfinished work, it must be a disappointment.

Southern Ry.—New Terminal in Operation.—

The new John Sevier freight terminal, located 6 miles east of Knoxville, and the 4-mile double-track belt line connecting it with the Middlesboro line at Beverly, on which work was begun in July 1924, were placed in service Oct. 26. The terminal includes a classification yard with 50 miles of track and capacity for 3,500 cars, modern engine-handling facilities, a transfer station for handling less than carload freight moving through Knoxville, refrigerating station for icing perishables, and pens in which livestock can be rested, fed and watered.

The classification yard is built in two distinct units, each including receiving and make-up sections. The engine terminal includes a 35-stall round house, mechanical coal chute, sand and cinder handling plant, water supply, and machine shop for running repairs. The transfer station will take rank with the large stations which the Southern operates at Spencer, N. C., Inman Yards, Ga., and Hayne, S. C., and will greatly facilitate the handling of package freight through the Knoxville gateway. The movement of freight trains will be expedited by use of the Belt Line, over which will be diverted a heavy tonnage which has previously been handled through the industrial district of Knoxville. The John Sevier Terminal is named for the pioneer settler and Revolutionary hero who was the first Governor of Tennessee.—V. 121, p. 2035, 1906

Boston Elevated Ry.—Basic Wage Unchanged.—

The board of arbitration in the Boston Elevated Ry. wage proceedings has handed down a decision in which the present basic wage of carmen on the system is retained, while the differential paid one-man car operators is increased from 8 cents to 10 cents. The same differential is also awarded to bus drivers.

The new agreement is retroactive to July 1 and remains in effect until June 30 1926. Under its provisions the blue uniform men are paid a maximum wage of 72½ cents an hour as a basic wage. About 6,000 employees are affected by the award. They had asked 95 cents an hour. Operators of one-man cars will receive 82½ cents an hour, against the present wages of 80½ cents. They had asked $1 42½ an hour. About 40% of the surface car mileage of the Boston Elevated Ry. is one-man car service.—V. 121, p. 1099.

Calumet Gas & Electric Co.—Plans for Interconnection of Super-Power System, to Extend into Seven States, Announced.—

Chicago, northeastern Illinois and northwestern Indiana will be interconnected by a super-power electric system with Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo and points in West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky, according to plans announced last week.

Announcement was made that work will begin at once on construction of a 132,000 volt electric transmission line between Michigan City and South Bend, which will connect the super-power system of the Calumet Gas & Electric Co. in northwestern Indiana with the system of the American Gas & Electric Co., which operations from South Bend to the southeast, serving cities in Indiana, Ohio, western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and eastern Kentucky.

The super-power system of the Calumet Gas & Electric Co. is already connected at the Indiana-Illinois State line with similar systems of the Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago and the Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois. These super-power systems are connected with the electric generating stations of the Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois at Joliet and the Calumet station of the Commonwealth Edison Co. in South Chicago. The super-power line of the Calumet Gas & Electric Co. is in operation as far as Aetna, east of Gary, where a 55,000 h. p. substation serves as the distributing centre for that company and the Northern Indiana Gas & Electric Co., which serve most of the cities in the northwest corner of the State.

The Northern Indiana Gas & Electric Co. and the Calumet Gas & Electric Co. are under the management of Samuel Insull and associates. Both companies are operating subsidiaries of the Midland Utilities Co., of which Mr. Insull is President.

Extension of the super-power line from the Aetna substation to Michigan City is now built and will be in operation late in the fall. The line between Michigan City and South Bend is expected to be in operation by March 1 1926.

The Calumet Gas & Electric Co. has already started on the construction of foundations for the extension of its super-power line from Michigan City to the boundary line between La Porte and St. Joseph counties, where it will connect with a similar line to be built by the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., a subsidiary of the American Gas & Electric Co., which serves South Bend.

The super-power line between Michigan City and South Bend will run to the Twin Branch generating station on the St. Joseph River east of Mishawaka.

The Calumet Gas & Electric Co.'s section of the line will be about 25 miles long, which will make the total length of the line to be owned by that company from the Indiana-Illinois State line to the LaPorte and St. Joseph county line about 62 miles.

The Northern Indiana Gas & Electric Co., which has leased and operates the Calumet company's super-power system, has signed a contract to buy electrical energy from the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. This will give the Northern Indiana Gas & Electric Co. and the Calumet Gas & Electric Co. an additional source of supply. This power will be generated in the Twin Branch generating station, which has a capacity of 80,000 k. w., or approximately 106,590 h. p. This station, which is one of the most modern in the country, has two turbines of 40,000 k. w. capacity each.

The American Gas & Electric Co.'s super-power system includes a 132,000 volt line from South Bend to Lima and Fostoria, O. A 66,000 volt line connects Fostoria and Toledo and another 66,000 volt lien runs from Fostoria to a large generating station at Philo near Zanesville. From Philo a 132,000 volt line runs north to Canton and Warren and an interconnection is made with Akron and Cleveland.

Another 132,000 volt line runs from Philo to Charleston, W. Va. Other lines radiating from Charleston interconnect the system with other systems in West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky. Another plant is operated at Windsor, O., from which lines run to Wheeling, W. Va., and an interconnection is made with the system of the West Penn Co., which serves a large territory in western Pennsylvania and also has a transmission line connection to Pittsburgh.

Construction of the super-power line to fill the gap between Michigan City and South Bend will make a continuous super-power line built on steel towers from 75 to 100 feet in height, from Chicago and the territory around that city extending into six States. As electric generating stations are located at advantageous points along the super-power system, electrical energy can be fed in either direction, making possible more efficient and reliable service to the cities connected with this far-flung system.—V. 121, p. 328, 196.

Canadian Western Natural Gas, Light, Heat & Power Co., Ltd.—Building New Line.—

Issuance.—Authorized by the director of street railroads of the City of Cincinnati and by the Ohio P. U. Commission.

Data From Letter of Walter A. Draper, President of the Company.

Company.—Incorp. in 1880. Owns the entire street railway system in Cincinnati with the exception of certain lines which it has contracted to acquire and pay for in its capital stock.

Company's property has been leased since 1901 to Cincinnati Traction Co., but this lease is to be terminated as of Nov. 1 1925, and direct operation of the system resumed by Cincinnati Street Ry.

Franchise.—Company has been granted by the City of Cincinnati a new 25-year franchise of the "service-at-cost" type. Under the terms of this franchise, fares are to be automatically adjusted from time to time to cover operating expenses, taxes, depreciation, fixed charges, and a return on capital stock amounting to 5% per annum during the first 3 years and thereafter to 6% per annum.

The city has the right at the end of each year to purchase the company's properties for an amount equal to the aggregate of its then outstanding debt and capital stock issued under authority of the franchise. Upon completion of the present financing such purchase price will amount to more than $28,000,000.

Purpose.—Proceeds are to be used to discharge obligations incurred in the termination of the lease of the company's properties and to provide for fare control and working capital funds under the new franchise and for additions to property.

Provisions of Issue.—Notes are to be secured by a direct first mortgage on all of the company's physical property except about one-third of its railway cars, on which the lien of the notes is to be subject to certain equipment trust obligations. The remaining $1,500,000 authorized notes may be issued from time to time for general corporate purposes.

a The figures in this column include an annual rental of $100,600 paid by the former lessee for the lines which Cincinnati Street Ry. has contracted to acquire and pay for in stock. b 12 months ended Aug. 31.

At the beginning of operations under the new franchise, the city franchise tax, which amounted to $534,645 in the 12 months ended Aug. 31 1925, is to be eliminated, and the fare for adults is to be reduced from 10 cents, the charge which has prevailed since Oct. 1 1924, to 8 1-3 (3 tickets for 25 cents).

If these arrangements as to franchise taxes and fares had been in effect during the 12 months ended Aug. 31 1925, net earnings available for interest, without allowing for increased traffic due to lowering of fares, would have amounted to more than 4 times the $321,154 annual interest charges on the company's total funded debt to be outstanding after giving effect to this financing.—V. 121, p. 2037.

Colorado Springs Gas Co.—Acquired by City.—

The City Council of Colorado Springs, Colo., has acquired control of the gas holdings of this company, which acquired, and assumed operation on Oct. 1 of the gas properties of the Colorado Springs Light, Heat & Power Co. The electric properties of the latter were acquired on June 1 by the City of Colorado Springs. It is understood that approximately $685,000 was paid for the gas holdings.—V. 121, p. 705.

Columbia Gas & Electric Co.—Ordinance Approved.—

Following a decision by the Court of Appeals at Hamilton, O., the City Council voted final passage of an ordinance which awards a contract to the company for the purchase of the city's gas supply for a period of 10 years. Under this contract the city mains are to be used at a rental of $275,000.

In its decision the Court of Appeals dissolved a temporary restraining order and dismissed a petition in which it was asked that the City Council be enjoined permanently from taking action on this contract. The Court held this suit was brought prematurely, as had been held by Judge Brooks Shell in the Common Pleas Court.

Howard Kelly, Mayor of Hamilton, O., on Oct. 22 signed the ordinance, and the completion of the contract depends only upon the approval of officials of the Columbia company.—V. 121, p. 1907.

a From the commencement of operations under Contract No. 3 and the related certificates, respectively it has been the practice to include in all reports of operating expenses 14% of the gross operating revenue upon the Manhattan Division and 17% of the Subway Division, to cover maintenance and depreciation. These are the percentages fixed for the first year of operation in each case. Negotiations have been pending between the company and the Commission ever since the end of the first year to determine what, if any, changes in these percentages should be made for subsequent years. Prior to July 1 1923 the amount expenses in excess of 14% upon the Manhattan was approximately offset by the amount under 17% expended upon the Subway Division. The net expenditures for maintenance in excess of the amounts therefor, included in "operating expenses, taxes and rental paid city for old subway," are shown hereinabove as "maintenance in excess of contractual provisions."

b Under the plan of readjustment payment of the sinking fund is deferred until July 1 1926 on condition that, prior to that date, an amount equal to the deferred sinking fund be expended on additions or improvements to the property.—V. 121, p. 1678, 1569.

The committee (below) in a notice to owners of Preferred stock says:

In view of the increased earnings, plans for the company's reorganization are being considered. It is desirable that all the Preferred stockholders be represented in all Court proceedings and all negotiations for reorganization, so that their interests may be carefully considered and protected. Wins Anti-Trust Case.—

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has handed down an opinion holding that the company did not violate the Sherman Anti-Trust Law in restraint of trade by refusing to sell to wholesalers who made prices to retailers below "a legitimate rate of profit." The Federal Trade Commission's order was entered in March 1922, against the American Tobacco Co., P. Lorillard Co. and the Wholesale Tobacco & Cigar Dealers' Association of Philadelphia. The opinion of the Circuit Court, written by Judge Henry W. Rogers, and concurred in by Judges Martin T. Manton and Learned Hand, holds that the company acted to protect its own interest and the interest of the trade, "to enable jobbers to make a reasonable profit" and to avoid demoralization of trade.

"We see nothing unlawful in the policy which the American Tobacco Co. pursues," it states.

The order of the Federal Trade Commission was unanimously set aside.—V. 121, p. 333.

American Transit Co.—Franchises and Plan for International Bridge Acquired by New Interests—To Be Financed Through Issuance of Bonds and Debentures.—

Preliminary plans, it is announced, have just been completed by Joseph A. Bower, V.-Pres. of the New York Trust Co., for the erection of an international bridge to connect Detroit with Canada. Mr. Bower has submitted his proposal for building and financing the structure to the people of the Canadian border cities and the County of Essex in Ontario. The voters of that district will be asked to approve a Provincial guarantee of certain of the securities. The bridge will have a span of about 1,900 ft., the longest in the world, and will cost about $16,000,000.

The only means of crossing the Detroit River at present is by ferry. Congestion is steadily increasing and the development of the Canadian municipalities opposite Detroit—Windsor, Walkerville, Ford and Sandwich—has been greatly retarded due to the delay in cross-river transportation.

The American Transit Co. was organized a few years ago and obtained the necessary charters and franchises to erect a bridge from the Dominion of Canada to the United States. This company had proposed to finance the project principally by the sale of stock but failed to do so, and its franchises and plans have now been acquired by Mr. Bower.

The demand for a bridge connecting Detroit and the border cities of Canada is so strong and the plan of financing now proposed appears to be so sound that those in touch with public opinion in that section of Ontario predict a favorable decision will be rendered when the Canadians vote upon guaranteeing a portion of the securities at the annual elections in December.

Coverdale & Colpitts, consulting engeineers, have been retained by Mr. Bower and have just finished a complete survey of traffic and an estimate of revenue. The McClintic-Marshall Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., are to be the general contractors and they have submitted engineering plans and a proposal to construct the bridge.

Due to certain contingent items and the fact that the location of the Detroit approach to the bridge has not been decided upon, the exact cost cannot be determined at the present time. However, plans provide for the sale of 1st Mtge. bonds, and debentures which the Province of Ontario has been asked to guarantee. The balance of the money will be furnished by Mr. Bower and his associates for which they will take stock. The only securities to be sold the public will be the 1st Mtge. bonds and guaranteed debentures.

A committee of citizens of Canada, headed by Wallace R. Campbell, V.-Pres. of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd., has been in active co-operation with Mr. Bower and it was to this committee that he submitted his engineering plans and plan of financing.

This committee has employed as adviser Col. C. N. Monsarrat of Montreal, formerly in charge of the engineering operations connected with the Quebec Bridge and now consulting engineer to the Canadian National Ry. system. He is regarded as one of the leading engineers of Canada. If Col. Monsarrat's report upon the design and cost is favorable, there seems to be little doubt but that the people of Essex County at the general election will vote to give Mr. Bower the guarantee.—V. 114, p. 2016.

The balance sheet as of Sept. 30 1925 shows current assets of $5,847,999 and current liabilities of $2,535,358, leaving net working capital of $3,312,641 as compared with $3,276,830 as of Sept. 30 1924.

The report states that the 1925 earnings are at the annual rate of $3 24. The report also says that in the final quarter of 1924 certain year-end adjustments produced a small deficit for the three months to Dec. 31, with the result that for all of 1924 earnings on the Common stock amounted to $2 07 a share. This year no such conditions prevail, so that net profits during the current quarter should prove satisfactory and increase proportionately the $2 57 earned on the Common stock in the nine months to Sept. 30.—V. 121, p. 591.

Cerro de Pasco Copper Corp.—Production.—

The corporation produced approximately 9,000,000 lbs. of copper in September, against 5,650,000 in August and 7,000,000 in July. July output of silver was 1,500,000 oz. and gold output 5,500. It is stated, silver output during recent months has been about as high as in July, while gold output probably has been almost as high as for that month.

Production of copper during the first 6 months of 1925 was about 32,500,000 lbs., with silver production 7,000,000 oz. and gold 18,000 oz., against 45,000,000 lbs. of copper, 7,000,000 oz. of silver and 27,000 oz. of gold in the first half of 1924.

Copper output for the 9 months of 1925 totaled approximately 54,000,000 lbs., against 59,000,000 for the first 9 months of 1924.—V. 120, p. 3069.

Certain-teed Products Corp.—To Wipe Out Bonded Debt—Outlook Good.—

President George M. Brown, in a letter to the stockholders, says in part:

The company's program for retiring its bonds and increasing its working capital, &c., has been successfully completed by the sale of 175,000 shares of its Common stock since June 30 1925. The sale of this stock through bankers was approved by the directors under authorization granted by the stockholders. The principal and premium of 5%, amounting to $8,146,000, plus interest to Nov. 1 1925, have been paid to the trustees under the mortgage for the redemption on Nov. 1 1925, of all of the corporation's outstanding 6½% gold bonds (V. 121, p. 1682). The trustee has duly issued the call for the redemption of all of the bonds, and on or about Nov. 1 1925 all of our property will be free from the encumbrance resulting from said mortgage.

The consummation of these plans has brought about an excellent capital structure for the corporation, the amount outstanding consisting of 44,900 shares of 1st Pref. stock, par $100, 26,750 shares of 2d Pref. stock, par $100, and 307,000 shares of Common stock of no par value, and with the elimination of bonded indebtedness the stocks in the order named have first claim on earnings after Nov. 1 1925. With no bonds, and with a very strong net quick asset position, our statement at the end of the year will be the best in our history. This position will have been attained notwithstanding cash expenditures approximating $900,000 during the year for plant extensions and betterments for the purpose of obtaining greater manufacturing efficiency, reducing fire hazards, and in some cases increasing production.

The last 60-day period has been the largest and most successful 60-day business in the history of the company. Shipments for the year to date in each of the four main divisions of the business (roofing, building and oil cloth division; gyps um, wall plaster and building blocks division; and paint and varnish division; which include many separate products) exceed any similar period of any year since the corporation was organized. The volume of sales for the company as a whole shows a large gain for the year to date in comparison with any previous year. Based upon actual figures for the first three quarters, and estimates for the final quarter, operations for the entire business for the year ending Dec. 31 1925, are expected to leave a very substantial credit to surplus after all deductions, including full depreciation, usual charge off for repairs, advertising, interest on bonds for 10 months, charges for calling the bonds, including approximately $386,000 premium paid for bonds, Federal and other taxes, &c., 1st and 2d Pref. and Common dividends. The bond interest and the premium for calling the bonds of $812,000 have been a burden for this year to date which is being eliminated.—V. 121, p. 1912.

Chrysler Corp.—Outlook—Production—Earnings.—

Chairman Walter P. Chrysler is quoted in substance as follows:

"We will produce and sell at least 250,000 cars next year. We are now making about 800 cars a day, of which 60% are fours and 40% are sixes. This number will shortly be increased to 1,000 cars daily. Our orders are keeping well ahead of production, and we are about three months behind on our sixes and four weeks behind on our fours. We are so well organized abroad that next year we expect to export 25,000 cars. Our foreign sales to date are running about 300% ahead of a year ago, and our domestic business is about 125% ahead. In France and England we are doing fine business. We have been reorganizing our selling force abroad. In England we have over 300 dealers and in France more than 40. In Germany we have two of the largest distributing agencies handling our cars. We have our sales organization operating in Spain, Portugal, Switzerland, Italy and, in fact, all of the European countries."

Commenting on the company's affairs President W. P. Chrysler says:

The demand for Chrysler cars, both at home and abroad, is taxing our production facilities and promises a continued satisfactory operating condition through the winter. Export business looks particularly promising and now runs to a volume that contributes substantially to the company's profits, as well as affording a stabilizing factor to its future operations.

A loan of $2,500,000 to the company for construction of two large combination freight and passenger vessels for use in coastwise traffic between New York and Florida was authorized by the Shipping Board Oct. 27 to be taken from its construction and loan fund. The vessels are to be built at a cost of approximately $2,500,000 each and will be added to the four vessels already in service between the two points.

The loan may be increased to about $3,000,000 if the company chooses to furnish collateral other than the ships themselves, but in no case can it exceed 60% of the total cost of the vessels. Interest on the loan will be at 5¼%, unless the company chooses to transfer the vessels into foreign trade, in which case the interest rate may be lowered to a minimum of 4¼%. Company.—Incorp. in Delaware. Owns 94% of the Common stock and 75% of the Pref. stock of Chapin Dairy Stores, Inc. Company is the outgrowth of a business established in N. Y. City about three years ago by the late A. A. Chapin, founder and former President of the nationally known Chapin-Sacks Corp., the largest distributors of ice cream and dairy products in the Southern States. Company is the distributor of the well-known and popular trade-marked brands "Vogue" and "Newbrook" ice cream. The latter brand is sold by Liggett Drug Stores, operating a chain of about 100 retail drug stores in the metropolitan district of New York. Earnings.—With the completion of the new plant in March 1925 the company placed itself in a position where large production and earning power are assured. Contracts already signed with customers run for 18 months to 5 years. One 5-year contract alone requires an annual delivery of approximately 2,000,000 quarts of ice cream. It is also proposed to change the par value of the Common stock from $10 to $5 per share, the new stock to be exchanged on the basis of two new shares for one old.

President E. S. Phillips says, coincident with the taking over of the Wadsworth, Howland & Co. of Boston, that the management, policies and business methods of the new subsidiary will remain practically the same. The paint and varnish products of the Wadsworth concern, which is some 80 years old, have a wide distribution among industrial concerns in the New England States. It is stated that more capital will be added to the company so as to enable them to increase present facilities for the rendering of a more prompt and efficient service to their customers.

The business of Wadsworth, Howland & Co. will be continued under the same name and operated as a distinctly separate manufacturing and sales unit from the Devoe organization. The board of directors will be composed of E. S. Phillips (President of the co.), E. D. Peck (1st V.-Pres.), Renshaw Smith Jr. (2d V.-Pres., Treas. & Gen. Mgr.), E. S. Blackledge (3d V.-Pres.), A C. Stephan (4th V.-Pres.), E. B. Prindle (5th V.-Pres.), G. E. Felton (Secretary), F. H. Appleton (Clerk) and C. S. Robbins. —V. 121, p. 2045.

Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc.—To Acquire Gulf & Southern Steamship Co. and Increase Common Stock.—

The stockholders will vote Nov. 17 on approving the acquisition by the company of the Gulf & Southern Steamship Co. and issue therefor 13,200 shares of Eastern Common stock. The Gulf & Southern operates between New Orleans and Tampa. The stockholders will also vote on increasing the authorized Common stock of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., from 90,000 to 150,000 shares, of no par value.—V. 121, p. 1573, 1352.

Eastern Rolling Mill Co.—To Reclassify Stock.—

The directors on Oct. 27 adopted a resolution to call on Jan. 1 next the outstanding $3,000,000 Preferred stock at 120 and divs. with the option to holders to convert it into no par value Common stock, share for share. The directors also decided to ask the stockholders' approval of an amendment to the charter so as to eliminate the words "Preferred stock" and to increase the number of Common shares without par value to 500,000 shares from 60,000 shares and to exchange it for the present no par stock on the basis of four shares of new for one of old. Furthermore, the directors announced that if the proposals are adopted there will be declared at their December meeting a regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share and an extra dividend of 50 cents on the proposed new no par Common stock. These declarations would be equivalent to $8 a share on the present Common stock.—V. 120, p. 1095.

Eastman Kodak Co.—Supreme Court to Hear Case.—

The right of the Federal Trade Commission to order the company to sell its laboratories for making positive moving picture films will be determined by the U. S. Supreme Court, which has granted a writ of certiorari to bring before it for review from the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit the Eastman Kodak case. The lower Court denied that the Commission had the authority it sought to invoke.

The Commission's order sought to require the company to sell these three laboratories, which the Commission claimed had been purchased for the purpose of using the threat of their operation to coerce its laboratory customers into the agreement and into ceasing to purchase foreign-made film. The Government contends that the Supreme Court long since decided that the Courts are empowered by the Sherman Law to compel citizens to dispose of property acquired to restrain trade and create a monopoly. It alleges that as long as the company is permitted to continue to own the three laboratories, the restraint upon inter-State and foreign commerce will not be removed.—V. 121, p. 845, 80.

Eaton Axle & Spring Co.—Listing—Balance Sheet.—

The New York Stock Exchange has authorized the listing on or after Oct. 30 of 20,500 additional shares of its Common stock, without par value. This stock is being offered to stockholders at $23 per share in the proportion of one new share for every 10 shares held. Subscription will be payable in cash in full on or before Oct. 30 1925.

The funds to become available from the sale of this Common stock will be used to provide the company with additional capital for equipment and plant facilities and working capital for increased business to be undertaken by virtue of contracts entered into on behalf of the company.

Emerson-Brantingham Co.—Disposes of Two Plants.—The company has sold at public auction its Waynesboro, Pa., and Columbus, O., plants, and will concentrate its production at Rockford and Batavia, Ill.

President C. S. Brantingham says: "Our results this year will be decidedly better than in 1924 and the best since 1920, though not near those of that year. I doubt if any farm implement company on its total business approximated 1920 results this year, though some particular lines such as tractors may have done so. Our present outlook for business is healthy though not yet up to normal. —V. 121, p. 1466.

Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co.—Outlook, &c.—In a letter to the stockholders President Fred Wardwell says: "The year 1924 was the largest in the history of the business. However, in the first nine months of 1925 we made and sold 22,140 machines more than we did last year for the same period. In the fourth quarter of last year we did 44% of the year's business. If we maintain the same percentage of increase in the last quarter of this year, we will make and sell 275,000 machines, as against 243,000 in 1924. We are making tremendous preparations to take care of the flood of business in the next three months, and no doubt we will carry over many unfilled orders into 1926.

"We have made many improvements of a permanent nature in our factory this year, costing in the neighborhood of $380,000. This expenditure may seem large, but it includes several new buildings and also an 'up-to-the-minute' foundry, which is now producing permanent mould castings which were formerly purchased on the outside, a production feature which alone will save the company at least $150,000 during 1926."—V. 121, p. 2045.

Dated Nov. 1 1925; due Nov. 1 1950. Principal and int. (M. & N.) payable in U. S. gold coin at the offices of Lee, Higginson & Co. and J. Henry Schroder Banking Corp., New York, and at Lee, Higginson & Co., Boston and Chicago. Denom. $1,000 and $500fc*. Callable, all or part, at any time on 30 days' notice at par and int. Old Colony Trust Co., Boston, trustee.

Data from Letters of President of Corporation and Chairman of the Board of Austrian General Land Credit Institution.

Company.—Incorp. in Delaware. Has been organized by Lee, Higginson & Co. and J. Henry Schroder Banking Corp. primarily to finance farm mortgages in Central Europe. It may also issue its own bonds based on loans to municipalities and other governmental bodies, and to railways and other public utilities in Europe. The bonds are to be issued in separate series, each series to be upon distinct terms and secured by separate collateral.

Security.—These Series A bonds are a direct obligation of the company and will be secured by deposit with the trustee in this country of an equal amount of land mortgage obligations of the Austrian General Land Credit Institution (Allgemeine Oesterreichische Boden Credit Anstalt), which in turn are secured by deposit with that institution of an equal amount of first mortgages on farms and woodlands in the Republic of Austria at not to exceed 20% of conservative appraised valuations.

Pledged First Mortgages.—The first mortgages secured on farms and woodlands in Austria have been selected and will be cared for by the Austrian General Land Credit Institution, which states that over a long period of time mortgage loans in Austria taken by it have been practically free from defaults. Foreclosures have not exceeded 1-40 of 1% of all mortgage loans negotiated, and even these entailed no losses of any kind. In addition the Austrian General Land Credit Institution has agreed to take up immediately at its then principal amount any mortgage on which there is a default.

The equity behind each mortgage is constantly increased through semi-annual cumulative amortization payments made by the landholder sufficient to pay off his entire loan by the maturity of these Series A bonds.

Austrian General Land Credit Institution is the largest mortgage bank in Austria. Since its foundation in 1863 this institution has enjoyed one of the highest credit ratings among the European land banks. No holder of any of its land mortgage obligations has ever failed to receive payment of principal and interest in full.

In addition to granting land mortgages the Austrian General Land Credit Institution conducts a general banking business. It also owns substantial interests in powerful business corporations and is one of the leading banking institutions of Central Europe.

Sinking Fund.—A semi-annual cumulative sinking fund is provided sufficient to retire all these Series A bonds by maturity. All payments made by the landholder to amortize his mortgage will be forthwith used by the Austrian General Land Credit Institution to reduce its obligations held by the American company and will in turn be applied towards this sinking fund.

Field Body Corp., Owosso, Mich.—To Dissolve.—The company, manufacturer of bus and truck bodies and cabs, has filed a petition in Circuit Court at Owosso asking for the dissolution of the corporation. The Grand Rapids Trust Co. was named temporary receiver. It is stated in the petition that lack of sufficient working capital makes it impossible for the company to operate at a profit and that inability to secure this capital makes it advisable to liquidate and distribute the assets. Assets are given as $1,042,113 and liabilities as "in excess of $260,000." Most of the 19,346 shares of Pref. stock are owned by Owosso investors, while the Grand Rapids Trust Co. owns 81,000 shares of Common stock. J. F. Fields, President; E. F. Fredericks, Secretary.

General Baking Corp. (Md.).—Report on Baking Merger.—Following is the full report of Millard F. Hudson, Chief Examiner of the Federal Trade Commission, on the rumored baking merger, made to that body on Oct. 10:

Under date of Oct. 5 1925 the Commission issued the following instructions to this office:

" 'The Commission to-day referred the attached report from the newspapers, dated Oct. 4 1925, relative to bakery merger, to the Chief Examiner with instructions to make an immediate investigation and report as soon as possible concerning the truth of the matters in the enwspaper article.'

"The reports referred to were to the effect that the General Baking Co., Ward Baking Corp., Continental Baking Corp. and possibly the Sothern Baking Co. had been or were to be merged or consolidated into a $400,000,000 corporation to be known as the General Baking Corp. and that the prime mover in the merger was William B. Ward of the Ward Baking Corp.

"Pursuant to the instructions as set out above an attorney and examiner was assigned to handle this matter and instructed to proceed at once in a preliminary way to ascertain the facts. The results which are set forth at length in field reports, letters and copies of contracts are briefly stated as follows:

"William B. Ward, who is also largely interested in the Ward Baking Corp., stated that there was no truth in the press reports. The only thing that has taken place is that he individually has made an offer to purchase Common stock of the General Baking Co. for $225 per share provided holders of 51% or more of such stock would deposit same subject to terms of his offer. This stock is to be deposited on or before Oct. 10 1925 with the Guaranty Trust Co., New York, which company is to act as depositary. This offer was made to and through William Deininger, President of the General Baking Co., on Sept. 29 1925. As stated above, this offer is to remain open only until Oct. 10 1925 unless further extended by Mr. Ward. There is being organized under the laws of Maryland a company to be known as the General Baking Corp. to hold stock acquired as a result of this offer. Further than this Mr. Ward stated no approach had been made, no negotiations entered into with any other company either officially or with their individual stockholders. In this connection he added that at this time it was not possible to say what might take place in the future, but that no attempt would be made to acquire the capital stock of any other company. Any other acquisition would be by the purchase of assets.

"According to Mr. Deininger, President of the General Baking Co., the offer of Mr. Ward was considered by the officers, directors and some of the stockholders representing the majority of the outstanding capital stock of his company. It was considered fair and reasonable and they decided to sell to Mr. Ward. On Oct. 1 Mr. Deininger sent a personal letter to each of the other stockholders, advising them of Mr. Ward's offer and the opinion and comments of the stockholders present at the meeting just referred to. Mr. Deininger stated that so far as he knows the stock of no other company is being acquired and that the General Baking Co. as a corporation is not involved. It is simply an individual transaction between Mr. Ward and individual stockholders of his company. His company is not represented in any manner either as officers or directors of the new General Baking Corp., and Mr. Ward, with the approval of the stockholders owning a majority of the capital stock of the General Baking Co., is permitted to use the name 'General Baking Corp.' which is to be the name of the new company.

George G. Barber, chairman of the board of directors of the Continental Baking Corp., and Wm. B. Ward, deny in categorical language that control of either the Continental Baking Corp. or the Ward Baking Corp. has been acquired, nor has any move been made to acquire them by the General Baking Corp. These companies have not been approached nor have any of their stockholders been approached in connection with any plan for acquiring their capital stock or in any way bringing about a merger or consolidation with the General Baking Corp. With respect to the Ward Baking Corp., the President, G. B. Smith, also states, in a letter to the Commission, dated Oct. 7 1925, as follows: No negotiations have been had or are being held by Ward Baking Corp. with any corporation or company in furtherance of any merger.'

"H. D. Tipton, President of the Southern Baking Co., in a letter to the Commission, dated Oct. 8 1925, also makes a similar statement with respect to his company.

"It appears from the information secured in connection with this reported merger that the newspaper reports were not well founded. So far the only thing that has transpired has been an offer by an individual, William B. Ward, to purchase capital stock of the General Baking Co., as heretofore set out, and the organization of a company to take over that stock in event the deal is consummated, which seems quite probable according to present indications. Mr. Ward, the prime mover, has stated that this new company is to act as a holding company, but so far nothing has been done toward acquiring the stock of any other company or in any way bringing any other company under its control.

"In view of these facts there appears to be nothing further requiring the attention or action of the Commission at this time. It is recommended, however, that this matter be held open for any further developments in which the companies involved in this matter may be concerned." —V. 121, p. 1914, 1795.

General Motors Corp.—W. C. Durant States That He Is Not Planning or Seeking Control of General Motors.—

W. C. Durant has issued following statement: "Because of the widespread publicity given the rumor, I wish to emphatically deny that I am planning or seeking control of General Motors and have no desire or intention of again becoming active in its affairs, were such a thing possible. My interest in General Motors is purely that of an investor, and my holdings have recently been increased because of the confidence I have in the future of that great corporation and of its commanding position in the industry." —V. 121, p. 2046, 1915.

General Railway Signal Co.—Listing.—The New York Stock Exchange has authorized the listing of $172,700 additional Pref. stock (auth., $4,000,000) (par $100), and 303,360 shares of Common stock (without par value), on official notice of issuance in exchange for $6,067,200 Common stock (par $100), on the basis of 5 shares of Common stock without par value for one share of Common stock of $100 par value; with authority to add to the list 21,640 shares Common stock without par value on official notice of issuance and payment in full, making the total amounts applied for $2,590,600 Pref. stock and 325,000 shares of Common stock (auth. 500,000 shares).

The stockholders on Oct. 23 voted to change the authorized Common tock from 65,000 shares, par $100, to 500,000 shares of no par value.

Receives Large Signal Orders.—The company has received an order from the Southern Ry. for a complete block signal system for the operating division Morristown, N. C., to Biltmore, N. C., approximately 100 miles. The system involves the use of the latest type color light signaling employing alternating current control of the absolute-permissive type.

The company has also received an order from the Louisville & Nashville for automatic block signals between Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans, La., approximately 140 miles. This contract is an extension of the present signaling, most of which has been furnished by the General Railway Signal Co. Semaphore signals are to be used in connection with the absolute-permissive type of control with its well-known advantages in the matter of expediting train movement.

In addition to the above the company has completed shipments of train control apparatus for the division on the Chicago & North Western between Boone, Iowa, and Council Bluffs, Iowa, on the Atlantic Coast Line between Richmond, Va., and Rocky Mt., N. C., and on two divisions of the Southern Ry., between Spencer and Greenville and Greenville to Atlanta.

The General Railway Signal Co. has also received an order from the Missouri Pacific RR. for a complete automatic block signal system between Poplar Bluffs, Mo., and Clear Lake Junction, Ark., 244 miles. The signaling is to be of the absolute permissive type, making use of the latest type long range color light signals. It is the first installation of this type on the Missouri Pacific. The Signal Co. will also construct a modern pole line between the above-named points, all material, as well as the labor of installation, being furnished by the Signal Co. It is understood that the apparatus will be in operation in time to handle next year's peak traffic.—V. 121, p. 1796, 1467.

General Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, O.—Expansion.—The company has let a contract for two more additions to its factory. One will be an extension to the present main building and another a wing to the south. Construction will begin at once. When these extensions have been completed company will have doubled its plant area in a period of about three years. The immediate effect will be to increase factory production capacity 50%.—V. 120, p. 710.

Gold Dust Corp.—To Acquire Shoe Polish Concern.—Announcement was made on Oct. 25 that this corporation has contracted to acquire the business of the F. F. Dalley Corp. The Gold Dust Corp. manufactures soap and washing powder. The Dalley corporation handles the largest trade-marked shoe polish business in the United States.

The business of both companies will be consolidated by the Gold Dust Corp. with a view to effecting economies in production, distribution, sales and administration. The products of both companies are to the extent of more than 90% distributed through the same trade channels.

The Gold Dust Corp. will acquire in addition to all of the trade marks and good will of the Dalley corporation and its subsidiaries, only those plants which are best adapted to the manufacture of its three trade-marked shoe polishes—Two-in-One, Bixby's and Shinola. These plants will be operated in the combined business. The Dalley business produced last year approximately 90,000,000 packages of shoe polish. The business of the F. F. Dalley Corp. was established in 1846, and its subsidiaries, whose properties will be taken over by the Gold Dust Corp., include S. M. Bixby & Co., organized in 1860, and Shinola Co., organized in 1879. The Gold Dust Corp. succeeded in 1923 to the soap and washing powder business of the N. K. Fairbank Co., a subsidiary of the American Cotton Oil Co. It operates plants at St. Louis, Guttenberg and Montreal, and is building a new plant at Baltimore from treasury funds, without financing, to replace the Guttenberg plant. This plant will be completed next spring. The corporation's principal products are Gold Dust washing powder, Gold Dust scouring powder, Fairy soap and Sunny Monday soap. Last year the output of its plants totaled approximately 100,000,000 pounds.

It is the intention of the management of Gold Dust Corp. to market both lines of products with a material decrease in the combined sales force, and to bring about other economies in manufacture and distribution. George K. Morrow, President, estimates the probable net earnings of the combined corporation at about $1,700,000 a year.

Company.—Incorp. in Del. Oct. 27 1925 to acquire the business of the New York company of the same name. Business was started in 1911, with a capital of $30,000, and its growth to its present position, with total net assets (exclusive of good will) valued at over $6,000,000, has been due entirely to accumulated profits.

Company manufactures silk hosiery exclusively, which is marketed under the nationally known trade mark "Gold Stripe." Company will own in fee, free and clear, four knitting mills in Philadelphia, and a finishing plant in N. Y. City. Its production is not sold through jobbers, but is allocated among about 400 selected retail stores in various cities of the country to whom is accorded (except in the largest cities) the exclusive right to sell "Gold Stripe" hosiery in their respective communities. In the larger cities the product is sold generally to about 1,300 accounts, including some of the largest department stores in the country.

Company maintains three retail stores in prominent locations in New York City, and one in Atlantic City, all of which are operated at a profit.

Sales have increased as the merit of the hosiery has become more widely known, from 20,000 dozen in 1913 to 550,000 dozen in 1925 (2½ months estimated). For 1926, sales are estimated at 700,000 dozen.

Data From Letter of Joseph Vaccaro, President of Company.

Company.—Organized in Louisiana. Has for several years been the owner of the Roosevelt (formerly the Grunewald) and Bienville hotels, and other valuable real estate holdings and investments in the City of New Orleans. The comparatively new and fireproof section of the Roosevelt was extensively renovated and refurnished and a modern 14-story addition has just been completed, making of the Roosevelt a thoroughly metropolitan hotel of 750 beautifully furnished outside rooms, each with a bath, and with all appointments, such as public rooms, dining rooms, coffee shop, modern kitchens, barber shop and retail stores.

The Bienville Hotel has been remodeled and refurnished and is an attractive tourist hotel, which, with the Roosevelt, offers 1,000 rooms and baths to accommodate the representative traveling public visiting New Orleans, and permanently housing many of its leading citizens.

Included in the valuable real estate owned by the company is the new 14-story Union Indemnity Building, at the corner of Baronne and Gravier streets, and the building at the corner of Canal and University Place. The Union Indemnity Building has modern retail stores and offices on the ground floor and the upper 14 floors are leased as offices. The Union Indemnity Co. leases approximately 6 floors of the building, and other entire floors are leased to Vacarro Brothers and Co. and Wessen Oil & Snowdrift Co., Inc., and its subsidiaries.

The investment in securities of the company comprises principally a large block of Common and Preferred stock of the Laundry & Dry Cleaning Service, Inc., owning and operating the nine leading modern laundries, dry cleaning and carpet cleaning plants in New Orleans.

Security.—Secured by direct mortgage upon the above mentioned real estate and buildings. The value of such real estate and buildings, as appraised, plus the cost of the additions to the Roosevelt Hotel and the new Union Indemnity Building, exceeds $12,000,000.

Earnings.—With the completion of the improvements referred to above, it is conservatively estimated that the net annual earnings of the company, available for interest on these bonds, after depreciation, the semi-annual payments to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and all other prior charges, except Federal taxes, will be nearly $500,000, equivalent to over 5 times the annual interest charges on these bonds.

Data from Letter Signed by L. E. Block, Chairman, and D. P. Block President.

Purpose.—The purpose of the issue is to reimburse the company for about $5,000,000 heretofore expended for expansions, additions and other capital purposes and to provide additional funds to complete the company's present program, including the installation of blast furnace No. 4, which will increase the daily production of pig iron to about 2,600 tons, the construction of 74 additional Koppers by-product coke ovens, and the complete electrification of the Indiana Harbor plant. The additional earnings from the new facilities and the savings created by the electrification of the main plant are conservatively estimated at not less than $1,500,000 per annum.

Business and Property.—Business was organized in 1893 and is the result of a continuous development over a period of 32 years. Company is the second largest producer of steel in the Chicago district, having an annual ingot capacity of 1,600,000 tons. Its business is the manufacture and sale of a widely diversified line of steel products, consisting of billets, slabs, sheet bars, sheared and universal mill plates, structural shapes, merchant bars, blue annealed sheets, black and galvanized sheets, formed roofing products, standard railroad tee rails, railroad angle bars, tie plates, spikes, track bolts and nuts, rivets, silo rods and fence posts. Company has the substantial advantage of marketing a large percentage of these products in Chicago and at points within a radius of 100 miles from its manufacturing plants.

Company is well integrated in regard to its supplies of such raw materials as iron ore and coal. Its ore requirements are met entirely through its ownership (direct or through subsidiary companies) in ore leases covering nine mines on the Mesaba and Cuyuna ranges in Minnesota and Gogebic Range in Michigan, which, with coal properties in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Illinois, insure an adequate supply for a long period of time. Transportation of these raw materials is facilitated through the company's ownership of a substantial majority of the stock of the Inland Steamship Co., operating 2 modern Lake freighters, each of over 10,000 tons capacity.

Company owns over 600 acres of land at Indiana Harbor, Ind., with frontages on the southern shore of Lake Michigan and the Government ship canal, where its main plant is located. The principal units, when the present program is completed, will include 4 blast furnaces, 204 Koppers by-product ovens with complete benzol refinery, 26 open-hearth furnaces, blooming mills, sheet bar mills, rail mill, bar mills, sheet mills, plate and structural mills. With the harbor and docks alongside the property and connection with the main lines of the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio systems, the company's transportation facilities are unusually favorable for both water and rail shipments. At Chicago Heights, Ill., the company owns a finishing mill which produces about 50,000 tons per annum.

Company also owns more than 800 acres of land with frontage on Lake Michigan in Porter County, Ind., about 7 miles east of Gary, Ind., which insures a suitable site for any future extensions on a large scale.

Earnings.—Net earnings of the company after charging depreciation, depletion, amortization and interest (but before deducting income taxes and interest on bonds since retired), averaged for the 10 years 1915 to 1924 inclusive $7,294,605 per annum; and for the year 1924 were $6,492,693. These average earnings are equal to 10.61 times, and the 1924 earnings to 9.44 times the annual interest charges on the $12,500,000 debenture bonds presently to be outstanding.

The earnings for the first 9 months of the current year, after all charges as above stated, amounted to $4,054,995, or at the annual rate of 7.86 times the interest on the $12,500,000 Debenture bonds. These earnings do not reflect the additional earnings and savings expected to result from the expenditure of the proceeds of these bonds.

The total property constitutes one of the most valuable single holdings of real estate on the shores of Lake Tahoe, one of America's greatest pleasure resorts.

In discussing the results of his recent trip abroad, President Edward Plaut stated that while in England he had arranged for the organization of an English subsidiary of the A. S. Hinds Co., working in conjunction with Lysol, Ltd., which latter company has been selling Lysol in England and the British Colonies for eight years, for the marketing of the Hinds products in England and the British Colonies. Similar arrangements were made for the forming of a company in Germany in conjunction with Schulke-Mayr A. G., another subsidiary, for the marketing of the Hinds products in the rest of the Continent except France. Mr. Plaut also indicated that arrangements were pending for considerable advertising in these countries, and a distribution campaign with advertising in France.

Mr. Plaut also pointed out that the reason for the sale of the Lehn & Fink building in Greenwich St., N. Y. City, was that, in accordance with the policy established at the time of the formation of the Lehn & Fink Products Co., a holding corporation, the company is retiring from the wholesale drug business and therefore had no further use for this building. The New York office will be opened shortly and additional buildings have been put up at the company's factory property at Bloomfield, N. J.

Mr. Plaut also indicated that there were in progress a number of negotiations for the acquisition of other companies manufacturing allied products but that nothing could be announced at this time.—V. 121, p. 2048.

The surplus of such issue after refunding the outstanding bonds will be used for the corporate purposes of the company.

The company was formed to own and operate what is known as second run motion picture theaters in the City of St. Louis, and acquired from the City Wide Amusement Co. and Skouras Bros. Enterprises, Inc., certain of their moving picture houses, and since its incorporation it has been highly successful.

Earnings.—The average earnings for the 2 years ending Dec. 31 1924 were more than sufficient to pay in each year a dividend of $3 per share per annum on Class A stock, and the earnings for the 6 months' period ending June 27 1925, were $45,246, or more than sufficient to pay at the rate of $4.50 per share on Class "A" stock. With the acquisition of additional theaters, the company's officers are of the opinion that these earnings will be greatly increased. See also V. 121, p. 1801, 1919.

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.—New Employees' Stock Acquisition Plan.—

The stockholders will vote Nov. 24 on approving new plans for the employees' stock acquisition plan. The present plan, which was operative over 5 years, expires with the current year.

Some changes are to be made, the most important of which is that employees participating in the plan are required to retain at least two-thirds of the stock obtained under the original plan so as to insure program which sought to get employees to become stockholders. The failure to retain two-thirds of stock acquired under the original plan makes employees ineligible under the new plan. Another change in the plan limits subscriptions to 10% of the annual salary, instead of 20%, and the new plan will run for 3 years instead of 5 years as before. The price to employees will be determined as before but will be fixed from now on semi-annually. The directors can not participate in the plan. It is announced that there are about 16,000 employees in the present fund and the average cost has been $34 a share.—V. 121, p. 1580.

Company.—Incorp. in Delaware Oct. 28 1925. Organized to acquire and own all the assets, property, patents, trade marks, good will, &c., of the Tung-Sol Lamp Works, which was organized in 1917 with a capital of $100,000. Company to-day is the second largest manufacturer of automobile lamp bulbs in the world, being second only to General Electric Co. Company's products are nationally advertised under the trade names of "Tung-Sol," "Fixed Focus," "Tulite" and "Bi-Focal" and nationally distributed through 17 agents strategically located throughout this country.

Licenses and Growth.—Company operates under reciprocal license agreements with General Electric Co., it being the largest licensee of General Electric for the manufacture of automobile lamp bulbs and in turn the General Electric is licensed to manufacture lamps under the Tulite patent which the company controls. This patent is probably one of the most valuable in the automobile lamp field to-day inasmuch as one lamp bulb can be used to throw its rays either straight ahead or down on the ground for a passing light. All Ford and 1926 models of Buick and Cadillac cars are equipped with this bulb. Under the terms of this license all patents in the electric lamp line applicable to miniature incandescent lamps owned or controlled by General Electric Co., or under which it has the right to grant licenses, can be used by the licensee. Further, all patents owned or controlled by the licensee can be used by General Electric. General Electric Co. has only four licensees for the manufacture of automobile lamp bulbs (of which Tung-Sol is the largest).

While the licenses under which these companies operate expire in approximately nine years, practically all the basic patents involved expire by or before that time. The history of this line of business in the last fifteen years has been that it has more than doubled in each five years.

Earnings and Dividends.—After all charges, including depreciation and taxes, but after eliminating non-recurring charges and credits, consolidated earnings of Tung-Sol Lamp Works and its subsidiary applicable to the payment of the $1 80 per share dividend upon the Class A stock are as follows:

Consolidated earnings	$533,169	$530,988	$583,902	$683,601

x Three months estimated at the rate of nine months.

These same earnings, after payment of the cumulative dividend on Class A stock, show an average over the last four years, including 1925, at a rate in excess of $2 a share on the Common, or on the basis of the first nine months of 1925, over $2 75 a share. The introductory remarks formerly appearing here will now be found in an earlier part of the paper immediately following the editorial matter, in a department headed "INDICATIONS OF BUSINESS ACTIVITY."

COFFEE on the spot was in fair demand and steady; Rio 7s, 19⅜ to 19½c.; Santos 4s, 23½ to 24c.; Trujillo, 24¾ to 25c.; fair to good Cucuta, 26¼ to 26¾c.; Honda, 30 to 30½c.; Medellin, 31½ to 32c.; Robusta washed, 22¼ to 23c. Cost and freight offers were higher. Prompt shipment Bourbon 3s here at 24 to 25c.; 3s-5s at 22.90 to 23.50c.; grinders 6s at 23½c.; 7s-8s at 20.90 to 21.50c.; part Bourbon or flat bean 2s, 18 screen, highly described at 25.70c.; 2s-3s at 25c.; 3s-4s at 23.60 to 23.90.; 3s-5s at 22.85 to 23¼c.; 4s-5s at 23c.; 7s-8s at 21c.; Rio 7s at 18.35 to 18.45c. Future shipment Rio 7s November at 18½c. Santos Nov.-Dec. part Bourbon 3s-5s at 22¾c. Bourbon 7s at 22.60c.; Nov.-Jan. 4s-6s at 22.90c.; Dec.-Jan. sellers option grinders 7s-8s at 20¾c.; Jan.-Mar. 3s-5s part Bourbon at 22¾c. To-day spot was in less demand. Santos 4s, 23¼ to 24c., and Rio 7s, 19⅜ to 19½c.

On the 28th inst. a decline of some 22 to 31 points took place on foreign selling. But the undertone was considered good. Cost and freight offers were higher, and at one time Rio was 150 to 250 reis higher, if it reacted later. Exchange was then 7⅝d.; the dollar rate 40 reis higher. Santos after falling 325 to 675 reis closed unchanged to 225 rreis net lower. The stock of Brazil coffee in New York was 383,104 bags against 307,761 last year; in New Orleans 141,530 bags against 56,133 last year; in the United States 524,634 bags against 363,894 last year. Total in sight 1,075,634 bags against 1,137,194 a year ago. Rio's stock was 229,000 against 394,000 a year ago; Santos' 1,242,000 against 1,636,-000 last year. Receipts at Rio were 24,000 on the 28th inst. against 15,000 last year; at Santos 31,000 against 34,000 last year. Santos afloat is 427,500 bags against 657,100 last year; Rio 81,000 against 63,200 last year andVictoria 41,200 against 52,500 last year.

Futures advanced with Brazilian markets rising and shorts covering. Opinion leans to the idea that the price trend is upward. The consumption is large. Brazil is supposed to be "defending" the price. At times the spot demand here has been better. Cost and freight sales were made of Santos 3s-5s part Bourbon at 22¾c.; Rio 8s at 17½c. and Rio 7s at 18.10c. Importers bought; local interests sold against cost and freight purchases. The first Santos cables on the 27th inst. showed a rise of 300 to 825 reis with exchange up 1-32d., followed an advance of 1-16d. in the Santos exchange rate to 7 11-16d. The close that day showed a reaction of 300 to 400 reis in terme prices. Rio cables at first showed an advance of 200 to 555 reis with exchange up 1-16d. at 7 21-32d. and the dollar off 40 reis. Later some reaction took place. As some view the matter coffee is relatively high but this fact is offset by the excellent demand and the big consumption both in the United States and in Europe. Mild coffee has been more active. This and Brazilian support caused the sharp rise together with short covering. It looks to some as though the more distant deliveries at the big discounts were too low.

Rio de Janeiro cabled that the Permanent Institute for Defense of Coffee reported coffee stocks in Sao Paulo interior warehouses as 3,315,000 bags as of Oct. 21, which figure compared with 2,604,000 bags on Sept. 30. Later prompt shipment offers included Bourbon 2s at 25c.; 2s-3s at 24.85c.; 2s-4s at 23.85 to 24c.; 3s-4s at 23½c.; 3s-5s at 23 to 23½c.; 4s-5s at 22½ to 22¾c.; 6s at 22c.; 7s-8s at 21½c.; part Bourbon or flat bean 2s-3s at 24.85c. to 24.87½c. To-day futures closed 15 to 25 points lower with transactions of 37,-000 bags. Rio was down 550 to 800 reis. Rio exchange on London was 1-32d. lower at 7 9-16d. The dollar rate was 6$540. Santos declined 325 reis. There was foreign buying here which acted as a check on the declines. It is said that there is a large short interest here, with Rio some 50 points above December. Last prices were 18 to 20 points higher for the week on the distant months, and December 5 points lower than last Friday. Closing prices were as follows:

SUGAR.—Cuban raw again declined with sales of 130,000 bags at 1 15-16c. prompt and November, or 3.71 to 3.74c. delivered, mostly at 3.71c. There was a pressure to sell old-crop holdings. The cables were not as a rule encouraging, but after sales of Cubas for December shipment to the United Kingdom at 9s. 6d., there was a rise to 9s. 7½d. for old-crop, with new-crop quoted at 9s. 10½d., the latter for January-March shipment. Announcement that the California and Hawaiian which had been quoting 4.60c. less 10c. a pound in territory as far east as Chicago and St. Louis, had advanced to 4.90c. less 10c., was regarded as significant. There is a limit to the decline. Cane here was 5 to 5.10c. Western competition has been severe. Wall Street has sold July-Sept. contracts. General selling of September was a feature. Total sales of 30,000 tons on the 27th inst. included March-July exchanges at 21 points, Dec.-Sept. at 50 points, Dec.-Jan. at 7 points, Dec.-May at 30 points, and March-Sept. at 31 points. Later came an upturn despite a London decline of ¾c. to 1½d. At the same time, however, 15,000 tons of Mauritius centrifugals sold to Mauritius shippers at 14s. 10½d. c. i. f., or under the Cuban parity. A sale of 1,500 tons of Peru raw sugars afloat was reported to United Kingdom at 9s. 3d., c. i. f. Old-crop Cuba was 3d. up at 9s. 3d. In the United Kingdom there is sharp rivalry between British preferential sugars and Cuban, with holders of British sugar relinquishing some of the preference allowed. Refined sold rather more freely here, though in small lots.

Receipts at Atlantic ports for the week were 39,661 tons, against 26,650 in the previous week, 37,868 last year and 66,966 two years ago; meltings, 54,000, against 55,000 in the previous week 43,000 last year and 61,000 two years ago; total stock, 81,712 tons, against 96,051 in previous week, 50,309 last year and 88,232 two years ago. Japan is said to be buying. Western prices advanced later. Dry weather was said to be causing some reduction in Cuban estimates. Cold weather and storms injured Western beet crops. It is said that ninety days ago, when prices were much higher, some Cuban producers availed themselves of the Sugar Exchange to sell part of their production for future delivery. Now, however, it is contended there will be a decided disinclination by producers to sell new crop Cuban. The large increase in production this year has been taken in America and Europe on a scale not at all expected.

Not a few regard sugar as a good investment for a long pull with an eye to ultimate stabilization of prices as supply and demand reach an equilibrium. The price cannot decline indefinitely. Some think the culmination of the decline cannot be far off. On the other hand doubt is expressed in some quarters whether the effects of big world supplies have spent themselves. They think the action of the market still indicates that the weight of the large production during the past season and prospects for an even larger crop in the world in the coming season is still felt and buyers they contend prefer to let producers carry the burden of overproduction. Snow endangered the unharvested sugar beet crop in Colorado. It was nearly 10 inches thick at Helena, Montana and 6 to 8 inches in Iowa. In Colorado everybody, including school children, aided farmers' efforts to save the beet crop valued at $500,000.

In the Middle West the opening of the beet sugar selling has been heralded by deep cuts in prices of refined here, but now the East, it is said, refuses to follow any Western cuts. "C. & H." in the Middle Western territory recently cut prices 50 points, bringing them down to 4.40c., as against 4.50c. for cane. E. Atkins & Co. then wired Chicago agents as follows: "The price at which we sell our refined sugar is based on the 'in bond' value of raw sugar plus the duty and the cost of refining. On to-day's spot and future quotations a lower price basis for us than to-day's Eastern refiners' basis for granulated is therefore unjustified. If domestic producers fight among themselves over what they consider a proper differential between domestic beet and cane sugar and choose to throw away a half cent per pound of their excessive tariff protection it brings about a situation that we are unable to meet because of the high tariff which we must pay the United States Government."

Futures advanced 6 to 7 points. Freezing weather at the West had some effect. Also 9,500 bags Cuban raws for second half of November shipment sold at 2 1-32c. c. & f. basis after 3,500 tons for November loading sold at 1.85c. f. o. b., resold later, it was said, to Japanese interests for November-December shipment at 1.86c. f. o. b. Cuba, the latter equal to 2c. c. & f. New York. Cables reported Cuba offered at 9s. 9d. for December and 9s. 10½d. for new crop

January shipment. The London terminal market became firm at net gains of 5¼d. to 6¾d. The world s production of sugar is about 23,300,000 tons and next year's crops are now estimated at about 24,000,000. This has had much to do with the fall in the price. It is now believed to be below the cost of production in Cuba. This state of things cannot last. To-day sugar futures were 4 to 7 points net higher with total transactions of 60,500 tons. Prompt Cuban was stronger, at 2 1-32c. The market did not get much of a test, the trade was so dull. Refined was quiet at 5 to 5.10c. on Eastern cane. Futures for the week show a rise of 17 to 18 points. Prompt Cuban at 2 1-32c. is 1-32c. higher than a week ago, after having been 1 16c. lower than then.

TEA.—In London on Oct. 27 21,400 packages of Ceylon were offered, of which 20,000 sold at firmer prices as follows: Medium pekoe, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 9½d.; fine pekoe, 1s. 10d. to 2s. 8d.; medium orange pekoe, 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 10½d.; flowery orange pekoe, 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 11½d. In London on Oct. 28 Indian teas were steady to unchanged with offerings of 23,100 packages, of which 22,000 packages were sold.

LARD on the spot declined early in the week but later advanced sharply with a better demand. Prime western 15 90 to 16c.; Middle Western 15 70 to 15 80c. city lard in tierces 15½c. nominal; in tubs 15½ to 16¼c.; Compound carlots in tierces 12 to 13¼c.; Refined Continent 16½c.; South America 17½c.; Brazil 18½c. Today spot demand was moderate; Prime Western 16 20c.; Refined Continent 16½c.; Southern American 17½c.; Brazil 18½c. Futures declined early in the week under liquidation and selling for Eastern account on the drop in cottonseed oil. Dullness of export trade was a feature. Packers gave no support to product. They want lower prices. Later came a sharp upturn despite lower English markets and rather large receipts for October shorts in lard and ribs covered freely. Ribs rose 125 points. It frightened lard shorts. A more active cash trade and the rise in grain helped the market. Lard closed on the 27th inst. 12 to 35 points higher and ribs 60 net higher. The Western run of hogs is smaller compared with last year so that hog prices have held steady around 11½c. Heavy feeding is suggested by the cheapness of corn. This tends to make the tone depressed. But as some view it the farmer is not likely to sacrifice his product in the face of increasing prosperity in industrial centers. Today prices advanced with lighter offerings and not a little covering. Hogs were up 10 to 15 cents with the top $11 75. Western receipts were 70,000 against 110,000 last year. Lard exports for the week ending October 24th were 8,488,000 lbs. against 13,766,000 in the same week last year. Final prices show a rise for the week of 38 to 77 points, the latter on October.

OILS.—Linseed has been quiet and easier. Spot: December raw oil carlots, cooperage basis, 13c.; January-April, 13.1c. The demand for boiled oil while rather more active than recently has not been up to expectations. Cocoanut oil, Ceylon f. o. b. Cast tanks, 11c.; China wood, New York, spot barrels, 13¼c.; tanks, 12¾c.; corn, crude tanks plant, 9¼c.; edible, corn, 100-barrel lots, 13c. Olive, $2 to $2 50. Olive Den, gallon, $1 22 to $1 25. Rosin, $15 55 to $16 50. Later linseed was less active and spot February was quoted at 12.9c., with March-April 13c. Lower flaxseed prices account for the weakness. Cotton seedoil has been depressed by the large cotton crop estimate which would seem to point to a larger supply of oil. The price is cheap, but this is ignored. The futue course of prices will probably be much affected by the consumption for the month. To-day sales, including switches, 16,100 barrels. P. Crude S. E. 8¼ bid. Prices closed as follows:

PETROLEUM.—Gasoline locally has been rather easier of late, although no striking changes have been reported in other markets. Local refiners quoted 11c. at refineries, but it was said business could be done at 10¾c. on a firm bid. Domestic consumption is falling off. In tank cargoes delivered to trade U. S. motor was steady at 12 to 12¼c. A better demand was reported for cased gasoline at stead prices. Bunker oil was more active at $1 65. Gas oil was in better demand; 36-40, 5c.; 28-34, 4¾c. Kerosene was in good demand and firmer. Bulk water white at local refineries was quoted at 7c.; tank cars delivered 8c.; at the Gulf, 6¾c. Lubricating oils were quiet. Yet consumption is fair and prices steady; Penn. 600 s.r. in bbls., New York, 24c. Waxes were fairly active and steady. New York refined export prices: Gasoline, cases, cargo lots, U. S. motor specifications, deodorized, 27.15c.; U. S. Motor, bulk, refinery, 11½c. Kerosene, cargo lots, cases, 16.90c.; fuel oil (bunkers), per bbl. f.o.b. dock, $1 65; Diesel oil, Bayonne, bbl., $2 10. Gas oil, Bayonne, tank cars, 28 to 34 degrees, 4¾c.; 36-40 degrees, 5c. Petroleum, refined, tanks, wagon to store, 13c. Motor gasoline, garages (steel bbls.), 17c.; up-State, 17 to 18c.

According to reports, there was a gain of 22.5% in consumption in 29 States where statistics are compiled under provisions of the gasoline tax laws or gasoline inspection laws in the first eight months of 1925. The amount of gasoline consumed for that period was given as 2,318,925,222 gallons against 1,893,580,862 gallons for the same States in a like period of 1924. These figures do not include the consumption in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and California. Later bulk gasoline was weaker and it was said that U. S. Motor could be had at below 11c. Export demand was still small. Kerosene remained firm. There was not much business either for home or foreign account. Gas oil prices were steady. Waxes were in somewhat better demand.

RUBBER has latterly been active and stronger here and in London. Offerings for spot and nearby delivery were small. Clean brown was especially firm, with a sharp demand. Para sold more freely where it was offered, but there were fewer sellers. First latex crepe, spot, $1 02 to $1 03; Oct., $1 01 to $1 02; Nov., 99c. to $1 00; Dec., 96c. to 97½c.; Jan.-March, 89 to 90c.; April-June, 83 to 84c. London advanced on the 28th ist. ½ to ¾d. except on the spot, which was unchanged; spot, 48d. to 48½d.; Nov., 47½ to 47¾d.; Dec., 46¼ to 46½d.; Jan.-Mar., 42 to 42¼d.; April-June, 39 to 39½d. In Singapore on Oct. 28 plantations were ⅞ to 1½d. higher with sheet crepe and ambers scarce; spot, 46¼d.; Nov.-Dec., 43⅞d.; Jan.-Mar., 39⅜d.; April-June, 36½d. Later New York was less active but steady at unchanged prices. London was unchanged to ¼d. higher; spot, 48¼ to 48¾d.; Nov. was 47½ to 47¾d.; Dec., 46½ to 46¾d.; Jan.-Mar., 42¼ to 42¾d.; April-June, 39¼ to 40d. Singapore on the 29th inst. was ⅝d. off to ¼d. higher; spot, 45⅝d.; Nov.-Dec., 44⅛d.; Jan.-Mar., 39¼d.; April-June, 36⅜d.

HIDES have been generally quiet, though a better demand is reported for Santa Marta. River Plate hides have been quiet. City packer have attracted little attention but are not freely offered. Of country hides the sales have been small. Prices of all hides under the circumstances are largely nominal. Orinoco, 22c.; native steers, 17c. Interior Colombians were later in better demand and quoted at 26½ to 27c. Santa Martas were firm at 24½c. and Savanillas 23½c. River Plate frigorifico hides were firmer and sales were reported of 4,000 Smithfield frigorifico steers at $39 and 4,000 Swift Rosario Santa Fe steers at the same price, or equal to 17⅛c. c. & f.

OCEAN FREIGHTS.—Grain charters decreased when grain prices fell. Full cargo tonnage was in less demand later. Grain room was in better demand.

CHARTERS included grain from Philadelphia to Genoa, 16c. Oct. 27; from Atlantic range to Antwerp-Rotterdam, 13c. November; sugar from Cuba to United Kingdom-Continent, 18s. January; sugar from Cuba to Continent, 17s. November-December; grain from Atlantic range to Antwerp-Rotterdam, 13c. November; sugar from Cuba to United Kingdom-Continent, 18s. prompt; gasoline from Philadelphia to Lisbon, 21s. 3d. November; phosphate rock from Tampa to Carteret, N. J., $2 50 a ton free loading and discharge first half November; coal from Bristol Channel to Atlantic range, 8s. 6d.; time charter, 3,470-ton steamer, delivery November three or four months, trans-Pacific trade taken by Yamashita Kisen Kaisha at 1.35 yen.

TOBACCO.—With the cigar factories busier, the demand for tobacco increased somewhat. A fair trade has been done in new Porto Rican tobacco. Of Connecticut of various grades, also fair sales have been reported, though there has been no real activity. In Havana tobacco trade has been slow for lack of stock. Wisconsin binders, 20 to 22c.; Northern, 38 to 50c.; Southern, 25 to 35c.; New York State seconds, 35 to 50c.; Ohio, Gebhardt B, 25 to 28c.; Little Dutch, 25 to 28c.; Zimmer Span., 28 to 32c ; Havana 1st. Remedios, $1 to $1 05; 2d Remed os, 85 to 90c. Pennsylvania, broad leaf filler, 8 to 18c.; broadleaf B, 24 to 27c. Porto Rico, 40 to 90c.; Connecticut top leaf, 20 to 25c.; No. 1, sec., 70 to 85c.; seed fillers, 12c.; medium wrappers, 70 to

COAL has naturally been firmer, with no sign of a settlement of the hard coal strike. West Virginia soft coal producers predict much higher prices following an advance of $1; at Chicago and Cincinnati in lump, egg and nut. Pennsylvania low volatiles are from 10c. to 50c. above the prices of ninety days ago, according to quality. Export trade at Hampton Roads is dull. The Hampton Roads price of navy standard is also, it is believed, to advance. In Manhattan, known customers now and then get ton lots of egg, nut and broken anthracite at $16 50, pea at $12 50 and buckwheat at $7 50. Run of mine Pennsylvania bituminous is quoted by the retailers at $8 50. Prepared sizes of soft coal are not quoted by the leading New York retailers. Best Broadtop hard has been active at a rise of $1 on screened Pennsylvania smokeless coal. It is scarce. Retailers quoted coke, stove and other domestic sizes at $17 50. German producers quote German hard briquettes and domestic run of oven coke at $10 a ton c. i. f. New York, or within the range of both Pennsylvania and West Virginia smokeless lump, egg and nut coal. Hampton Roads tidewater bituminous coal stocks on Oct. 26 reached 358,487 tons, of which 274,987 were low volatile. Vessels required 111,050 tons. The apparent surplus was 247,437 tons.

Coal shortage in the city has been averted by the placing of orders for 250,000 tons of soft coal by New York dealers. More orders will be placed, it is stated, as the demand increases and the price has been fixed at between $7 75 to $8 50 a ton delivered. The New York retail coal trade having placed orders for 200,000 tons of Pennsylvania bituminous run of mine coal, the Manhattan district quotes $8 50 and Brooklyn $9, the difference being due, it seems to the cost of pavement delivery in New York and cellar delivery in Brooklyn. Coke at retail was quoted on Long Island at central points at $17 50; pea coal, $12 50 to $14 50; buckwheat at from $7 50 to $7 65. Brooklyn dealers sell nut coal in 100 lbs. lots at 75c. Coke was persistently strong: later $9 was called the lowest for run-of-oven furnace. Foundry was nominally $10, with little or none for sale. Crushed furnace was quoted at $10 50 to $11 50. The freight charge is $4 79 to New York, to be added to the f. o. b. oven price or crusher price in making up the wholesale and retail prices at New York. The demand for furnace coke has outrun the increase in output.

COPPER has been easier. Some producers report a good business, while others say it is quiet. The decline of 5s. to 10s. in London on the 28th inst. had a depressing effect. Here producers quoted 14¾c. but this price was said to have been shaded. Sales were made, it was reported, at 14⅝c. by second hands and small sellers. Spot standard in London on the 28th inst. fell to £62 and futures to £62 17s. 6d., with sales of 300 tons of spot and 1,200 tons of futures. Electrolytic there declined 5s. to £67 15s. for spot and £68 5s. for futures. Later in the week the tone was depressed at 14⅝c. with little demand. London of late has changed little.

TIN has been lower in sympathy with a decline in London. On the 28th inst. prices here fell ½c. per pound to 63c. for spot Straits and 62⅝c. for Feb. The resignation of the French Cabinet was a depressing factor. There was some buying by American consumers on the decline to fill immediate needs, but very little purchasing was done to fill future requirements. American deliveries in October it is estimated will aggregate 6,250 tons. Spot standard tin in London on the 28th inst. declined £3 6d to £281 and futures fell off £3 15s to £280 7s 6d. Later the price showed a rising tendency. It got to within ¼c. of the peak of the year. Spot Straits sold at 63⅞c. Distant futures were 63½c. London was up £3 15s to £4 2s 6d; Standard spot £285 2s 6d; futures £284 2s 6d.

LEAD has been in fair demand and steady at 9½c. New York and 9¼c. East St. Louis. London declined on the 28th inst. £1 2s. 6d. to £38 2s. 6d. for spot and declined 6s. 3d. to £37 2s. 6d. for futures. Later the tone was firmer with a rally in London following a sharp decline earlier in the week. New York was still 9½c. and East St. Louis 9¼c. Spot lead was 10s. higher in London at £38 12s. 6d.; futures rose 2s. 6d. to £37 5s. There was some irregularity in prices in the Central West. Eastern quotations stand up the best.

ZINC like most other metals was for a time weaker with London lower. Prompt zinc was sold at 8.60 to 8.65c. and November at 8.50 to 8.65c. Some producers, it is said, have sold their entire output through November and in some cases through December. London on the 28th inst. declined on the spot 16s. 3d. to £39 15s., and futures fell 10s. to £38 17s. 6d. Zinc was rather firmer later in the week. It touched the previous high of 1925, or 8.65c. East St. Louis. There was not much business however. Brass special was in small supply and at a premium of 15 to 25 points over prime Western zinc. High-grade zinc, 10¼c. and in small supply. Spot zinc in London advanced 2s. 6d. to £39 17s. 6d.; futures were off 1s. 3d. to £68 16s. 3d.

STEEL has been in better demand and firm. October's business is called satisfactory. Unfilled orders have increased of both steel and iron. Backlogs are not such a rarity as they were in September. Structural steel awards recently have been over 60,000 tons, one of the most satisfactory of 1925. Awards of steel rails for 1926 delivery thus far are over 1,000,000 tons and by the end of November it is believed that another 500,000 tons will have been placed. Railroads, in other words, are good buyers. Automobile works are steadily taking supplies. The tone in the steel business grows more confident without any furore. Cast iron pipe makers are sold ahead for three months. Gas pipe, owing to the coal strike, sells more readily. German cast iron pipe makers tried to get an injunction preventing New York City from awarding a large tonnage to American makers, the Germans having been low bidders, but it was not granted. Semi-finished (gross tons) billets re-rolling, $33 50 to $35; billets, forging, $40 to $42; sheet bars, $26 50 to $35; slabs, $33 50 to $35; wire rods, $45 to $46. Blue annealed sheets, 2.25c to 2.30c.; black, 3.10c. to 3.20c.; galvanized, 4.30c. to 4.40c.; auto body, 4.40c.; strips, hot rolled, 2.20c to 2.30c; strips, cold rolled, 3.75 to 3.80c.; hoops, 2.40 to 2.50c.; bands, 2.40 to 2.50c; tin plate (per base box), $5 50 Hot rolled bars, 2c.; plates, 1.60 to 1.70c.; shapes, 1.90c. to 2c.; rails, standard (gross ton), $43; rails, light, 1.65 to 1.70c. PIG IRON has been in fair demand and firmer, with apparently very little likelihood of an increase in output. Some makers are said to be reselling their coke at a tempting profit. Crushed coke has been at $9 50. The New England Coal & Coke Co. has advanced prices of by-product coke $1 to $13, delivered in New England. The Providence Gas Co. quoted $12 50. Connellsville furnace and foundry were both quoted at $9 to $10. Buffalo iron is said to be $20 per ton for fourth quarter delivery and $21 for first; Eastern Pennsylvania iron is quoted at $21 50 to $22; Chicago quoted $22 per ton: Virginia iron has remained at $24, furnace. Later foreign iron was reported more active in the East at $21 to $22 seaboard, duty paid. Eastern Pennsylvania is usually quoted at $22 per ton; Buffalo at $20 50. Buffalo advanced 50c. later to $21, though it was intimated that possibly in a few cases $20 50 might still be accepted.

WOOL has been in fair demand and steady. Not until about November will Texas wool be offered. The satisfactory result of the Australian sales with prices 5 to 10% higher in a month encouraged holders. In New York any attempt to raise prices causes a lessened demand. Medium sells the most readily. New York nominal prices were as follows:

Domestic fleeces, unwashed, Ohio and Pennsylvania fine delaine, 54 to 55c.; ½-blood, 53 to 54c.; ¾-blood, 52 to 53c.; ¼-blood, 51 to 52c. Territory, clean basis, fine staple, $1 30 to $1 32; fine, fine medium, French combing, $1 24 to $1 25; fine, fine medium, clothing, $1 15 to $1 18; ½-blood staple, $1 17 to $1 20; ¾-blood, $1 to $1 03; ¼-blood, 92 to 94c. Texas, clean basis, fine 12 months, $1 25 to $1 30; fine 10 months, $1 20 to $1 25; fine 6 to 8 months, $1 12 to $1 16.

Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces at Boston:

Delaine unwashed, 54c.; ½-blood combing, 53c.; ¾-blood combing, 52 to 53c.; ¼-blood combing, 51 to 52c.; fine unwashed, 46 to 47c. Michigan and New York fleeces, delaine unwashed, 50 to 52c.; ½-blood combing, 52c.; ¾-blood combing, 51 to 52c.; ¼-blood combing, 51 to 52c.; fine unwashed, 44 to 45c. Wisconsin, Missouri and average New England ½-blood, 48 to 49c.; ¾-blood, 50 to 51c.; ¼-blood, 49 to 50c. Scoured basis, Texas, fine 12 months (selected), $1 25 to $1 30; fine 8 months, $1 10 to $1 15. California northern, $1 20 to $1 25; Middle County, $1 10; Southern, $1.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1 1925 to Oct. 23 1925 inclusive, were 142,359,000 lbs., against 138,237,000 lbs. for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1 1925 to Oct. 23 1925 inclusive, were 262,754,600 lbs., against 264,815,200 lbs. for the same period last year. At Sydney, Australia, on Oct. 28 some 5,635 bales were offered. Selection good. Demand excellent from Germany, Italy and France. Compared with the last series, prices on merinos and comeback greasies were unchanged to 5% higher and crossbreds unchanged. Melbourne reports that owing to the increased call for wool the offerings at all Australian points in November and December will be increased 10%. A sharp demand was reported for Albury yesterday, of which 6,000 bales were offered and promptly sold.

In Liverpool on Oct. 27th some 30,250 bales were offered at the East India wool sales which opened on that day and will continue to November 3rd. All medium white wools and all medium yellow was unchanged as compared with the last series but wasty wools were irregular and about 5 to 10% lower. At Sydney, Australia on October 29th prices were firm. Bradford was the leading buyer. America showed more interest. Prices were slightly dearer than at the beginning of the week and on the whole about 7% above the closing level of last week. The East India sales were at full prices. Best white vicaneres have risen to 26½d at the salesrooms, better tinged Jorias about 23½d. Best carpet wools were very firm with wasty sorts irregular.

NOTE.—Exports to Canada.—It has never been our practice to include in the above tables exports of cotton to Canada, the reason being that virtually all the cotton destined to the Dominion comes overland and it is impossible to get returns concerning the same from week to week, while reports from the customs districts on the Canadian border are always very slow in coming to hand. In view, however, of the numerous inquiries we are receiving regarding the matter, we will say that for the month of September the exports to the Dominion the present season have been 14,445 bales. In the corresponding month of the preceding season the exports were 10,967 bales. For the two months ended Sept. 30 1925, there were 20,246 bales exported, as against 14,729 bales for the corresponding two months of 1924.

In addition to above exports, our telegrams to-night also give us the following amounts of cotton on shipboard, not cleared, at the ports named:

* Estimated.

Speculation in cotton for future delivery was active on the 26th inst. at a decline of 95 to 129 points as the Government increased its estimate of the growing crop by 467,000 bales, reaching 15,226,000 bales of 500 pounds gross. It was 400,000 to 600,000 bales larger than the average private estimates. The report was the signal for a great outpouring of selling, though prices before the report had advanced somewhat, with Liverpool cables higher than due. The report was a staggering blow. Selling came from everywhere. Mill buying for a time ceased or greatly slackened. About the only buyers were shorts. The Washington authorities reminded the trade that this report was preliminary and the final outturn of the crop may be larger or smaller than the Oct. 18 indications, as developments during the remainder of the season prove more or less favorable to the crop than usual. The indicated production on Oct. 18 last year, the first report for that date, was 7% below final ginnings. Last year the production was 13,627,936 bales, two years ago 10,139,671 bales, three years ago 9,762,069 bales, four years ago 7,953,641 bales and five years ago 13,439,603 bales. An abandonment of cotton acreage since June 25 of 4.8% is indicated by preliminary reports, comparing with an estimated abandonment from June 25 to the close of the season of 3% in 1924, 4.1% in 1923 and a 10-year average of 3.3%. The preliminary estimate of abandonment in Texas is 9%, compared with a final abandonment figure of 3% in 1924 and 3.4% the 10-year average. A abandonment of 4.8% for the United States would leave about 44,231,000 acres for harvest. The yield per acre on Oct. 18 was 164.7 pounds of lint cotton, compared with a final yield per acre last year of 157.4 pounds, two years ago 130.6, three years ago 141.3, four years ago 124.5 and five years ago 178.4 pounds.

The ginning total was 300,000 bales higher than some estimates and 200,000 under others. The official total ginned up to Oct. 18 is 9,519,784 bales, against 7,615,981 up to the same time last year. Washington dispatches intimated that Senator Caraway, backed by Senator Borah, will attack the Cotton Exchanges in the next Congress to convene early in December. Senator Caraway declares 15,226,000 bales to be an inaccurate forecast. He threatens a bill against speculation in cotton and grain. Here the annoyance over bi-monthly reports is more acute, especially among those who think the estimate of 15,226,000 bales will yet turn out to be much too large. They blame the great decline on those reports; others say that the crop is undoubtedly increasing and is having its logical effect.

But on the decline below 20c. the trade bought on a large scale and this acted in some sort as a brake. In the afternoon of the 26th inst. prices rallied 18 to 26 points, mainly because of buying by trade interests. Covering helped. The large spinners' taking were stressed. Prices had recently fallen 3c. That was not forgotten. Some look for the greatest exports since 1911-12. Some contend that there is a certain analogy between the situation now and that of 14 years ago; that then as now there was a conjunction of mill prosperity, surplus crop and falling prices for raw cotton; adding that prices in the fall of 1911 fell below 9c., with resultant high record exports, which added to the United States consumption, absorbed a crop that for the first time reached 16,101,000 bales; took it all, lint and linters. It is further recalled that from 9¼c. in November 1911, spot prices advanced to 13.40c. in July 1912. Domestic consumption without linters or foreign cotton, some declare, promises to exceed 6,250,000 bales. Later came a further rally on mill "fixing" and fears of killing frost in the Southwest. Also, shorts covered freely. Offerings fell off. The market was short. Bears were more cautious. Still later in the week there was an advance of 20 to 25 points, with a hard freeze in the Southwest. Texas had 22 degrees and it was generally 30 degrees or less in the northern and western part of that State. Oklahoma had 21 to 30 degrees and Arkansas as low as 32. Frost occurred in the eastern belt, though none of the killing kind. The cables were better than due. In Liverpool there was covering and a trade demand. Sold-out bulls there were taking hold again. There was a fair demand for cloths from India and the Continent. But all the advance was lost when the covering died down. December, too, was pressed for sale by spot houses and others. Its premium over January dropped from 70 the night before to 57. At one time recently it was 80. The West sold freely as wheat reacted. The West takes the ground that there will be a big crop, even with some frost damage. Wall Street was a seller, but Liverpool bought. On Thursday there was a drop of 37 to 41 points on renewed liquidation of December, and to some extent of January, attributed largely to big spot houses. Freezing temperatures again occurred but had no effect. Warmer weather was predicted to follow, though with rains, which, it was surmised, might not be altogether favorable. Spot markets gave way. Speculation was in the main dull. The outside public is not in cotton and has not been as a rule for some years past. It is now engrossed in operations in stocks, grain and real estate.

To-day prices dropped 47 to 68 points on heavy hedge selling and also general pressure from Wall Street, the West, local interests and Liverpool as well as to all appearances, Japanese houses. December acted the best, ending 70 points over January, against 50 the other day. Some of the speculative element were supposed, rightly or wrongly, to be feeling out the situation of the co-operative associations at the South. After a prolonged decline, it was suggested that perhaps farmers' margins were running low. The week's statistics were on the surface more bullish than heretofore. Behind them, however, is the big crop. That is what is stressed by most merchants and speculators. Spot markets were all lower. The ending was weak at the lowest prices of the day. They show a net decline for the week of about 200 points. Spot cotton ended at 19.75c. for middling, a decline for the week of 205 points.

The following averages of the differences between grades, as figured from the Oct. 29 quotations of the ten markets, designated by the Secretary of Agriculture, are the differences from middling established for deliveries in the New York market on Nov. 6.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT REPORT ON COTTON PRODUCTION AND ABANDONMENT OF ACREAGE.

The Agricultural Department at Washington on Monday of this week (Oct. 26) issued its report on cotton production and abandonment of acreage as of Oct. 18, and the following is the complete official text of the report:

A probable United States cotton production of about 15,226,000 bales of 500 lbs. gross, if average crop influences prevail during the remainder of the season, is indicated by reports as of Oct. 18 on condition, abandonment, probable yields, ginnings, &c., received by the Crop Reporting Board of the United States Department of Agriculture from crop correspondents, field statisticians, and co-operating State Boards (or Departments) of Agriculture and Extension Departments. This report is preliminary and the final outturn of the crop may be larger or smaller than the Oct. 18 indications, as developments during the remainder of the season prove more or less favorable to the crop than usual. The indicated production on Oct. 18 last year, the first report for that date, was 7% below final ginnings. Last year the production was 13,627,936 bales, two years ago 10,139,671, three years ago 9,762,069, four years ago 7,953,641, and five years ago 13,439,603 bales.

An abandonment of cotton acreage since June 25 of 4.8% is indicated by preliminary reports, comparing with an estimated abandonment from June 25 to the close of the season of 3% in 1924, of 4.1% in 1923, and a ten-year average of 3.3%. The preliminary estimate of abandonment in Texas is 9%, compared with a final abandonment figure of 3% in 1924, and 3.4% the ten-year average. An abandonment of 4.8% for the United States would leave about 44,231,000 acres for harvest.

The probable United States yield, from Oct. 18 indications, is 164.7 lbs. of lint cotton per harvested acre, compared with a final yield per acre last year of 157.4 lbs., two years ago 130.6, three years ago 141.3, four years ago 124.5, and five years ago 178.4 lbs.

COMMENTS CONCERNING COTTON REPORT.

The United States Department of Agriculture in giving out its cotton report on Oct. 26 also added the following comments:

Although some cotton has been lost from storms and delayed picking, prospects have improved, and growers in most States are finding more cotton than they expected two weeks ago. A cotton crop of 15,226,000 bales is indicated by the reports which growers and others submitted to the Department of Agriculture on Oct. 18. This indication is 467,000 bales above the forecast based on prospects on Oct. 1.

Prospects show substantial improvement in all the Gulf States but the largest change has been in Texas, where prospects have improved to the extent of 175,000 bales. The crop in the western third of the State is, however, unusually late and the final outturn in that section is still largely dependent on the date of the first general killing frost.

The present indications are also subject to material change in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Mississippi, according to the character of the remaining season.

Of the 46,448,000 acres of cotton standing on June 25, about 2,217,000 acres are estimated to have been abandoned. Although this abandonment amounts to 4.8% of the acreage as originally estimated, it is somewhat below the abandonment expected before the drought was broken in Texas. In that State abandonment is now estimated at 9%, or 1,651,000 acres. This is about three-fourths of the total cotton abandonment in the United States this season.

CONSOLIDATED COTTON REPORT.

The Bureau of the Census and the Agricultural Department made public Monday (Oct. 26) their consolidated cotton report, which is as follows:

Ginnings to October 18, 9,519,784 running bales. Indicated total production 15,226,000 bales, 500-lbs. gross.

Census Bureau.

Census report shows 9,519,784 running bales (counting round as half bales) ginned from the crop of 1925 prior to October 18, compared with 7,615,981 for 1924, and 6,409,391 for 1923.

Agriculture Department.

A United States production of 15,226,000 bales (500-pounds gross weight), based upon October 18 indications, is shown by the Crop Reporting Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

COTTON GINNING REPORT.

The Bureau of the Census on Oct. 26 issued the following report showing the number of bales of cotton ginned in each of the cotton-growing States the present season up to Oct. 18 in comparison with corresponding figures for the preceding season:

The statistics in this report include 145,964 round bales for 1925, 203,424 for 1924, and 175,896 for 1923.

The statistics for 1925 in this report are subject to slight corrections when checked against the individual returns of the ginners being transmitted by mail. The corrected statistics of the quantity of cotton ginned this season prior to Oct. 1 are 7,127,609 bales.

Consumption, Stocks, Imports and Exports—United States.

Cotton consumed during the month of September 1925 amounted to 483,266 bales. Cotton on hand in consuming establishments on Sept. 30 was 866,011 bales, and in public storage and at compresses 3,137,620 bales. The number of active consuming cotton spindles for the month was 31,551,630. The total imports for the month of September 1925 were 15,121 bales and the exports of domestic cotton, including linters, were 752,324 bales.

World Statistics.

The preliminary estimated world's production of commercial cotton, exclusive of linters, grown in 1924, as compiled from information secured through the domestic and foreign staff of the Department of Commerce is 23,377,000 bales of 478 pounds lint, while the consumption of cotton (exclusive of linters in the United States) for the year ending July 31 1924 was approximately 19,982,000 bales of 478 pounds lint. The total number of spinning cotton spindles, both active and idle, is about 159,000,000.

FOREIGN COTTON CROP PROSPECTS.—A report of the latest available information since Oct. 3 as to cotton production in foreign countries has been compiled by the Foreign Service of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Washington and was made public on Oct. 26 as follows:

Reports on cotton growing conditions continue to be favorable to a good crop in the most important producing countries. In Egypt trade reports state that the weather has been favorable to picking and picking results in the Delta were satisfactory up to the latter part of September.

The second forecast of acreage in India, issued on Oct. 15, was 22,752,000 acres as compared with an estimate of 21,785,000 acres issued at the same time last year, according to a cablegram received from the Indian Department of Statistics. The final estimate of acreage last year was 26,461,000 acres. Crop reports on the whole are fairly satisfactory. Where bolls are nearing maturity further rains would now be rather harmful except for the Berars where some slight rain would help. Conditions in the Punjab up to Oct. 8 had not changed since the last report.

Rainfall in Uganda has been generally plentiful and prospects are good, according to a cablegram from the International Institute of Agriculture. The area is estimated to be about the same as that of last year when it was placed at 584,400 acres.

In Lower California conditions are much less favorable than they were the last of August, according to Consul Doherty at Mexicali. The plants have not recovered from the damage caused by the cotton leaf worm. Although this pest disappeared before the middle of September, the plants in the infested areas shed their leaves and many bolls cracked open before reaching half of the average size, due to the heat of the sun. The Consul reports, however, that cotton ginned in Mexicali up to and including Sept. 30 amounted to 8,699 gin run bales as compared with only 6,062 bales for the corresponding period in 1924.

Consul Donovan at Rio de Janeiro reports that rainfall in the central and southern areas of Brazil during the second ten days of September was favorable to planting. He also stated that reports of the picking which was then in progress in Maranhao and Bahia was giving reduced yields. Maranhao is the first one of the five important provinces in production of Brazilian tree cotton to report an indication of the coming crop. No information is available as to the new crop in Peru. Since Vice-Consul Morse at Guayaquil states that in Ecuador new cotton is beginning to come in with good prospects for a fair crop, it is probable that the same general conditions prevail in northern Peru where rough Peruvian cotton is grown. In Paraguay Consul Willson reports that a large cotton acreage may be expected again this year, in spite of the reduced crop from the large acreage for 1924-25, since he states that cotton is more profitable than other crops grown in the region.

INDIA COTTON AREA ABOVE LAST YEAR'S.—The second forecast of cotton acreage in India is 22,752,000 acres compared with an estimate of 21,785,000 acres issued at the same time last year, according to a cablegram received by the United States Department of Agriculture from the Indian Department of Statistics and made public on Oct. 23. The final estimate of acreage last year was 26,461,000 acres.

FAILURE OF D. C. MELLES.—The following dispatch from New Orleans on Oct. 29 is taken from the New York "Times" of Oct. 30:

The failure of D. C. Melles, a member of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, to meet his obligations to other members was announced from the rostrum of the Exchange on Oct. 29. The failure is not considered to be serious in its effect on the market.

PROCTER & GAMBLE COTTON REPORT.—We give below a summary of the Procter & Gamble cotton report as of Oct. 22, just issued:

The Procter & Gamble Co. state, according to a report on the conditions of the cotton crop as of Oct. 22, that "temperatures, as a rule, were below normal over the northern and western parts of the cotton belt, during the period covered by this report. There was frost in the northern cotton districts, but no material damage occurred, except locally in the northwest.

Rains have fallen over practically the entire belt, which have been more or less continuous and excessive in many sections, with the exception of in the Atlantic States. These rains have been unfavorable at this time, and delayed picking and ginning, and caused some damage to the staple and the seed. Clear weather with moderate temperatures is needed over the entire belt.

Picking has been practically completed over the southern half of the belt, with but a few scattered fields remaining to be picked out. Picking is well advanded over the north. There is less than the usual amount of late cotton over the north, with the exception of western and northwestern Texas and parts of Oklahoma; a late killing frost would add materially to the crop in that section.

Outlook.—This season has been one of widely diverse opinions as to acreage, the effect of climatic conditions, &c. There have been numerous surprises, of which the size of the crop in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana stand out most prominently. The outlook, as a whole, continues to be favorable and indicates a crop of 15,125,000 bales, with a possibility of 15,500,000 bales exclusive of linters.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—Reports to us by telegraph this evening denote that although there has been less general rain than in previous weeks there have been many scattered local rains. The early part of the week temperatures were higher but the latter part have again been lower. Many places in the northern and eastern parts of the cotton belt reported frost, but no material damage resulted.

Texas.—Cotton has made some new growth in this State during the week, but the prospects of a top crop are impaired because of worms and weevil. Late bolls are opening slowly on account of cool weather. Dry, sunshiny weather is needed.

Mobile, Ala.—Cotton picking is practically ended and only a limited number of gins are now operating a portion of the time.

BREADSTUFFS

Friday Night, Oct. 30 1925.

Flour advanced in the fore part of the week 15 to 25c., with wheat up 2½ to 4c. But the sluggishness of trade was not perceptibly changed. Hand-to-mouth buying was still the rule. Less activity was reported even at Duluth and Minneapolis, which are wont to send cheerful reports. Buyers at the West, after recent large purchases are apparently more indifferent. The output of the mills for the next five or six months is expected to be rather large. The clearances from New York on the 24th inst. were 30,623 sacks to England and the Continent, including one-third to Rotterdam. Later came some reaction in prices, with wheat falling. Export interest was rather greater. Clearances from New York on the 28th inst. were 52,103 sacks, or 36,000 bbls., all consigned to South America, the West Indies and Cuba, also 2,000 bbls. from New Orleans, making total Atlantic seaboard shipments 38,000 bbls. To-day a somewhat better demand was reported at Minneapolis.

Wheat advanced for a time all over the West and in Canada. For bad crop reports came from drought-stricken Australia, the weather was cold in the Northwest, further snows occurred in Canada, rains in the West and Southwest delayed seeding, and finally, export demand increased. On the 26th inst. it took 1,000,000 bushels. That was the best day's export trade in a long time. World's shipments fell off somewhat; on passage increased a little. The American visible supply decreased last week 2,051,000 bushels, against an increase in the same week last year of 2,408,000 bushels. It is now only 46,034,000 bushels, against 87,766,000 a year ago. It is said that fully 100,000,000 bushels or unthreshed wheat are under the snow in Canada. Much of this, it is asserted, will be but little better than chicken feed, if held in this condition all winter. Prolonged wet weather, it is suggested, may reduce the new winter wheat acreage. The cash position was strong. Receipts were small. December was scarce. Chicago wope up when a cargo of 230,000 bushels of spring wheat was ordered to move out of Chicago to an Eastern port. Coupled with unusually light receipts at primary points in this country it drove in the shorts. Chicago's stock of contract wheat is, in other words, being seriously depleted. The East wanted both cash and December. Rain, snow, sleet and zero weather in Canada did not help matters, but the cash situation dominated. Some stress the big premiums for winter wheat in the United States, supply, bad weather in western Canada, with delayed threshing, and the large percentage of low grade grain. Moreover, the predicted heavy shipments of spring wheat from Duluth have not yet appeared, and the close of navigation is not far off. Also, Russia has not been shipping as freely as was predicted. To-day prices at once time were a fraction higher, but later on gave way, and ended ¼c. to 1c. lower for the day at Chicago and at about the same decline at Winnipeg. On any upturn offerings increased. Depression in Winnipeg was a noticeable drag on Chicago. Long December was thrown over, it was said, by a large professional operator who at the same time was understood to be covering in May. Liverpool and Argentine prices were lower. Good rains fell in Australia. Argentine advices were more cheerful. The popular idea now is that its crop is about 120,000,000 bushels. Recently it was called 130,000,000. But the present estimate is about 45,000,000 less than last year. Some estimates put the Australia surplus as 75,000,000 to 80,000,000 bushels, which to some looks too high. A depressing factor to-day was the lack of an export demand, in sharp contrast with the good foreign business early in the week. Only small lots of Manitoba were sold. France cancelled purchases of about 200,000 bushels of durum. Receipts were not large, but on the other hand cash demand was light and cash quotations were down at Chicago, Kansas City and Minneapolis. Bradstreet's report of 13,000,000 bushels as the week's exports were larger than expected. Except from North America, shipments were small. The total for the week is put at 15,400,000 bushels, against close to 19,000,000 last year. Final prices, despite the recent reaction, show a rise for the week of 2½ to 5c.

Indian corn dropped to a new low because of increasing receipts. A rise in wheat mattered nothing for a time. Neither did rains in the belt, nor a decrease in the American visible supply last week of 1,134,000 bushels, against an increase in the same week last year of 356,000. The total was down to only 2,321,000 bushels, against 8,751,000 bushels last year. It did not signify. Finally, however, a persistent advance in wheat did tell. More than that, however, there was a better demand for corn. Also, receipts fell off. On the 27th inst. they were small. So were country offerings to arrive. And exporters took 300,000 bushels. Little was made of this, but it may be the herald of something better. Toledo, Ohio, wired: "Husking about normal and some returns show 60 to 75 bushels to the acre." Indianapolis, Ind., wired: "Husking just starting." Lincoln, Ill., wired: "Practically no husking done yet; some will start this week, if there is no more rain." Jacksonville, Ill.: "No corn cribbed, but some husking done for hogs. Weather has been too wet, but do not think any damage to grain." Monticello, Ill.: "If weather stays clear husking will start the latter part of the week." Champagne, Ill.: "Very little corn husked on account of rain." The run of old corn has exceeded expectations, while husking returns from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana show a yield of 60 to 80 bushels to the acre. Receipts will increase, it is believed, from now on. Chicago expects that 700,000 bushels of the 810,000 in store there will be loaded out by Sunday. Davenport, Iowa, wired: "The best weather for corn husking that we have so far experienced. Clear and cold; ground frozen so that everyone can get busy." To-day prices wound up ¼ to ½c. lower after a firm opening. The early steadiness was due to covering, small receipts and firm cash markets. Wheat dragged corn down later. Its weakness caused general selling, partly profit taking. It is hinted that private crop estimates shortly to appear will point to a corn crop much larger than the last estimate by the Government. The weather was favorable both for shelling and marketing. Iowa farmers have appealed to the Federal Government for aid to the corn farmer. No. 2 yellow corn is 27c. lower than a year ago. Futures are 30 to 36c. lower than at this time last year. For the week prices show a decline on most months of ½ to ⅝c., with December up ¼c.

Oats advanced with wheat, but not very much. Offerings, however, were not large. The American visible supply increased last week only 334,000 bushels, against 1,792,000 in the same week last year. The total is now 65,294,000 bushels, against 64,577,000 a year ago. Some emphasize the fact that the visible supply is large, 65,000,000 bushels. The shipping demand is small and May has recently made a new low. To-day prices were slightly easier. Changes, however, were very small, oats following sluggishly some decline in corn. It is apt to be guided more or less by corn. Now and then it has been strong when corn was. Taking the week as a whole it has been an uneventful one and the last prices of December and May to-day were almost exactly the same as those of a week ago.

Rye advanced with wheat, though interest features were a rarity. The trading kept within very moderate bounds. The American visible supply decreased last week 227,000 bushels, against an increase in the same week last year of 1,819,000 bushels. The total is now 9,080,000 bushels, against 15,502,000 last year. The bulls underline the fact that the visible supply is only 9,000,000 bushels, against 15,000,000 last year and that the price is low compared to wheat. To-day prices were ¾ to 1c. lower in a dull market. The weaker tone of wheat was not without its effect on rye. And the dulness of the export business, too, was a distinct damper. Final prices for all that, however, show a net advance for the week of 1½c.

WEATHER BULLETIN FOR THE WEEK ENDED OCT. 27.—The general summary of the weather bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture, indicating the influence of the weather for the week ended Oct. 27, follows:

The weather of the week was characterized by rapid movement of storms across the central and eastern portions of the country, with resultant frequent changes from cloudy and rainy to fair and cool weather. While fair weather was the rule in Central and Southern States the first part of the week, a "low" advanced from the British Northwest southeastward to the lower Ohio Valley and thence eastward, accompanied by precipitation in most sections east of the upper Mississippi Valley.

On Friday morning, the 23d, a second disturbance was charted over the southern Plains, and this moved northeastward, accompanied by precipitation quite generally throughout the central and eastern portions of the country; rains were heavy in parts of the Southeast and snow was reported from the more northern States. Toward the close of the week a third storm passed across the Northern States, but the resulting precipitation was less extensive than previously. Fair weather again prevailed in the more western States.

Chart II shows that the totals of rainfall for the week were large from the lower Mississippi Valley eastward, except in Atlantic coast districts, and were substantial in the Middle and North Atlantic States. The weekly totals were generally light in the Southwest, and were moderate, notwithstanding frequent rains, in most districts from the interior valleys northward. In the more western States the week was again practically rainless, with large areas receiving no precipitation. There was again an unusually large amount of cloudy weather in the interior and Northern States.

At the beginning of the week much cooler weather prevailed in the Southeast and, at the same time, temperatures were considerably below normal in all sections east of the Rocky Mountains. After a day or two, however, it became much warmer in the Southwest, and higher temperatures prevailed in the Northwest. During the latter part of the week it was abnormally warm for the season from the Middle Atlantic States southward and southwestward, but lower temperatures had again overspread these regions at the close of the week, with low readings prevailing in the interior and Northwest. Subnormal temperatures were the rule for the week, except in the more western States and parts of the Gulf area.

Chart I shows that the weekly mean temperatures were much below normal throughout the central and northern portions of the country east of the Rocky Mountains. It was especially cool for the season in the Ohio and upper Mississippi Valleys where the week averaged from 10 degrees to 13 degrees colder than normal. West of the Rocky Mountains it was warmer than usual, especially in California where in some places the weekly mean temperature was as much as 8 degrees above the seasonal average.

The continuation of cool, cloudy weather, with frequent rainfall from the lower Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys eastward, was decidedly unfavorable for farming operations, resulting in further delay in seasonal work. It was especially unfavorable for seeding winter grains and for drying out corn, but early-seeded grains were generally favorably affected. This makes the third to fifth consecutive week with mostly unfavorable weather for field work in the upper Mississippi and Ohio Valley States. It was too cool and wet also in the Northeast where there was considerable complaint of unharvested potatoes rotting.

In the Middle and South Atlantic States, conditions were more favorable, as the recent rainfall has materially improved the water situation and put the soil in generally good condition, though more rain is needed locally in Florida. Heavy frost occurred in the Southeast as far south as the northern portions of Alabama and Georgia and North Carolina without material damage. In the west Gulf area and over the Great Plains States, conditions were generally favorable for field work, though it was too cool in the central and northern Plains and was generally unfavorable in Montana. West of the Rocky Mountains, the dry and mostly pleasant weather was ideal for farm work and good progress was made, but it continued too dry, especially for fall grain crops, over much of the Pacific Northwest.

SMALL GRAINS.—Rains over the greater portion of the Winter Wheat Belt have delayed operations in most localities, but have been favorable for that portion of the crop already seeded, and progress and condition are generally good to excellent. Seeding is near completion in the Plains States, and the greatest delay has been in the Ohio and Mississippi Valley areas. In some sections there will probably be a reduction in acreage because of the wet weather.

In the Southeast the rains have put the soil in good condition for seeding, and wheat, oats, and rye are being rapidly sown. The progress of rice harvest and threshing was favorable in Arkansas, but poor in Louisiana, and threshing was delayed in Texas; harvest is well along in California. Harvesting grain sorghums is in full blast in the Plains States. Buckwheat is suffering from the wet weather in New York and is being threshed in Maryland.

CORN.—It continued generally too cloudy and wet for drying out corn from the Mississippi Valley eastward. Husking was further delayed, and there was some damage by molding in shock in the Ohio Valley States and to both shocked and outstanding corn in the upper Mississippi Valley, particularly in Iowa. In the Great Plains, conditions were more favorable, although the grain dried slowly in Nebraska. Good progress was made in gathering corn in Oklahoma, and gathering was under way in all sections of Kansas, while husking and picking advanced favorably in the northern Great Plains. In the Southeast, harvest was interrupted by heavy rains the latter part of the week, but in the west Gulf area conditions were more favorable.

COTTON.—Less rainfall and more sunshine over the western half of the Cotton Belt made better conditions for harvest, especially in the northwestern portion of the belt. In the eastern belt, heavy rains the last half of the week caused some interruption to picking and ginning and lowering of grade, especially from Tennessee eastward. No material frost damage has occurred.

Cotton made but little new growth in Texas and the prospect for a top crop is still unfavorable because of weevil and worms, and late bolls are opening slowly due to the cool weather; picking and ginning made fair progress, but dry and sunshiny weather is needed. In Oklahoma and Arkansas, much better conditions prevailed, as the cool and generally fair weather checked the deterioration of staple and permitted satisfactory progress in picking and ginning.

In Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama there was some interruption to picking by rain the latter part of the week, and the heavy falls again caused suspension of this work in Tennessee, with further damage to open cotton. There was also some lowering of grade in North Carolina by the rain and high winds the latter part of the week.

The weather Bureau also furnishes the following resume the conditions in the different States:

Virginia.—Richmond: Temperature below normal; copious rains latter part of week favorable for plowing and seeding, which is practically finished. Germination of winter crops very good and early-sown fields up to good stand. Heavy to killing frosts middle of week; damage slight as principal crops harvested.

North Carolina.—Raleigh: Moderate rain, with strong winds latter part of week, damaged open cotton and delayed picking; otherwise conditions of week favorable for farming activities. Frost on 20th, and heavy in interior on 23d, but practically no damage as crops matured. Soil in better condition for seeding and germinating wheat and other small grains.

South Carolina.—Columbia: Drenching rains over upper Piedmont on Saturday and Sunday, but generally light elsewhere; power situation improved. Wheat, oats, and rye coming up to good stands; sowing continues and soil in much better condition for further plowing. Planters busy housing late crops. Late gardens and truck improved. Sirup making continues.

Georgia.—Atlanta: Frosts in north portion at first of week without material damage, but entire week rather cool; abundant rains latter half placed soil in good condition. Large acreage being sown to wheat, oats, and rye, which are germinating and growing well. Threshing rather poor crop of peanuts, and some cane being ground. Sweet potato yield fair to good.

Florida.—Jacksonville: Moderate rains continued in west and extended to portions of peninsula; improved cane, sweet potatoes, truck, and citrus. Planting strawberries and oats resumed. Shipping beans, cucumbers, and other truck increased. Citrus coloring; moderate shipments. Trucking advanced in everglades where dry. Rain needed on coast.

Alabama.—Montgomery: Killing frost in northern portion damaged vegetation locally; general rains latter part stopped harvesting corn and cotton, and damaged those crops locally in north. Sowing oats becoming general. Picking cotton made good progress until stopped by rain; practically finished, except in some localities of northwest; ginning good progress. Tornado in southeast on Sunday morning destroyed much property and killed 9 or 10 persons.

Mississippi.—Vicksburg: Light showers in extreme north on Friday and Saturday, but good to generous rains elsewhere Friday to Monday. Fair progress in picking and ginning cotton in extreme north, but poor elsewhere; moderate damage to staple in north-central and central. Poor progress in housing corn.

Louisiana.—New Orleans: First half of week favorable for harvesting, but further rains last half caused delay and some damage to cotton. Picking made some progress and generally near completion, except in northern localities, but retarded by wet fields; ginning delayed. Rice harvest and threshing made poor progress. Cane continues development; ripening slowly and cool weather needed; grinding begun in few factories, but sugar content low.

Texas.—Houston: Excessive cloudiness with generous rains near coast; none or light elsewhere. Progress and condition of pastures, sugar cane, winter wheat, oats, and late feed crops very good. Weather unfavorable for rice threshing and for truck in lower coast section. Cotton made little new growth and top crop is poor account of weevil and worms; killing frost in panhandle on 25th; late bolls opening slowly account cold and cloudiness; picking and ginning made fair progress; dry, sunshiny weather needed.

Oklahoma.—Oklahoma City: Mostly fair and cool with heavy to killing frosts, but no serious damage; favorable for harvesting crops. Cotton doing nicely since frost; good progress in picking and ginning; much staple of poor grade. Good progress in harvesting corn and grain sorghums. Still seeding wheat; early-planted in excellent condition and much being pastured.

Arkansas.—Little Rock: Fair weather, except two days, and heavy to killing frost in northern and central portions. Deterioration of cotton and corn checked. Picking and ginning cotton progressing rapidly. Considerable corn and cotton destroyed by flood. Favorable for growing crops, except where killed by frost. Favorable for harvesting and threshing rice.

Tennessee.—Nashville: Heavy rain Friday and Saturday seriously interrupted work. Picking and ginning cotton suspended and crop suffered further decline. Some progress in sowing wheat, rye, and cover crops. Harvesting corn, stripping tobacco, and making sorghum sirup. Early-sown grains doing well.

Kentucky.—Louisville: Cloudy, showery weather and wet soil caused further delay in wheat sowing, which is much behind in west, damaged corn in shock, and interferred with gathering. First-sown wheat up; stand excellent. Rye 2 to 6 inches high. Pastures good. Tobacco stripping commenced.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE

Friday Night, Oct. 30 1925.

Optimism in regard to the future was more pronounced in the markets for textiles during the past week. Retail stores have shown a steady gain and with the period of greatest consumption just ahead, it is expected that the coming holiday sales will exceed all previous records. Already active pre-holiday buying of apparel lines and various novelties of a gift nature has started. A sizable volume of orders has been placed for holiday shipment, with the total growing daily. In fact, many manufacturers, anticipating unprecedented sales, have sent out requests for the early placing of orders, so as to eliminate a goodly portion of confusion. In the meantime, most divisions of the textile markets have registered moderate improvement. This was particularly true of the floor covering division, where plans have been completed for the opening of the new spring lines next Monday, Nov. 2. Prospects for the new season appear to be bright. It was pointed out that the purchasing power in the agricultural sections is much better than it was a year, or even six months, ago, thus assuring a larger consumption from that quarter. Other contr buting factors include the increasing activity in steel and the large building operations throughout the country, which are taken to forecast larger consumer needs. Furthermore, moderate and attractive prices have recently stimulated the movement of many stocks and helped to clean up distributing channels. In regard to silks, demand continues unabated, with many mills forced to institute night work in an effort to catch up on back orders. Rayon, its closely allied industry, has been steadily expanding production. A wider use for the fabric is constantly being discovered.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS: Markets for domestic cotton goods ruled quiet during the week, owing to the unexpectedly bearish Government cotton crop report issued on Monday. The crop as of Oct. 18 was officially estimated at 15,226,000 bales, which represented an increase of 467,000 bales over the Oct. 1 forecast and of 1,255,000 bales over that of Sept. 1. Ginnings to Oct. 18 totaled 9,519,784 bales, compared with 7,615,981 bales ginned during the corresponding period of 1924. Naturally, with such an abundance of cotton in sight pointing towards lower prices, merchants were led to hope for better times shortly. It was believed that lower prices will stimulate consumption and restore cottons to the many uses for which they had recently become too costly. Factors expect that as the prolonged period of high prices for raw cotton heretofore worked to the advantage of other textiles, so a period of low prices will offer opportunities for cotton goods to regain their old place in the textile trades. Thus, a readjustment of values has been the order of the day which, it is expected, will proceed slowly in a normal manner. A steadying factor is the forced curtailment of production at Southern mills owing to drought. In the meantime, prices for both the raw and finished products have begun to ease off. For instance, raw cotton dropped to the lowest levels in three and one-half years, while such items as print cloths, sheetings, drills and other staples have also shown price revision. However, there were few offerings to be found on many of the lines at the new prices. The process of readjustment was thought to have come at an opportune time, as mills are comfortably sold ahead and immediate shipments of merchandise are wanted. Consequently, production still appears to be behind distribution requirements. It was further pointed out that better than normal conditions prevailed in different sections of the country, especially in the West and South. Print cloth, 28-inch, 64 x 64's construction, are quoted at 6⅞c., and 27-inch, 64 x 60's, at 6⅝c. Gray goods in the 39-inch, 68 x 72's construction, are quoted at 10¼c., and 39-inch, 80 x 80's, at 12½c.

WOOLEN GOODS: An irregular undertone prevailed in the markets for woolens and worsteds. While men's wear factors enjoyed a good volume of business, conditions in the women's wear division were spotty. Sentiment, however, continued optimistic and prices were firmer. This was due to both the strength of foreign auction sales and the continued buying movement on the part of manufacturers. While business centred more or less in worsteds, woolens sold better than a year ago. A news item of particular interest to the trade was the announcement that a "saniafil" would be offered to the trade by an Italian concern. "Saniafil" is a wool resembling staple like artificial silk. It is said that the new fabric will stimulate the sale of the animal staple rather than curtail consumption and be to the woolen trade what rayon has been to the cotton and silk industries.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS: A firm undertone continued to rule in the markets for linens. Reports indicated an improved demand for practically all classes of merchandise. Most orders called for prompt shipment, which reflected the better business being done by retailers throughout the country, and their need of replenishing depleted stocks before the expected time. Business centred mostly in handkerchiefs, household and dress linen goods. In regard to handkerchiefs, a good volume of orders continued to come forward for holiday merchandise. Household linens were said to be selling on a larger scale, although prices in some instances were still unsatisfactory. Burlaps have been less active, with buyers reluctant to buy for delivery into next year. Prices, however, have continued to advance, owing to the strength in primary markets based upon the scarcity of jute. Light weights are quoted at 9.40c. and heavies at 12.65c. to 12.70c.

Minnesota (State of).—Suit to Determine the Priority of Ditch Liens Over Real Estate Mortgages to be Tried in Federal District Court—Suit Affects $35,000,000 Drainage Bonds.—Drainage bonds issued by Minnesota counties to the amount of $35,000,000 are affected by a suit started in Federal Court, to determine the priority of ditch liens over real estate mortgages, according to the Minneapolis "Journal" of Oct. 22, which further says regarding the suit:

The action is brought by the Old Colony Life Insurance Co. of Chicago against officials of Swift County. The company asks to have the ditch lien on a tract of land canceled or made subsequent to the company's mortgage on the land. It is set up that the company, with its interest as mortgagee, received no notice of the drainage project or the assessment, and the company claims therefore that it has been deprived of its property without due process of law.

The insurance company, with an equity of about $7,300, has foreclosed a mortgage on a quarter section of land, but finds it encumbered with a ditch lien for about the same amount. The land under present conditions will bring little more than the amount of the lien or the mortgage, and will not cover both. There are many such cases.

Attorney-General Clifford L. Hilton, realizing the importance of the case, has detailed Victor Anderson of his staff to assist in defending the action. If the insurance company should win, it would be up to the counties to meet the bond issue requirements out of taxation. With much of the land unable to meet tax payments, the burden on other property would be heavy.

Minnesota's drainage law does not provide for any notice to mortgagees, and the State authorities claim that this would be impractical, as mortgages change hands so frequently. The system is general over the country, and it is understood that similar actions are being brought in several States, all headed for the United States Supreme Court.

The Minnesota case is to come up on the May calendar of the United States District Court in Minneapolis.

Toledo, Ohio.—State Supreme Court Upholds Validity of $921,000 City Bonds.—The State Supreme Court of Ohio on Oct. 27 upheld the validity of seven issues of City bonds in the aggregate of $921,000. As a result of the funding the city may proceed at once to advertise and sell the bonds. A dispatch from Columbus and published in the "Toledo Blade" of Oct. 28, had the following to say regarding the decision:

Legality of seven Toledo bond issues totaling $921,000 was upheld late Tuesday by the Ohio Supreme Court.

The decision was returned in a friendly mandamus suit brought by Law Director Frank M. Dotson against the publicity and efficiency commission. The Court, all of the judges concuring, held that the bond issues are not subject to the limitations of the Kreuger Act which became effective July 20, just two days after the ordianances passed by Council on the bond issues became effective.

As a result of the finding the city may proceed at once to advertise and sell the bonds to provide $360,000 to purchase Armory Park in the civic centre, $250,000 for street and alley improvement, $100,000 for repair of bridges, $75,000 to degred Bay View Park water courses, $76,000 to improve park roadways, $25,000 to repair fire department buildings and $35,000 to place fire department wires underground.

Chief Justice C. R. Marshall wrote the opinion holding that inasmuch as all legislation connected with the bonds had been completed before the Krueger Act was in effect, the Act could not be applied to the bonds.

How Case Started.

Suit to test the legality of the bonds was brought on the refusal of the Publicity and Efficiency Commission to advertise the bonds for sale in the "Toledo City Journal." The refusal was based on the provision of the new law limiting municipal bond issues without vote of the electors to 90% of the amount of bonds retired by the city during the calendar year.

As Toledo had retired only $810,635 in bonds during the year, the Krueger Act would allow the issuance of only $729,571 50 in bonds. The The old law, which is amended by the more recent legislation, permits issuance of bonds up to 2½% of the city tax duplicate.

Separate suit was filed to test the legality of the $360,000 issue to purchase Armory Park and the decision was handed down in that case, but it will apply with equal force to the second suit on the remaining bond issues in which the legal questions raised were identical.

It is pointed out that the decision of the State Supreme Court upholding the validity of $921,000 bonds issued by City Council has no bearing on the controversy over the proposed $32,500,000 bond issues to be voted on Nov. 3.

Versailles Village School District (P. O. Versailles), Darke County, Ohio.—State Supreme Court Holds $256,000 Bond Issue Sold in 1923 Illegal—Decision Said to Affect Many Similar Bond Issues.—The State Supreme Court of Ohio in a decision handed down on Oct. 22 in the case of the $256,000 bonds sold by this district in 1923 to build a new school house in lieu of making repairs, as ordered by the Chief of the Department of Workshops and Factories, held that the issue was illegal. The question in the case was whether the Chief of the Department of Workshops and Factories or the Director of Industrial Relations has the authority to issue such an order. The Court held that the order should have been signed by the latter, thus upholding the finding of the Darke County Court from which the case, was appealed. Many similar issues are said to be invalidated as a result of the decision just handed down. An Associated Press dispatch from Columbus dated Oct. 22 to the Cincinnati "Enquirer," said in reporting the decision:

Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of school bonds already issued and sold, and additional hundreds of thousands of bonds autnorized but not yet sold, are said to have been invalidated by a decision of the State Supreme Court to-day.

The decision, while specifically holding to be invalid $256,000 worth of bonds issued by the Versailles Village School District, Darke County, is said by members of the Attorney-General's department to invalidate many other bond issues over the State.

In Morrow County it was said the decision will act to free members of the Board of Education of Bennington Township Rural School District at Maringo who are under indictment on charges of having violated an order of the State Department of Workshops and Factories, which had condemned the school building. The Board members were to have gone to trial next Monday.

Dispute Is Settled.

The decision clears up the disputed point as to whether or not orders of the State Department of Workshops and Factories condemning public buildings must be issued by the Chief of the Department of Workshops and Factories or by the Director of Industrial Relations, under whom the Department of Workshops and Factories functions. The Court held that condemnation orders must be issued and signed by the Director of Industrial Relations

The Darke County case testing the question arose as a result of an order of the Chief of the Department of Workshops and Factories, Thomas P. Kearns, condemning the school house at Versailles unless certain improvements were made.

After the Versailles School District officials had issued the bonds totaling $256,000, they were sold to the State Industrial Commission and the State Teachers' Retirement System and the money turned over to the Board. Then Bert Snyder, as a taxpayer, instituted a suit questioning the validity of the bonds on the ground that the condemnation order had not been signed by the Director of Industrial Relations.

Bond Protection Sought.

The Darke County Court upheld his contention. The State Industrial Commission and the State Teachers' Retirement System intervened in the action and appealed to the Suoreme Court in effort to protect their purchase of the bonds. The money is held in escrow in Greenville banks and will be returned to the two departments, as the decision holds the bonds are illegal.

In a number of similar instances, it was said, bonds were issued and sold and tae money actually spent in the erection of school building. In such cases, while the bonds are illegal, members of the Attorney-General's department said there can be no forced defalcation on payment of the bonds by taxpayers' suits or otherwise, except that school board officials themselves could default payments. Should they take such action, it was said, there would be no remedy at law whereby they could be forced to pay. Much of such bond issues are understood to be held by the Industrial Commission and the Teachers' Retirement System.

In six or eight instances bonds have been authorized but not yet sold and delivered. In all such instances the bonds are held to be invalid and of no value. They will have to be destroyed. In order for school boards in these latter instances to carry out their original intent to erect new school buildings, it will be necessary for them to go through the entire routine again, having the old building condemned by a valid order of the Department of Workshops and Factories and then proceeding with their legislation to issue valid bonds.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—CITY NOW ACQUIRES GAS HOLDINGS OF COLORADO SPRINGS LIGHT HEAT & POWER CO.—TOOK OVER ELECTRIC PROPERTIES OF COMPANY ON JUNE 1.—Reporting the latest acquisition by the city, the "Electrical World" of New York dated Oct. 24 said: After taking over all of the electric properties of the Colorado Springs Light, Heat & Power Co. on June 1, the City of Colorado Springs, through action of its City Council, acquired the gas holdings of the company, which had been reorganized as the Colorado Springs Gas Co., and assumed operation of the business of the latter on Oct. 1. The price paid is understood to have been $685,000, which fund will be financed in entirety by so-called income warrants, a scheme arranged by James H. Causey, prominent Denver banker and owner of various small utility companies in the mountain region. Mr. Causey has putchased these warrants, thus providing the necessary funds for the city to pay the gas company, which was formed by a bondholders' protective committee representing the United Gas & Electric Co., the holding company formerly holding both franchises in the city.

Inasmuch as the income warrants do not serve as a lien or mortgage against the physical property of the gas plant, and have made possible the purchase of the property without approval by the taxpayers of Colorado Springs, Western utility men look upon the financial scheme as a pernisious instrumentality which might be employed in taking over other private utilities without the usual legal requirements and issuance of bonds.

The City of Colorado Springs has completed the distribution line from the new steam generating plant. Officials report that the electric business of the municipality during the month of September netted $28,000.

Public Utility Financing

We advise existing [illegible] established Public Utility [illegible] requiring new financing. We are prepared to submit [illegible] conditions as to the form of financing which, in our opinion, would be most desirable at the present time, and which would be most advantageous to the Company over a period of years.

We have been closely identified for a number of years with securities in the public utility field and have a firmly established [illegible] organization. It is the aim of our [illegible] to render [illegible] service to any financing [illegible] through our [illegible].

PUBLIC UTILITY COMPENDIUM

COMMERCIAL & FINANCIAL CHRONICLE

Copyrighted in 1925, according to Act of Congress, by WILLIAM B. DANA COMPANY, in office of Librarian of Congress, Washington, D. C.

VOL. 121. NEW YORK, OCTOBER 31 1925. NO. 3149.

This publication is issued to replace our former "Electric Railway" Section.

As the change in name implies, the new publication is much more comprehensive than the old, both in character and scope. The "Public Utility Compendium" is indeed all-embracing. It is now truly representative of the public utility field. It covers public utilities of every kind and description. Light and power companies are now represented, as well as the electric railways, and in addition we include water and gas companies and telegraph, telephone, cable and radio corporations. Such of these latter as formerly appeared in our "Railway & Industrial" Compendium now find a place in the new publication. Very many others are given for the first time.

In one particular the change has been forced upon us. The operation of the electric railways, urban and interurban, is now quite generally combined with the light and power business, and it is no longer possible to differentiate between the two. The development has grown out of the wonderful extension in the use of electricity which is the distinctive feature of recent times. Many small undertakings began by furnishing electricity for the running of local trolley lines, and then, in order to promote economy of operation and be able to furnish electrical energy at reduced cost, entered the light and power business. The latter grew so fast that the electric railway has now become subordinate to the larger field of work. The next step was to unite the local units so that they might serve larger areas, and out of these undertakings have grown in turn the big combinations which, by reason of their splendid achievements in electrical development and in serving the advanced needs of man, are exciting the wonder and the admiration of the world.

This is a progressive age and the application of electricity to the varied service of an ever-expanding population constitutes the foremost exponent of this progress. The field is an enormous one, the capital already invested in it of huge proportions and the capital still to be engaged for its growth and development of even greater magnitude. We shall hope to keep pace with the development and expansion, and make the "Public Utility Compendium" a serviceable medium for furnishing accurate and up-to-date statements regarding the companies whose resources and activities are being employed in the prosecution of the work which is of such inestimable benefit to the country. In the course of time also it ought to be possible to compile some general statistics to show the changes from year to year in the ceaseless flow in this great line of human endeavor.

EXPLANATIONS OF TERMS AND ABBREVIATIONS USED.

The following is an explanation of the terms and abbreviations used on succeeding pages in the presentation of the statements of the different companies:

"STOCK AND BONDS."—Under these words are shown:

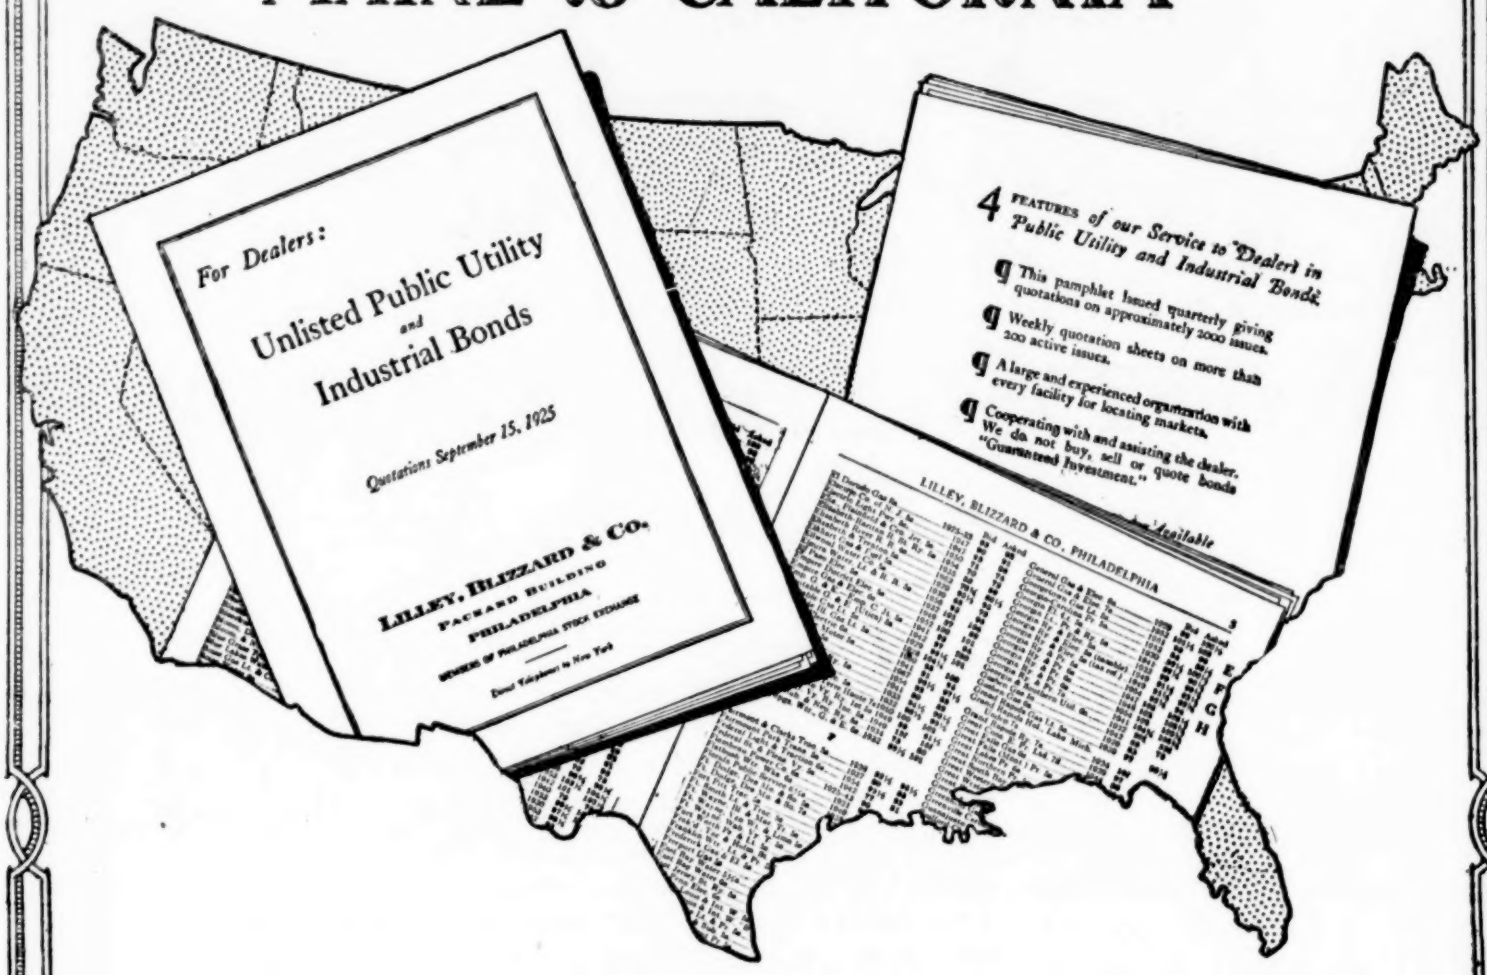
"Stock."—The amount of stock authorized immediately follows the word "stock," and against this is the par value of single shares. For example, "Stock, $500,000 ($100)," means stock, total issue authorized by charter or by Act of Legislature, $500,000, divided into shares of $100 each; "f. p." following the amount given as outstanding means "full paid."

"Pref." means "preferred stock." "Pref. 6% cum." means preferred stock entitled to dividends of 6% per annum, such dividends if not paid accumulating, all dividends due and unpaid to be paid in full for each and every year before the common stock receives anything. "Pref. 6% non-cum." means simply that the stock is entitled to 6% per annum if earned, but that if unearned in any year or not declared, no claim on the earnings of subsequent years exists for such year's dividend. "Div." means dividend. The last dividend paid is shown under the column headed "Maturity."

"Bonds."—"Mort." "mtge." or "M." means mortgage. "Consol." or "con. M" means consolidated mortgage. "Gen. M." means general mortgage. "Ref. M." means refunding mortgage. "Coll. tr." means collateral trust. The amount next following is the total authorized amount that can be issued under the mortgage. The denominations in which the bonds are issued usually follow in parenthesis. The word "gold" is usually spelled out, but in some instances is contracted to "g.," while "cur." means currency.

"Conv." means convertible into some other form of security. "S. f." means sinking fund. "c." means coupon; "c*" means coupon but may be registered as to principal; "r" means fully registered (no coupons); "r*" means registered, convertible into coupon bonds; "c*&r*" means registerable in either form and convertible from registered to coupon or the reverse; and "c*&r" means that registered certificates without coupons as well as coupon bonds are outstanding. "($100, &c)" signifies that denominations are $100 and larger. The letters "p. m." mean per mile, thus $15,000 p. m. means that the issue of bonds is restricted to $15,000 for each mile of track. "Guar." means guaranteed, and "guar. p. & i. (end.)" means guaranteed as to principal and interest, the guaranty being endorsed on each bond. "Red." means redeemable. "Trus." or "tr." means trustee of the mortgage.

TAX EXEMPTION.—Where there is a provision in bond or mortgage which would seem to make the interest free from the Federal income tax, we indicate the fact in black-faced letters—tf meaning tax-free. The Revenue Act of 1924, like the Revenue Act of 1921 and the Revenue Act of 1918, provides, however, that only 2% income tax shall be deducted at the source and that all further Federal income taxes shall be met by the recipient of the income. Where there is no tax covenant we insert the letters ntf, meaning not tax free. tff means free from normal Federal income tax up to 4%, though, as already stated, the law allows a deduction of no more than 2%. Where we have no knowledge other than that the company has assumed or is paying the tax, we insert the letters cpt, which means that company pays tax, at least for the present. Only very general differentiations like this are possible. Tax exemption features of mortgages are so varied and diverse that more definite information is out of the question.



"DATE."—The date of issue on the face of the bonds is indicated under the word "Date."

"INTEREST."—Under this heading is given the rate per cent yearly of the interest payable on the bonds or (if guaranteed) of the dividend payable on the stock; also the months when the interest or dividend is payable; thus "6 J-J" means 6% per annum payable January and July. Correspondingly "F-A" is used to mean February and August; "M-S" means March and September, and so on; while "Q-J" means quarterly beginning in January, and "Q-F" quarterly beginning in February. (The day when the interest payment is due can generally be determined by noticing when the loans mature, the day of the month there given being in most cases the same as for one of the interest dates.) "S.-a." means semi-annual.

"ROAD."—The word "track" means in street railway parlance all tracks, whether main line, siding, switch or second track. "Rails are 80-lb. girder" means that each rail weighs 80 pounds to the yard. "k.w." means kilowatts, and "h.p." means horsepower. "k.v.a." means kilo-volt-amperes. "P-A-Y-E cars" means pay-as-you-enter or prepayment cars. "Exts., add'ns and impts." means extensions, additions and improvements. "Auth." means authority or authorized. "Oth. inc." means other income. "Cal. year" means calendar year.

REFERENCES TO "CHRONICLE."—This Compendium or supplement is expressly intended for use in connection with the investment news and official reports published from week to week in the "Chronicle." Frequent reference is therefore made to the volume and page of the "Chronicle" as (V. 119, p. 000), where fuller information may be found. Following also each statement is given a reference to the latest news item in the "Chronicle" respecting the company. As every such item contains a reference to the last preceding item, the reader can run back at pleasure. Annual reports are in black-faced figures.

Record and Prospect

Available data show only eight electric utilities in America with a capitalization of $10,000,000 or over that have paid dividends without interruption for 25 years or more.

Among these, the Brooklyn Edison Company has to its credit 102 consecutive quarterly dividend payments, the last 90 having been at the rate of 8% per annum.

This Company, the only utility supplying electricity to the Borough of Brooklyn, has doubled its gross revenue in the last four years and more than trebled it in the last seven.

During 1924, electric light and power companies throughout the United States increased the total number of their customers by 15.2%.

Exclusive of its acquisition of 43,000 electrical customers from the Flatbush Gas Company, Brooklyn Edison showed a net gain last year equal to 27%—or nearly twice the average rate of growth of the American central station industry as a whole.

CONSOLIDATED GAS CO. OF NEW YORK.

ORGANIZATION.—Organized Nov. 11 1884 as a consolidation, and in 1899-1900 secured control of all the other gas cos. and of all the electric-lighting properties in Manhattan, N. Y. City. V. 78, p. 105, 1964; V. 79, p. 105, 629; V. 83, p. 1414; V. 84, p. 219; V. 86, p. 282; V. 92, p. 257; V. 97, p. 240, 301; V. 112, p. 165. Stock holdings Dec. 31 1917, V. 107, p. 600. Franchise taxation, V. 102, p. 253. The N. Y. P. S. Comm. in Aug. 1922 granted the New York Mutual Gas Light Co. permission to transfer its plant and system to the Consolidated Gas Co. for $9,012,275. V. 114, p. 2725; V. 115, p. 190, 995, 1216.

FIELD OF OPERATIONS AND CHARACTER OF BUSINESS.—The co. directly and through its subsidiaries does practically the entire gas and electric light and power business in the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx and Queens, and in Westchester County.

In 1906 a law was passed reducing the price in New York City to 80 cents per 1,000 cu. ft., beginning May 1 1906, except in outlying districts. V. 82, p. 572, 807, 931; V. 90, p. 301. In Jan. 1909 the U. S. Supreme Court held 80-cent feature of law to be valid until given a fair trial. In Jan. 1919 the company brought suit to have the 80 cent rate declared confiscatory. Final report declaring the 80-cent rate confiscatory was handed down by Special Master Abraham S. Gilbert in May 1920. A temporary injunction restraining the authorities from enforcing the 80-cent rate was handed down on June 29 1920. V. 111, p. 76. Federal Judge Learned Hand on Aug. 4 1920 and Judge Julius M. Mayer in April 1921 handed down decisions upholding in nearly all respects the recommendations of Special Master A. S. Gilbert in the case of the company to the effect that the 80-cent gas law was confiscatory. V. 111, p. 592; V. 112, p. 1620.

The company, acting on a decree signed on Feb. 28 1921, by Federal Judge Hand refusing the application of the State and city officials that the court fix a definite rate for the continuation of the supply of gas after March 1, announced that the rate for gas would be increased from $1.20 to $1.50 per 1,000 cu. ft., effective March 1 1921. Beginning Aug. 1 1921 it was announced rates would be reduced to $1.25 and beginning Oct. 1 1922 the rate was further reduced to $1.15. V. 115, p. 1104.

The U. S. Supreme Court in a unanimous decision handed down March 6 1922 held that the 80-cent gas law of 1906 is confiscatory. The Supreme Court also rendered a similar decision in the case of the New York & Queens Gas Co. and the Kings County Lighting Co., holding in their case that the $1 rate of 1916 was also confiscatory.

The Court also ordered that all impounded funds be promptly released to the gas companies subject only to deductions of such costs as are clearly assessable to the prevailing party. The case was remanded back to the lower court for further proceedings in conformity with the decree. [The full text of the decision is given in V. 114, p. 1023.]

In future, according to the decision, the N. Y. P. S. Commission shall fix rates that are not confiscatory and that are in conformity with the Court's decision. V. 114, p. 1023, 1067. Compare V. 119, p. 2877 V. 120, p. 329.

Adoption of B. T. U. standard, V. 115, p. 1104; V. 116, p. 520.

James G. Graham, special master, appointed by the Federal District Court to hear the action brought by the Consolidated Gas Co. of N. Y., N. Y. & Queens Gas Co. and by the Bronx Gas & Elec. Co. against the P. S. Commission and Att'y-Gen. Carl Sherman in Jan., June 1924 and in July handed down an opinion in which he holds that the $1 gas law passed by the New York State Legislature at the 1923 session is unconstitutional and confiscatory as applied to the plaintiff companies. V. 118, p. 440. Opinion of special master upheld by Federal Court. V. 120, p. 2145.

On Aug. 21 1925 bought the Academy of Music Bldg. on Irving Place, New York City. V. 121, p. 1460.

installed capacity of 33,500 h. p., which will be increased to 87,500 h. p. through the construction of an additional plant and another dam over 300 feet in height. The new plant will utilize the storage capacity of Roosevelt Lake, using the same water that passes through Roosevelt Dam power house before being finally used for irrigating the 240,000 acres of productive farm lands of the Association, the stockholders of which are all land owners in Salt River Valley. The entire 40,000 h. p. output of the new plant has been sold under a 25-year contract to Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co., the largest consumer of electric power in Arizona.

Stock.—One share of stock is allotted to each acre of land and cannot be separated from it.

Guaranteed Bonds.—The Association also guarantees as to principal and interest $665,000 6% bonds of the Roosevelt Agricultural Impt. Dist. No. 1 (due $35,000 yearly on Aug. 1 from 1936 to 1954 incl.) and $1,578,000 6% bonds of Agricultural Impt. Dist. No. 2 (due serially 1939 to 1954), for details of which see V. 119, p. 1659, and our "State and Municipal" Compendium, Part II., of Dec. 27 1924 (p. 101). Both of the above mentioned districts are located entirely within the lands of the association and are a part of it.

Bonds.—The serial bond issues of 1923 and 1924 listed above are direct and general obligations of the association, additionally secured by an assessment already levied and recorded against all of the lands of the stockholders of the association. These assessments are a lien against the land ranking equally with the assessments securing the two issues of Impt. Dist. bonds guaranteed by the association and those levied to repay the U. S. Govt. construction charges and prior to all mortgages including those which secure Federal Land Bank and Joint Stock Land Bank bonds. The serial issue of 1924 and the two guaranteed issues, known as the "Horse Mesa Dam" bonds, are further secured by a first lien against the hydro-electric revenue developed by these issues and by pledge with the trustee of the Inspiration Copper Co. contract. Hydro-electric revenue of the association was reported as $650,000 in 1924 and is estimated at $2,300,000 annually on completion of present additions in 1926. All issues are non-callable.

The bonds of 1923 mature $180,000 annually Feb. 1 1928 to 1947. $1,800,000 were offered by Banks, Huntley & Co., M. H. Lewis & Co., Carstens & Earles, Inc., &c., in May 1923, at 99 and interest, to yield about 6.10%. V. 116, p. 2018.

The bonds of 1924 mature serially Aug. 1 1938 to 1943. Interest at Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., New York City, and Anglo-California Trust Co., San Francisco. $2,500,000 were offered in Oct. 1924 by Rutter & Co., New York, Anglo London Paris Co., San Francisco, &c., &c., at 100 and interest.

Seventy-Five Years Continuous Gas Service in Chicago

Gas was first turned into the mains in the streets of Chicago September 4, 1850—seventy-five years ago. The service has been continuous, night and day, ever since. Even when the city was prostrated and paralyzed by the great fire of 1871, gas service was maintained except for temporary interruptions in the burned area.

Dependability is characteristic of gas service. There is nothing spectacular about it. It is continuous, twenty-four hours a day and three hundred and sixty-five days a year service, increasing in volume and usefulness year by year.

Gas Company securities reflect the character of the business. They are not subject to sudden large increases; neither do the owners of them wake up in the morning to find the value of the property behind them greatly diminished over night.

The vitality of Gas Company securities and their ability to "come back" when temporarily affected by severely adverse and unexpected circumstances, has been demonstrated. They are for investment rather than speculation. According to gas industry facts to-day, as pointing to the prospects of the future, there was never a better time than right now to invest in Gas Company securities.

We have just issued a bound book entitled "Seventy-Five Years of Gas Service in Chicago," by Wallace Rice—an interesting history of the origin and growth of the gas industry in Chicago. We will gladly send you a copy of this book for your library upon request.

BOSTON ELEVATED RAILWAY.

ORGANIZATION.—Charter granted in 1897; provides for an extensive system of free transfers. Leases for 99 years from 1903 23.753 miles Old Colony Street Ry. track. The latter company has since been merged into the Eastern Massachuetts Street Ry. (formerly the Bay State Street Ry.). On June 10 1922 the Boston Elevated and the West End Street Ry. were consolidated under terms of an Act passed by the Mass. Legislature in July 1911. Prior to the consolidation the West End St. Ry. had been leased by the El. Co. Under terms of the consolidation Act holders of West End pref. stock ($50 par) received in exchange for each 2 shares thereof one share of Boston El. 1st pref. 8% stock ($100 par), and holders of West End common received for each 2 shares ($50 par) one share Boston El. 2d pref. 7% stock ($100 par). For full particulars of the consolidation Act and history of West End St. Ry. see "Electric Railway" Supplement of April 29 1922.

Effective July 1 1918 under the terms of the "Public Operation Act," the co. was placed under the management of five trustees appointed by the Governor. The Act provides for public operation for a period of 10 years or longer, at option of Commonwealth, trustees have power to regulate fares and service, fares must be sufficient to meet cost of service, pref. divs. at 7% and com. divs. at rate of $5 a share for first 2 years, $5 50 for next 2 years and $6 during balance of period of public operation, State has option of taking over road by assuming liabilities and paying in cash an amount equal to that paid in by stockholders. For full details see "Electric Railway" Supplement of April 26 1924.

On May 1 1920 the State gave to the co. $7,868,000 in payment for the Cambridge subway. We understand that the subway is rented to the co. at a rate equivalent to ½ of 1% more than the int. on the bonds issued by the State on account of the purchase of the property. See also V. 110, p. 1414. The extra ½% to be used to retire the bonds serially; the co. is to pay rental at rate of 4½% annually on the amount retired.

For change in trustees of the road see V. 121, p. 72, 1099.

FIELD OF OPERATIONS AND CHARACTER OF BUSINESS.—Owns and operates a system of rapid transit and surface lines serving a territory which includes the cities of Boston, Cambridge, Somerville, Malden, Everett and Medford, and the towns of Brookline, Arlington, Watertown and Belmont and portions of the cities of Chelsea and Newton. Total miles of track, 513.292. 2,120 passenger cars.

In Oct. 1925 was granted a temporary permit to operate buses in Arlington Somerville and Medford, Mass. V. 121, p. 1787.

In March 1925 the co. was auth. by the Mass. Dept. of P. U. to issue $2,141,000 notes or bonds, payable in not exceeding 30 years, and to bear int. at a rate of not more than 6%. Not issued yet up to the time of going to press. V. 120, p. 1201.

The extended issues, which in all cases formerly bore 5% int., now bear 6% with the exception of the New Bedford Middleboro & Brockton St. Ry. 1st 5s which continued at the old interest rate. These issues, with the exception of the last mentioned, are callable at 103, and during the five years preceding maturity at 101 and int. The New Bedford Middleboro & Brockton 1st 5s are callable at par.

y Originally matured Dec. 1 1924, but company exercised option provided in reorganization plan, and extended $3,352,000 of this issue for five years to Dec. 1 1929, the balance being paid off. The extended bonds are red. on any int. date at 103 and int. up to and incl. date two years prior to maturity, and thereafter at 101 and int. V. 117, p. 2542.

Stock.—All classes of stock have full voting rights, except that the com. stock had no voting rights until Jan. 1 1921, nor has it thereafter at any time when $5 of divs. upon the adjustment stock are in default. Common stock is issuable under the plan to the amount permitted by the special act as determined by reorganization manager and for any further amounts found necessary by the reorganization managers for other purposes. The 1st pref. stock and the sinking fund stock are cum., ranking equally and pro rata for dividends and in liquidation, and preferred as to dividends, and also as to par and accrued dividends in liquidation, over the pref. B stock, the adjustment stock and the com. stock. Issue of 1st pref. stock is not limited and may be called all or in part (when drawn by lot), on any dividend date at 120 and divs. Any subsequent issue of this stock shall be entitled to such divs. as shall be fixed at time of issue thereof. Stock of this issue in addition to the amount shown as outstanding may be issued (a) in exchange, $ for $, for Bay State Ry. bank loans and coupon notes whose holders amy choose 1st pref. in preference to sinking fund stock; (b) $ for $ for Bay State claims not otherwise provided for; (c) compensation of committees, &c. The sinking fund 6% stock is callable, all or in part, on dividend day at par and int. in order of series, numbers 1 to 21, inclusive, by a sinking fund to which the company is to pay each year an amount equal to the series due Feb. 15 of such year, before declaring any dividends on or making any purchase of any preferred B stock, adjustment stock or common stock. The shares to be redeemed shall be determined by lot in case funds are not available for the payment of any series in its entirety. Of the sinking fund stock $1,425,000, including all of the first six series and part each of series 7 to 15, were allocated to bank loans and divided among the bank creditors in proportion to their claims. Series 1 to 14 are for $150,000 each. The remaining $1,814,000 of this stock being the remainder of Series 7 to 15, and all of Series 16 to 21, were allocated to the coupon notes in the order of the maturity of the notes, beginning with $57,000 of the 7th series for the 1918 maturity, and increasing gradually to $202,000, being the whole of the 21st series, for the 1932 maturity. Under the terms of a readjustment plan all sinking fund stock with the exception of $28,000 par has been converted into 1st pref. and the sinking fund features eliminated. Pref. B stock ranks ahead of the adjust. stock and the com. stock. Dividends on this Pref. B are payable in cash or in com. stock. Call. all or in part (when drawn by lot) on any div. day at 110 and int. The rate of the dividends on this stock which in any year are paid in com. stock (1) shall not exceed the rate of the divs. on the adjust. stock which in such year are paid in com. stock; unless all the divs. on the adjust. stock in such year if any, are paid in com. stock, and (2) shall be less by at least 2% than the rate of the divs. on the com. stock which in such year are paid in com. stock, unless all the divs. on the com. stock in such year, if any, are paid in com. stock. The 5% adjust. stock is preferred over the com. stock. Call. all or in part at par and int. on any div. date. The rate of the divs. which in any year are paid in com. stock shall be less by at least 2% than the rate of the divs. on the com. stock which in such year are paid in com. stock, unless all divs. on the com. stock in such year, if any, are paid in com. stock. Stock of this issue, in addition to the amount shown above as outstanding, could be issued in exchange, par for par, for claims against Massachusetts Electric Companies participating in the plan other than claims in respect of securities expressly provided for.

Bonds.—The serial ref. mtge. 6s, ser. "SA," mature $50,000 each Jan. 1 1920 and 1921 and $300,000 1922-1929, inclusive, $1,300,000 have been retired. Ser. "SC" mature Feb. 1 of each year 1925 to 1928 incl. and Jan. 1 1929. These bonds are issued under co.'s ref. mtge., which will cover substantially all of the properties subject to less than $10,000,000 underlying bonds and undisturbed securities. The interest on the serial 6s is a charge ahead of the interest on approximately $18,900,000 ref. mtge. bonds issued under the same mtge. Call. at 105 on any interest date on 60 days' notice. The 4½% ref. mtge. bonds are red. at 105 and int. on any int. day up to and incl. July 1 1943, at 104 and int. in 1944, at 103 and int. in 1945, at 102 in 1946, at 101 in 1947. The 5% ref. mtge. bonds are red. at 110 and int. on any int. day up to and incl. July 1 1938, at 109 and int. in 1939, at 108 in 1940, 107 in 1941, 106 in 1942, 105 in 1943, 104 in 1944, 103 in 1945, 102 in 1946, 101 in 1947. The 6% ref. mtge. bonds are red. at 103 and int. on any int. date up to and incl. Sept. 15 1926 and at 100 and int. on March 15 1927.

Additional ref. mtge. bonds other than the ref. mtge. serial bonds, and the other bonds issuable under the plan, may be issued to an amount not exceeding at par value 60% of the cost of future add'ns and impts., but only when the annual net earnings available for the payment of interest on the ref. mtge. bonds are at least 1¾ times the interest charges on all ref. mtge. bonds outstanding and applied for and on all prior lien issues. This net earnings provision may, by the firm of Lee, Higginson & Co. as now or hereafter constituted, Harris, Forbes & Co., Inc., or its successor, and the firm of William A. Read & Co., as now or hereafter constituted, be waived in respect of any issue made before Jan. 1 1929. In the discretion of the reorg. mgrs. the ref. mtge. may provide that it shall not be foreclosed for a period of 10 years, and in such event a gen. mtge. shall be created subject to the ref. mtge and covering the same properties and securing prin. and int. of all ref. mtge. bonds other than ref. mtge. serial bonds, and in the discretion of the reorg. mgrs. the int. or prin. or both of the ref. mtge. serial bonds. Int. on the ref. mtge. serial bonds so far as secured by this gen. mtge. may be accorded priority thereunder over any other obligation secured thereby, but subject to this exception all obligations secured by said gen. mtge. shall be equally secured thereby. The said gen. mtge. shall be subject to foreclosure at any time in case of default.

The Bay State St. Ry. equip. notes were issued to provide, in part, for the payment of 200 now semi-conv. P-A-Y-E cars, costing $1,631,000.
